Since 1889, Barnard College has been a leader in higher education for women. Our diverse intellectual community in a unique learning environment provides the best of all worlds:

As a liberal arts college, Barnard offers undergraduates a rigorous foundation in a wide range of academic subjects. Taught by our distinguished faculty, the young women who come here develop skills that help them go on to careers in everything from medicine to architecture. And, through the partnership with Columbia University, all the resources of an Ivy League university are at hand, while Barnard’s small size allows students to flourish in an intimate and collaborative setting.

Barnard’s location in New York City is an undeniable asset. Whether native New Yorkers or newcomers to urban living, our students have countless opportunities to discover aspects of the city—from neighborhood hangouts to some of the world’s greatest landmarks—and to engage in internships in a wide range of fields.

And finally, as a women’s college, Barnard provides mentors who are dedicated to helping female students realize their full potential. Beyond campus, a network of extraordinary alumnae inspires current students and, through this bond, help to shape the next generation of women leaders.

What is Barnard College?

“THROUGH THE HEOP SCHOLARS PROGRAM, I AM SURROUNDED BY A STAFF THAT SUPPORTS ME IN MY ACADEMIC ENDEAVORS AND BELIEVES IN MY ABILITY TO SUCCEED.”
—Gladyn Innocent ’14

What is the HEOP Scholars Program?

The Arthur O. Eve HEOP Scholars Program was established by New York State to give high-achieving students from disadvantaged financial backgrounds the support they need to help them succeed in college and beyond. In addition, Barnard HEOP Scholars benefit from the following opportunities and resources:

The Academic Year Program
- Free tutoring and study-skills workshops
- Academic, financial, career, and personal advising
- Use of laptop computers
- “Big Sister” student mentoring program
- Graduate placement exam preparatory classes and graduate school application fee waivers
- A supportive HEOP community within the larger community of the College

The Academic Summer Program

The summer before their first year of study at Barnard, HEOP Scholars participate in a residential program that strengthens skills in analysis, writing, research, and computer use. Students get to know the Barnard community and learn how to navigate the Barnard and Columbia campuses and the neighborhood of Morningside Heights so that they are ready to take full advantage of college life when class begins in the fall.

BARNARD
What is the cost?

Barnard awards financial aid based on financial need. This means that families in all types of financial situations can afford Barnard. Here's an idea of what an average first-year HEOP Scholar at Barnard was awarded in financial aid last year:

- Grant (Barnard and/or government): $59,178
- Loan: $3,500
- Work Study: $2,100
- Total: $64,778

Please be aware that individual circumstances influence the amount of financial aid that each student is awarded. Students must reapply for financial aid for each academic year, so a student's award may vary from year to year. Additionally, even if students do not qualify for the HEOP Scholars Program, generous need-based financial aid is still provided for admitted students.

How can I qualify?

According to state-mandated guidelines, Barnard College HEOP Scholars must:

- Be legal residents of New York State
- Be 21 years of age or younger
- Graduate from high school by June 30 of their application year
- Graduate with a high school grade point average of at least 85
- Earn a maximum SAT Critical Reading score of 620 OR a maximum ACT English subscore of 24
- Meet the low-income guidelines established the New York State Board of Regents. To view these earning guidelines, please visit the Barnard College HEOP Scholars webpage at http://barnard.edu/admissions/apply/higher-ed-opportunity-programs/heop or call the Office of Admissions at (212) 854-2014
