Greetings Faculty,

In this issue, we feature foundation grant opportunities that support the purchase of instrumentation and equipment. In the News Items section, we include links to articles on gender equality and research, the loosening of federal regulations on human-subject research on college campuses, and new authorization legislation for the National Science Foundation.

And as always, please feel free to contact me here for individualized grant opportunity research, as well as suggestions on ways to make the newsletter a better resource for you. Remember to check out the deadline reminders section beginning on page 6 for upcoming deadlines.

Kind regards,
Pamela Tuffley
In this issue, we are featuring opportunities for funding for science research instrumentation and equipment from private foundations and corporations. While the most of the following agencies don’t award grants expressly for equipment, funds for these expenses are permitted in order to carry out research.

Theodore Dunham, Jr. Grants for Research in Astronomy’s Fund for Astrophysical Research awards $3,000 research grants to colleges, universities and not-for-profit observatories ($3,000). [Read More]

The Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation is a major contributor to environmental conservation and sustainability; health in the area of patient care; and scientific and technological innovation, specifically university research laboratories. The foundation will consider brief inquiries via email (messages of no more than 100 words). [Read More]

The W.M. Keck Foundation’s Research Program supports novel and high-risk projects in medical research, and science and engineering that fall outside the mission of public funding agencies. The Foundation accepts proposals twice a year—May 1 and September 1. Note that the foundation urges interested applicants to participate in a pre-application counseling stage prior grant deadlines, which involves submitting a concept paper. Grants range from $500,000—$5M. [Read More]

The Ambrose Monell Foundation funds projects that support “the improvement of the physical, mental, and moral condition of humanity throughout the world.” The foundation largely contributes to scientific research and higher and secondary education. Grants range from $20,000—$50,000. Interested applicants can submit letters of inquiry throughout the year. If invited to apply, proposal deadlines are April 30 and October 31. [Read More]

The Perkin Fund provides grants in the fields of astronomy, medicine and scientific research. Awarded grants the over the past several years have ranged between $40,000 and $100,000. The Fund accepts letters of inquiry twice a year — March 15 and September 15. [Read More]

The Simons Foundation’s Targeted Grants in Mathematics and Physical Sciences supports high-risk projects of exceptional promise and scientific importance on a case-by-case basis. (For an overview of the Simon Foundation’s activities, please refer to our February 21, 2017 edition of the Grant Opportunity newsletter.) There is no recommended funding limit. Expenses for experiments, equipment, or computations, as well as for personnel and travel, are allowable. [Read More]

The Whitehall Foundation’s Research Grants and Grants-in-Aid programs supports basic research in the life sciences that is “not heavily supported by Federal Agencies or other foundations with specialized missions. The purchase of permanent scientific equipment is limited to $30,000 ($15,000 for Grants-in-Aid). [Read More]

We encourage you to contact our office to discuss your funding needs in this area; we will be happy to assist you in submitting requests.
Grants and Fellowship Opportunities

General Interest and Multiple Disciplinary

American Academy of Family Physicians Foundation—Sandra L. Panther Fellowship in the History of Family Medicine
Deadline: March 31, 2017
“The Fellowship supports research using the collections of the CHFM to advance understanding and appreciation of the history of Family Medicine. The proposed project may be on any subject relating to the history of General Practice, Family Practice, or Family Medicine, its practitioners and their role in health and health care in the United States...The proposed project must lead to a durable product in any format (e.g., written report or manuscript, CD/DVD program, audio or video recording including oral history interviews, artwork, etc.) of the applicant's choosing.”

Association for Information Science and Technology - Bob Williams History Fund Research Grant Award
Deadline: June 20, 2017
“...Award will be presented for the best research proposal on topics relevant to the history of information science and technology. All topics relevant to the subject may be proposed.”

Earhart Foundation—Fellowship Research Grant
Deadline: Rolling (but four months prior to start of project)
“Fellowship Research Grants are offered to support individuals. The effort supported should lead to advancement of knowledge through teaching, lecturing and publication. Emphasis is on disciplines from the social sciences and humanities such as economic, philosophy, international affairs, and government/politics.”

Feminist Review Trust—Grants Programme
Deadline: April 30; September 30, 2017
The Trust give support to hard to fund projects, seed funding, interventionist projects that support feminist values, training and development projects. Trust will not fund applications from academics to fund work which could be funded by more traditional sources of funding.”

Foundation for the History of Women in Medicine Fellowship
Deadline: May 15, 2017
“Foundation Fellowships are offered for research related to the history of women to be conducted at the Center for the History of Medicine at the Francis A. Countway Library of Medicine. Preference will be given to projects that deal specifically with women physicians or other health workers or medical scientists, but proposals dealing with the history of women’s health issues may also be considered.”

Fulbright Distinguished Chair in International Relations at University of Sao Paulo (USP)
Deadline: August 1, 2017
“Teach graduate and undergraduate courses, develop collaborative research with faculty and, subject to agreement of the academic committees of the Institute of International Relations at USP, teach courses and/or advanced seminars in topics to be defined. Applications are sought in all appropriate disciplines, but applications in the following disciplines are preferred: American History, Economic, History (non-U.S.), Law, Political Science.”

Gerald R. Ford Presidential Foundation Research Travel Grants Program
Deadline: September 15, 2017; March 15, 2018
“The Gerald R. Ford Presidential Foundation awards grants of up to $2,200 each in support of research in the holdings of the Gerald R. Ford
Library. A grant defrays travel and living expenses of a research trip to the Ford Library. Overseas applicants are welcome to apply, but they will be responsible for the costs of travel between their home country and North America. “<<more>>

Hagley Museum and Library— Henry Belin Du Pont Research Grants & Exploratory Research Grants
Deadline: March 31; June 30; October 31, 2017
The Hagley Museum and Library collects, preserves, and interprets the unfolding history of American enterprise. Hagley's collections document the interaction between business and the cultural, social, and political dimensions of our society from the late 18th century to the present. Grants support exploratory one-week visits as well as longer stays up to eight weeks by scholars who believe that their project will benefit from Hagley research collections... <<more>>

The Mind & Life Institute - PEACE Grants
Deadline (Letters of Intent): April 14, 2017
“The Mind & Life Institute is a non-profit organization committed to building a scientific understanding of the mind and human behavior as a way to reduce suffering and promote flourishing. In particular, we promote the integration of rigorous scientific inquiry with contemplative practices and wisdom traditions by supporting the emerging field of contemplative sciences. As part of this mission, we are offering a new grants program to fund research on novel interdisciplinary approaches for investigating and nurturing wholesome mental qualities related to Prosociality, Empathy, Altruism, Compassion, and Ethics (PEACE).” <<more>>

Oral History Association—Emerging Crises Oral History Research
Deadline: April 1, 2017
“[Provides] funding to undertake oral history research in situations of crisis research in the United States and internationally. These funds may be applied to travel, per diem, or transcription costs for research in places and situations in which a longer application time schedule may be problematic. Such crisis situations include but are not limited to wars, natural disasters, political and or economic/ethnic repression, or other currently emerging events of crisis proportions. “ <<more>>

Tools and Trades History Society—Salaman Awards
Deadline: rolling
“Funds are available in the form of Grants towards the cost of research projects proposed to be undertaken to further the knowledge and understanding of hand tools and the tradesmen that used them. “ <<more>>

University of Minnesota’s Immigration History Research Center Archives (IHRC Archives) - The Michael G. Karni Scholarship
Deadline: June 1, 2017
“Supports visiting professors, lecturers, or graduate students from the United States or abroad using the archival sources of the University of Minnesota’s Immigration History Research Center Archives (IHRC Archives), with first preference on projects using the Finnish American collection and second preference on project using the Baltic collections (i.e., Estonian, Latvian, Lithuanian). “ <<more>>

Arts and Humanities Funding

Association for the Study of the Middle East and Africa
Deadline: March 31, 2017
“To stimulate new and diverse lines of discourse about the Middle East and Africa, ASMEA’s Research Grants Program will support research on topics that deserved greater attention. “Subject areas include status of minorities and Women; modern military history; outcome of the Arab Spring; religion and faith; influence of education, global culture, and secular-liberalism. “ <<more>>

The British School at Athens—John Morrison Memorial Fund Hellenic Maritime
Deadline: April 22, 2017
“provides funding for further research into all branches of Hellenic maritime studies of any period. Applications may be made for, but are not limited to, grants towards the maintenance costs of longer stays at museums and other study centres so as to achieve work that would not otherwise have been attempted. “ <<more>>

Chung-Hwa Institute of Buddhist Studies—Grant for Book-length Monographs
Deadline: rolling
“To be eligible for grant funding, projects must focus on Chinese Buddhism from the Song to the Qing dynasties, but research methodologies may vary. Ancillary topics such as Confucianism, Daoism, Chinese history, politics, and so forth may also be addressed.” <<more>>

Conference on Latin American History—Lydia Cabrera Awards
Deadline: June 1, 2017
“[Award supports] the study of Cuba between 1492 and 1868. Awards are designed specifically to support: original research on Cuban history in Spanish, Mexican, and U.S. archives; the publication of meritorious books on Cuba currently out of print; and the publication of historical statistics, historical documents, and guides to Spanish archives relating to Cuban history between 1492 and 1868. “ <<more>>

The Culinary Historians of New York Scholar’s Grant
Deadline: June 2, 2017
“The CHNY Scholar’s Grant promotes research and scholarship in the field of culinary history and is awarded annually to individuals seeking financial support for a current, well-developed project that will culminate in a book, article, paper, film, or other scholarly endeavor, including ephemera.” <<more>>

The Gerda Henkel Foundation - General Research Grants

Social Sciences

Dirksen Congressional Center
Deadline: April 1, 2017
“The Center’s first interest is to fund the study of the leadership in the Congress, both House and Senate. Topics could include external factors shaping the exercise of congressional leadership, institutional conditions affecting it, resources and techniques used by leaders, or the prospects for change or continuity in the patterns of leadership.”

Truman (Harry S.) Library Institute
Deadline: April 1; October 1, 2017
“Research Grants of up to $2,500 are awarded twice annually to offset the cost of conducting research at the Harry S. Truman Library and Museum. The spring round of Research Grants includes one John K. Hulston Scholarship of up to $2,500, to be awarded to a researcher who wishes to visit multiple research facilities – including the Truman Library – for their topic. Applicants should indicate their interest in the Hulston Scholarship when submitting their Research Grant applications and include a detailed project budget outlining additional repositories to be consulted and how materials at those repositories fit into the larger project.”

Gerald R. Ford Presidential Foundation Research Travel Grants Program
Deadline: September 15, 2017; March 15, 2018
“The Gerald R. Ford Presidential Foundation awards grants of up to $2,200 each in support of research in the holdings of the Gerald R. Ford Library. A grant defrays travel and living expenses of a research trip to the Ford Library. Overseas applicants are welcome to apply, but they will be responsible for the costs of travel between their home country and North America.”

STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics) Funding

American Society of Hematology—Junior Faculty Scholar Award
Deadline: May 1, 2017
“Grant supports basic research...[of] a broad spectrum of studies on genes, proteins, lipids, carbohydrates, biochemical and signaling pathways, receptors, cells and animals, as well as samples obtained from humans, all of which are designed to further our understanding of the blood, bone marrow and related organs or the pathogenesis of blood disorders. The emphasis for grants in this category should be on the discovery of new knowledge in a traditional laboratory setting.”

International Union of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology
Deadline: April 1; October 1, 2017
“The Wood-Whelan Research Fellowships are designed to support young biochemists and molecular biologists, from countries that are full or associate members of IUBMB who need to travel to other laboratories in the IUBMB region for the purpose of carrying out experiments that require special techniques or for other forms of scientific collaboration or advanced training.”

Max Planck Institute for the History of Science (Berlin, Germany)
Deadline: June 1, 2017; January 1, 2018
“In conjunction with ongoing research projects, a small number of Visiting Scholars are invited to the MPIWG for stays ranging from several weeks to several months. In addition, scholars whose work is directly relevant to these research projects and who are supported by external funds may also apply to spend time working with one of the Institute’s research units.”
National Science Foundation—Experimental Elementary Particle Physics
Deadline: October 25, 2017
“The Particle Physics program seeks to explore the fundamental nature of matter, energy, space, and time. Particle physics is supported by four programs within the Division of Physics: (1) the Theory program, which includes fundamental research on the forces of nature and the early history of the universe as well as support for the experimental program by providing guidance and analysis for high energy experiments; (2) the Elementary Particle Physics (EPP) program, which supports particle physics at accelerators and advances in detector development; (3) the Particle Astrophysics (PA) program, which supports non-accelerator experiments; and (4) the new Accelerator Science program which supports research at universities into the educational and discovery potential of basic accelerator physics.”

National Speleological Society - Research Grants Deadline: rolling
“The Research Advisory Committee (RAC) of the National Speleological Society (NNS) will award grants for research-support in cave-related branches of study. This includes, but is not limited to, natural sciences (e.g., cave biology, geology, paleontology, and hydrology), social sciences (e.g., archaeology), and the humanities (e.g., speleological history). Interdisciplinary proposals are also welcomed.”

News Items

From the Washington Post: What Trump Cut in His Budget “[T]he Trump administration released a preliminary 2018 budget proposal, which details many of the changes the president wants to make to the federal government’s spending. The proposal covers only discretionary, not mandatory, spending.”

From The Chronicle of Higher Education: Long-Sought Research Deregulation Is Upon Us. Don’t Squander the Moment “...long-sought and welcome reform of the regulations requiring administrative oversight of federally funded human-subject research on college campuses limits the scope of institutional review board, or IRB, management by exempting low-risk research with human subjects from the board’s review...The exempted research activities include surveys, interviews, and other forms of free communication between researchers and human adults, aptitude testing, the observation and recording of verbal and nonverbal behavior in schools and public places (for example, courtrooms), benign behavioral interventions (including ordinary psychology experiments), secondary-data analysis, and other low-risk projects and research procedures.”

From the Science Philanthropy Alliance: Research Institutions Received Over $2.3 Billion in Private Funding for Basic Research in 2016 “The federal government is the biggest source of funding for basic science; in 2015, the federal government provided $38 billion in funding for higher education research and development (R&D), according to the National Science Foundation. However, federal funding for R&D has declined by 13% since 2011. Private funding for basic science research is also a fraction of total private funding to higher education institutions, which totaled $41 billion in 2016, according to the Voluntary Support for Education (VSE) survey conducted by the Council for Aid to Education.”

From FYI Science Policy News from the American Institute of Physics: Science Committee Preparing Comprehensive NSF Legislation “The House Science Committee is currently preparing broad, new authorization legislation for NSF. At a hearing last week, committee members indicated that STEM education, ongoing oversight issues, and implementing a strong “national interest” requirement into NSF grant-making will all be on the committee’s agenda. The committee is also planning to push the agency to favor engineering and the physical, biological, and computer sciences.” <<more>>
