All Stars Project
- Large groups (5-15 volunteers) often help host the All Stars Talent Show Network auditions and performances. Volunteers greet, register, and cheer on performers. Group coordinators are requested to attend Volunteer Orientation seminars on site at the All Stars headquarters, if possible.

Bideawee
- Groups of up to five people are needed to help perform light house cleaning duties on weekday mornings.

Cathedral Community Cares
- Periodically, groups are welcome at the kitchen to do large scale cleanups and reorganization to help the kitchen run as smoothly as possible.

Chemo Comfort
- Chemo Comfort hosts monthly kit-making sessions during which volunteers assemble Chemo Comfort kits for partner organizations. The organization can accommodate groups of up to 10 volunteers for these sessions. Chemo Comfort is also interested in working with volunteer groups to host their own fundraising parties and recycling drives to benefit the organization.

City Year
- City Year New York provides one time physical service opportunities for large groups on several occasions throughout the year such as Martin Luther King Jr. Day in January, winter break camps in February, and community service days on three Saturdays in April and May. City Year also provide opportunities for students to shadow a City Year team in a public school over winter break or spring break.

Citymeals-on-Wheels
- Weekend Meal Delivery: As part of a team, volunteers work together to hand-deliver hot, nutritious meals to homebound seniors. The time commitment is Saturday mornings for two hours. A car is not needed.
- Senior Chat: This program lets caring volunteers make contact with isolated, elderly individuals by phone. Each member of your team will call her senior friend every week. The time commitment is approximately a half hour per week for at least six months. A convenient time will be determined by both the volunteer and the older person. This activity can take place from the office or from home.
- Senior Script: Every week, Citymeals receives many letters of appreciation from elderly meal recipients. Through this program, volunteers respond to Citymeals’ clients with warm personalized letters.

DonorsChoose.org
- DonorsChoose.org can accommodate up to six volunteers working at the office at one time to screen thank-you packages assembled and sent to the organization by students. Volunteers then check the letters into computers, then package them and send them off to donors.

Figure Skating in Harlem
- Groups of volunteers are needed at some of the organization’s events.
GrowNYC
• The recycling and composting volunteer opportunities are available for large groups.

Housing Works
• Groups are needed to provide assistance at the Donations Facility to sort and distribute clothing.

JASA
• JASA employs large groups to help out at special occasions at senior centers or to participate in special projects.

Lenox Hill Neighborhood House
• Groups of 15-20 people are needed to help with horticulture projects on the rooftop garden.

LSA Family Health Service
• LSA Family Health Service may organize group volunteer opportunities depending on the group's interest/needs (for example, an arts and crafts activity around a particular holiday or event). LSA is also in need of groups to help with food drives for its Food Pantry. The organization also has an Operation Santa program at the holidays, its holiday gift giving program for East Harlem children.

Metropolitan Council on Jewish Poverty
• Group opportunities are available at the Soup Kitchen, Food Pantry, Senior Lunch Program, and to assist with community outreach (i.e., distributing informational material in a citywide outreach campaign publicizing newly opened local enrollment sites for Food Stamps and Medicaid).

NYC Compost Project in Manhattan
• Several group environmental volunteer opportunities are offered.

Special Olympics New York
• Large groups are needed for competitions.

Transportation Alternatives
• Large groups are needed for special events, such as bike tours.

Yorkville Common Pantry
• Group volunteer opportunities are available for the pantry and meal programs. Groups can consist up to 25 individuals.