Greetings Faculty,

We hope you are enjoying the warmer temperatures!

In this issue, we've included information on fellowship opportunities, as well as news items related to NIH’s application post-review process, open access publication of research, support for underrepresented minority post-docs in STEM, and funding for faculty affected by the travel ban.

As always, please feel free to contact me here for individualized grant opportunity research, as well as suggestions on ways to make the newsletter a better resource for you. Remember to check out the deadline reminders section beginning on page 8 for upcoming deadlines.

Kind regards,
Pamela Tuffley
Featured Funding Opportunities

The following are several fellowship opportunities that may be of interest to you:

American Association of University Women (AAUW)

The AAUW offers two fellowship opportunities open to tenure-track and part-time faculty, and new and established researchers:

- Postdoctoral Research Leave Fellowships—award women faculty $30,000 to carry out independent research from July 1, 2018—June 30, 2019 (anticipated). The application deadline is November 15, 2017 and fellowships are awarded April 15, 2018. Fellowship awards will cover educational expenses; living expenses; dependent child care; and travel to professional meetings, conferences, or seminars, as long as it does not exceed 10 percent of the fellowship.

- Summer/Short-Term Research Publication Grants—provides funds for women faculty and to prepare research for publication. Fellows are awarded $6,000 for eight consecutive weeks between July 1, 2018—June 30, 2019 of “final writing and editing in response to issues raised in critical reviews.” The publication must be original and cannot be co-authored.

Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study

The Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study provides one-year residential fellowships for projects in a variety of disciplines. The Institute describes selected program fellows as “at the forefront of the arts, journalism, humanities, sciences, and social sciences.” Faculty may apply individually or as a group of two or three. Fellows have access to Harvard University libraries, including Radcliffe’s Schlesinger Library which houses a collection of resources for research on the history of women in America. Applications for individuals in the areas of the creative arts, humanities, and social sciences, is September 14, 2017; for individuals in the natural sciences and mathematics, the deadline is October 5, 2017. For faculty interested in applying as a group—or “fellowship cluster”—the application deadline is May 15, 2017.

John Simon Guggenheim Foundation Fellowships

The Guggenheim Fellowships are awarded to "midcareer" faculty. Grant periods range from six months to twelve months. The purpose of the program is to provide fellows with blocks of time to carry out their work and, according to the guidelines, fellows may spend their grant funds in any manner they deem necessary to their work. It is anticipated that this year’s application deadline will fall in September.

Please feel free to contact us if you are interested in applying for any of these programs or would like individualized support seeking other sources of fellowship funding.
Grants and Fellowship Opportunities

General Interest and Cross Disciplinary

American Association of University Women (AAUW) - American Postdoctoral Research Leave Fellowships
Deadline: November 15, 2017
“...assist[s] scholars in obtaining tenure and other promotions by enabling them to spend a year pursuing independent research. The primary purpose of the fellowship is to increase the number of women in tenure-track faculty positions and to promote equality for women in higher education. Tenured professors are not eligible.”

Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation
Deadline: May 3, 2017
“Grand Challenges Explorations is seeking innovative global health and development solutions and is now accepting proposals for its latest application round. Applicants can be at any experience level; in any discipline; and from any organization, including colleges and universities, government laboratories, research institutions, non-profit organizations, and for-profit companies. Initial grants will be US $100,000 each, and projects showing promise will have the opportunity to receive additional funding of up to US $1 million.”

American Association of University Women (AAUW) - American Postdoctoral Research Leave Fellowships
Deadline: November 15, 2017
“...provide[s] funds for women college and university faculty and independent researchers to prepare research for publication. Time must be available for eight consecutive weeks of final writing and editing in response to issues raised in critical reviews. These grants can be awarded to both tenure-track and part-time faculty, and new and established researchers. The grants are designed to assist the candidate in obtaining tenure and other promotions. Tenured professors are not eligible.”

American Historical Association—Awards and Prizes
Deadline: May 15, 2017
“The Association recognizes a wide variety of distinguished historical work, which can take the form of an exceptional book in the field, distinguished teaching and mentoring in the classroom, and even on film. Since 1896 the Association has conferred over a thousand awards. The names, publications, and projects of those who received these awards are a catalogue of the best work produced by the historical profession.”

Harvard University Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study—Fellowship Programs (Individual Applicants)
Deadline: September 14, 2017
Supports scholarly and artistic work in the creative arts, humanities, and social sciences that will result in new research, publications, and art. Will accept applications from all academic disciplines. Particular areas of interest to Institute: citizenship—local, national, and global; the study of women, gender, and society; and projects that “draw on the resources of the Schlesinger Library on the History of Women in America.”

Harvard University Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study—Fellowship Programs (Cluster Applicants)
Deadline: May 15, 2017
This program supports work as described above for individual applicants. “Clusters are made up of two or three individuals. As a fellowship cluster you would spend the year pursuing your cluster’s research interests or project. The Institute encourages the inclusion of junior faculty... All members of the cluster (excluding creative artists) must have been awarded their doctorates by December 2016. Only scholars who have published at least two refereed articles in journals or edited collections are eligible to apply.”

News Items
From The Chronicle of Higher Education: Don’t Let Your Misunderstanding of the Rules Hinder Your Research “Do the new regulations for institutional review boards permit universities to develop a self-exemption tool for investigators conducting low-risk research in the social sciences and humanities?... Clarity on this issue is important given this opportunity for IRB reform. So it is useful to turn to the Office for Human Research Protections website, where the following frequently asked question is posed: ‘Must there be review by someone other than the investigator before a research study is determined to be exempt?’ The answer: ‘No, the regulations do not require that someone other than the investigator be involved in making a determination that a research study is exempt.’” <<more>>
