Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Welcome to Barnard. In the pages that follow, you will find a stunning array of choices – courses in literature and the arts, in anthropology and politics, in biochemistry, neuroscience, and physics. You will find lectures taught by world-renowned scholars and intimate seminars where faculty share their latest research and ideas. You will find classes on topics you have been wanting to study for years, and classes on topics that may never have crossed your mind.

The task before you is to choose – to pick, like the proverbial kid in a candy store, from the hundreds of options that lie waiting before you. It can be hard to know where to start, and how best to plot a course that will satisfy your own intellectual cravings. So I urge you to go slowly. Savor the possibilities that are in this catalogue and all of the offerings you will find bursting from the halls of Barnard. Choose some courses that promise to lead you where you want to go and some that lead nowhere in particular. Take at least one class in something you have always disliked, just to see if it changes your mind or at least opens a horizon you had not imagined before. Search for your passion in these pages, but don't be surprised if it sneaks up from elsewhere and finds you.

At Barnard, you will be able to immerse yourself in the joys and rigors of a classical liberal arts education, an education that will prompt you to explore the world from a variety of different perspectives and through the lenses of multiple disciplines. Your job is to decide how to fashion these perspectives into a world that makes sense to you and then, over time, how to shape your own role within it. Education is a journey that lasts a lifetime. I hope that your time at Barnard gives you the tools that you need to launch this adventure and the sheer joy that comes from undertaking it.

So choose well, revel in the options before you, and most importantly – enjoy.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
COLLEGE

Barnard has been a distinguished leader in higher education for women for over 100 years and is today the most sought after private liberal arts college for women in the nation. Founded in 1889, the College was the first in New York City, and one of the few in the nation at the time, where women could receive the same rigorous liberal arts education available to men. Its partnership with a great research university, combined with its setting in an international city and its unwavering dedication to the advancement of women, makes Barnard unique among liberal arts colleges today.

Barnard is both an independently incorporated educational institution and an official college of Columbia University—a position that simultaneously affords it self-determination and a rich, value-enhancing partnership. Barnard students may take classes at Columbia and benefit from the University’s academic resources, as Columbia students may do at Barnard.

New York City and its vast cultural and social resources are also an extension of the Barnard campus, literally used by every department to enhance curriculum and learning. The City is an inescapable presence, inviting students with both its challenges and infinite opportunities (from dancing with the American Ballet to working with social-change organizations to interning on Wall Street).

The College draws motivated, talented, curious young women who create a stimulating atmosphere and diverse community. Barnard alumnae include pioneers like anthropologist Margaret Mead and Judith Kaye, the first female Chief Judge of the State of New York, along with prominent cultural figures such as choreographer Twyla Tharp, writers Zora Neale Hurston and Mary Gordon, and Pulitzer Prize-winning journalists Anna Quindlen and Natalie Angier.

Mission Statement

Barnard’s History

Barnard College was among the pioneers in the late 19th-century crusade to make higher education available to young women.

The College grew out of the idea, first proposed by Columbia University’s tenth president, Frederick A.P. Barnard, that women have an opportunity for higher education at Columbia. Initially ignored, the idea led to the creation of a “Collegiate Course for Women.” Although highly-qualified women were authorized to follow a prescribed course of study leading ultimately to Columbia University degrees, no provision was made for where and how they were to pursue their studies. It was six years before Columbia’s trustees agreed to the establishment of a college for women. A provisional charter was secured, and Barnard College was named in honor of its most persistent advocate.

In October 1889, the first Barnard class met in a rented brownstone at 343 Madison Avenue. Fourteen students enrolled in the School of Arts and twenty-two “specials,” lacking the entrance requirements in Greek, enrolled in science. There was a faculty of six.

Nine years later Barnard moved to its present site in Morningside Heights. In 1900, Barnard was included in the educational system of Columbia University with provisions unique among women’s colleges: it was governed by its own Trustees, Faculty, and Dean, and was responsible for its own endowment and facilities, while sharing instruction, the library, and the degree of the University.

Barnard Today

From the original 14 students, enrollment has grown to 2,350, with over 33,000 Barnard students awarded degrees since 1893. The integration of teaching and scholarship occurs at an incomparable level at Barnard. Barnard’s faculty of 255 women and men are teacher-scholars whose paramount concern is the education of undergraduate students and whose professional achievements bring added vitality to the classroom. This commitment to personal attention and high achievement provide the ultimate learning environment.

Barnard’s liberal arts education is broad in scope and demanding. The curriculum includes a series of general education requirements—a program of courses the faculty believes provides a stimulating and thorough education, while remaining flexible and varied enough to suit a student’s own interests, strengths, and talents. Classes vary in size. Those in which student participation is important are small. There are opportunities for independent study and students are often invited to work on research projects with faculty members.

In 1998, Barnard College and Columbia University amended and extended the longstanding agreement for cooperation between the institutions, an agreement which remains unique in higher education. Barnard stands as an independent college for women with its own curriculum, faculty, admissions standards, graduation requirements, trustees, endowment, and physical plant. At the same time, Barnard and Columbia share resources, thereby giving students open access to the courses, facilities, and libraries of both schools. Barnard and Columbia students also share in a wide variety of social and extracurricular activities. Barnard boasts 80 undergraduate clubs, and students have access to an additional 140 at Columbia.

From its inception, Barnard has been committed to advancing the academic, personal, and professional success of women. Students benefit from an atmosphere in which over half of the full-time faculty are women, and women are well represented in the administration. The College is led by Deborah L. Spar, former Spangler Family Professor of Business Administration and Senior Associate Dean for Faculty Research and Development at Harvard Business School. At Barnard, women are given the opportunities and the freedom to lead both in and out of the classroom, and to develop the skills that will equip them to lead throughout their lives.

Barnard’s unique ties to several of Columbia’s graduate schools and to premier New York City institutions, including the Juilliard School, the Manhattan School of Music, the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, and Teachers College, give students an unusual range of educational options, including a number of joint degree programs. Academic organizations within and beyond the University also offer vital opportunities for research, study, studio experience, internships, and community service.

Barnard has a high student retention rate, an indication of student satisfaction with the college experience. Barnard students also enjoy leaves for study, travel, and internships. About two-thirds of students graduate having undertaken an internship at sites ranging from investment banks like Goldman Sachs to cultural institutions like the Metropolitan Museum of Art, network news programs including 60 Minutes, medical facilities including New York Presbyterian Medical Center, and a wide range of other venues. Every year Barnard admits about 80 transfer students who come to take advantage of the educational opportunities available to Barnard women.

Every year the Office of Career Development collects and summarizes information about post-baccalaureate study and employment. In the first year after graduation, almost one-third of Barnard graduates enter full-time graduate or professional schools, with the largest proportions opting to study medicine, law, or business. The rest obtain employment in business and industry, the arts, communications, teaching, social services, and many other fields.

Accreditation

Barnard College is accredited by the Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools, 3624 Market Street, Philadelphia, PA 19104, 215-662-5606. The Commission on Higher Education is an institutional accrediting agency recognized by the U.S. Secretary of Education and the Commission on Recognition of Postsecondary Accreditation. The Barnard College Education Program is accredited by The New York State Education Department in Albany, NY, 12234, for provisional teaching certification for childhood and adolescent education.

The Campus

The Barnard campus occupies four acres of urban property along the west side of Broadway between 116th and 120th Streets. At the southern end of the campus, four residence buildings, Brooks Hall (1907), Hewitt Hall (1925), Helen Reid Hall (1961), Iphigene Ochs Sulzberger Hall, formerly Centennial Hall (1988), form an enclosed quadrangle. In 2003, the College’s four oldest buildings were added to the National Register of Historic Places.

Barnard Hall, formerly Students Hall, 1917, renamed in 1926, is just north of the “Quad” and contains seminar rooms, classrooms, and faculty offices, as well as the LeFrak Gymnasium, a swimming pool, and dance studios. The Sulzberger Parlor on the third floor is used for meetings and special events. The Julius S. Held Lecture Hall, an electronically equipped multimedia classroom, is also on the third floor.
Adele Lehman Hall, 1959, contains the Wollman Library and two floors of faculty offices and classrooms. The library includes the reserve room and the Lehman Computer Center on the first floor; the reference area, periodicals, microforms, and open book stacks on the second floor; and on the third floor, audiovisual facilities and more open stacks. Computer facilities for the Economics and Political Science departments are also located in Lehman. The building overlooks a lawn surrounded by trees and shrubs.

Helen Goodhart Altschul Hall, 1969, and the newly opened Diana, 2010 (formally McIntosh, 1969), face each other across an open plaza. The 14 stories of Altschul Hall are devoted to the sciences. Herbert H. Lehman Auditorium is on the first floor.

Milbank Hall, 1897, occupies the northern end of the campus and houses administrative and faculty offices, classrooms, the Arthur Ross Greenhouse, and the Minor Latham Playhouse, a well-equipped modern theater. Substantial renovations took place in Milbank recently, yielding expanded neuroscience research laboratories and animal facilities, the Krueger Lecture Hall, as well as a redesigned and updated Math Help Room/Computer Laboratory.

In the immediate neighborhood, Barnard maintains additional residence halls, including Plimpton Hall, acquired in 1968, and Eleanor Thomas Elliott Hall, formerly 49 Claremont Avenue, acquired in 1982 and renamed in 1992. In addition, three apartment buildings on West 116th Street, 600 (acquired in 1971), 616 (acquired in 1964), and 620 (acquired in 1968) are Barnard residence halls. The College also rents additional spaces at 601 West 110th Street. Cathedral Gardens is the proud new member of the residential options. Located at 110th and Manhattan Ave., students have the opportunity to share this new facility with faculty members and their families, as well as with neighbors in the adjacent luxury high-rise condominium tower.

Columbia University is directly across the street on Broadway.

ADMISSIONS

The Committee on Admissions selects young women of proven academic strength who exhibit the potential for further intellectual growth. In addition to their high school records, recommendations, and standardized test scores, the candidates’ special abilities and interests are also given careful consideration. While admission is highly selective, no one criterion determines acceptance. Each applicant is considered in terms of her individual qualities and her potential for successfully completing the course of study at Barnard.

Barnard seeks students from diverse educational and cultural backgrounds and from all geographic regions. However, no preconceived profile of an ideal student population limits the number of applicants accepted from any one group. The College admits students and administers its financial aid and loan programs, educational policies and programs, recreational programs, and other College programs and activities without regard to race, color, creed, national origin, sexual orientation, or disability.

First-Year Application Procedures

Application for admission to the first-year class should be made by January 1 for entrance in September of the same year. Barnard uses the Common Application along with a Barnard supplement. All forms are accessible at commonapp.org or on our website. Students may also obtain copies of the Common Application from their high schools. Applicants should ordinarily be at least 15 years of age at entrance.

A non-refundable fee of $55 must accompany each application. Checks or money orders must be in U.S. funds drawn on a U.S. bank and made payable to Barnard College. Students may also submit payment directly through the common application website. Students with significant financial hardship should request a fee-waiver from their high school counselor on school letterhead and submit it with the application.

Secondary School Preparation

Each candidate for admission must offer a college preparatory program from an accredited secondary school or an equivalent education representing a four-year course of study. Academic preparation for admission should be based on the requirements for the A.B., or liberal arts, degree. A recommended program would comprise four years of work in English; three or more years in mathematics; three or more years in a foreign language (ancient or modern); three or more years in science with laboratory; and three years or more in history. An introduction to a second foreign language is generally useful. The remainder of the program should include additional work in the aforementioned subjects with the possible addition of music and art. Applications varying from this pattern are considered without discrimination if the candidate’s records indicate genuine intellectual ability and high motivation.

First-Year Entrance Tests

Barnard requires all candidates to take the College Board’s SAT I Reasoning Test and two SAT II Subject Tests. The ACT with writing can be substituted for the SAT I and SAT II Subject Tests. We recommend that students take these standardized tests by the fall of their senior year. Candidates should consult the College Board or the American College Testing Program for descriptions of the tests, directions for filing applications, the dates on which examinations are administered, and a list of examination centers as early as possible. Dates vary from year to year, and applications to take the test must be received by the College Board and ACT well in advance. Students who require non-standard administration of the tests should consult with their guidance counselors for testing accommodations.

It is the student’s responsibility to direct the College Board or American College Testing Program to send official test scores to the Office of Admissions. The SAT tests code number for Barnard is 2038. The ACT code number for Barnard is 2718.

Another important part of the application is the submission of three recommendations, one from the high school counselor and two from academic teachers. Students should submit teacher recommendations from 11th or 12th grades in English, math, science, social sciences, or foreign language courses. These recommendations give the Committee on Admissions additional information about the candidate’s interests, character, skills, and aptitude.
Interviews

Although not required, an interview is recommended. For students who are able to visit the campus, an interview can be arranged by contacting the Office of Admissions. Appointments are scheduled Monday through Friday from 9:30 A.M. to 4:00 P.M., and on selected weekends throughout the Fall. Applicants who are unable to visit the College may request an interview with a local Barnard Alumnae Admissions Representative (BAAR) by calling Admissions or by submitting an online request form from our website.

Early Decision

Well-qualified high school seniors who have selected Barnard as their first-choice college may apply under a binding Early Decision plan. To be considered under Early Decision, a candidate must submit her application and other required credentials (listed under First-Year Application Procedures) to Admissions by November 15. The Committee’s decision is mailed by Admissions no later than December 15. A student may initiate regular applications to other colleges; she must, however, withdraw all other applications upon admission to Barnard. Notification of financial aid for those candidates who have demonstrated financial need will follow the admissions decision. To reserve a place in the first-year class, an Early Decision student must submit a nonrefundable enrollment deposit. This deposit is applied toward tuition and fees for the first year.

The Committee on Admissions may choose to postpone a decision on an Early Decision application until the spring. In that event, the student is asked to submit a record of schoolwork from the first half of the senior year.

Centennial Scholars Program

The Centennial Scholars Program offers a limited number of intellectually independent students an early opportunity to engage in challenging projects tailored to their individual interests. Centennial Scholars work with faculty mentors on the development, execution, and presentation of these projects.

The program is limited to 15 students in any single class, up to half chosen at the time of their admission to college. The remaining Scholars are selected later from the first-year class. Admission of a future first-year student to the program is based on the Centennial Scholar Committee’s review of her Barnard application, including her secondary school record, recommendations from her counselors and teachers, her personal statement, standardized test scores, and evidence of advanced preparation. Consideration of an enrolled first-year requires i) submission of a project proposal, ii) a faculty recommendation letter, iii) a writing sample, and iv) an interview with the Program Directors. This process occurs annually following the midterm break of spring semester.

Deferred Enrollment

An admitted first-year or transfer student who wishes to defer enrollment in Barnard for one year must obtain permission in writing to the Dean of Admissions explaining the reasons for the deferral request. Such a request is normally granted for purposes of work, travel, or pursuit of a special interest. Students admitted in early decision must request the deferral by February 15th; students admitted regular must request the deferral by April 25th. Students admitted from the waiting list ordinarily cannot defer their admission.

International Students

Barnard welcomes applications from international students following the same application procedure and presenting the same credentials as domestic candidates. Fluency in the English language is essential for admission. Those international students whose native language is not English are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL); international applicants who have lived in the United States for less than four years must also submit scores for the TOEFL. Information about registration for the test is obtained by contacting the TOEFL Program at the Educational Testing Service. The International English Lanauge Testing System (IELTS) exam may be submitted if TOEFL is not available. Information about registration for the test is available on their website. For more information on international students click here.

VISP: The Visiting International Students Program
As part of Barnard College’s broad initiative to internationalize its campus, the College has created the Visiting International Students Program (VISP) for spring semesters in residence at our campus in New York City. Through a limited number of collaborative relationships with international universities, our partners send cohorts of 3-15 undergraduate students to Barnard to spend the spring semester as full-time visiting students. VISP students are fully integrated into the Barnard College academic and co-curricular community, gaining a broad understanding of how liberal arts institutions in the United States function, exploring the American model of undergraduate education, and studying and researching with Barnard and Columbia University’s world-class faculty, while also contributing to the internationalization of the student body. For more information visit the VISP website.

Transfer Students

Barnard welcomes transfer students in the fall and spring term of each year. Applications for admission will be reviewed according to the following schedule:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Deadline</th>
<th>Notification</th>
<th>Enroll</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>April 1</td>
<td>rolling</td>
<td>Fall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>November 1</td>

<td>Spring</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

Each candidate must submit the Common Application for Transfer Admission and the following credentials: the Barnard Supplement for Transfer and Visiting Students; an official secondary school transcript; the results of the SAT I Reasoning Test or ACT, and, if appropriate, the TOEFL; the official transcripts of all college work and a copy of the college catalogue in which the courses taken are clearly marked. Two recommendations are also required: one each from a college faculty member and a college dean or adviser. Transfer applicants may also submit a recommendation from the high school counselor (optional).

A strong record at an accredited college, university, or equivalent institution is required. In some cases, advanced credit cannot be assigned until a student has had an opportunity to establish a satisfactory record at Barnard, but, in general, credit is given for courses which are similar in content and depth to Barnard courses.

After acceptance, academic and general guidance is provided by the advisers to Transfer Students in the Dean of Studies Office. For information on financial aid, students should consult the Financial Aid website.

Visiting Students

Undergraduate students who are degree candidates at other colleges may apply for admission as visiting students for one or two semesters. For more information on visiting students click here.

Other Degree Credit

Students who have satisfactorily completed college courses before entering Barnard as first-year students may apply for a maximum of 15 points of degree credit. The courses must be intended primarily for college students and taught at the college by members of its faculty and must be in excess of the courses required for the high school diploma. With the exception of Advanced Placement courses overseen by the College Board, and of International Baccalaureate work, courses taught in high school, either by specially trained high school teachers or college instructors, will not be credited towards the Barnard degree.

Resumed Education Program

Former Barnard students who wish to return to the College after an absence of five years or more in order to complete their degree may obtain applications from Dean Aaron Schneider in the Dean of Studies Office. Alumnae who wish to pursue further study in new areas of interest after graduation should contact Dean Ani Bournoutian.
FINANCIAL AID

Insofar as possible, Barnard assists qualified students who demonstrate financial need. Barnard does not discriminate against applicants for financial aid on the basis of race, color, creed, national origin, or disability.

Financial aid from the College consists of grants, loans, and opportunities for part-time employment. In addition to providing financial aid from its own funds, i.e., gifts, endowment, and general income, Barnard participates in the following federal programs: the Federal Pell Grant Program, the Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant Program, the Federal Perkins Loan Program, the Federal Direct Student Loan Program, and the Federal College Work Study Program. Barnard also participates in the New York State Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP). Federal and state funds are administered by the College in accordance with government regulations and the College's general policies relating to financial aid. To supplement the above-mentioned financial aid sources, students are urged to investigate state loan and scholarship/tuition assistance programs and college tuition financing plans. The Bursar's Office has additional information and applications for payment plans.

Any student who thinks she will need financial assistance in order to attend Barnard is encouraged to apply. The decision of the Committee on Admissions to admit a student is not affected by the fact that a student has applied for or demonstrated need for financial aid.

A detailed explanation of current College policies and awarding practices may be found in the brochure, Barnard College Financial Aid Policies and Procedures, available from the Office of Financial Aid or from the Financial Aid website.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The costs of education at Barnard are met by tuition, income from endowment, current gifts from alumnae and other friends of the College, and grants from foundations, corporations, and government agencies. The College makes every effort to limit the charges to students, but must reserve the right to set tuition and fees at the level necessary for the maintenance of a high quality of instruction. For more information please see the Bursar’s website.

THE CURRICULUM

Requirements for the Liberal Arts Degree

Barnard's motto, Following the Way of Reason (Hepomene toi logismoi), signals the College's continuing commitment to the intellectual breadth and analytical depth of the liberal arts tradition. Since the College's founding in 1889, a Barnard education has been characterized by its distinctive combination of elements: a rigorous, broadly based framework of general education requirements; a focused inquiry into major subjects; and a range of electives. Together these elements allow for substantial personal choice. The exact structure of College requirements has varied over the past century in response to changes in society, education, and student needs. Today, degree candidates complete two first-year foundation courses, general education courses organized around different “ways of knowing,” a major, and electives, totaling 122 points (120 points for students entering before Autumn 2003). They also fulfill a physical education requirement reflecting the College’s view that physical well-being is an essential part of a healthy and productive life. (Of the 122 required points, 2 must be for PE. Transfer students who have entered with 24 points of credit need 121 points, of which 1 is for PE.)

The Barnard Education

A Barnard education seeks to provide women with the tools and techniques needed to think critically and act effectively in the world today. It fosters a respect for learning, an aptitude for analysis, and a competence in the demanding disciplines of the liberal arts and sciences. By virtue of its special mission and location, Barnard strives to give its students insight into interconnected worlds of knowledge and experience.

The Barnard curriculum enables students to develop strength in language and literature, in social and historical analysis, in mathematics and the natural sciences, and in the arts and the humanities—ways of knowing that incorporate but also transcend traditional academic disciplines. Built around major methods for apprehending the world and organizing knowledge, the College's basic requirements are designed to equip students to respond both critically and creatively to a rapidly changing world. Barnard students learn to employ a variety of analytical methods in order to engage new complexities of social evolution and scientific knowledge. The College dedicates itself to imparting to every student self-renewing intellectual resourcefulness, the mark of a liberal arts education.

The College faculty encourages each student to elect courses in a manner that ensures exposure to distinct forms and traditions of knowledge and to the human experience as lived in various parts of the world. Each student is encouraged to make selections that develop connections among the elements of the curriculum, that promote understanding of global issues, and that acknowledge both the diversity and the commonality of human endeavors in civilizations around the world and through time.

As a college for women, Barnard embraces its responsibility to address issues of gender in all their complexity and urgency, and is committed to an integrated curriculum that recognizes the importance of gender in all forms of human endeavor. The College encourages students to profit from the exceptional and varied opportunities to explore women's histories, challenges, and achievements. Courses explicitly on women and gender are offered by the Department of Women's Studies and by many other departments and programs; students also find gender-related matters incorporated into a wide range of additional courses across the academic disciplines.

Barnard also encourages students to take full advantage of the world city of New York—its international character and economic power; its prominence in science, medicine, and the arts; its cultural abundance; its diverse neighborhoods and peoples; its architectural richness. In their studies, their work, and their personal lives, Barnard students can avail themselves of the city's unparalleled resources. As an extended campus, New York serves not only as a multidisciplinary research laboratory for coursework and guided field experiences, but also as the site for a vast array of internships and wide-ranging, city based student activities.

Barnard seeks to ensure that students become aware of, and knowledgeable about, their physical being. Students complete two courses that focus on physical activity, fitness, and well-being. The College also provides additional opportunities for students to exercise and to learn more about fundamental elements of good health and women's health issues.

First-Year Foundations
Two courses are required of all first-year students to ensure that their skills in reading, writing, and speaking continue to develop in ways that will support their learning throughout their years at Barnard. First-Year Foundation courses are deliberately kept small; they focus on individual participation and on methods of research, analysis, and revision.

1. First-Year English
Barnard's liberal arts philosophy takes as its starting point the idea that every student, whatever her level of academic achievement, can continue to improve her skills in writing, analysis, and argumentation. Therefore, all first-year students are required to take a one-semester writing course titled First-Year English (ENGL BC 1201 or BC 1204), designed to cultivate and develop expository writing and related tools of scholarship. Students choose to study one of three rubrics: I. Legacy of the Mediterranean features a curriculum of classic texts representing key intellectual moments that have shaped Western culture; II. Women and Culture features a more global curriculum exploring the role of women in literature and culture; or III. The Americas features a curriculum of texts that exemplifies the dynamic relationship between North, South, and Central American literatures. All three literary traditions are historicized in interdisciplinary contexts to foster better writing across the curriculum.

Transfer students who did not pass a satisfactory course at their previous institution are not required to take ENGL BC 1201, but must take ENGL BC 3103 or BC 3104 or a 3-point literature course from the Barnard English department offerings.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:

- Analyze the thematic structure of literary works through close reading;
- Translate critical reading into elegant and persuasive expository writing;
- Conduct interdisciplinary research to ground literary works in historical context;
- Document sources and incorporate scholarship into original analytical arguments;
- Avoid plagiarism and other academic violations of Barnard's Honor Code;
- Develop a sense of literary history;
- Gain confidence in speaking as well as writing skills in a small seminar setting;
- Appreciate the value of incisive writing in courses across the curriculum.

2. First-Year Seminar
First-year students take this one-semester course designed to develop the intellectual skills and styles central to subsequent academic work. This course emphasizes the enhancement of writing and communication skills and the group-discussion mode of intellectual inquiry and discourse.

Seminars center on major themes or issues, and participants read and discuss selected important philosophical, historical, literary, or scientific texts. Students and faculty engage in an extended consideration of a theme of general human concern, one that goes beyond departmental boundaries.

Transfer students are not required to take the First-Year Seminar.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:

- Develop their skills in critical reading and analysis, writing, and effective speaking;
- Assess and use textual evidence in support of oral and written arguments;
- Explore important issues through significant texts ranging across genres, disciplines, and historical periods.

General Education Requirements
The aim of the General Education Requirements is to ensure that each Barnard graduate confronts and engages in central ways of knowing the world. These ways of knowing—divided into nine key areas,—include, but also bridge, the traditional disciplines of the liberal arts and sciences. Inquiry into these areas establishes the basis for a Barnard education. Each student studies, from analytical, quantitative, and artistic perspectives, the major means by which human knowledge has been constructed.

To allow for flexibility within this framework, a student chooses among the designated courses that fulfill each of the nine requirement areas. She will find some courses that offer a broad view of a field, exploring issues that help create an educated citizenry; other courses satisfy the purposes of general education by close scrutiny of critical methods and their specific application. Thus, each student will shape her own academic program, deliberately and distinctively, by electing a combination of wide-ranging introductory courses and more specialized upper-level courses to fulfill the General Education Requirements. The areas included in the General Education Requirements are:

1. Reason and Value 1 course
2. Social Analysis 1 course
3. Historical Studies 1 course
4. Cultures in Comparison 1 course
5. Laboratory Science 2 courses in one science
6. Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning 1 course
7. Language study through at least the fourth semester
8. Literature 1 course
9. The Visual and Performing Arts 1 course

Courses used to fulfill these area requirements must be at least 3 points and may also be used to satisfy requirements for majors or minors. Students may not use Advanced Placement Credit to fulfill the area requirements unless specifically noted otherwise.

Designated courses may be listed in more than one area; students are free to choose which area requirement is satisfied, but may not use a single course to fulfill two or more areas. In addition, certain identified course sequences taken together may fulfill more than one area requirement.

A student’s choice of specific courses should be influenced by an intent to forge links among topics and ways of knowing, to find common themes across time and form, and to develop an internal coherence within her own set of courses used to fulfill the College’s General Education Requirements. A student should also be mindful that her choices of courses can, and should, expand and enrich her understanding of the world at large, of cultural diversity, and of issues of gender.

A Comprehensive list of courses satisfying general education requirements for each area is on the Barnard website. The specific aims for each of these area requirements are set forth below:

1a. Reason and Value (for current students)
Requirement: One course that allows students to explore ways in which values shape thought, thought shapes values, and both guide human actions.

Aim: To introduce ways of thinking, both past and present, about the formation of human values, their role in guiding action, and their susceptibility to rational reflection and critical discussion. This requirement allows students to discover how established disciplines in the humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences—as well as newer interdisciplinary fields—approach a wide range of value-related issues. Courses may address such questions as: What does it mean to follow “the way of reason”? What are the sources of human values? How do we arrive at our conceptions of virtue and obligation, and how do such conceptions shape our notions of a good life and a just society? How have questions about values emerged in different traditions at different times? Other possible subjects include the intersecting ethical dilemmas of private and public life, the relation between moral thought and moral action, and issues of human rights, cultural diversity, and global equity.

1b. Ethics and Values (for students entering in Fall 2011)
Requirement: One course on the nature and demands of ethical reasoning and the ways in which individuals and communities articulate and embody their values both in reasoning and in practice. These courses recognize that contemporary and historical moral problems are often complex and unresolved.

Aim: In courses that satisfy this requirement, students consider attitudes, judgments, and choices of individuals and cultures concerning what is good and bad, right and wrong, just and unjust. How do larger social, religious, and ethnic contexts shape evaluative attitudes, decisions, and actions? How do we study ethical reason and practice within a complex and diverse global context? Are more attitudes rooted in reason or emotion, or both? How may values be formed through narrative, ritual, and a range of other activities? What is the extent of moral agreement and disagreement across and within cultures and historical periods? Are deep conflicts of value susceptible to rational reflection and critical discussion? Courses on the history and politics of human rights, moral philosophy, religion, or the ethics of bioengineering fall under this rubric, but so might courses exploring post-liberal politics, environmentalism and animal rights, race, gender, and global equity.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:

- Explain how individuals or cultures arrive at judgments expressions, or embodiments of their deeply held commitments;
- Engage in debate and discussion of moral reasoning and ethical practice in different cultures and historical periods;
- Discuss how differences in deeply held convictions emerge across cultures and historical periods;
- Investigate how social, religious, and ethnic customs and ideas shape the moral attitudes and actions of individuals and groups;
- Demonstrate a critical understanding of the complexity of moral questions and values.

2a. Social Analysis (for current students)

Requirement: One course that acquaints students with the central concepts and methods of the social sciences, while also critically examining social structures and processes, and the roles of groups and individuals within them.

Aim: To introduce various ways of analyzing social structures and processes, and to explore how these institutions and processes both shape and are shaped by group and individual behavior. Courses will focus on a variety of institutions and processes, from the family, to the nation-state, to the international economy. All courses will address fundamental questions such as: How are individual and collective human behavior linked to the cultural, economic, and political context in which they occur? How is power distributed across different groups and among individuals? How do social systems develop and change? How can we come to better understand societal dynamics through a variety of quantitative and qualitative methods?

2b. Social Analysis (for students entering in Fall 2011)

Requirement: One course that prepares students to analyze societies and social categories using systematic theoretical and empirical inquiry. These courses must critically and constructively evaluate social structures and practices.

Aim: Social analysis investigates and explains the form and function of social institutions, including the categories on which they are based, their informal and formal operations, and their effects. It is especially concerned with how institutions vary across time and place, how they are shaped by individual and group behaviors, and how power is distributed across different groups. Students will study individuals, groups, or institutions, or the relations among them. They will engage empirical evidence from a variety of sources, such as interviews, oral histories, cultural artifacts, surveys, field observation, experiments, texts and official records. They will learn strategies to make sense of these data such as causal reasoning, hypotheses testing, and critical analyses of the meanings and measures of empirical categories. Fundamentally, social analysis questions “what is” and contemplates what could or should be.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:

- Apply the methods of research and inquiry of a discipline to the study of human behavior in a social setting/context;
- Evaluate the usefulness of evidence for assessing any specific phenomenon and to question the nature of the evidence;
- Demonstrate a critical understanding about the social forces that shape opportunity and power in society;
- Demonstrate a critical understanding of the interplay between individual action and collective social life;
- Identify how scholarships in the discipline have approached social problems and influenced organized efforts to ameliorate social problems.

3. Historical Studies

Requirement: One course enabling students to study times and traditions of the past, to learn theories and methods of historical analysis, and to discover how different concepts of history shape our understanding of both past and present.

Aim: To emphasize the importance of historical knowledge for understanding various aspects of human experience and activity, and to develop the skills necessary to conduct or evaluate historical research. Coursework will demonstrate how history is not a simple record of past events, but an interpretation of the past shaped by the theories, methods, and data used to construct it. Among the questions to be raised are: Whose past is remembered? How is it remembered? To serve what purposes?

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:
outcomes:

- Identify the historically specific social, political, and economic structures and agencies, as well as dominant ideas, relevant to the period or theme of the course;
- Identify the main historiographical traditions pertaining to the period or theme of the course;
- Evaluate the methodology and evidence used by historians to study the period or theme of the course.

4. Cultures in Comparison

Requirement: One course that compares two or more cultures from the perspectives of the humanities and/or social sciences.

Aim: To study the diversity and the commonality of human experience, and to examine and question personal cultural assumptions and values in relation to others’. Through comparative methods, courses will explore the beliefs, ideologies, and practices of different peoples in different parts of the world, across time, and through migrations. Courses may include comparison of cultures from two or more geographical areas or from two or more cultures within one area, and may approach the subject matter using anthropological, historical, social, and/or humanistic perspectives.

5. Laboratory Science

Requirement: Two courses with laboratory in one science chosen from among: astronomy, biology, chemistry, environmental science, physics, or psychology. Acceptable courses must meet for at least three hours of lecture and three hours of laboratory each week.

Aim: To develop intellectual curiosity about the natural world and the processes of scientific experimentation; to convey an understanding of what is known or can be known about the natural world; to introduce basic methods of analyzing and synthesizing the sources of scientific information; and to create scientifically literate citizens who can engage productively in problem solving. Students are expected to master the tools of science and current understanding in one area, and are encouraged to explore the limitations of existing theories and to learn how to ask strategic questions. Laboratory exercises introduce students to techniques of scientific investigation as they make observations, carry out experimental procedures, and learn how results and analyses are communicated in specific visual, quantitative, and written forms.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:

- Ask questions about the natural world that can be tested by experiments or observations;
- Analyze and synthesize sources of scientific information to assess what is known, or what can be known about the natural world;
- Practice discipline-appropriate methods of scientific observation, experimentation, data collection, interpretation, and analysis;
- Communicate scientific results and analyses in appropriate visual, quantitative, or written forms.

Note: Students may fulfill part of this requirement with scores of 4 or 5 on Advanced Placement Examinations in biology, chemistry, environmental science, and physics (or their International Baccalaureate equivalents).

The following courses meet these requirements.

| Astronomy | ASTR BC 1753–1754, ASTR C 1403–1404 (or C 1420), ASTR BC 1753-C 1235, ASTR BC 1754-C 1234, all with the lab ASTR C 1903–1904, ASTR C 1234–1235 plus PHYS V 1291 plus ASTR C 1904 |
| Chemistry  | BC 2001 and BC 2002, BC 2001 and BC 3230 with BC 3328, C 1403–C 1404 with C 1500 and one additional laboratory course, e.g., BC 2102, BC 3328, BC 3338, or C 3543. |
| Environmental Science | Any combination of two of EESC BC 1001, BC 1002, V 1011, S 1011, V 1001, V 2100, V 2200, V 2300/(EEEB W 2002). Students may also complete the lab science requirement by combining the Columbia SEE-U summer program with BC 1002, V 1011, V 1001, V 2100, or V 2200. |
| Physics    | BC 2001, 2002, 3001 (any two); F, V, or W 1201–1202 with 1291–1292 |
| Psychology | BC 1105 (A), BC 1108 (B), BC 1113 (A), BC 1117 (B), BC 1123 (C), BC 1127 (C), BC 1136 (C) (The two labs must be from two different letter groups: see Psychology Dept. listings) |

6. Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning
Requirement: One course in which students learn methods and approaches used in mathematics and related fields involving quantitative expression and logical reasoning.

Aim: To provide a productive acquaintance with at least one means of quantitative and deductive reasoning and to develop an ability to apply this knowledge to the analysis of new problems. Coursework will emphasize how quantitative analysis and deductive reasoning function as creative, elegant, and powerful ways of thinking and as effective sets of conceptual tools and procedures with widespread applications.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:

- Demonstrate a familiarity with at least one method of quantitative or deductive reasoning;
- Apply relevant conceptual tools and procedures to the analysis of problems.

Note: Students may fulfill this requirement by securing Advanced Placement Credit in mathematics, chemistry, computer science, physics, or statistics (or their International Baccalaureate equivalents or equivalent transfer credit).

Students who enrolled in Autumn 2000 or later may not use a course for more than one requirement.

7. Language

Requirement: Competence in one ancient or modern language other than English, demonstrated by completion of, minimally, the fourth sequential semester of college-level study, and preferably, a more advanced course with greater emphasis on literary and cultural traditions. (In Latin, both V1201 and V1202 or their equivalents must be completed.)

Aim: To provide basic linguistic competence in at least one language other than English, in order to familiarize students with the language, literature, and culture of at least one non-English speaking people. Students are encouraged to develop their language skills to a level that permits them to live and function in another country; to enable them to conduct research, whatever their field; and to prepare them to work effectively in an increasingly global and multicultural society. In becoming familiar with the form and structure of another language, students consider how languages function as tools for communication. Students are encouraged to apply their language skills in courses that fulfill other general education requirement areas.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:

- Read, write, and translate a chosen language of study;
- Communicate with speakers of the chosen language, if it is a spoken language;
- Demonstrate familiarity with the culture(s) and customs associated with the language of study.

Exception:
Enrolled students who complete the third or fourth semester of French outside the Barnard or Columbia department must take a departmental examination to qualify for fulfillment.

Exemptions:

1. Re-centered CEEB SAT II score of 781 or higher; re-centered CEEB SAT II score of 700 or higher in Hebrew only. No exemptions granted for CEEB SAT II scores in Chinese or Japanese.
2. AP score of 4 or 5 in French, German, Italian, Latin or Spanish.
3. Departmental examination.
4. Students with native English who study in a high school where the language of instruction is not English (e.g., French, for alumnae of the Lycée Français).
5. For international students for whom English was not the primary language of instruction in high school, satisfactory completion of English BC 1201 or one satisfactory semester at Barnard.

Placement:

1. Re-centered CEEB SAT II score of 680–780, fourth semester; 570–679, third semester; 400–569, second semester; below 400, first semester, for German.
2. Re-centered CEEB SAT II score of 690–780, fourth semester; 570–689, third semester; 420–569, second semester; below 420, first semester, for French and Spanish.
3. For languages other than French, Spanish, and German, placement will be determined by departmentally administered examinations.
4. For transfer students: the course following the level of the last satisfactorily completed semester course; however, formal withdrawal and reenrollment in a more suitable course may be required for students who are judged by the department to be inappropriately placed and in need of additional preparation or review. In such a case, transfer credit for the previous course is rescinded to allow the student to receive credit for the Barnard/Columbia course of equivalent level. Taking the departmental placement exam is recommended.
5. By departmental examination, if there is no CEEB score or previous college transfer work.

Credit:

1. Credit is given for courses satisfactorily completed in residence at Barnard or, in the case of a transfer, at her previous college.
2. No prior assurance of degree credit is given for summer or transfer work in foreign language courses. For work completed at other colleges, credit is granted with departmental approval, or by examination, or on completion of the next level at Barnard.
3. No credit is granted for work equivalent to a level already completed and credited.
4. Although credit for the first semester of an elementary language is not normally granted unless a more advanced course is completed, a student is granted one exception maximum to this rule on written request to the Registrar.

8. Literature
Requirement: One course in literature in any language, in the original or in translation; or in comparative literature.

Aim: To develop the skills needed for an informed and aesthetically rewarding reading of literary texts from various times, places, and traditions. Coursework will address the methods and theories by which readers produce meanings and interpretations, and will investigate the pertinence of material such as the authors' biographies or their cultural contexts to literary analysis. Students will study rhetorical strategies employed in literature, becoming more adept at grasping the underlying assumptions and appeal of various forms of discourse.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following outcomes:

- Recognize a range of rhetorical strategies employed in literary texts and analyze their function;
- Describe the contexts and distinctive features of at least one literary author, genre, or tradition.

9. The Visual and Performing Arts
Requirement: One course in architecture, art history, studio art, graphic design, dance, music, film, or theatre.

Aim: To build an understanding and appreciation of creative processes and forms of artistic expression. Courses will provide insight into the ways art is used to explore and enrich the world and the human condition. The requirement will enable students to cultivate their skills, to develop an understanding of the ways various arts communicate and are discussed, and to consider works of art in their complex social and historical contexts.

Students who complete a course satisfying this requirement should be able to attain at least one of the following
outcomes:

- Produce a work of art or a critical analysis of a work of art that demonstrates an understanding of formal characteristics including technique, style, medium or materials, and composition of design as applicable;
- Situate the work in its social or historical context.

Physical Education and Health

Requirement: Two courses, one course completed by the end of the first year, and another by the end of the junior year. Two points will be earned for these two courses; no more than 2 points can be earned for Physical Education courses. Transfer students must consult their transfer credit evaluation from the Registrar's office to see if a Physical Education class is needed.

Aim: To enable students to become aware of, and knowledgeable about, their physical being through participation in fitness and sports activities. Students are encouraged to enroll in additional activity and self-paced exercise courses toward the attainment of lifelong well-being.

Majors and Electives

Departments and programs establish majors to provide a structured, focused investigation of an academic discipline or area of interdisciplinary study. Often a major will require courses taken in cognate disciplines. Generally, there are three levels of study within each major: introductory survey courses; mid-level courses that cover more specialized subject matter and where attention is paid to the methodologies, including the writing styles and formats, of the discipline; and advanced-level seminars with an emphasis on independent research. The College has a long-standing commitment to preparing students sufficiently in a subject so that they may undertake a semester- or year-long project, usually during the senior year, on a topic related to their major.

All students complete the requirements of an approved major. Majors vary in the number of credits required. For students transferring credit from another college or university, a minimum of six semester courses must be completed while the student is in residence at Barnard. Only courses graded C– or higher will be credited toward the major.

A student registers her chosen major with the Office of the Registrar and with her major department or program, normally in the second term of her sophomore year. The major may be chosen from any listed in the Barnard Catalogue. A student may major in two fields by satisfying all the major requirements prescribed by each department, with no overlapping courses. A combined or special major may be designed in consultation with the Class Dean and chairs of the appropriate departments, and with the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Committee approval is not needed for a double major that comprises all the course requirements of two majors with one integrating senior project, but the form designated for such a double major must be filed with the Registrar and the two departments.

Apart from fulfilling general education requirements and major requirements, a student completes the remainder of the 122-point requirement with elective courses, either within or outside the major department, subject to the approval of the appropriate adviser.

No more than 18 points of studio, performing arts, or professional school courses (including film) may be credited toward the A.B. degree. Of these, a maximum of four arts studio courses may be credited. A maximum of six courses in instrumental instruction may be credited (except for Music majors and minors, who may receive credit for eight, including piano instruction).

One-point dance technique courses taken by non-dance majors for credit are also included in the existing 18-point maximum which may be credited toward the degree. A maximum of six courses in dance technique may be credited; however, a student does not receive academic credit for a dance technique course until she has completed or is currently completing the Physical Education requirement.

Exceptions to this rule are allowed only for courses in the major field or for courses taken in fulfillment of requirements for double and joint degree programs with professional schools of the University. A maximum of 24 points may be credited for studio or performance courses in the major field. A minimum of 90 points of traditional liberal arts courses is required for the student who majors in such a field; for all other majors, a minimum of 102 points of such courses is required.
Minors

The selection of a minor field of study is optional. A minor requires at least five courses (three of which must be qualifying Barnard or Columbia courses) that total a minimum of 15 points, and may be designated by any student having a major after completing a minimum of three courses in the minor field. Requirements depend on the minor chosen (see individual department curriculum statements); courses are selected in consultation with the department chair. Courses for the major and minor may not overlap. Minor courses may be used in satisfaction of general education requirements. To qualify for the minor, a course must be letter-graded A+ to C-.

Requirements for Transfer Students

A student admitted to Barnard with fewer than 24 points of credit is considered a first-year student and is subject to all requirements for first-year students, including First-Year Seminar and two semesters of Physical Education. A student admitted with 24 credits or more is considered a transfer student. To receive the A.B. degree at Barnard, a transfer student must be enrolled at Barnard (Morningside Heights, Reid Hall, Kyoto, Beijing, or the Berlin Consortium) for at least four full-time regular academic terms during which she must complete at least 60 points, including at least six courses in the major field (and three in the minor field, if a minor is elected). Additional major (and minor) courses, as well as general education requirements, may be satisfied by transfer courses. Exemption from the language requirement may be attained on the basis of College Entrance Examination Board Achievement scores alone or by a combination of those scores and additional college work. Those who do not receive exemption must complete the normal language requirement. Transfer students are eligible for general honors when both overall and Barnard averages meet the required academic standards.

Transfer Credit

Courses completed at other accredited colleges and universities which are similar in content and depth to Barnard courses may be submitted for transfer credit. Transfer courses are evaluated after a complete official transcript is received in the Office of the Registrar. Students are asked to submit catalogues and course descriptions with their requests for transfer credit to the Admissions Office.

Credit for approved work at another institution is applied to Barnard’s graduation requirement with a maximum of 16 points per term. Credit is not granted for courses with grades lower than C minus. Acceptable transfer work does not usually include applied or professional courses or more than the equivalent of two Barnard studio courses. The first term of an elementary language course is not normally credited unless or until the second term or a more advanced course has been satisfactorily completed, but a student may request a single exception to this ruling.

Transfer students who entered Barnard in or after Autumn 2003 with fewer than 24 points need 122 points to graduate, and two of those points are for PE, either at the previous school or here. Those entering with 24 or more points must complete 121 points for the Barnard degree, and 1 of those points is for PE (1 is both the minimum and the maximum).

Transfer students may apply for credit for previous summer courses under the regulations governing summer study.

First-year students with a record of prior course work taken as non-matriculants at an accredited college in the United States may request up to 15 points of transfer credit. Such work will be evaluated after the student has completed 12 points at Barnard. Grades for this course work are included in the overall average.

THE CURRICULUM

Other Academic Opportunities

Writing Fellows Program

The Writing Fellows Program offers students with strong writing, reading, and communication skills an opportunity to become peer tutors in writing. During their first semester in the program, students take a seminar and practicum in the teaching of writing (The Writer's Process, see ENGL BC3101), usually in the autumn term of their sophomore or junior year. As Writing Fellows, they work in different settings (e.g., The Jong Writing Center, writing-intensive courses across the curriculum) with Barnard undergraduates at all levels and in all disciplines. Writing Fellows receive a stipend and are asked to make a commitment of three semesters to the Program.

Speaking Fellows Program

Students with exceptional public speaking skills and an interest in leading groups of their peers may apply for the Speaking Fellows program. During their first semester in the program, students take a seminar and practicum in the theory and teaching of public speaking (Rhetorical Choices, see BC3123), usually in the autumn term of their sophomore or junior year. As Speaking Fellows, they work with small groups of Barnard and Columbia undergraduates on the fundamentals of public speaking, team presentation-giving, negotiating, and other skills required for course assignments. The program approaches public speaking as a critical leadership ability and focuses on helping students know how to use rhetorical skills to have an impact on the world around them. Speaking Fellows receive a stipend and are asked to make a commitment of three semesters to the Program.

Writing-Intensive Courses Across the Disciplines

Students in these courses undertake at least three writing projects, each of which goes through at least two drafts. Writing Fellows read and confer with students on the first drafts of their papers, which students may then revise, handing in both first and second drafts to their instructors, who comment on and grade the revised drafts.

The departments of Anthropology, Architecture, Art History, Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures, Biology, Dance, Economics, Education, English, Environmental Science, French, History, Philosophy, Political Science, Psychology, Religion, Slavic, Sociology, Spanish, Theatre, and Women's Studies have offered writing-intensive courses. Both instructors and students report positive results. Students appreciate the help they get in revising drafts and experience significant gains in their writing skills. Instructors find that the revised papers they receive permit them to focus their comments on course content, rather than on the mechanics of writing.

The Writing Center

In addition to their work in specific courses across the curriculum, Writing Fellows staff the Erica Mann Jong Writing Center (mezzanine level of the 3rd floor of Barnard Hall). Any Barnard student is welcome to confer on a particular writing project or to discuss some broader aspect of her writing (e.g., how to articulate, organize, and structure thoughts, how to use evidence effectively, how to work on English as a second language). Students confer on chapters of their senior theses, drafts of papers for First-Year English, outlines or ideas for papers in upper-level courses, lab reports, personal statements for admission to law school, etc.

Senior Scholar Program

The Barnard Senior Scholar Program allows a qualified student to undertake a single project for the entire senior year, or for one semester of the senior year (normally the second). The Program is intended for a student who is unusually well prepared in an academic discipline or in one of the performing arts. It offers the special advantages of concentration on one project, designation as Senior Scholar on the permanent transcript, and the amendment of some major requirements. Senior Scholars are allowed credit for no more than 30 points for the project. In the past, Barnard Senior Scholars have gained approval for a wide range of proposals.

A qualified student interested in the Senior Scholar Program should consult the Senior Class Dean in the Dean of Studies Office, who is coordinator of the program, in her junior year. Before the beginning of the senior year, the student should have completed all but the major requirements for the A.B. degree. Her written application for the Senior Scholar Program is submitted to the Committee on Honors for approval.

Centennial Scholars Program

The Centennial Scholars Program offers intellectually independent students an early opportunity to engage in challenging projects, tailored to their individual interests, with faculty mentors. The program is limited to 15 students in any single class. Selection is based on the Centennial Scholars Committee's review of a student's application for admission or on an application made by the student herself during the spring semester of her first year. Students selected for the program will be notified by the Committee.

The Program confers a maximum of 18.5 points of credit toward the degree. In the spring of a Centennial Scholar's sophomore year, she enrolls in CTSC BC 1889, Working With Ideas, an interdisciplinary course designed to lay the foundation for the core of the Program, an extended apprenticeship with her mentor(s). Her project may extend over two or three semesters and may include a summer to accommodate travel or other particular needs. The Program culminates in the Centennial Scholars Symposium, devoted to preparing a public presentation of the project. Dinner lectures, outings to museums, performances, and research laboratories, and similar activities, are additional features of the Program.

Athena Center for Leadership Studies

Launched in September 2009, the Athena Center offers a range of academic courses that examine all aspects of women's leadership from the distinctive perspective of the liberal arts. Using an innovative, interdisciplinary approach that combines rigorous academic and experiential study, the courses help Barnard women prepare to assume positions of leadership at the highest levels of achievement. By focusing primarily on the social sciences, students have an opportunity to explore how women lead and whether gender affects leadership styles and strategies. The Center also sponsors lectures, mentoring and leadership opportunities and the Athena Leadership Lab which offers a wide range of workshops designed to teach practical elements of leadership to students, alums, and others leaders in New York.

Arthur O. Eve Higher Education Opportunity Program

The Arthur O. Eve Higher Education Opportunity Program (HEOP) is an academic support and financial assistance program for undergraduate New York State residents who meet New York State economic and education guidelines. HEOP provides individual tutoring and tutorials, as well as individual counseling, workshops, study groups, and mentorship. All incoming HEOP students participate in an intensive summer academic program that includes instruction in English, mathematics, science, research, and public speaking skills.

Collegiate Science and Technology Entry Program

The Collegiate Science and Technology Entry Program (CSTEP) is a New York State Department of Education initiative designed to provide services to students from underrepresented populations or economically disadvantaged backgrounds who are seeking careers in the sciences, mathematics and technological fields, and the licensed professions.

During the academic year CSTEP provides faculty mentors, academic support (tutorials), financial assistance for specialized preparation courses for standardized examinations (e.g. GRE, LSAT, MCAT, etc.), workshops, placement in internships, and academic counseling.

Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship Program

The Barnard Mellon Mays Undergraduate Fellowship (MMUF) Program, in accordance with the mission of the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, seeks to increase the number of minority students and students with a demonstrated commitment to eradicating racial disparities who will pursue Ph.D.s in core fields in the arts and sciences. The program's long term goal is to address the under-representation of minority groups on American college and university faculties. Mellon Mays Fellowships provide opportunities for talented undergraduates to work with faculty mentors in research and other activities designed to encourage the pursuit of the Ph.D. in the humanities and sciences.
Study Abroad

Several options for study abroad are available to academically-qualified Barnard students. The Faculty has set the following guidelines for eligibility. By the time they plan to study abroad, students should:

1. have two years or the equivalent at the college-level of the language of the host country (this includes AP test scores, language proficiency exam or courses taken at another college or university), provided the language is offered at Barnard or Columbia, OR have completed one year or the equivalent at the college-level of the language of the host country and enroll in a program with a home stay or an intensive language practicum at the start of the semester. For students studying the sciences or mathematics abroad, language requirements vary slightly. When the language is not offered at Barnard or Columbia, students should have some knowledge of the language of the host country;
2. have no outstanding incompletes;
3. be in good academic standing;
4. have worked out, in consultation with the major advisor and Dean for Study Abroad, a plan for the completion of all major and general education requirements for graduation.

The educational interests of each applicant are of primary concern in acting on a student’s request to study abroad for degree credit. Interested students should begin the process of applying to study abroad by consulting the Dean for Study Abroad Advising in the Provost's Office no later than the first semester of the sophomore year. A student must obtain her approval for the program in which she wishes to enroll, as well as the approval of her academic adviser. She must obtain approval for courses to be taken abroad. Students pay Barnard tuition and an off-campus comprehensive fee for the period of study abroad. All other costs (housing, meals, other fees, etc.) are payable directly to the other institution at their own rate.

Barnard approves programs of study throughout the world. Some programs—in partnership with Barnard—require nomination by the College, e.g., Colleges at Oxford University.

Barnard students may apply to all overseas programs administered by Columbia University. These include problems in Paris, France; Berlin, Germany; Kyoto, Japan; and Beijing, China as well as summer programs.

In addition to the programs that Barnard oversees with Columbia, study through the programs of many other U.S. colleges and universities has been approved for Barnard credit. Please visit the Study Abroad website, which includes a list of all approved programs. Course credit for courses taken at institutions abroad other than the Barnard-Columbia programs is treated as transfer credit.

Study at Spelman

Barnard participates in an exchange program with Spelman College, the historically Black college for women in Atlanta, Georgia. Barnard students in the program may register for classes at any of the institutions within the Atlanta University Center: Clark Atlanta University, Morehouse College, Morehouse School of Medicine, the Interdenominational Theological Center, as well as Spelman. In addition, students may participate in the Columbia University–Howard University Exchange Program. Barnard students studying at Spelman pay Spelman's rates for tuition, fees, room, and board to Barnard. Barnard students studying at Howard pay Barnard's tuition and fees to Barnard and Howard's room and board costs directly to Howard.

Applications for both programs may be obtained in the Dean of Studies Office.

Study at Jewish Theological Seminary

The Jewish Theological Seminary of America (JTS), located two blocks from the Barnard campus, offers opportunities to Barnard students for specialized study under a cooperative arrangement. Students may enroll in courses at the Seminary under either of two options: (1) individual courses; (2) a double-degree program.

A student wishing to study at the Seminary should consult her adviser and obtain the written permission of the chair of her major department. Courses taken at the Jewish Theological Seminary are evaluated as transfer credit. Students who wish to obtain simultaneously the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Barnard and Bachelor of Hebrew Literature from the Seminary must consult the appropriate dean in the Dean of Studies Office at Barnard and at the Seminary’s List College and must be admitted separately to each institution.

Barnard students who are enrolled in the Double-Degree Program may request housing at the Seminary. Doubledegree students who enroll in the Seminary College will be subject to both Barnard and Seminary tuition charges and pay their student accounts separately to each institution. Students taking JTS courses pay the Seminary directly for those courses at the JTS rate.

Study at the Juilliard School

The Juilliard School at Lincoln Center offers opportunities to Barnard students for individual courses in music. For a five-year program leading to the Barnard A.B. and the Juilliard M.M., rigorous auditions are required for which early application must be made. Students interested in these options may obtain further information and audition dates by consulting Dr. Gail Archer, Coordinator of the Barnard Music Program (319 Milbank), at the time of admission to Barnard or as early as possible. Students enrolled at Barnard taking music lessons at Juilliard pay tuition only to Barnard. Students admitted to the Juilliard M.F.A. program pay tuition to Barnard for courses taken at Barnard and to Juilliard for courses taken at Juilliard.

Study at the Manhattan School of Music

The Manhattan School of Music is located one block to the north of the Barnard campus. Under a cooperative program of cross-registration, musically qualified Barnard students who pass required auditions have the opportunity to enroll in six semesters of private instrumental lessons at the Manhattan School, subject to the regulations specified in the application form available at the Office of the Registrar. Majors and minors in Music may take eight semesters of lessons. Students must complete a Barnard approval form each semester before receiving permission to enroll at the Manhattan School. Students pay Barnard tuition.

Study at Teachers College

Permission is needed to take a course at Teachers College. Students should obtain an application from the Office of the Registrar, obtain course approval from the Dean Blank, and return the completed form to the Office of the Registrar. TC courses require the payment of additional tuition at the Teachers College rate over and above Barnard tuition.

Joint Degree Intrauniversity Programs

Barnard offers double and joint degrees in coordination with other schools in the University system, including the School of International and Public Affairs (SIPA), the Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS), the School of Law, and the School of Dental and Oral Surgery. Details on specific programs are given below.

School of International and Public Affairs: International Affairs and Public Administration

Barnard College and the Columbia University School of International and Public Affairs offer two joint programs leading to the A.B. degree at the end of four years and the Master of International Affairs (M.I.A.) or Master of Public Administration (M.P.A.) after one additional year.

Interested students should consult Dean Runsdorf in the Dean of Studies Office as early as the sophomore year. Qualified students, nominated by the Dean of Studies Office, complete the application in the spring of the junior year. The final decision on admission to a program rests with the SIPA Review Committee.

Admission to a joint program does not constitute automatic admission to the M.I.A. or M.P.A. graduate program. Final admission is conditional upon the applicant’s receiving the A.B. degree from Barnard. A Barnard student’s eligibility for the joint programs is governed by the following conditions:

2. At least four semesters of matriculation at Barnard before enrolling in a joint program.
3. Fulfillment of all general education requirements and almost all major requirements before the senior year.
4. No more than four courses in the major to be completed during the senior year.
5. Completion of introductory courses in microeconomics and macroeconomics and a strong background in quantitative courses.
6. Pertinent professional experience.
A Barnard student in the Program must satisfy all Barnard degree requirements. Courses in the School of International and Public Affairs may be used to fulfill major requirements only with the written permission of the chair of the major department. During the senior years she must complete at least 24 points of course work at the 4000 level or above, including the first-year required core courses. An internship, usually during the summer between the fourth and fifth years, is also required.

School of Law

Each year Barnard College has the option of nominating, in conjunction with the Columbia University School of Law, juniors with outstanding records to enter the Law School under the Accelerated Program in Interdisciplinary Legal Education (A.I.L.E.).

Each student must submit a record of 90 points, at least 60 of which will have been completed at Barnard. She must have fulfilled all degree requirements except those for the major, which she must be able to complete together with the final 30 points at the Law School. Twelve of the 30 must be in the liberal arts and the remainder in appropriate law courses.

To be nominated, a student must have an outstanding academic record and have taken the LSAT by March of her junior year with a score in keeping with the median level of applicants accepted to the law school in that academic year. Students interested in the program should consult with Dean Kuan Tsu early in the junior year and with Dean Schneider to ensure fulfillment of graduation requirements. LSAT registration information is available in the Dean of Studies Office.

School of Dental and Oral Surgery

A limited number of qualified students may enter the Columbia University School of Dental and Oral Surgery after three years of undergraduate work at Barnard. To be eligible for this program, the student must have completed 90 points of academic work at Barnard and all of the prerequisite courses for the School of Dental and Oral Surgery. To be eligible for the A.B. degree, she must have completed 120 points, 30 of which may be taken at the School of Dental and Oral Surgery, and she must have completed all of the general and major requirements of Barnard College.

A student interested in this option should consult with Dean Starks in her first year for early program planning. Before her admission to the School of Dental and Oral Surgery, she should consult with Dean Schneider to make certain that she will be eligible for the A.B. degree.

Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science

The first three years of the five-year program leading to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science are spent under the jurisdiction of Barnard. During the junior year the student applies for admission to the School of Engineering and Applied Science, where the remaining two years of more specialized engineering and major study are taken. Completion of the general education requirements is required for the Barnard A.B. degree. A maximum of 30 Engineering points may be credited toward the Barnard degree. Students interested in the program are encouraged to consult Dean Blank to plan an appropriate schedule of Barnard courses.

COURSE LISTINGS

We invite you to use this interactive and searchable catalogue for program planning. You will find current information for all courses offered at Barnard, along with links to Columbia courses, the University Directory of Classes and departmental websites.

The Curriculum

Listing of courses in this catalogue is not a guarantee of their availability, and the College may revise its degree requirements from time to time.

Reading the Course Listings

Autumn term courses are followed by an x; spring term courses are followed by a y.

The first semester of elementary language, whether taken at Barnard or elsewhere, normally does not receive degree credit unless the second semester is completed. However, a single exception to this rule is allowed upon written request to the Registrar.

Certain courses are offered in both Autumn and Spring terms and may be taken in either term.

The following alphabetical prefixes designate the division of the university for whose students the course is primarily offered or indicate joint courses.

BC – Barnard College
C – Columbia College
F – School of General Studies
G – Graduate School of Arts and Sciences
H – Columbia University in Paris
R – School of the Arts
S – Summer Session
V, W – Joint undergraduate course

The level of the course is generally as follows:

1000–3999 Undergraduate 4000–4999 Advanced undergraduate and first-year graduate
5000–8999 Graduate, normally not open to undergraduates

The Africana Studies major offers an interdisciplinary, comparative approach to the study of the history, politics, cultures, literatures, and experiences of peoples in Africa and the African diaspora. Through this course of study, students come to see the centrality of Africa and the black Diaspora in the modern world and develop a critical understanding of the political, social and ideological forces that shape their place in the world. Our introductory courses encourage students to understand the world from multidisciplinary and transnational perspectives, to critically engage with primary and secondary materials, to develop key geographical knowledge and to engage in comparative analysis. In consultation with their Africana advisor, majors determine a course of study that draws from a range of disciplinary of theoretical perspectives. This coursework includes a required colloquium which grounds students in key theories and methodologies of the black diaspora, a Harlem course that asks students to think about our historic location in relation to the larger diaspora and a senior seminar that requires students to conduct groundbreaking research.

This multidisciplinary training not only involves a questioning of disciplinary boundaries, but also provides students with the intellectual tools necessary to think critically about the production and dissemination of knowledge. Our home in a premier college for women means that Africana Studies majors at Barnard develop a particular understanding of how gender and sexuality, as well as race, class, religion and region interact with and transform each other in individual and group experience.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students who complete a the major in Africana Studies should be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Integrate research tools and methods from a range of disciplines in order to study the history, politics, cultures, literatures, and experiences of peoples in Africa and the African diaspora;
2. Compare histories and cultures of black peoples across the globe;
3. Evaluate and interpret primary and critical materials;
4. Express themselves effectively in writing and oral presentations;
5. Demonstrate their understanding of Harlem's symbolic and historical importance to peoples of the African Diaspora;
6. Identify and communicate the importance of Africa and the African Diaspora to an increasingly global, diverse and interconnected world;
7. Demonstrate in their coursework knowledge of the key intellectual traditions of the African Diaspora;
8. Analyze and critique representations of peoples or cultures of Africa and the African Diaspora;
9. Design, execute and present original research project.

AFRS BC 3100x (Section 01) Medicine and Power in African History

Examines medical discourse and practice in Africa, emphasizing relationships between power and medical knowledge. Topics include: medicine and empire, tropical medicine, colonial public health and social control, labor, reproductive health, and HIV/AIDS.

- C. Cynn

General Education Requirement: Social Analysis (SOC). Not offered in 2010-2011. 4 points

AFRS BC 3109y Africana Colloquium: Critical Race Theory

Engages social constructions of race and racial identity through literary representations. Our conversations will draw upon a number of articulations of race theory, including specific post-1980s Critical Race Theory. In negotiating the persistent links between concepts of race and racialized discursive practice, we will also draw into our discussions anthropological and linguistic theories about race.

General Education Requirement: Social Analysis (SOC). General Education Requirement: Literature (LIT). Not offered in 2010-2011. 4 points

AFRS BC 3110x (Section 01) Africana Colloquium: Post Colonialism & Beyond

Introduces students to the origins and development of postcolonial theory, to the historical and political contexts in which postcolonial theory emerged, and to some of the central historical texts and debates in postcolonial studies. Among other topics, we will examine the Marxist analysis of imperialism; race and/in the negritude and the indigene movements; decolonization, nationalism, and gender; the critique of Orientalism; and feminism, the postcolonial state, and globalization. 4 points
AFRS BC 3110y (Section 02) Africana Colloquium: Theorizing Diaspora: Gender, Transnationalism, Globalization in the Africana Diaspora

This seminar draws on historical, anthropological, and literary approaches to develop a feminist theory of the African Diaspora. The primary objective of the course is to familiarize students with key feminist texts on diasporic formation and to complicate those analyses by putting them into conversation with feminist scholarship on gender, transnationalism and globalization. Toward this end, the course will problematize dominant models of diaspora theory and their limitations, among others: the privileging of 'origin' over intra-diasporic links as the fount of community and identity formation; the mapping of black men's diasporic migration, cultural production, and political activism as universal; gendered hierarchies of respectability and 'respectable' citizenship; the privileging of notions of unity and sameness over and against difference as the basis of Diaspora; and the emergence and unequal circulation of new (urban and/or African-American) hegemonies of blackness within the Diaspora, and their implications for diverse black communities. In creating a space for an extended dialogue about these issues, the aim of the course is to formulate an explicitly gendered, transnational analysis of the relations of Diaspora.

AFEN BC 3525y Atlantic Crossings: The West Indies and the Atlantic World

This class charts the emergence of modern race thinking in the early modern English Caribbean. We will study literature of transatlantic travel from Columbus’s first voyage to Caryl Phillip’s The Atlantic Sound as well as recent re-imaginings of slavery and the Middle Passage by M. NourbeSe Philip and Marlon James.

Prerequisites: Permission of Instructor General Education Requirement: Literature (LIT).
4 points

AFRS BC 3550y Harlem Seminar: Gay Harlem

This course explores Harlem's role in the production of sexual modernity and in particular as a space of queer encounter. While much of our investigation will be devoted to the intersection of race and sexuality in African American life, we also consider Harlem’s history as an Italian and a Puerto Rican neighborhood as well as its discrete micro-cosmopolitanism within the larger global city.

Prerequisites: This course is being taught concurrently at Vassar College. Vassar and Barnard students will collaborate to produce an interactive map of gay Harlem. Students should be prepared for three off campus meetings that will occur on three Fridays during the semester. The dates of these outings shall be determined by the first day of classes.

Enrollment is by permission of the instructor and is limited to 16 students. Students must come to the first class to be considered for admission and should contact Africana@barnard.edu indicating interest in the course. Please use the subject line +Gay Harlem.+ General Education Requirement: Social Analysis (SOC).

AFRS BC 3590x The Middle Passage

In addition to learning about the history of the Middle Passage, students will examine literary and political responses to this forced immigration out of Africa. Identifying responses to slave holding pasts, the seminar culminates in a visit to an historic site of importance in the Middle Passage.

- K. Hall

Prerequisites: Admission to this seminar is by application only. Applications will be made available on the Africana Studies website: www.barnard.edu/africana Not offered in 2010-2011.

AFRS BC 3998x-BC3999y Senior Seminar

A two-semester program of interdisciplinary research leading to the writing of the senior essay. Senior Seminar is not an independent study, but a structured seminar on methodology and criticism, which in the first semester results in an approved and substantial thesis proposal and annotated bibliography, and in the second semester produces the final thesis. In some cases, a senior seminar in one of the departments contributing to the program may be substituted for the first semester of the Senior Thesis.

The Program in American Studies offers an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the society and cultures of the United States. American Studies majors critically examine the changing narratives and practices of American life in a curriculum that emphasizes both historical breadth and theoretical depth.

Key Student Learning Outcomes

Barnard students graduating with a major in American Studies should be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Recognize the major events, peoples, and figures that shaped American history and culture.
2. Discuss the varieties of American literature, in particular the contribution of each to the construction of American culture.
3. Demonstrate a broad understanding of American culture and society and their complex inter-relationships.
4. Identify the cultural influences that have shaped, and continue to shape, American society, including (but not limited to) art, politics, and religion.
5. Demonstrate an understanding of the various theoretical methods that are used in at least two disciplines to study America.
6. Construct a sustained argument in a piece of original scholarship.

As an American Studies major, you will have the opportunity to take courses in American history, literature and other related disciplines. In addition to the junior colloquium, you will work with your adviser to devise a four-course concentration organized around a topic (for example: immigration, migration and ethnicity) and a historical period (for example: Civil War and Reconstruction). This four-course cluster will serve as the intellectual foundation of your year-long senior thesis.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

1. Two semesters of the American History survey, HIST BC 1401 and 1402. Majors are urged to complete this requirement by the sophomore year. This requirement may be waived for those with scores of 4 (waives one semester) or 5 (waives two semesters) on the Advanced Placement exam. Those students should substitute two upper-level American history courses, one that covers pre-Civil War material, and the other that covers post-Civil War material.

2. Two semesters of the American literature sequence:
   a. Either ENGL BC 3179 or 3180
   b. Either ENGL BC 3181 or 3183

3. One course in any discipline that focuses on American culture before 1917. (Examples include but are not limited to HIST BC 3424 “Approached by Sea: Early American Maritime Culture,” ENG BC 3140 “Explorations of Black Literature: 1760-1890,” and AHIS BC 3642 “North American Art and Culture.”)

4. Junior Colloquium: AMST BC 3401 “Cultural Approaches to the Past.” This course offers an introduction to the theoretical approaches of American Studies, as well as methods and materials used in the interdisciplinary study of American cultures and society. Offered only in the fall. Students studying abroad in the fall of their junior year will be expected to take the colloquium in the fall of their senior year.

6. A four-course concentration organized around a theme and historical period (see below).

The Discipline of Anthropology

Anthropology has traditionally been understood as the study of culture—the historically emergent patterns of being in, acting on, and interpreting the world. While the discipline is still more or less true to its origins, many anthropologists continually strive to shift the discipline’s footing, adjust its focus, and reframe its objects. In part, this arises from self-reflexive critiques of our own origins: it is also because the world we live in is constantly transforming; and, finally, we believe that such theoretical and methodological heterogeneity is healthy.

The Department of Anthropology

Our faculty specialize in science and medicine, technology and media, religion, language and cognition, visual and material culture, colonialism and postcolonialism, and conservation and the environment. We conduct research in Africa, the U.S., Oceania, the Middle East and Latin America and in doing so we use a variety of foci, tacking between the immediacy of local modes of lived experience and a range of abstract transformative processes that occur on global scales.

Majoring in Anthropology

The major is intended to train students to apply anthropological perspectives to a variety of social domains. Students who choose this major are exposed to three of anthropology’s four traditional subfields: socio-cultural anthropology, archaeology, and linguistic anthropology. Also they may elect to concentrate in any one of these subfields for their advanced coursework and the capstone senior thesis. In particular, all majors engage in two semesters of independent research, typically substantial fieldwork, during their senior year. Our students are strongly encouraged to study abroad during their junior year, or in the summer between their junior and senior year.

Student Learning Goals

1. Acquire a strong intellectual foundation in anthropology.
2. Develop a competence in the interpretation and evaluation of anthropological research.
3. Acquire a vision and understanding of the everyday world through an anthropological sensibility, that is, to consider the subjectivity of cultural experience and how this experience is interconnected across different societies.
4. Learn basic methods of anthropological research, project formulation, and research design: participant-observation, archival research, and field-methods more generally.
5. Demonstrate the capability to conduct original anthropological research.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon successfully completing the major, students should be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Articulate key methodological and theoretical debates in the history of the discipline;
2. Compare and use distinct analytical frameworks for interpreting meaningful social behavior, detecting patterns and thinking comparatively across social domains, cultures and contexts;
3. Develop an anthropological sensibility that enables one to distill social meaning from everyday encounters with individuals, material objects, texts and other social phenomena;
4. Undertake ethnographic, linguistic or archaeological fieldwork using the appropriate methods;
5. Conceptualize, undertake, and present an original research project by the end of the senior year.

The department also cooperates with related programs such as Africana Studies, American Studies, Foreign Area Studies, Human Rights Studies, Urban Studies, and Women's Studies, and with other departments offering, as an option to their majors, a four-course cluster in Anthropology. Arrangements for combined, double, joint, and special majors are made in consultation with the chair.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Every major is urged to acquire a general knowledge of three of the four fields of anthropology (social and linguistic anthropology, archaeology, and physical anthropology) and of their interrelationship. To this end, the student’s program should be designed in consultation with her adviser as soon as possible after the declaration of the major. Continuing and frequent meetings with the adviser are encouraged.

Eleven courses are required for the major, including:

- ANTH V 1002 The Interpretation of Culture
- ANTH V 1007 The Origins of Human Society
- ANTH V 1008 The Rise of Civilization
- ANTH V 1009 Introduction to Language and Culture
- EEEB V 1010 The Human Species: Its Place in Nature plus:

- ANTH V 3040 Anthropological Theory I
- ANTH V 3041 Anthropological Theory II

plus five electives, one of which can be a third introductory level class and three of which must be 3000 level or higher. Moreover, the three 3000 level or higher seminars be taken at Barnard or Columbia (not while on an exchange program during junior year).

In consultation with advisers, programs will be designed to reflect the students’ interests and plans—whether they intend to go on to graduate studies in anthropology or expect to enter other fields.

It is recommended that students who plan to major and in socio-cultural anthropology take BC 3868y (Ethnographic Field Research in New York City) before their senior year. Many seniors choose to incorporate a fieldwork component in their thesis research and having some experience of field methods is extremely important. Those interested in other sub-disciplines may wish to take this or another “methods” course and should consult their advisers. Students are also encouraged to check listings for courses offered by EEEB and ANEB at Columbia for possible Anthropology credit, in consultation with the Barnard department chair.

Senior Essay

All students majoring in Anthropology are required to submit an essay of substantial length and scholarly depth. Such a paper will usually be written during the course of the Senior Seminar (BC 3871–BC 3872).

Double and Joint Majors

Students doing a double or joint major in Anthropology and another subject are required to register for at least one semester of BC 3871–BC 3872.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor consists of five courses: ANTH V 1002; one of the following: ANTH V 1007, ANTH V 1008, ANTH V 1009, or EEEB V 1010; plus three other Anthropology courses two of which must be 3000 level.

ANTH V 1007x The Origins of Human Society

Examines the grand sweep of human development from our first bipedal steps some six million years ago, to the earliest evidence of art and symbolism, and on to the emergence of the first agricultural villages. Given the immensity of time under consideration, emphasis is placed on those heightened periods of change commonly described as "revolutions". Participants will become familiar with the fossil and/or archaeological records or those revolutions and the competing theories of why they occurred.

Topical Courses

EEEB V 1010x (Section 001) The Human Species: Its Place In Nature

Lab fee: $25. Designed to acquaint students with a variety of scientific disciplines through the investigation of human evolution, specifically Darwin's theory of evolution; Mendel's principles of inheritance, major patterns of evolution; primate behavioral morphology and evolution; and the fossil remains and evolutionary trends in human evolution. [Taught every fall.]

- J. Shapiro

Prerequisites: Science Requirement. Recitation Section Required. Lab Required.

3 points
ANTH V 2004x Introduction to Social and Cultural Theory

Introduces students to theoretical works and ideas that have formed the modern field of anthropology. These include classic 19th century social theories (e.g., those of Durkheim, Weber, Marx), 20th century interpretive approaches (for example, structuralism), and contemporary modes of sociocultural analysis.

- J. Pemberton

ANTH V 2005y Ethnographic Imagination

Introduction to the theory and practice of ethnography—the intensive study of people’s lives as shaped by social relations, cultural images, and historical forces. Considers through critical reading of various kinds of texts (classic ethnographies, histories, journalism, novels, films) the ways in which understanding, interpreting, and representing the lived words of people at home or abroad, in one place or transnationally, in the past or the present can be accomplished.

ANTH V 2040x Hunter-Gatherers: Pasts, Presents & Possible Futures

Hunting and gathering has been identified as the strategy of subsistence at the time fully modern humans emerged, according to analogy with similar groups found today from the semi-deserts of southern Africa to frozen plains of Antarctica. The apparent temporal duration and geographical extension of this mode of life suggests that it is one of the most successful economic means by which human beings have lived their lives. There would seem, therefore, to be some merit in studying hunter-gatherers as a group. But to what extent can human societies be compared in the present, the past, and possibly the future, on the basis of their subsistence alone?

EEEB W 3030x or y (Section 001) The Biology, Systematics, and Evolutionary History of the 'Apes'

This course focuses on our closest relatives, the extant apes of Africa and Asia. We will explore the nature and extent of the morphological, genetic, and behavioral variability within and among these forms. Using this framework, we will then analyze questions of systematics and trace the evolutionary development of the hominoids during the Miocene, the epoch that saw the last common ancestor of today’s gibbons, orang utans, gorillas, chimpanzees and humans. Maximum enrollment 25. [Taught every other year.]

Timing note: The course meets for 2 hours twice a week. Films are screened during the last 30 minute of each class and students must be able to stay for the entire time if they want to take the class.

- J. Shapiro

Prerequisites: Open to undergraduates who have had V1010, V1011 or the equivalent. Other students who are interested should speak with the instructor.

ANTH V 3939y Millennial Futures: Mass Culture and Japan
Addresses mass culture and its relationship with Japan at the end of the century, as it anticipates the continuation of millennial anxieties and fantasies into the 21st century. With one of the most developed, mass-mediated formations in the world, Japan becomes a compelling instance of late modernity, non-western, yet not. With ethnographic sensibilities, approaches such thematic domains as everyday orderliness, criminality and terror, gender and sexuality, and money and consumption through the media of print, video, film, sound recordings, and photography. Theoretical works in mass cultural criticism and Japan-specific readings are paired with weekly seminar discussions.

ANTH V 3943y Youth and Identity Politics in Africa

Examines ways in which African youth inevitably occupy two extremes in academic writings and the mass media: as victims of violence, or as instigators of social chaos. Considers youth as generating new cultural forms, as historically relevant actors, and informed social and/or political critics. At the core of such critiques lie possibilities for the agentic power of youth in Africa.

Examination of text and performance, as informed by magic and related articulations of power. Topics explored include: prophetic writing, historical inscription; divine kingship, cosmology, divination; colonial fiction, nationalist figuration; spirit possession, ritual sacrifice; mask performance, music, shadow theatre. Draws principally on Southeast Asian sources. Key concerns are subjectivity and repetition.

ANTH V 3950y Anthropology of Consumption

Examines theories and ethnographies of consumption as well as the political economy of production and consumption. Compares historic and current consumptive practices, compares exchange based economies with post-Fordist economies. Engages the work of Mauss, Marx, Godelier, Baudrillard, Appadurai, and Douglas among others.

ANTH V 3951y Pirates, Boys, and Capitalism

Detailed analysis of the history and figure of the pirate in the Western imagination. Asks why the pirate exerts such appeal through the ages and aims at introducing key problems in anthropological and cultural theory concerning colonialism, violence, homosexuality, rebellion, and the importance of the child’s imagination of the above.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited. General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL). Not offered in 2010-2011.

4 points

ANTH V 3952y Taboo and Transgression

Transgression of taboos is the basis of crime, sex, and religion in any society. As the labor of the negative, transgression is also a critical element in thought itself. Working through anthropology of sacrifice and obscenity, as well as relevant work by Bataille, Foucault, and Freud, this course aims at understanding why taboos exist and why they must be broken.

Prerequisites: Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 20 students. General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL). Not offered in 2010-2011.

ANTH V 3961y Subsequent Performances

Explores the dynamic interaction between operatic compositions (especially Mozart’s Don Giovanni and The Marriage of Figaro) and their subsequent performances, with particular emphasis on the cultural, political, and economic contexts that... shape both the original composition and the following reproductions. Critical apparatus includes Abbate and Butler.

Prerequisites: Permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 15 students. Priority given to upper class anthropology and music majors; students must attend operas outside of class. General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL). Not offered in 2010-2011.

ANTH V 3966y Culture, Mental Health and Clinical Practice
Considers mental disturbance and its relief by examining historical, anthropological, psychoanalytic and psychiatric notions of self, suffering, and cure. After exploring the ways in which conceptions of mental suffering and abnormality are produced, we look at specific kinds of psychic disturbances and at various methods for their alleviation.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 20 students. Junior standing or completion of introductory course(s) in Psychology and/or Anthropology. General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL).

4 points

ANTH V 3966x Specters of Culture
Pursues the spectral effects of culture in the modern. Through a consideration of anthropologically significant, primarily non-western sites and various domains of social creation: performance, ritual practice, narrative production, technological invention: traces the ghostly remainders of cultural machineries, circuitries of voice, and representational forms crucial to modern discourse networks.

ANTH V 3971x Environment and Cultural Behavior
Examines human understandings and transformations of nature, drawing on theories of the relationship between nature and culture and the social production and construction of nature. Analyzes contemporary environmental use, conservation projects, and environmentally focused ethnographic writing. Demonstrates the relationship between nature ideologies and productions, and the social, economic, and environmental politics they engender.

ANTH V 3972y Reproduction as Ideology: Conception and the Fetus Cross-Culturally Imagines conception and the fetus as cultural ideas. We will explore how various cultures throughout time and in contemporary discourse rationalize conception and the identity of the fetus. This cross-cultural discussion will provide the basis for a discussion of how kinship structure, social life and family are constructed. These concepts will then be related to American contemporary controversies surrounding abortion, new reproductive technologies, and the sociopolitical issues embedded within conception and childbirth. Finally we will place these issues within a global context of debates over reproduction ideology and population strategies.

- M. Weisgrau

General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL). 4 points

ANTH V 3973x Environment and Development

Examines how economic development and environmental conservation have become different means for valuing nature and natural resources. Both of these have sometimes altered and sometimes reinforced inequalities across local, national, and international scales. In this course, students will be asked to think critically about the relationships between global commodities, natural resources management, development organizations, and local ideas about these.

ANTH V 3978y Dialogic Imagination

Draws on the perspectives of Bakhtin and other theorists to analyze the logic of five opera performances the class will attend this semester. Productions scrutinized in terms of the forms of communication utilized; the class, status, and gender perspective mobilized; and the specified mechanisms used to engage or distance the audience from them. Performance rather than musicological angle emphasized.

Prerequisites: Permission of the instructor required. Enrollment limited to 15 students. General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL). 4 points
ANTH V 3979x Fluent Bodies

The recent proliferation of writings on the social significations of the human body have brought to the fore the epistemological, disciplinary, and ideological structures that have participated in creating a dimension of the human body that goes beyond its physical consideration. The course, within the context of anthropology, has two considerations, a historical one and a contemporary one. If anthropology can be construed as the study of human society and culture, then, following Marcel Mauss, this study must be considered the actual, physical bodies that constitute the social and the cultural.

ANTH V 3980x Nationalism: History and Theory

Covers the basic readings in the contemporary debate over nationalism and different disciplinary approaches and looks at recent studies of nationalism in the formerly colonial world as well as in the industrial West. The readings offer a mix of both theoretical and empirical studies, including the following: Eric Hobsbawm: Nationalism since 1700; Ernest Gillner: Nations and Nationalism; Benedict Anderson: Imagined Communities; Antony Smith: The Ethic Origins of Nations; Linda Coley: Britons; Peter Sahlins: Boundaries; and Partha Chatterjee: The Nation and Its Fragments.

ANTH G 6129y Economy, Value and Society

Explores economy and society, as seen through the lens of two classic works: Marx's Capital (volume 1) and Evans-Pritchard's Nuer (books 1 and 2). It has several overarching goals. First, to give students the opportunity to read, compare, and discuss two classic works in social theory-works that are often read in a piece-meal and rushed fashion, or presupposed as general canon. Second, to introduce students to key categories in British social anthropology, and Marxist and substantivist economics-and to provide a genealogy of these categories. To sketch an alternative metalanguage for examining social relations vis-i-vis the economy-one which is grounded in American Pragmatism and Boasian (Linguistic) Anthropology. And finally, in light of this genealogy and metalanguage, to reconsider a key set of disjunctures in the theoretical imaginary: householding to moneymaking, status to contract, community to society, quality to quantity, use-value to exchange-value, concrete domination to abstract domination, private to public, punishment to discipline, and so forth.

ANTH V 2000 The Archaeology of Colonialism

The field of archaeology has much to contribute to a greater understanding of colonialism as it has privileged access to a comparative perspective of pre-capitalist colonial encounters and complementary kinds of evidence that can inform upon the historical processes of modern colonialism. In this class we will employ temporally and geographically diverse case studies from archaeological and historical literature situated within a critical discussion of colonial and post-colonial theory. Methodological strategies, problems, and limitations are also explored. - Alexandra Hartnett

ANTH V 3900 the Archaeology of Sex, Gender

Third-wave feminism has introduced a dynamism to the study of gender and sexuality in archaeology that situates gender as a relational category intersecting with aspects of identity such as race, ethnicity, status and class. In this seminar, we explore gender, sexuality, social organization and identity in earlier societies that were filled with a diversity of peoples. We examine geographically and historically diverse cases that range from prehistoric Europe to twentieth-century San Francisco through archaeological investigations rooted in space, material culture, and daily practice. - Alexandra Harnett

The Architecture major establishes an intellectual context for students to interpret the relation of form, space, program, materials and media to human life and thought. Through the Architecture curriculum, students participate in the ongoing shaping of knowledge about the built environment and learn to see architecture as one among many forms of cultural production. At the same time, the major stresses the necessity of learning disciplinary-specific tools, methods, terms and critiques. Thus, work in the studio, lecture or seminar asks that students treat architecture as a form of research and speculation which complement the liberal arts mission of expansive thinking.

Undergraduate Study in Architecture

Studying Architecture at Barnard and Columbia Colleges leads to a liberal arts degree – a Bachelor of Arts with a major in Architecture, and Barnard College is the administrative location for all undergraduate architecture studies at Columbia University and its partner institutions. A liberal arts education in architecture holds a unique position in academia and in relation to the discipline. If the goal of a professional education in architecture is to enable students to participate directly in the world as an architect – a liberal arts education asks that students consider the broader and myriad conditions in which architecture is conceived and practiced and, in turn, to understand how architecture inevitably alters those conditions. Students are asked to confront and interpret the complex social, cultural, political, and environmental processes that weave through architectural design and urbanism. The purpose of an undergraduate liberal arts degree in architecture is to educate students to think about the world through architecture.

The Architecture curriculum introduces design at a variety of scales, acknowledging that integrated design thinking is effective for problem solving at any scale and in any discipline. Students will experiment with full-scale installations and devices and make small-scale models of urban conditions from which they extract, interpret and invent new possibilities of inhabitation and use. The curriculum intentionally balances the traditions of handcrafted representation with evolving digital technologies of architectural design and communication.

The Architecture major complements, and makes great use of its University setting. With access to superb libraries, research centers, graduate programs, and abundant intellectual resources, our students have the opportunity to follow their creative instincts to great depth and breadth – and they do. The major depends on New York City as more than a convenient site for many design and research projects and frames the City as one of the key social and architectural, and thus didactic, markers of Modernity. Architecture students study with peers from countries around the world in one of the most diverse cities in the world. A large majority of the Architecture students expand their education by interning in Architecture or a related field during their undergraduate studies. Alumni of the Department are leaders in architecture and design fields around the world. The faculty teaching in the undergraduate program are dedicated teachers who are also at the forefront of practice and research and are similarly drawn to New York City as a nexus of global design thinking.

Students interested in obtaining a professional degree in Architecture continue on to graduate programs after their undergraduate degree, and students from the Barnard-Columbia program have enjoyed enormous success in their admissions to the most competitive graduate programs in the country. Students who study Architecture as undergraduates have also pursued graduate degrees in a variety of disciplines including Urban Planning, Law, and Media and Communications.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students in the Architecture Majors who fully engage with the curriculum should be able to complete the following outcomes:

1. Apply integrated design thinking to specific problems in and beyond the discipline;
2. Visually communicate architectural concepts and research using discipline-specific techniques in multiple media;
3. Verbally present independent, group or assigned research, in multiple media formats;
4. Organize and concisely write in a variety of formats including reports, case studies, synthetic overviews, etc.;
5. Understand and critically interpret major buildings and themes of Architectural history and theory;
6. Be intellectually prepared for graduate studies in architecture and related disciplines.

Three architecture lectures. One of these must be ARC V 3117 Perceptions of Architecture.

Four Art History lectures above and beyond the prior three. Two of these must be AHIS BC 1001, 1002 Introduction to History of Art.

Three seminars to be taken in the junior or senior year. Two should be in Architecture (see Seminar List and Note under Studio Major), one in Art History.
Three cluster courses in an area of study related to Architecture (see description under Studio Major).

The Architecture program is a liberal arts major, not a professional degree program. It does not qualify students for a license in Architecture.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Architecture consists of five courses, including either V 1020, V 3101 or V 3103, three history/theory courses, and a fifth course to be chosen in consultation with the adviser.
ARCH V 3114x Making the Metropolis: Urban Design and Theories of the City since 1850

Introduces the project of understanding modern cities, focusing on theories, practices and examples in Europe and North America since 1850. The global reach of Euro-American ideas will also be examined. There are two primary goals: to investigate diverse strategies of urban development and to evaluate the social implications of built form. Course material includes built projects as well as unbuilt and theoretical work, all of which shaped how architects and planners interpreted the city.

- D. Smiley

General Education Requirement: The Visual and Performing Arts (ART).

ARCH V 3117y Perceptions of Architecture

Introduction to various methods by which we look at, experience, analyze, and criticize architecture and the built environment; development of fluency with architectural concepts. Attendance is mandatory at the first class meeting in order to form class registration lists.

- R. Rouhe

Prerequisites: Designed for but not limited to sophomores; enrollment beyond 60 at the discretion of the instructor. General Education Requirement: The Visual and Performing Arts (ART).

Art History, which is devoted to the study of all the visual arts, is one of the broadest fields in the humanities. It is concerned not only with the nature of works of art – their materiality, form, style, and content—but also with the social, political, and cultural circumstances that shape them and determine their reception.

Long identified with the study of European art, the history of art is now dedicated to understanding the visual arts on a global scale. Introductory level courses encourage a basic lifelong understanding and appreciation of works of art produced in various periods and different cultures. Most of our majors take the opportunity offered by Study Abroad to attend courses in locations from Barcelona to Dakar. In addition special arrangements make it possible for students to take courses that travel to artistic centers such as Paris and Berlin. The rest of the curriculum offers a more advanced and specialized knowledge of art which can lead to many kinds of careers, including teaching, museum administration and curating, business positions in galleries or auction houses, publishing, criticism, collection advising, and conservation, as well as work as visual artists in any medium. Students in many fields may also find that art history is relevant to their studies. Not only do courses insist on analytical thinking and writing through multiple assignments that involve rigorous attention to presentation and written skills, but they foster a capacity to understand the ways in which images make meaning. The department, fortunate in being located in New York City, one of the world’s greatest art centers, takes full advantage of the rich resources of the city’s museums and galleries. Courses on the history of the city’s involvement in art bring the city to students while they in turn explore its offerings both privately and through internships in artistic institutions ranging from museums to art periodicals.

Student Learning Outcomes for Art History Major and Minors

Students who graduate with a major or minor in art history will be able to attain the following outcomes:

  1. Demonstrate a critical understanding of the social, political, and cultural circumstances surrounding the making and viewing works of art in a range of cultural traditions and time periods in a comparative way;
  2. Discuss the form, style, and content of a range of works of art;
  3. Recognize the methods and theories used to ask significant questions about works of art;
  4. Frame and execute their own research projects through the writing of papers, the production of art works or a combination of the two;
  5. Express themselves effectively orally, in writing, visually or materially;
  6. Study works of art in person.

Catalogue 2010-2011
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The department offers both a major in the History of Art and a major in Art History with a concentration in the Visual Arts. In each case the student chooses a faculty adviser who assists her in planning a program incorporating personal interests while meeting departmental requirements.

A minimum of 12 Art History courses is required for the major, including:

- AHIS BC 1001 and 1002 Introduction to Art History. This two-course sequence is required.
- AHIS BC 3970 Methods and Theories of Art History. To be taken during the junior or senior year.
- AHIS BC 3959x and/or 3960y Senior Research Seminar. Students write their senior thesis in conjunction with the Senior Research Seminar. Students will develop, research, and write either a 1 semester or 2 semester thesis project in consultation with an individual faculty member in Art History. They will also attend and participate in group seminars convened during the academic year in which all students will present their work. Students who plan to study abroad during their senior year and those who expect to graduate early must begin the senior research seminar sequence in the second semester of the junior year.

Seven elective courses, with the following requirements:

- Two of these courses must be seminars. None of the seminars listed above may count toward this requirement.
- At least one Western and one Non-Western art history course. BC 1001 and 1002 may not count toward this requirement.
- Four of these must cover a broad range of disciplinary areas. Students concentrating on Western art must have at least one course each in four of the following five periods: Ancient, Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, and Modern. Students concentrating on non-Western art must work out a similarly comprehensive course of study in consultation with their advisers. Lecture classes or seminars can be used to fulfill this requirement. BC 1001 and 1002 or any other broad survey cannot be used to fulfill this requirement.
- Courses in film are accepted toward the major requirements; studio courses are not.

Recommended: One or two studio courses should be taken by Art History students.

Students who plan to undertake graduate work should acquire a reading knowledge of at least two foreign languages in which the major contributions to the history of art have been made. Most graduate schools require a reading knowledge of French, German, or Italian. The department strongly recommends a student's taking one of these languages while at Barnard.

Requirements for the major in Art History with concentration in the Visual Arts:

A minimum of 12 courses is required for the major in Art History with concentration in the Visual Arts:

Six Art History courses, including:

- BC 1001 and 1002 Introduction to the History of Art
- One course in 19th- or 20th-century art
- One seminar in art history
- Five studio courses including ARCH BC 3530 Advanced Studio
  and ARCH BC 3031 Imagery and Form in the Arts

Art History Senior Thesis Option for Visual Arts Concentrators:

Art History Majors concentrating in Visual Arts may elect to substitute the Senior Thesis for the Senior Project. To do this they must:

- Notify their adviser of their intention to do so by the end of their junior year.
Take both Methods and Theories of Art History (BC 3970) and the Senior Research Seminar (BC 3959 and 3960)

Requirements for the major in the History and Theory of Architecture:
See Architecture Program offerings.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Art History consists of five lecture courses, including BC 1001, BC 1002, and three courses in the following areas, of which one must be non-European: European and American: Ancient, Medieval, Renaissance, Baroque, and Modern Non-European: Chinese, Japanese, Indian, African, Mesoamerican, and Native American.
Non-categorized courses

AHIS BC 1002y Introduction to the History of Art II

Introduction to the art of the past with an emphasis on the variety of perspectives from which it may be studied. Artworks from different period cultures will be selected for discussion in depth. Members of art history faculty and other invited speakers lecture in their fields of specialization. Renaissance to Modern art will be covered. Note: weekly discussion groups to be arranged.

3 points

AHIS BC 3675y Feminism and Postmodernism in Contemporary Art

Examines art and criticism of the 1970s and 1980s that were informed by feminist and postmodern ideas about visual representation. Explores postmodernism as (1) a critique of modernism, (2) a critique of representation, and (3) what Gayatri Spivak called a "radical acceptance of vulnerability." Studies art informed by feminist ideas about vision and subjectivity. Places this art in relation to other aesthetic phenomena, such as modernism, minimalism, institution-critical art, and earlier feminist interventions in art.

- R. Deutsche

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to juniors and seniors only. General Education Requirement: The Visual and Performing Arts (ART). Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

AHIS BC 3681y Directions in Contemporary Art

Introduces the history of contemporary artistic practices from the 1960s to the present, and the major critical and historical accounts of modernism and postmodernism in the arts. Focusing on the interrelationships between modernist culture and the emerging concepts of postmodern and contemporary art, the course addresses a wide range of historical and methodological questions.

AHIS W 4703x Japanese Architecture from the mid-19th C. to the Present

Examines Japanese architecture and urban planning from the mid-19th century to the present. We will address topics such as the establishment of an architectural profession along western lines in the late 19th century, the emergence of a modernist movement in the 1920’s, the use of biological metaphors and the romanticization of technology in the theories and designs of the Metabolist Group, and the shifting significance of pre-modern Japanese architectural practices for modern architects. There will be an emphasis on the complex relationship between architectural practice and broader political and social change in Japan.

AHIS BC 3951 Contemporary Art and the Public Sphere
Critically examines contemporary debates about the meaning of public art and public space, placing them within broader controversies over definitions of urban life and democracy. Explores ideas about what it means to bring the term public into proximity with the term art. Considers the differing ideas about social unity that inform theories of public space as well as feminist criticism of the masculine presumptions underlying certain critical theories of public space/art.

AHIS BC 3952 Art and Mass/Popular/Everyday Culture: 1850 to the Present
Examines interactions between art in Europe and the United States during the 19th and 20th centuries, on the one hand, and non-art forms of culture that are called variously mass, popular, and everyday culture, on the other. Places art/mass culture interactions within the rise of bourgeois society, the invention of democracy, and relations of class, gender, sexuality, and race. Studies major critical theories and debates about the relationship between art and mass culture.
- R. Deutsche

AHIS BC 3957 1980s Feminism and Postmodernism in the Visual Arts
Examination of art and criticism that is informed by feminist and postmodern ideas about subjectivity in visual representation which first achieved prominence in the late 1970s and 1980s, exerting a profound influence on contemporary aesthetic practice. Explored in relation to earlier concepts of feminism, modernism, social art history, and art as institution. Artworks discussed include those of Barbara Kruger, Cindy Sherman, Louise Lawler, Krzysztof Wodiczko, Hans Haacke, Mary Kelly, and Catherine Opie, among others.

AHIS BC 3959x Senior Research Seminar

AHIS BC 3961y Winslow Homer and American Realism

Winslow Homer is in many ways the quintessential American Realist. One need only glance at his sunny pictures of women playing croquet or his stunning snapshots of surf breaking on the Maine Coast to recognize the bold graphic energy of his work and its seemingly national subject matter. Homer was promoted as an untrained and naive observer of his time, but in fact he was a sophisticated artist with extensive engagement in the evolving aesthetic and cultural dialogues of the late nineteenth century in America and abroad. In this course, we will get beyond the surface of Homer's art, interrogating how these qualities have come to signal what they do while examining the course of his career in its art historical and historical contexts. Rather than seeing Homer as a realist simply documenting his time, students will come to understand the ways in which his work raises and attempts to address key questions posed in the United States as it recovered from the Civil War and experienced the rapid urbanization and industrialization of the Post-War era. Through the close examination of Homer's output in a variety of mediums, including illustration, painting, watercolor and etchings, we will explore Homer's deep engagement with the international aesthetic developments of Impressionism, Aestheticism and Realism. Class meetings will be augmented by two field trips, one to the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the other to the Century Club.

AHIS BC 3971y The Rococo and It's Revivals

This seminar studies the sumptuous decorative arts of the French eighteenth-century Rococo. Thanks to a grant from the Mellon Foundation, participants will be able to study actual examples of this art in the world-class collections of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and the Frick Collection. New scholarship on these collections by museum curators, as well as a new wave of academic scholarship on rococo interiors, makes this an exceptional moment to re-think the rococo, especially as it has been collected and displayed in New York City. Several of the most important scholars of the Rococo will be participating in events at Columbia University and at the 2010 meeting of the College Art Association during the spring semester, making it possible for seminar participants to learn about the latest work on Rococo from a variety of authorities.

AHIS BC 3976y Japanese Photography

This course will examine the history of Japanese photography from the middle of the 19th century to the present. The class will be organized both chronologically and thematically. Throughout its history, photography has been an especially powerful medium for addressing the most challenging issues facing Japanese society. Among the topics under discussion will be: tourist photography and the representation of women within that genre in the late 19th century, the politics of propaganda photography, the construction of Japanese cultural identity through the representation of "tradition" in photography, and the interest in marginalized urban subcultures in the photography of the 1960s and 1970s. Although the course will be focused on Japan, the class will read from the literature on photography elsewhere in order to situate Japanese work within a broader context.

AHIS BC 3990x Japanese Prints: Images of Japan's Floating World

_Ukiyo-e_, the "images of the floating world," present a vivid and highly romanticized vision of the dynamic urban culture of Japan during the 17th through 19th centuries. Considers ways in which these images promoted kabuki theater, glamorized life in the licensed prostitution quarters, and represented sexuality and gender. We will study how print designers and publishers dodged government censorship as they ruthlessly parodied contemporary life, literature, and venerable artistic traditions.

AHIS BC 3940x Utopia Aspirations in a Digital Era

This seminar lab course examines the history and conception of utopia and how visionary individuals like Buckminster Fuller or Donna Haraway have addressed these in their lifetimes. This interdisciplinary class combines instruction on digital programs with readings that introduce students to the subject of utopia. These readings will in turn provide inspiration for the students' own digital projects. Classroom time is divided between seminar critiques requiring students to argue their objectives and intentions, discussions/analysis of selected texts and hands on instruction in the digital lab. Students will learn how to use Photoshop and Final Cut Pro Video Editing for creating their final projects.

Welcome to the Department of Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures at Barnard. The Department’s primary aim is to introduce major Asian and Middle Eastern civilizations and their works and values as a means of expanding knowledge of the varieties and unities of human experience. Students who major in the Department take a specific number of courses from the Barnard and Columbia curriculum, obtain two to three years of language proficiency in the language relevant to the world area under study, and hence become regional experts with specific disciplinary skills. The Department offers three tracks: the East Asian Track covers China, Japan, and Korea; the South Asian track covers India, Pakistan, and Bangladesh; and the Middle Eastern Track covers the Middle East, including Israel, the Gulf States, Iran, Iraq, and Turkey, and North Africa. The Department’s general courses are designed for all students, whatever their major interests, who wish to include knowledge of Asian and Middle Eastern life in their education. Study abroad is encouraged.

Student Learning Outcomes

Faculty in the Department of Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures hold the following learning outcomes for majors who take advantage of the opportunities offered through the program. Students will be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Speak, write, and read at an intermediate to advanced level in a language of the Middle East, South Asia, or East Asia;
2. Demonstrate a basic understanding of the history and culture of their chosen area of the world;
3. Exhibit in-depth knowledge of a particular aspect of it, such as the artistic, literary, religious, philosophical, sociological, anthropological, political, or economic elements;
4. Demonstrate familiarity with leading theory on the study of non-Western cultures; and
5. Produce a clearly and critically written senior thesis that draws upon the various aspects of their training -- for instance, linguistic, historical, cultural, and political -- in investigating a topic in detail and making a contribution to knowledge.

The satisfactory completion of one of the following courses offered in the departments of East Asian Languages and Cultures and Middle East Languages and Cultures satisfies the college requirements in the respective languages: Akkadian G 4113 Intermediate Akkadian; Arabic W 1215 Intermediate Arabic; Armenian W 1313 Intermediate Armenian; Bengali W 1202 Intermediate Bengali; Chinese C 1202 or F 1202 Intermediate Chinese (second stage); Hebrew W 1513 Intermediate Modern Hebrew; Hindi-Urdu W 1613 Intermediate Hindi-Urdu; Japanese C 1202 or F 1202 Intermediate Japanese (second stage); Persian W 1713 Intermediate Modern Persian; Korean W 1202 Intermediate Korean; Sanskrit W 4813 Intermediate Sanskrit; Tamil 1202 Intermediate Tamil; Telugu W 1202 Intermediate Telugu; Tibetan W 4413 Intermediate Tibetan; or Turkish W 1913 Intermediate Turkish.

Students who wish to enter Chinese, Japanese, or Korean language courses above the introductory level must pass a language placement test before registering. Placement exams are given during the week before classes begin—contact the Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures (407 Kent) for exact dates. For placement above the introductory level in Arabic, Armenian, Bengali, Hindi-Urdu, Panjabi, Persian, Sanskrit, Tamil, Tibetan, or Turkish, contact the Department of Middle East and Asian Languages and Cultures (401 Knox). All students wishing to enter the Hebrew language program or wishing exemption from the Hebrew language requirement must take a placement test. Contact the Department of Middle East and Asian Languages and Cultures (401 Knox) for details.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A student who plans to major in Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures is advised to consult a member of the Department in the spring term of her first year in order to be sure to plan for an appropriate sequence of language study.

Important note: Students majoring in any of the East Asian tracks (China, Japan, Korea) may only study abroad in the Spring of their junior year if they take Research in East Asian Studies V 3999 in the Spring of their sophomore year.

To major in Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures, a student will choose to follow one of two tracks, East Asian or Middle East and South Asian.

The East Asian Track
The major requires a minimum of 10 courses (if a student has already satisfied the language requirement) or more (if she starts the language requirement from the beginning). The requirements include:

1) Language:
Three years of Chinese, Japanese, or Korean, or the proficiency equivalent (to be demonstrated by a placement examination).

2) Core Courses:
Asian Humanities V 3400 Colloquium on Major Texts

Two of the following survey courses:
Asian Civilizations-East Asia V 2002 Introduction to Major Topics in Asian Civilizations: East Asia
Asian Civilizations V 2359 Introduction to the Civilization of China
Asian Civilizations V 2361 Introduction to the Civilization of Japan
Asian Civilizations V 2363 Introduction to the Civilization of Korea
Asian Civilizations V 2365 Introduction to the Civilization of Tibet

3) Disciplinary Courses: Three courses, to be chosen in consultation with the adviser. Because Asian studies is an area-study rather than an academic discipline, it is important that the student also develop competence in a particular discipline. She is therefore asked upon entering the major to choose from among the following: history, literature, philosophy, religion, art history, anthropology, political science, sociology, or economics. Typically, one of the courses taken in satisfaction of the disciplinary requirement will be a basic introductory or methodology course, and the other two will be in East Asia related courses in the discipline. Under certain circumstances the adviser may approve a combination of two basic courses and one East Asia-related course; courses in closely related disciplines may also be substituted with the approval of the adviser. However, if a student chooses one or two disciplinary courses that are not specifically Asia-related, these courses will be considered qualifying in terms of the disciplinary requirement, but not as counting toward the 10-course minimum for the major. Only those courses that are Asia-related are considered to count toward this 10-course minimum.

As their basic introductory disciplinary course, majors specializing in history should take Historiography of East Asia (East Asian W 4103), those specializing in literature should take Literary and Cultural Theory East and West (East Asian W 4101), and those specializing in the social sciences (anthropology, economics, political science, or sociology) should take Critical Approaches to East Asia in the Social Sciences (East Asian W 4102). These three courses are offered in the Spring term and should normally be taken in the junior year.

4) Elective Courses: Two courses related to East Asia, to be chosen in consultation with the adviser.

5) Research in East Asian Studies V 3999: To be taken in the junior year.

6) Senior Paper: Each student is expected to prepare a research paper or an annotated English translation of an East Asian text. The paper should be in the chosen disciplinary field and will be written in the Fall semester of the senior year in Senior Thesis (East Asian W 3901) in consultation with an appropriate faculty adviser. All students should enroll for the autumn term. Under special circumstances, with the adviser’s approval, the senior paper may be written in conjunction with Asian Studies BC 3999, Independent Study. Note that in all East Asian language courses, the minimum grade required to advance from one level to the next is B-.

The Middle East or South Asian Track
A minimum of 13 courses is required, including:
Asian Humanities AHUMV 3399x,y Colloquium on Major Texts
Middle East & South Asia MDE W 3000x Theories of Culture: Middle East and South Asia

Two of the following courses:
Asian Civilizations-Middle East V 2001 Introduction to Major Topics in Asian Civilizations: The Middle East and India
Asian Civilizations-Middle East V 2003x Introduction to Islamic Civilization
Asian Civilizations-Middle East V 2008y Contemporary Islamic Civilizations
Asian Civilizations-Middle East V 2357x Introduction to Indian Civilizations
Asian Civilizations V 2365 Introduction to the Civilization of Tibet

Four to six courses of an appropriate language (Akkadian, Arabic, Armenian, Bengali, Hebrew, Hindi-Urdu, Panjabi, Persian, Sanskrit, Tamil, Telegu, Tibetan, or Turkish), selected in consultation with the adviser.

A minimum of five courses chosen as a concentration. The concentration may be in the languages and cultures of ancient Semitic, Arabic, Armenian, Hebrew, Indic, Iranian, Persian, or Turkish.

A senior thesis, to be written under the supervision of a faculty member chosen in consultation with the adviser. Students whose sole major is Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures should take two semesters of Independent Study (ASST BC 3999) with their adviser for the purposes of producing the thesis. Students who are double-majoring in a second department that requires a group seminar should enroll in that seminar and work with the AMEC advisor on the side.

The courses listed under Middle East and South Asia below represent a selection among those required in one or another of the concentrations. Students should consult the Middle East and Asian Languages and Cultures department office in 401 Knox Hall for a complete list of course offerings. Graduate courses at the G4000-level may be taken with permission of the instructor. See GSAS catalog for course listings.

No minor is offered in Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures.

EAAS V 2937x China in the Modern World

The rise of China has impacted world politics and economy in significant ways. How did it happen? This course introduces unique angles of self-understanding suggested by Chinese writers, intellectuals, and artists who have participated in the making of modern China and provided illuminating and critical analyses of their own culture, history, and the world. Our readings will cover a wide selection of modern Chinese fiction and poetry, autobiographical writing, photography, documentary film, artworks, and music with emphasis on the interplays of art/literature, history, and politics. We will pay close attention to the role of storytelling, the mediating powers of technology, new forms of visuality and sense experience, and the emergence of critical consciousness in response to global modernity. Our goal is to develop critical reading skills and gain in-depth understanding of modern China and its engagement with the modern world beyond the Cold War rhetoric. Topics of discussion include historical rupture, loss and melancholy, exile, freedom, migration, social bonding and identity, capitalism, nationalism, and the world revolution.

Corequisites: Open to all undergraduate students. This course fulfills Major Cultures Requirement (East Asian Civilization List B) and may count as an elective. No prior knowledge of China or any of its languages is required. Not offered in 2010-2011.

EAAS W 3338x A Cultural History of Japanese Monsters
From Godzilla to Pokemon (literally, "pocket monster") toys, Japanese monsters have become a staple commodity of late-capitalist global pop culture. This course seeks to place this phenomenon within a longer historical, as well as a broader cross-cultural, context. Through an examination of texts and images spanning over thirteen centuries of Japanese history, along with comparable productions from other cultures, students will gain an understanding not only of different conceptions and representations of monsters, ghosts, and other supernatural creatures in Japan, but also of the role of the "monstrous" in the cultural imagination more generally. The course draws on various media and genres of representation, ranging from written works, both literary and scholarly, to the visual arts, material culture, drama, and cinema. Readings average 100-150 pages per week. Several film and video screenings are scheduled in addition to the regular class meetings. Seating is limited, with final admission based on a written essay and other information to be submitted to the instructor before the beginning of the semester.

Corequisites: Some preference is given to EALAC and History majors, as well as to those who have done previous coursework on Japan.

Curriculum

Newly-launched in 2009, the Athena Center for Leadership Studies is an innovative program designed to explore the question of leadership from the distinctive platform of a liberal arts college. Using an innovative, interdisciplinary approach that combines rigorous academic and experiential study, the courses help women prepare to assume positions of leadership at the highest levels of achievement. Students have an opportunity to explore how women lead and how gender affects leadership styles and strategies.

Barnard students of any major may pursue the Athena Leadership Scholars Program. Participation in the Athena program does not constitute a major. Rather, completion of the program is typically done in conjunction with the College’s general educational and major requirements. Students who complete the program receive recognition on their transcripts indicating their standing as an Athena Leadership Scholar.

While all of the courses and co-curricular activities sponsored by the Athena Center are open to all Barnard and Columbia students, only Barnard students can become Athena Scholars. To do so they must complete all major components of the program: specialized academic courses, a mentoring opportunity, the development of a social action project and participation in hands-on workshops that develop leadership skills.

Typically, students will file their intention to become an Athena Scholar in the spring of their sophomore year. Students must complete two required courses: Women and Leadership (ACLS BC3450) and the Senior Leadership Seminar (ACLS BC3998) and three additional electives selected from Athena’s multi-disciplinary course offerings. The electives must be from 2 or the 3 types of courses offered.

All Athena Scholars also must complete a leadership internship either during the school year or in the summer and develop an independent social action project that demonstrates leadership in an off-campus setting. They must also take at least three Athena Leadership Lab workshops designed to teach practical elements of leadership.

A select group of students will have the opportunity to participate in the Athena Summer Fellowship Program, offered in the summer of their junior year, where they will be placed with mentors who are dedicated to helping students develop leadership skills, live together on campus and meet regularly with leaders from across the city.
REQUIREMENTS

Five courses (six semester units) are required to complete the program: Women and Leadership (ACLS BC3450), three elective courses selected from 2 of the 3 categories of the ACLS cross-listed courses; and the Senior Leadership Seminar (ACLS BC3998). Students are also required to complete an approved internship, a social action project demonstrating leadership skills in an off-campus setting and three workshops offered by the Athena Leadership Lab. Courses taken to satisfy the requirements of the Athena Center may also be counted as credit toward one's major.

Students interested in becoming an Athena Scholar should file a Declaration of Intent with the director of the program.

ACLS BC 3450x and y Women and Leadership

Examination of the social conditions and linguistic practices that have shaped the gendering of power in the United States and around the world over the past century. Through examples drawn from education, labor, civil rights, business, and politics, we will explore leadership in varying racial, class, and regional contexts.

Biology explores the structure, function and evolution of diverse living systems. It addresses some of the most important issues of our time—genetic engineering, stem cell research, obesity, cancer and effects of global warming. Majoring in Biology prepares students to pursue a career in research, teaching or the allied health sciences. It is also relevant to careers as diverse as environmental policy, law, public health, creative writing and textbook development.

The mission of the Biological Sciences major is to provide students with a broad education in biology. To this end, students are offered a range of lecture courses that span the molecular, physiological and ecological levels of organization. Students also complete laboratory courses that help them learn how to design and test hypotheses, use modern scientific equipment, and interpret data. Finally, students learn scientific communication skills by critiquing research articles, writing laboratory reports and research papers, and participating in oral presentations and debates. The department encourages students to become involved in a research project under the guidance of a faculty member at Barnard or elsewhere in New York City.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students graduating with a major in Biological Sciences should be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Demonstrate an appreciation of the many different life forms on planet Earth.
2. Have the ability to discuss a biological phenomenon from many different levels of organization (e.g., discuss HIV from the perspective of structure through host immune response to evolutionary and epidemiological issues).
3. Describe the basic features of Mendelian genetics and the central dogma of molecular biology; understand the basic physiological processes of at least one organism; demonstrate and understanding of population level processes.
4. Make an oral presentation on either an original research project or a published primary research paper.
5. Generate a testable hypothesis and develop and execute a controlled experimental design.
6. Write an original scientific paper and/or a review article.

Research

Students are strongly encouraged to engage in research at Barnard. Guided Research and Seminar (BIOL BC 3591-3592) and Senior Thesis Research (BIOL BC 3593-3594) may be used to fulfill major requirements as described below while BIOL BC 3597 Guided Research may be used for degree credit.

In addition to conducting research during the academic year, students are encouraged to pursue summer research internships. Barnard faculty engage many students in paid research projects during the summer. The departmental office also has information about summer internships outside Barnard. In addition, the department awards funds on a competitive basis to support summer research not otherwise funded by internships.

Introductory Course Selection

The Biology Department offers several options at the introductory level; students should select courses on the basis of their preparation and background in biology. Students who took advanced biology in high school should enroll in the 1500-level sequence (BIOL BC 1500, BC 1502, and the lab courses BC 1501 and BC 1503). This sequence can be started either in the fall (BIOL BC 1500 and BC 1501) or the spring (BIOL BC 1502 and BC 1503) and fulfills the laboratory science portion of the General Education Requirement as well as the premedical requirement in biology.

Students with little or no experience in biology should enroll in the 1000-level sequence, which provides an appropriate introduction to important concepts in the field. Both BC 1001 and BC 1002 include a laboratory component and together fulfill the laboratory science portion of the General Education Requirement. They must be taken in order. BC 1001 must always precede BC 1002, even if they are taken years apart. Students who wish to move on to the 1500-level courses, which are prerequisites for advanced classes in biology, are eligible to do so upon completion of BC 1001.
AP Course Credit
Students who have passed the Advanced Placement examination in biology with a grade of 4 or 5 are exempt from BIOL BC 1001 and receive 3 points of credit. Students with an AP biology score of 4 or 5 may complete the Barnard lab science requirement with (a) BIOL BC 1002, (b) BIOL BC 1500 and BC 1501, or (c) BIOL BC 1502 and BC 1503. However, students must complete the entire 1500-level sequence (BC 1500, 1501, 1502, and 1503) for the Biology major or minor and for the biology premedical requirements. AP credit is granted regardless of which introductory courses are completed at Barnard.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Introductory Biology: Students must complete both semesters of the 1500-level introductory sequence, including the lecture and laboratory components (BIOL BC 1500, 1501, 1502, 1503).

Genetics: Students must complete BIOL BC2100 Molecular and Mendelian Genetics. It is recommended, but not required, that this be completed immediately following the completion of the Spring semester Introductory courses (BIOL BC1502 and 1503).

Five Upper Level Lecture Courses: Students must complete at least five additional lecture courses at the 2000 and 3000 levels. One of the five lecture courses must be selected from each of the following two groups:

1. Physiological Level of Organization
   BIOL BC 3360 Animal Physiology OR BIOL BC 3340 Plant Physiology OR
   BIOL BC 3320 Microbiology

2. Ecological and Evolutionary Level of Organization
   BIOL BC 2278 Evolution OR
   BIOL BC 2272 Ecology OR
   BIOL BC 3280 Applied Ecology and Evolution OR BIOL BC 2240 Plant Evolution and Diversity OR BIOL BC 3388 Tropical Ecology

Three additional lecture courses may be selected from any Barnard Biology offering (including all of the courses listed above) or, with the department's chair's permission, from offerings in the Columbia Department of Biological Sciences and the Department of Ecology, Evolution, and Environmental Biology.

Three Upper Level Laboratory Courses: Students must complete at least three Biology laboratories beyond the 1500 level. Laboratories may require a lecture course as co-requisite or prerequisite; such requirements are specified in the Barnard catalogue.

Research Option: A student may count two consecutive semesters of Guided Research and Seminar (BIOL BC3591x followed by BIOL BC3592y) as a laboratory course for the major. Biology laboratories at Barnard require a lab fee. Appropriate Biology courses at Columbia University may be used to satisfy the lab requirement, as may those at other institutions, with permission of the department chair.

Senior Seminar or Individual Research: Students must enroll in one section of the Senior Seminar (BC 3590) or complete two semesters of Senior Thesis Research (BIOL BC3593x followed by BIOL BC3594y). A student cannot take both Senior Thesis Research and Guided Research and Seminar at the same time.

Chemistry Requirement: One year of Chemistry with laboratory, including one term of Organic Chemistry, is required.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor in biology must include one year of introductory biology (BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503), three additional lecture courses at the 2100 level or higher, and two additional laboratory courses. One of the lab courses may be replaced by two semesters of Guided Research and Seminar (BIOL BC3591x followed by BIOL BC3592y).

Biochemistry, chemistry, environmental science, physics, and psychology majors need to take only one advanced laboratory instead of two, but the lab may not be a guided research course.

Introductory Courses

BIOL BC 1001x Revolutionary Concepts in Biology
Exploration of the major discoveries and ideas that have revolutionized the way we view organisms and understand life. The basic concepts of cell biology, anatomy and physiology, genetics, evolution, and ecology will be traced from seminal discoveries to the modern era. The laboratory will develop these concepts and analyze biological diversity through a combined experimental and observational approach.

BIOL BC 1002y Contemporary Issues in Biology
Exploration of modern biology as it pertains to contemporary issues. One module examines the microbiological agents that cause disease and addresses how such agents can be used as weapons for terrorism or war. Another module considers human physiology, focusing on major health issues. The third module explores growth and resource use, emphasizing the uniqueness of human populations. Lab exercises introduce biological techniques for studying these topics.

BIOL BC 1502y Introduction to Cell and Molecular Biology

Detailed introduction to cellular and subcellular biology: cell structures and functions, energy metabolism, biogenesis of cell components, biology of inheritance, molecular genetics, regulation of gene expression, and genes in development.

- M. Wallenfang

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1001 or equivalent preparation. Course suitable for fulfillment of premedical requirements. Together with BC1500 this course is part of a yearlong introductory sequence. BC1500 and BC1502 do not need to be taken in sequence. 3 points
BIOL BC 1503y Introductory Lab in Cell and Molecular Biology

A laboratory-based introduction to cell and molecular biology. Both classic and modern approaches are used to investigate principles of heredity as well as the structure and function of cells and their molecular components. Lab exercises introduce practical techniques and data analysis.

- J. Goldstein

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1001 or equivalent preparation. BIOL BC1502 as corequisite (preferred) or prerequisite. Enrollment limited to 16 students per section. Course suitable for fulfillment of premedical requirements. Recitation Section Required.

2 points

BIOL BC 1599x or y Biology Journal Club

Students in this seminar course will be introduced to the scientific literature by reading a mix of classic papers and papers that describe significant new developments in the field. Seminar periods will be devoted to oral reports, discussion of assigned reading, and student responses.

Prerequisites: Open to first year students who scored a 4 or 5 on the AP Biology exam or a 5 or higher on the IB exam, and are enrolled in the 1500-level Biology series. Limited to 16 students.

1 point

Intermediate Level Courses

BIOL BC 2100x and y Molecular and Mendelian Genetics

Mendelian and molecular genetics of both eukaryotes and prokaryotes, with an emphasis on human genetics. Topics include segregation, recombination and linkage maps, cytogenetics, gene structure and function, mutation, molecular aspects of gene expression and regulation, genetic components of cancer, and genome studies.

- J. Mansfield

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or the equivalent.

BIOL BC 2250x or y Invertebrate Zoology
The biology and biodiversity of invertebrate animals: the internal organs of invertebrates; the development, behavior, and evolution of these animals, stressing their adaptations to marine, freshwater, and terrestrial habits; and a systematic survey of invertebrates will structure the course.

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or equivalent. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

BIOL BC 2262y Vertebrate Biology
Systematic survey of the Phylum Chordata: fossil history, biogeography, systematics, natural history, body architecture, energetics, locomotion, feeding, and behavior.

- P. Hertz

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or equivalent. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

BIOL BC 2272y Ecology
Introduction to evolutionary ecology; life history strategies, population growth, competition, predator-prey interactions, population regulation, species diversity, community organization, biogeography. Lectures integrate theory with empirical studies.

- TBA

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or the equivalent. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

BIOL BC 2278y Evolution
Study of the process of evolution with an emphasis on the mechanisms underlying evolutionary change. Topics include the origins of life, rates of evolutionary change, phylogenetics, molecular evolution, adaptive significance of traits, sexual selection, and human evolution.

- B. Morton

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or equivalent.

BIOL BC 2280y Animal Behavior
Introduction to animal behavior; physiological bases of behavior (sensory systems, neurophysiology of behavior, appetitive and reproductive behavior), ethological approaches to behavior (communication, territoriality, dominance, and aggression) and evolution of behavior (behavior genetics, behavioral ecology, sociobiology).

- A. Horowitz

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or equivalent.

3 points
BIOL BC 2286y Statistics and Research Design

Introduction to basic principles of statistics and experimental design. Topics include common statistical procedure, analysis of data, sampling populations, power analysis, and the design of experiments. This course differs from traditional statistics courses by explicitly integrating statistics into research process.

- J. Glendinning

3 points

BIOL BC 2801x Laboratory in Genetics

Exercises in genetics at both the Mendelian and molecular levels. Basic principles of genetic analysis will be studied using Drosophila and bacteria. A project in molecular genetics, involving such techniques as PCR, gel electrophoresis, and cloning, will be undertaken using plant genes.

- B. Morton

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1502, BC1503; and pre or corequisite, BC2100 or BC3310. Enrollment limited to 16 students per section.
3 points

BIOL BC 2841x Laboratory in Plant Evolution and Diversity

Studies of the structure, ecology, and evolution of plants. Laboratory exercises include field problems, laboratory experiments, plant collections and identification, and examination of the morphology of plant groups.

- H. Callahan

Prerequisites: BIOL BC2240 or corequisite. Enrollment limited to 16.
3 points

BIOL BC 3388x Tropical Ecology

Focusing on tropical rain forests, the course explores the contemporary and historical ecological processes that generate and maintain species diversity in the tropics. Topics include biogeography and the latitudinal gradient of diversity, tropical climate and soils, origins of tropical ecosystems, causes and consequences of tropical deforestation, as well as unique ecological patterns and processes in specific tropical regions (Neotropics, African, and Asian tropics).

- K. McGuire

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or the equivalent.
3 points
Upper Level Courses

Suitable for Juniors and Seniors.

BIOL BC 3303y Laboratory in Molecular Biology

Introduction to the use of molecular techniques to answer questions about subcellular biological phenomena. Techniques include isolation of genomic and plasmid DNAs, restriction enzyme analysis, DNA and protein electrophoresis, bacterial transformation, and plasmid subcloning.

- J. Mansfield

Prerequisites: BIOL BC2100 OR BC3310 (which can be taken as corequisites) or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited to 16.

3 points

BIOL BC 3305y Project Laboratory in Molecular Biology

A project laboratory in molecular biology of Drosophila. Experiments will include isolation of phage, plasmid, and genomic DNA: screening of DNA libraries; restriction mapping, Southern analysis, and characterization of RNA transcripts. Project will characterize a particular unknown Drosophila sequence and RNA derived in vivo from that DNA.

Prerequisites: BIOL BC2100 or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited to 12. Not offered in 2010-2011.

5 points

BIOL BC 3308x Genomics and Bioinformatics

Advanced topics in genetics focusing on genome-level features and methods of sequence analysis. Topics will include genome composition and structure, microarray analysis, RNA interference, and medical genomics; readings will involve case studies from the primary literature. The material will include practical applications using available computer databases.

- B. Morton

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 and Molecular and Mendelian Genetics (BIOL BC2100). Not offered 2008-2009

3 points

BIOL BC 3310x Cell Biology

Study of structures and functions of eukaryotic cells. Cell membranes and the endomembrane system, proteins (with emphasis on enzymes and antibodies), organelle biogenesis, intracellular trafficking, cytoskeleton and motility, cell cycle control, and signaling. Methods of study and both landmark and contemporary experiments are examined.

- TBA

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501 BC1502, BC1503, or equivalent, BC2100 (which can be taken as a corequisite) and one term of organic chemistry.

3 points
BIOL BC 3311x Laboratory in Cell Biology

Introduction to cell biological techniques used to investigate structural, molecular, and physiological aspects of eukaryotic cells and their organization into tissues. Techniques include light and electron microscopy, cell culture, isolation of cellular organelles, protein electrophoresis and Western Blot analysis.

- R. Garcia

Prerequisites: BIOL BC2100 OR BC3310 (which can be taken as corequisites) or permission of instructor. Enrollment limited to 16.

BIOL BC 3341y Laboratory in Plant Physiology

Introduction to techniques used to investigate aspects of physiology, including photosynthesis, water relations, mineral nutrition, germination, flowering, and hormone function. Methods include infrared carbon dioxide analysis, spectrophotometry, chromatography, and bioassay. Students conduct independent projects in the last month of term.

- K. Shepard

Prerequisites: BIOL BC340 (or corequisite). Enrollment limited to 16. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

BIOL BC 3342x Plant Development

Processes of growth, differentiation, and organization in plants; major morphogenetic events in the transition from zygote to flowering plant; hormonal and environmental effects and mechanisms of action.

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503, or equivalent and one term of organic chemistry. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

BIOL BC 3343x Laboratory in Plant Development

An experimental approach to patterns, processes, and control mechanisms of plant development. Meristems and cell differentiation; embryogenesis and organogenesis; responses to hormones and environmental variables. Work with whole plant, organ, and cell cultures.

Prerequisites: BIOL BC342 (or corequisite). Enrollment limited to 16. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

BIOL BC 3352x Development

Introduction to animal and plant development emphasizing the molecular and cellular mechanisms that control developmental processes. Topics include: fertilization; cleavage; establishment of body plans; morphogenesis and organogenesis; and control of gene expression in development.

- J. Mansfield, K. Shepard

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503, and BC2100 or equivalent.

BIOL BC 3361x Laboratory in Animal Physiology

Provides a hands-on introduction to the different physiological systems in vertebrates and invertebrates. Emphasizes the operation of a variety of physiological monitoring devices and the collection and analysis of physiological data.

- J. Glendinning

Prerequisites: BIOL BC3360 (or corequisite). Enrollment limited to 16.

3 points
BIOL BC 3362y Molecular and Cellular Neuroscience

Structure and function of neural membranes; ionic basis of membrane potential and action potential; synaptic transmission and neurochemistry; sensory transduction and processing; reflexes and spinal cord physiology; muscle structure and function; neuronal circuitry; nervous system development.

- E. Bauer

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or the equivalent and one term of organic chemistry.

BIOL BC 3363y Laboratory in Molecular and Cell Neuroscience

Introduction to techniques commonly used in current neurobiological research, including intracellular and extracellular recording of action potentials, neuroanatomical methods, and computer simulation of the action potential.

- E. Bauer

Prerequisites: BIOL BC3362 (or corequisite). Enrollment limited to 16.

3 points

BIOL BC 3364y Advanced Neurobiology

Analysis of molecular aspects of neuronal function, emphasizing recent discoveries. Topics include molecular mechanisms of synaptic transmission, synaptic plasticity and synaptic formation, and relationship between structure and function for ion-channels, neurotransmitter receptors, and neurotoxins.

Prerequisites: One of the following: BIOL BC3362 Neurobiology, BIOL BC3360 Animal Physiology, PSYC BC1119 Behavioral Neuroscience, or the equivalent. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

BIOL BC 3380y Applied Ecology and Evolution

Ecological and evolutionary models of populations (exponential and density-dependent growth; species interactions; genetic differentiation resulting from mating, random drift, and selection) applied to problems resulting from human-induced environmental change (endangered species; use of pesticides and antibiotics; escaping transgenic organisms; global climate change; emerging pathogens; other invaders; etc.)

- H. Callahan

Prerequisites: BIOL BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503 or equivalent.

BIOL BC 3590x and y The Nobel Prize (Senior Seminar)

Required of all majors who do not select Senior Thesis (BIOL BC3593 / BC3594) to fulfill the senior requirement, these seminars allow students to explore the primary literature in the Biological Sciences in greater depth than can be achieved in a lecture course. Attention will be focused on both theoretical and empirical work. Seminar periods are devoted to oral reports and discussion of assigned readings and student reports. Students will write one extensive literature review of a topic related to the central theme of the seminar section. Topics vary per semester and include: 1. Plant Development 2. Animal Development and Evolution 3. The Nobel Prize 4. Molecular Evolution 5. Microbiology and Global Change 6. Genomics.

- M. Wallenfang

Prerequisites: BC1500, BC1501, BC1502, BC1503, and BC2100.

BIOL BC 3591x-BC3592y Guided Research and Seminar

An independent research project in Biology under the guidance of a faculty member and suiting the needs of the individual student. Projects conducted outside of the Barnard Biology Department must have a member of the Department acting as a sponsor. Attendance at a weekly seminar is required. By the end of the year, students write a scientific paper and orally present their results to the Barnard Biology Department. Completion of both BIOL BC3591 and BIOL BC3592 fulfills one upper-level laboratory requirement in the major. Must be taken in sequence, beginning in the fall.

- K. Shepard

Prerequisites: Permission of a faculty sponsor and the department. Cannot be taken concurrently with BIOL BC3593 or BIOL BC3594.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
The Centennial Scholars Program offers students of outstanding achievement and ability an opportunity to engage in challenging independent projects tailored to their individual interests. Supplementing the regular Barnard curriculum, the Program enables Centennial Scholars to pursue individual objectives in specialized areas with the assistance of mentors, chosen in consultation with the Centennial Scholars Program Directors.

Admission to the Centennial Scholars Program is based on evidence of intellectual creativity and advanced academic preparation. While roughly half of the students in the Centennial Scholars Program are selected at the time of their admission to the College, the Program is also accessible to first-year students who distinguish themselves during their first year at the College. The application process, initiated by the First-Year Dean's Office following Spring Break, involves: i) a mini project proposal; ii) a graded essay; and iii) a recommendation letter written on the student's behalf by a Barnard College/Columbia University professor. These items are due in the Dean's Office by April 15. Students advancing beyond the first stage of this selection process are invited for: iv) a short interview during the Spring Term pre-exam Reading Period. Results are then announced during the first week of May. Each Centennial Scholars class year is limited to fifteen students total.

The Centennial Scholars Program confers a maximum of 18.5 points of credit toward the degree. In the spring of the student's sophomore year, she enrolls in CTSC BC 1899-Working with Ideas, 4.5pts, an interdisciplinary course designed to lay the foundation for the core of the program, which is an extended apprenticeship with her mentor(s). Her Centennial Scholars Project may extend over 2-3 semesters (typically, but not necessarily, starting Spring Term, Junior Year), and may include a summer to accommodate travel or other particular needs. During semesters that she is actively engaged with a mentor, the Centennial Scholar enrolls in successive versions of the Apprenticeship course, CTSC BC 3501, 4.0pts.

The Program culminates in a Centennial Scholars Symposium devoted to the public presentation of the Centennial Scholars Project in the term of completion. All Centennial Scholars/Seniors enroll in CTSC BC 3597/8-Presentation Seminar, 1.0pt, both fall & spring semesters. Public presentations are usually given anytime from mid-March through late April, though off-sequence students often schedule their Centennial Scholars Symposium in December. Dinner lectures, outings to museums, concerts, artists' studios, research laboratories & similar activities are additional features of the Centennial Scholars Program.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
The department aims to provide Barnard College students with a working knowledge of chemistry—the study of matter and its transformations, particularly at the molecular scale—within a vibrant community of students, faculty, and staff. Students gain familiarity with the core areas of the field; inorganic, physical, organic, analytical, and biological chemistry; while developing broadly applicable skills in problem solving and critical thinking. Through extensive laboratory work, students apply chemical concepts and theories to the tangible world, and there are ample opportunities for independent research with faculty members. The department strives to prepare majors and non-majors alike to meet post-graduation goals, including graduate study in chemistry, employment in chemistry or related technical fields, science teaching, and professional school (particularly in the health-related professions). The department is an important contributor to Barnard’s effort to produce scientifically literate graduates and to be a source of distinguished women scientists.

Student Learning Objectives for Majors in Chemistry and Biochemistry

Students who graduate from Barnard College with a major in chemistry or biochemistry will be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Demonstrate a thorough grounding in the core areas of chemistry: inorganic, physical, organic, biological, and analytical;
2. Work effectively and safely in the chemistry laboratory, designing and conducting experiments, analyzing experimental results, and drawing conclusions from that data;
3. Access, search, and interpret the chemical literature to obtain and critically evaluate scientific information;
4. Clearly communicate scientific ideas and results both in writing and orally;
5. Conduct themselves professionally and ethically as members of the scientific community;
6. Pursue careers that require a high degree of technical expertise, including those in chemistry, science teaching, and the health professions.

Chemistry is the study of the nature of substances and their transformations. In a three-year sequence of core courses, a chemistry or biochemistry major gains familiarity with the basic areas of the field: inorganic, organic, physical, analytical, and biological chemistry. In addition, she acquires sufficient skill in laboratory work that she is prepared for research.

The laboratories of the department are modern and well-equipped for both coursework and independent projects. Students may undertake research projects under the guidance of members of the department during the academic year or the summer. Opportunities are also available for research with Columbia faculty as well as staff members of the many medical schools and research institutions in New York City.

AP credit: Students with scores of 4 or 5 on the Chemistry Advanced Placement Test receive credit for Fundamentals of Chemistry, BC 1002 (3 points). They may enroll in BC 2001x. No AP credit is given for lab.

Pre-medical program: Non-majors wishing to fulfill the minimum two-year chemistry requirements for medical school should take General Chemistry I, CHEM BC 2001x; Organic Chemistry with laboratory, CHEM BC 3328y and 3230y; Organic Chemistry II, CHEM BC 3231x; and Intermediate General Chemistry, CHEM BC 3232y. The laboratory courses CHEM BC 3333x (Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry) and CHEM BC 3338y (Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques) are recommended.

Introductory course selection: Based on their preparation and background in chemistry, most students begin their study with CHEM BC 2001x (General Chemistry), an integrated lecture and laboratory course. For a limited number of students with a weaker background in chemistry and mathematical problem-solving skills who want to complete further courses in chemistry, the department offers the preparatory lecture course CHEM BC 1002y (Fundamentals of Chemistry). Consult the department regarding this choice.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Two majors are offered by the department: chemistry and biochemistry.

A student interested in chemistry or biochemistry should consult any member of the department during her first year. In the first year she should take Chemistry BC 2001, BC 3328, and BC 3230 and start or continue the study of calculus. It is then possible for her to fulfill the basic requirements for the major in three years and to take advanced courses in the senior year. After completing the undergraduate curriculum, students are encouraged to undertake research projects and to take graduate courses at Columbia.

Qualified seniors are invited to participate in the senior honors program in which they carry out a year-long research project leading to a thesis.

Research experience is strongly recommended. Interested students should consult with individual faculty members about the research problems currently being investigated.

Chemistry

Courses required for the chemistry major are:

- CHEM BC 2001 General Chemistry I
- CHEM BC 3328, 3230 Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory
- CHEM BC 3231 Organic Chemistry II
- CHEM BC 3335 Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory
- CHEM BC 3340 Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory
- CHEM BC 3252 Thermodynamics and Kinetics
- CHEM BC 3253 Quantum Chemistry
- CHEM BC 3271 Inorganic Chemistry
- CHEM BC 3365, 3368 Integrated Chemistry Laboratory
- MATHEMATICS Calculus I and II in any sequence (I and III also accepted)*
- PHYS BC 2001, 2002 Calculus-based Physics with Laboratory

Elective: one of

- CHEM BC 3254 Advanced Physical Chemistry
- or CHEM BC 3282 Biological Chemistry
- or CHEM BC 3280 Advanced Organic Chemistry
- or CHEM G 4103 Advanced Inorganic Chemistry

Senior requirement: Senior Honors Thesis (CHEM BC 3901x-3902y, by invitation of the department) or Guided Research at Barnard (CHEM BC 3597 or CHEM BC 3599) or elsewhere (CHEM BC 3598) or Senior Colloquium (CHEM BC 3590y, or...
CHEM C3920x,y).

Recommended: Calculus III.

*For students entering Barnard in Fall 2010 and later:
Two semesters after entering college, including Calculus I and II in any sequence (I and III are also accepted). Students having advanced placement credit for one or two semesters of calculus will fulfill this requirement with additional mathematics, statistics, or computer science courses.

A list of major requirements, several possible course sequences, and information about the senior requirement can be obtained from any member of the department.

Biochemistry

Courses required for the biochemistry major are:

- CHEM BC 2001
  General Chemistry I

- CHEM BC 3328, 3230
  Organic Chemistry I with Laboratory

- CHEM BC 3231
  Organic Chemistry II

- CHEM BC 3333
  Modern Techniques of Organic Chemistry Laboratory

- CHEM BC 3338
  Quantitative and Instrumental Techniques Laboratory

- CHEM BC 3252
  Thermodynamics and Kinetics

- CHEM BC 3253
  Quantum Chemistry

MATHEMATICS

Calculus I and II in any sequence (I and III also accepted)

- PHYS BC 2001, 2002
  Calculus-based Physics with Laboratory

- BIOL BC 1500, 1502
  General Biology with at least one semester of Laboratory (BIOL BC 1501 or 1503)

- CHEM BC 3282
  Biological Chemistry

- BIOL BC 2100
  Molecular and Mendelian Genetics

- CHEM BC 3355
  Biochemistry Laboratory Techniques (5 credits)

or CHEM BC 3357
  Biochemistry Laboratory Techniques (3 credits)

and BIOL BC 3303
  Laboratory in Molecular Biology

An elective course from a list of approved Biology and Chemistry courses.

Senior requirement:

Senior Honors Thesis (CHEM BC 3901x-3902y, by invitation of the department) or Guided Research at Barnard (CHEM BC 3597 or CHEM BC 3599) or elsewhere (CHEM BC 3598) or Senior Colloquium (CHEM BC 3590y or CHEM C3920x,y).

*For students entering Barnard in Fall 2010 and later:
Two semesters after entering college, including Calculus I and II in any sequence (I and III are also accepted). Students having advanced placement credit for one or two semesters of calculus will fulfill this requirement with additional mathematics, statistics, or computer science courses. Z

A list of major requirements, including possible elective courses, and information about the senior requirement may be obtained from any member of the department.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Courses required for the Chemistry minor are: CHEM BC 2001, BC 3328, BC 3230, BC 3231, BC 3333, BC 3338, and one of BC 3232, BC 3252, BC 3271, or BC 3282. There is no minor in Biochemistry.

Courses of Instruction

CHEM BC 1002y Fundamentals of Chemistry
Introduction to the fundamental concepts of chemistry from an electronic and molecular perspective as well as the macroscopic behavior of matter.

- J. Alexander

Prerequisites: High school algebra and geometry. Designed as an introduction to more advanced work for students with little background in chemistry or weak problem-solving skills. Students who receive a D in Chemistry 2001x may subsequently take CHEM BC1002 without forfeiting credit for 2001x. Does not count toward laboratory science general education requirement. Enrollment limited to 30. Lecture: TuTh 9:10-10:25. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

CHEM BC 2001x General Chemistry I
Atoms; elements and compounds; gases; solutions; equilibrium; acid-base, precipitation, and oxidation-reduction reactions; thermochemistry. Laboratory experience with both qualitative and quantitative techniques.

Prerequisites: Algebra (Math SAT I score of 600 or permission of the instructor for first-year students). Corequisites: Lecture and laboratory must be taken together unless permission of the instructor is given. Laboratory fee: $28. Lecture: TuTh 9:10-10:25; Lab lecture and laboratory one afternoon: MTWRF: 1:10-5:00. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

5 points
CHEM BC 2002y General Chemistry II

Kinetics and mechanisms of chemical reactions; nuclear chemistry and radioactivity; atomic and molecular structure; selected topics in environmental chemistry, organic chemistry, and biochemistry.

- M. Buzzeo
Prerequisites: CHEM BC2001 or permission of the instructor. Students who have completed CHEM BC3230 or its equivalent may not subsequently receive credit toward the degree for CHEM BC2002. Laboratory fee: $28. Lecture: TuTh 9:10-10:25; Lab lecture and laboratory: M 1:10-5:00.
5 points

CHEM BC 2102y General Chemistry II Laboratory

Laboratory portion of CHEM BC2002.
- M. Buzzeo, S. Charnick
Prerequisites: General Chemistry I with laboratory. Corequisites: General Chemistry II lectures or equivalent and permission of instructor. Laboratory fee: $28. Lab lecture and laboratory: M 1:10-5:00.
2 points

CHEM BC 3230y Organic Chemistry I

Atomic and molecular structure; stereochemistry of organic molecules; introduction to organic reactions and reaction mechanisms.

- C. Rojas
Prerequisites: CHEM BC2001 or equivalent with a grade of C or better, or CHEM BC2001 and CHEM BC2002 or equivalent. Credit will not be given for any course below the 3000 level after completing CHEM BC3230 or its equivalent. Lecture: TuTh: 9:10-10:25; Problem section: F 12:00-12:50.
3.5 points
CHEM BC 3231x Organic Chemistry II

Extension of concepts from Organic Chemistry I to conjugated systems; chemistry of the carbonyl group; NMR and IR spectroscopy; bioorganic chemistry.

Prerequisites: CHEM BC3230. Lecture: MWF 10:00-10:50; Problem section: Th 12:00-12:50.

3.5 points

CHEM BC 3232y Intermediate General Chemistry

Selected aspects of general chemistry, primarily for pre-health professions and biological science students who have taken Organic Chemistry. Thermodynamics, equilibrium, kinetics, complex ions and coordination compounds, and radiochemistry, with applications to analytical chemistry and biochemistry.

- A. Williams

Prerequisites: Organic Chemistry I. Optional parallel laboratory work: CHEM BC3338. CHEM C1404 is not an acceptable equivalent for CHEM BC3232. Lecture: MWF 10:00-10:50.

3 points

CHEM BC 3252y Thermodynamics and Kinetics

Introduction to the laws of thermodynamics; application primarily to ideal systems. Free energy and equilibrium. Kinetics: rate laws and mechanisms, experimental techniques.

- M. Buzzeo

Prerequisites: CHEM BC3231, Physics I (Mechanics), and Calculus II or III. Lecture: MWF 10:00-10:50. Problem section: F 12:00-12:50.

3.5 points

CHEM BC 3253x Quantum Chemistry

Prerequisites: Physics and Calculus II or III or permission of instructor. Lecture: MWF 11:00-11:50. Problem section: M 12:00-12:50.

3.5 points
CHEM BC 3254y Advanced Physical Chemistry

Topics in physical chemistry selected from the following: thermodynamics of real systems, activities; electrochemistry; transport properties; kinetic theory of gases; elementary statistical thermodynamics; radiochemistry; solids and crystallography.

3.5 points

CHEM BC 3271x Inorganic Chemistry

Structure, bonding and spectroscopy in inorganic compounds: applications of group theory to chemistry; ligand field theory; vibrational and electronic spectroscopy of transition metal complexes; selected topics from coordination chemistry, organometallics, bioinorganic chemistry, solid state and materials chemistry, mineralogy, and biogeochemistry.

Prerequisites: CHEM BC3231 or Permission of Instructor. Lecture: TuTh 9:10-10:25. Problem section: W 12:00-12:50.

GREEK AND ROMAN LANGUAGE, LITERATURE, AND CULTURE; ANCIENT STUDIES; MODERN GREEK

Department of Classics and Ancient Studies (see below for Modern Greek)

The department of Classics and Ancient Studies aims to introduce students to a knowledge of the languages and an understanding of the literature and culture of ancient Greece and Rome in a broader Mediterranean context, as well as to develop an appreciation of how Greco-Roman antiquity has been used and abused by later eras. The study of the languages enables access to a wide range of challenging and influential ancient texts, artifacts, and ideas and also makes the grammar, syntax, and vocabulary of English and other modern languages more comprehensible. The study of these texts, in turn, develops analytical and critical thinking about both the past and the present, the ability to assess many different kinds of fragmentary evidence, as well as skills in writing, close reading and oral presentation, cultural awareness, and literary sensibility. Close cooperation between Barnard and Columbia enables ancient studies students to plan and implement an integrated, cohesive interdisciplinary study of the ancient world, including language, literature, mythology, history, religion, philosophy, law, political theory, comparative literature, medieval studies, gender studies, art history and material culture. The texts and monuments of the Greco-Roman world served as the basis of Western education until the twentieth-century and retain a core position in modern humanities and social thought that is currently expanding beyond the West. Exploring, analyzing, and assessing this legacy is the central goal of the program.

Majors

The department offers two majors. The majors in Classics (Greek, Latin, or Classics) center on work in the original languages, whereas the major in Ancient Studies has an interdisciplinary focus. All members of the department are available for major advising and students ideally choose an advisor who can help them develop their required senior essays.

The Major in Greek, Latin or Classics

Classics majors develop a knowledge of Greek and Latin as a gateway to the study of the literature, history, and culture of Greece and Rome. Students can start Greek and Latin at Barnard or build on skills acquired in high school. Second year courses introduce students to original texts in Greek or Latin by authors such as Homer, Plato, Herodotus, or the Greek orators or Vergil, Ovid, Horace, Cicero, Caesar, Livy or Sallust. A range of advanced courses in Greek or Latin focus on prose or poetic texts drawn from ancient epic, lyric poetry, philosophy, drama, history, rhetoric or the novel and introduce critical approaches and literary and historical scholarship. Students are encouraged to take more courses in ancient history and classical literature and civilization than the two required for the major. Students planning to go on to graduate work in Classics and related fields are advised to undertake at least three years in both languages as well as to begin acquiring the ability to read scholarship in French, German, or Italian. Study abroad for one semester in either Greece or Rome is common and encouraged.

Student Learning Objectives in Classics

Students successfully completing a major in Classics should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Translate a range of Greek or Latin texts at a moderately advanced level and demonstrate an understanding of the grammar and syntax of ancient languages.
2. Read, analyze, and write about ancient texts persuasively and locate texts in their historical and cultural contexts.
3. Achieve familiarity with the methodologies and critical approaches and research tools deployed in classical scholarship that will be demonstrated in the successful completion of a senior research project.
4. Demonstrate familiarity with the work of a variety of ancient writers, literary styles, genres, and periods and their later influences.

The Major in Ancient Studies

All students in the department are encouraged to take courses in history and classical civilization that require no knowledge of the languages. Students in the more fully interdisciplinary Ancient Studies major combine study of at least one ancient language with a range of courses in various departments focusing on language, literature, mythology, history, religion, philosophy, political theory, law, film, comparative literature, medieval studies, gender studies, art history and material culture. Each student develops a concentration in one geographical area or period, but is encouraged to focus on a set of related issues and questions. Ancient Studies students will encounter many disciplinary approaches and investigate Greek and Roman and related ancient cultures in Egypt and the Near East and their influences on later Western (and to the degree possible, non-Western) culture. From this perspective the major can complement work in other liberal arts majors. Study abroad for one semester in either Greece, Rome, Egypt, or the Near East is common and encouraged.

Student Learning Objectives in Ancient Studies

Students successfully completing a major in Classics should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Read, analyze, and write about ancient texts persuasively and locate texts in their historical and cultural contexts.
2. Achieve familiarity with the methodologies and critical approaches and research tools deployed in classical scholarship and in related disciplines studied by each individual student that is demonstrated in the successful completion of a senior research project.
3. Achieve familiarity with the work of a variety of ancient writers on a range of interdisciplinary topics.
4. Engage in detail with the methods needed to analyze the range of fragmentary evidence, both written and material, required in an interdisciplinary study of the ancient Mediterranean world.
5. Demonstrate familiarity with one geographical area or period in the Greek, Latin or related ancient Mediterranean worlds.
6. Assess differences among and relations between ancient cultures and analyze the use and abuse of evidence about the ancient world by later cultures.

The Greek or Latin play

The Classics Department is the beneficiary of the Matthew Alan Kramer Fund, whose principal purpose is to support the production of plays in Ancient Greek or Latin. Students of the department have produced Antigone, Medea, Alcestis, Persians, Eumenides, Cyclops, Electra, Clouds, Trojan Women, Rudens, Helen, Trachiniae, Bacchae, Hippolytus, Heracles, Birds, and Persa, which have provided an exciting and different learning experience for the participants.

Classics in New York

Every effort is made to introduce students to considerable resources for the study and influence of the Classics in New York City, including plays, films, and museum and gallery visits.

Careers undertaken by Classics and Ancient Studies Majors

Our majors graduate well prepared for graduate careers in Classics and related academic fields such as history, philosophy, archaeology, art history or comparative literature. They also enter successful careers in secondary school teaching, museum work and arts administration, as well as law, medicine and biological sciences, business, politics, public service in both the government and non-profit sectors, journalism and creative writing, publishing, library science, and the arts (especially theater, film and dance).

Study Abroad

The following three programs are pre-approved, but students may discuss other options with their advisors.

ICCS in Rome

Barnard College participates in the program of the Intercollegiate Center for Classical Studies in Rome. Majors in Classics or Ancient Studies are eligible to apply for admission to the program of the Rome Center for one semester, preferably in the junior year. Courses taken at the Rome Center may be used in the major and, in some cases, may be used to satisfy distribution requirements. The program provides undergraduate students with an opportunity to study ancient history and archaeology in Rome, Greek and Latin literature, and ancient and renaissance art. Students planning to apply to the ICCS should plan to take Roman history before applying and preference is given to those with two or more years of Latin and Greek. Applications for the spring term are due in mid-October and for the fall term in mid-March. Because of Sicily’s ancient connections to Greece, the program focuses more on the Hellenic culture of Magna Graeca and Sicily’s place as a cultural crossroads in the ancient Mediterranean. ICCS Rome Website.

ICCS in Sicily

The focus of ICCS Sicily, as in the original program in Rome, will be on classical languages as well as on local manifestations of history and civilization in the ancient Mediterranean world. Based at the University of Catania, in a city with a rich ancient, medieval and Baroque history, this program offers extensive local academic resources and close proximity to both the mainland and other towns on the island. ICCS Sicily Website.
CYA: College Year in Athens

The College Year in Athens (CYA) program offers either one semester or a full year of courses in ancient and modern Greek languages, history, art, and archaeology, as well as advanced Latin and courses in postclassical and modern Greek culture, politics, and history. Almost 200 colleges participate in the CYA. Applications for the spring term must be received by mid-October and by mid-May for the fall term. College Year in Athens Website.

Amheida: Excavation in Egypt’s Dakhleh Oasis

The department also maintains a relationship with NYU’s project at Amheida in Egypt, which combines archaeological fieldwork with academic studies. The program runs from early January through mid-March and students will receive a full semester’s worth of credit for their participation. The academic curriculum focuses on the archaeology, history, and environment of ancient Egypt, combined with hands-on training in archaeological methods. Students are also required to take a basic course in Arabic.

Summer study.

Students interested in summer programs in archaeology should consult the website of the American Institute for Archaeology (AIA) under fieldwork.

The CUNY Greek and Latin Workshops in midtown Manhattan offer special intensive summer language programs in Greek and Latin. Other institutions including Columbia offer summer language courses. The American Numismatics Society in Manhattan offers courses in the study of ancient coins.

Barnard College is a Supporting Institution of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens and the American Academy in Rome, and certain privileges of those schools are open without fee to graduates of the College.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJORS IN CLASSICS AND ANCIENT STUDIES

Fulfilling the Foreign Language requirement

Students may fulfill the foreign language requirement in Greek by completing Greek V1201 and V1202, or in Latin by completing Latin V1201 and V1202, or by completing one course in Greek or Latin at the 3000 level or above. In rare instances, the language requirement may be fulfilled by passing an exemption examination with a sufficiently high grade. This examination tests the student's knowledge of grammar and her ability to translate written Greek or Latin.

Major in Classics

Greek
The major in Greek is fulfilled by taking Greek V 3996x Major Seminar, one term of Greek V3996 (senior thesis); either Greek W 4139, Elements of Greek Prose Style or one term of Greek W 4105-6, History of Greek Literature,* as well as five other courses above the elementary level in Ancient Greek.

Latin
The major in Latin is fulfilled by taking Latin V 3996x Major Seminar, one term of Latin V3996 (senior thesis), either Latin W 4139 Elements of Latin Prose Style or one term of Latin W 4105-6, History of Latin Literature,* as well as five other courses in Latin.

*Students planning to go on to graduate study in classics are strongly urged to take both semesters of Greek or Latin W 4105, W 4106. Majors in Latin, especially those who have begun their study in high school, are strongly advised to take at least two semesters of Greek.

In addition, one semester of ancient history appropriate to the major and two relevant courses in ancient art, classical civilization or literature, ancient philosophy, or religion are required for either the Greek or the Latin major. Students who do not opt to take a term of either Greek or Latin W4105-6 are required to take CLLT W4300, The Classical Tradition, as one of their three required courses in translation.

A student may elect to major in both Greek and Latin (Classics) by completing the major requirements in one language and five courses above the elementary level in the other.

Major in Ancient Studies

Each student, after consultation with the Barnard Chair, chooses an advisor whose field is closely related to her own and with whom she will plan her senior essay.

A total of 36 points are required in the major, including at least four courses in one geographical area or period; courses in at least three departments to ensure proper interdisciplinary training and expertise; the elementary sequence of a relevant ancient language; the appropriate history course; ANCS V 3995 The Major Seminar, and at least the first semester of Ancient Studies ANCS V 3998, V 3999 (senior essay). Ancient language courses may be used toward the major requirement; however, where a second ancient language is offered, one second-year sequence must be offered for a student to gain credit for the first year. As noted above, an annual list of the courses meeting the requirements for Ancient Studies in any particular year appears separately on the website.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINORS IN CLASSICS, MODERN GREEK, AND ANCIENT STUDIES

Minor in Classics
The minor in Greek or Latin requires five courses above the elementary level.

Minor in Modern Greek
The Minor in Modern Greek requires five courses above the elementary level. Modern Greek courses are taught entirely at Columbia.

Minor in Ancient Studies
The minor in Ancient Studies requires five courses that focus on either the Greek or the Roman Worlds. At least one course in either Greek or Roman history is required. The student then selects four other courses in translation that concentrate either on Greece or on Rome or combine a study of the two cultures. Interested students should consult the department and the Classics and Ancient Studies website on selecting a complimentary and coherent set of courses for this minor.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

To enter the program a student must normally have completed the required sequence necessary for entry into the advance literature courses of her major program. This varies from language to language; students should consult with the chair of the relevant department and with the program director. Each student, after consultation with the director, chooses an adviser from one of her two fields of concentration in a language. This adviser guides her in developing a sequence of courses appropriate for her goals in the major. All students are required to take Comparative Literature BC 3001 and 14 courses normally to be chosen from the following categories:

One course in appropriate classical texts chosen from The Classical Tradition (CLLT W 4300), Introduction to the Hebrew Bible (RELI V 3501), and Introduction to the New Testament (RELI V 3120), for those specializing in languages and literature in the Western tradition; Asian Humanities (AHUM V 3399 or V 3400), for those specializing in languages and literatures in Eastern traditions; or other courses with approval of the chair.

One course in literary theory. Students will normally be expected to satisfy this requirement by taking The Colloquium in Literary Theory CPLS V 3950. If study abroad plans make this impossible, other courses may be substituted such as ENGL BC 3194, FREN BC 3063 (x or y), CLEN W 4902.

Three courses from each of two literary traditions studied in the original languages. Foreign literature courses must be beyond the introductory level.

Five elective courses in comparative literature or literary theory (studied in the original or in translation) related to the student’s individual program. These courses must be comparative or theoretical in nature; consultation with the director advised.

One course, CPLS BC 3997 or an appropriate senior seminar or a tutorial, for the writing of a senior thesis.

The Senior Thesis must deal with material from at least the two central literatures in the student’s major. In addition this thesis must treat, entirely or in part, the one period, genre, theme, or theoretical issue that has shaped the student’s program. The choice of topic for this senior essay and the appointment of a second adviser are determined in consultation with the area adviser and the director of the program. A detailed memorandum on planning the major is available from the advisor and on the Comparative Literature website.

Students who wish to major in Comparative Literature, but who for valid reasons wish to pursue a program at variance with the above model, should consult the director.

CPLS BC 3120x or y Poetics of the Mouth

Explores the imagery of eating, drinking, spitting, choking, sucking (and other unmentionables) in relation to insults and excessive behaviors. Readings from Greek poetry (e.g., Homer, Aristophones) to modern theory (e.g., Kristeva, Powers of Horror, Bakhtin, Rabelais and His World), including modern novels and films.

Not offered in 2010-2011.
3 points

CPLS BC 3122y Big Brother: Poetics of Power

Explores the representation of institutional power and personal authority in world literature and international cinema through the lens of contemporary theory and with an emphasis on the fantasies of "Big Brother". Readings and screenings include Orwell, Nabokov, Kafka, Lucan, Winterson as well as Coppola, Hitchcock, Chaplin and Godard.

- P. Usher

3 points

CPLS BC 3123x or y Poetics and Politics of Friendship: Modern Literature and the Experience of Bonding

With an emphasis on equality and social justice, this course examines and compares significant 19th c./20th c. literary approaches to friendship as intermediary between individualism and communal life. Discussion of culturally formed concepts and attitudes in modern or postcolonial setting. Reading of Dickens, Hesse, Woolf, Ocampo, Puig, Fugard, Emerson, Derrida, Rawls.

Prerequisites: CPLS BC3001 Intro to Comp. Lit.; completion of intermediate language courses. Not offered in 2010-2011.
3 points

CLEN BC 3125y (Section 1) Opera and Literature/Opera as Literature

What is an operatic text and how do we "read" it? An examination of the changing relationship between text and music in opera; operatic transformations of literature; opera's representation in literature; critical readings of opera (psychoanalytic, feminist, queer). Works by Monteverdi, Gluck, Mozart, Donizetti, Verdi, Wagner, Strauss, Debussy, and Britten.

- J. Crapotta

3 points

CPLS BC 3140y Europe Imagined: Images of the New Europe in 20th-Century Literature

Compares the diverse images of Europe in 20th-century literature, with an emphasis on the forces of integration and division that shape cultural identity in the areas of travel writings and transculturation/cosmopolitanism; mnemonic narratives and constructions of the past; borderland stories and the cultural politics of translation. Readings include M. Kundera, S. Rushdie, H. Boell, C. Toibin and others.

- E. Grimm

3 points

CPLS BC 3141y Fascism and Resistance: An Examination of Power in Italy and Germany

Explores the cultural forces that defined the rise and fall of Italian fascism as well as the rise of Nazism, with a particular focus on the relationship between Germany and Italy and the similarities and differences between the two dictatorships. Readings addressing the question of literary representation and its political message will include official and newspaper stories, trials, and propaganda films in addition to personal narratives such as diaries and autobiographies.
The Spanish Civil War (1936-39), which culminated with the beginning of Francisco Franco's long dictatorship, foreshadowed the WWII European conflict. It generated unprecedented foreign involvement, as well texts and images by artists from both within and outside Spain - from film (documentary and fictional), through painting (Picasso), to narrative and nonfiction.

- W. Rios-Font

3 points

CPLS BC 3148y TRAGEDY TRANSLATED: FROM GREECE TO AFRICA

Explores how the great tragedies of Aeschylus, Sophocles, and Euripides have been translated and appropriated by playwrights and thinkers in various countries and periods. Follows how stories about characters like Antigone and Oedipus have become relevant to the culture and politics of places as distant as Italy, France, South Africa, Nigeria, and elsewhere. Readings include Greek tragedies, as well as plays and texts by Seneca, Ovid, Garnier, Corneille, Brecht, Anouilh, Soyinka, Fugard, Butler, Zizek, and others.

- P. Usher

General Education Requirement: Literature (LIT).

3 points

CPLS BC 3149x Urchins, Adulteresses, and Orphans: The Specter of the Other in Nineteenth-Century Bourgeois Literature

Exploration of the 19th-century bourgeois fascination--as evidenced in narrative texts produced and consumed by that class--with marginalized figures from the fringes of acceptable society. Texts consist mainly of novel/short stories featuring protagonists from the poor urban masses, transgressive females such as the adulteress and the prostitute, and the lineage-less figure so popular in the 19th-century narrative, the orphan outcast.

- TBD

3 points

CPLS BC 3155y Epic Travel: Text to Road Movie

Examines how heroes in literature and film come into being through the journeys they make. Readings by Virgil, Chrétien de Troyes, Luiz Vaz de Camões, Aphra Behn, Voltaire and others; films by Jean-Luc Godard, Francis Ford Coppola, Ridley Scott and others.

- P. Usher

Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

CPLS BC 3156y Figures in a Landscape: Literary Topographies from Homer to H.D.

Exploration of how and why landscape imagery is deployed in the western literary tradition as a map of cultural values, aesthetic ambitions, ideological critique, and /or artistic authority. Readings will include Aristophanes' Frogs, Plato's Phaedrus, Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream, Proust's Under the Shadow of Young Girls in Flower, and H.D.'s poems. These will be supplemented with images from different periods of landscape painting. Secondary readings will take advantage of the recent explosion of interest in landscape and topographical imagery in many fields, including cultural geography and landscape architecture.

- N. Worman

3 points

CPLS BC 3162x The Novella from Cervantes to Kafka

The novella, older than the novel, painstakingly crafted, links the worlds of ideas and fiction. The readings present the novella as a genre, tracing its progress from the 17th century to the 20th. Each text read in the comparative milieu, grants the reader access to the intellectual concerns of an era.
- A. MacAdam
Not offered in 2010-2011.
3 points

CLEN V 3190x (Section 01) Aesthetics of the Grotesque

Examination of the grotesque in different cultural contexts from late Renaissance to the postmodern period comparing modes of transgression and excess in Western literature and film. Particular emphasis on exaggeration in style and on fantastic representations of the body, from the ornate and corpulent to the laconic and anorexic. Readings in Rabelais, Swift, Richardson, Poe, Gogol, Kafka, Meyrink, Pirandello, Greenaway, and M. Python.

- E. Grimm
Not offered in 2010-2011.
3 points

CPLS BC 3200x The Visual and Verbal Arts

Analysis and discussion of the relation of literature to painting, photography, and film. Emphasis on artistic and literary concepts concerning the visual dimension of narrative and poetic texts from Homer to Burroughs. Explores the role of description, illustration, and montage in realist and modern literature.

- E. Grimm
3 points

CPLS V 3235x or y Imagining the Self

Examines the literary construction of the self by comparing autobiographical and fictional texts from antiquity to the present. Focus on how the narrating self is masked, illusory, ventriloquized, or otherwise problematic. Works include Homer, Virgil, Rousseau, Wordsworth, Dostoevsky, Nabokov, and theoretical texts.
3 points

CPLS V 3280y Contemplation and Experimental Knowledge in Modern Literature and Art

Origin of the concept of contemplation in Plato and Neoplatonists; contemplation as a form of spiritual practice in the 16th century; the place of contemplation in the industrialized world, with emphasis on its role in literature and the visual arts. Selections from Plato, Plotinus, Augustine, Ignatius, Weber, Proust, Weil, Heidegger; Beckett, Arendt; films by Eisenstein, Marker, and others; and various art works.
Not offered in 2010-2011.
3 points

CPLS BC 3510y Advanced Workshop in Translation

Readings in the history of translation and in contemporary translation theory (Even-Zohar, Toury, Venuti, Derrida, Spivak); extensive practice translating into English leading to a substantial final project; discussion with invited translators and translations theorists.

Entry into the class is by permission of the instructor. Please submit an application to Peter Connor by 30 November 2010 with the following information: name, year of graduation, major; a list of courses you have taken in the language from which you intend to translate; any other pertinent information relating to your language ability; an explanation of why you wish to take this workshop. CPLS BC 3999x and y Independent Research Independent research, primarily for the senior essay, directed by a chosen faculty adviser and with the chair's permission. The senior seminar for majors writing senior essays will be taught in the Spring term. Not offered in 2010-2011.
4 points

CLEN W 4011x Dostoevsky, Tolstoy, and the English Novel
Close reading of works by Dostoevsky, (Netochka Nezvanova; The Idiot, "A Gentle Creature") and Tolstoy (Childhood, Boyhood, Youth; "Family Happiness," Anna Karenina; "The Kreutzer Sonata") in conjunction with related English novels (Bronte's Jane Eyre, Eliot's Middlemarch, Woolf's Mrs. Dalloway).
No knowledge of Russian is required; all works read in English.
- L. Knapp
Not offered in 2010-2011.
3 points

CLEN W 4012x or y Russian, French and American Novels of Adultery
Adultery is a driving concern of the works read. Authors include Pushkin, Turgenev, Tolstoy, Chekhov; Lafayette, Flaubert; Hawthorne, Chopin. As we study the nineteenth-century novels that define the novel of adultery as a literary category, as well as some precursors and later offshoots, we articulate a morphology of the novel of adultery. We also focus on the narrative techniques used to represent the consciousness of the protagonists, in an effort to determine how the subject matter and the poetics of the novel of adultery interact.
No knowledge of Russian is required; all works read in English.
- L. Knapp
Not offered in 2010-2011.
3 points

CPLS W 4080y Magic and Modernity
Examines literary treatments of magic produced at five pivotal moments in (mostly) European intellectual history, and inquires: How does the depiction of magic relate to the idea of modernity and its attendant anxieties? How do texts produce magical effects? How does magic function as a way of understanding the world? Readings include works by Ovid, Apuleius, Marie de France, Chaucer, Shakespeare, Goethe, Pushkin, Bulgakov and others, as well as folklore and theoretical texts.

Computer Science is the study of how to communicate and transform information. Developments in the field over the past few decades have profoundly changed society, and this effect is likely to accelerate in the future. Information processing techniques are being applied increasingly in the fields of medicine, business, law, science, and finance. The goal of the theoretical side of computer science is to characterize the inherent complexity of computations, including the issue of what problems are solvable. The goal of the applied side of the field is to design cost-effective computer systems that are easy and pleasant to use, including the possibility of “intelligent” systems that mimic some aspects of human behavior.

The bachelor of arts degree in Computer Science encourages students to obtain broad exposure to the arts, humanities, and social sciences while at the same time providing them with the appropriate Computer Science background necessary for graduate study or a professional career. Computers have an impact on nearly all areas of human endeavor, so the department also offers several courses intended for students who do not plan a Computer Science major or concentration.

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Computer Science major offers maximum flexibility by providing students with a range of options for specializing their degree program. Students study a common core of fundamental topics, supplemented by a track that identifies specific areas for deeper study.

The foundations track prepares students for advanced work in fundamental theoretical and mathematical aspects of computing, including analysis of algorithms, scientific computing, and security. The systems track prepares students for immediate employment in the computer industry as well as advanced study in such areas as software engineering, operating systems, computer-aided digital design, computer architecture, programming languages, and user interfaces. The artificial intelligence track provides specialization for the student interested in natural language processing and systems capable of exhibiting “human-like” intelligence. The applications track is for students interested in the implementation of interactive multimedia content for the Internet and wireless applications. The vision of graphics track exposes students to computer vision, graphics, human-computer interaction and robotics. A combination track is available to students who wish to pursue an interdisciplinary course of study combining computer science and another field in arts, humanities, mathematics, natural sciences, or social sciences. A student planning a combination track should be aware that one additional course is required to complete this option.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

All majors should confer with the program consultant each term in planning their programs of study. Students considering a major in computer science are encouraged to talk to a program consultant during their first or second year. The requirements that follow are special to this department and must be read in conjunction with the general requirements for the bachelor's degree. As a rule, no more than 12 transfer credits will be accepted toward the degree.

Program of study:

- Introduction to Computer Science COMS W 1004 in the first year
- COMS W1007, W3203, W 3157 and W 3137 in the second year
- Most of the remaining required core courses in the second and third years

This allows the most freedom possible in selecting a specialized track and completing the requirements during the junior and senior years. It is particularly important to complete the core requirements and to seek advice from a track consultant to better plan your course of study as early as possible. W1004, W1007, and W3137 are taught in Java. Advanced Programming (W 3157) is taught in C/C++, so students will become multilingual. Programming classes make use of an extensive array of computing facilities available on campus.

Required courses: 41 or 44 points.

Computer Science Core (23 points): COMS W 1004, W 1007, W 3203, W 3137, W 3157, W 3261, W 3827. Students who have taken AP Computer Science in high school and received a grade of 4 or 5 can waive W 1004.

Mathematics (3 points): one semester of calculus.

Track requirement (15 or 18 points): each student must also fulfill the track requirement by selecting one of six upper-level tracks. Each track, except the combined track, requires five courses of which 2 or 3 are required, 1 is an elective breadth course, and 1 or 2 are elective track courses. The combined track requires a cohesive selection of six advanced courses: three 3000- or 4000-level Computer Science courses and three 3000- or 4000-level courses from another field. The elective breadth course in each track can be any 3-point COMS 3000-level or higher course that is not a Computer Science Core course or a technical elective in that track.

Systems track (12 points): for students interested in networking, programming languages, operating systems, and software systems. The required track courses are COMS W 4115, W 4118, W 4119. The elective track courses include any COMS W 41xx course, any W48xx course, W 4444, W 3902, W 3998, W 4901, W 4995, W 4996.

Applications track (12 points): for students interested in interactive multimedia applications for the Internet and wireless networks. The required track courses are COMS W 4115, W4170, W4701. The elective track courses include COMS W 3902, W 3998, W 41xx, W 47xx, W4901, W 4995, W 4996.

Vision and graphics track (12 points): for students interested in computer vision, graphics, and advanced forms of human-computer interaction. The required track courses are COMS W 4160 and W 4731. The elective track courses include COMS W 3902, W 3998, W 4162, W 4165, W4167, W 4170, W 4172, W 4701, W 4733, W 4735, W 4771, W 4901, W 4995, W 4996.

Combination track (15 points): for students who wish to combine Computer Science with another discipline. A coherent selection of six courses is required: three 3000- or 4000-level Computer Science courses and three 3000- or 4000-level courses from another discipline. This track should be selected by the end of the first semester of the junior year and the courses should be planned with your advisor. The other discipline can be any one in the arts, humanities, mathematics, natural sciences, or social sciences.
REQUIREMENTS FOR A MINOR IN COMPUTER SCIENCE

Required computer science courses - 23 points: COMS W 1004, W 1007, W 3203, W 3137, W 3157, W 3261, and W 3827 or any 4000-level computer science course.

COMS W 1001x and y Introduction to information science

Basic Introduction to concepts and skills in Information Sciences: human-computer interfaces, representing information digitally, organizing and searching information on the World Wide Web, principles of algorithmic problem solving, introduction to database concepts, introduction to programming in Python.
3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 1004x and y Introduction to computer science and programming in Java

A general introduction to computer science for science and engineering students interested in majoring in computer science or engineering. Covers fundamental concepts of computer science, algorithmic problem-solving capabilities, and introductory Java programming skills. Assumes no prior programming background. Columbia University students may receive credit for only one of the following three courses: 1003, 1004, and 1005.

- A. Aho

General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 105x and y Introduction to computer science and programming in MATLAB

A general introduction to computer science concepts, algorithmic problem-solving capabilities, and programming skills in MATLAB. Assumes no prior programming background. Columbia University students may receive credit for only one of the following three courses: 1003, 1004, and 1005.

- Paul Blaer

Prerequisites: None Corequisites: None General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 1007x and y Object-oriented programming and design in Java

The second course for majors in computer science. A rigorous treatment of object-oriented concepts using Java as an example language. Development of sound programming and design skills, problem solving and modeling of real world problems from science, engineering, and economics using the object-oriented paradigm.

- Adam Cannon

Prerequisites: COMS W1004 or AP Computer Science with a grade of 4 or 5. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.
ECBM E 3060x Introduction to genomic information science and technology

Introduction to the information system paradigm of molecular biology. Representation, organization, structure, function and manipulation of the biomolecular sequences of nucleic acids and proteins. The role of enzymes and gene regulatory elements in natural biological functions as well as in biotechnology and genetic engineering. Recombination and other macromolecular processes viewed as mathematical operations with simulation and visualization using simple computer programming. This course shares lectures with ECBM E4060, but the work requirements differ somewhat.

- D. Anastassiou

General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 3101x and y Programming languages

Introduction to a programming language. Each section is devoted to a specific language. Intended only for those who are already fluent in at least one programming language. Sections may meet for one hour per week for the whole term, for three hours per week for the first third of the term, or for two hours per week for the first six weeks. May be repeated for credit if different languages are involved.

Prerequisites: Fluency in at least one programming language. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

COMS W 3261x and y Computer science theory

- J. Grunschlag

Prerequisites: COMS W3203 Corequisites: COMS W3137 General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.
CSEE W 3827x and y Fundamentals of computer systems

Fundamentals of computer organization and digital logic. Boolean algebra, Karnaugh maps, basic gates and components, flipflops and latches, counters and state machines, basics of combinational and sequential digital design. Assembly language, instruction sets, ALUs, single-cycle and multi-cycle processor design, introduction to pipelined processors, caches, and virtual memory.

Prerequisites: An introductory programming course. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 3902x and y Undergraduate thesis

An independent theoretical or experimental investigation by an undergraduate major of an appropriate problem in computer science carried out under the supervision of a faculty member. A formal written report is mandatory and an oral presentation may also be required. May be taken over more than one term, in which case the grade is deferred until all 6 points have been completed. Consult the department for section assignment.

Prerequisites: Agreement by a faculty member to serve as thesis adviser.

1-6 points.

COMS W 3995x or y Special topics in computer science

Consult the department for section assignment. Special topics arranged as the need and availability arise. Topics are usually offered on a one-time basis. Since the content of this course changes each time it is offered, it may be repeated for credit.

Prerequisites: the instructor's permission.

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 3998x and y Undergraduate projects in computer science

Independent project involving laboratory work, computer programming, analytical investigation, or engineering design. May be repeated for credit, but not for a total of more than 3 points of degree credit. Consult the department for section assignment.

Prerequisites: approval by a faculty member who agrees to supervise the work.

1-3 points.
ECBM E 4060x Introduction to genomic information

Introduction to the information system paradigm of molecular biology. Representation, organization, structure, function, and manipulation of the biomolecular sequences of nucleic acids and proteins. The role of enzymes and gene regulatory elements in natural biological functions as well as in biotechnology and genetic engineering. Recombination and other macromolecular processes viewed as mathematical operations with simulation and visualization using simple computer programming. This course shares lectures with ECBM E3060, but the work requirements differ somewhat. - D. Anastassiou

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4111x and y Introduction to databases

The fundamentals of database design and application development using databases: entity-relationship modeling, logical design of relational databases, relational data definition and manipulation languages, SQL, XML, query processing, physical database tuning, transaction processing, security. Programming projects are required.

- L. Gravano

Prerequisites: COMS W3137 or W3134, fluency in Java; or permission of the instructor. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4112y Database system implementation

The principles and practice of building large-scale database management systems. Storage methods and indexing, query processing and optimization, materialized views, transaction processing and recovery, object-relational databases, parallel and distributed databases, performance considerations. Programming projects are required.

- L. Gravano, K. Ross

Prerequisites: COMS W4111; fluency in Java or C++. CSEE W3827 is recommended.

3 points Lect: 2.5.

COMS W 4115x and y Programming languages and translators

Modern programming languages and compiler design. Imperative, object-oriented, declarative, functional, and scripting languages. Language syntax, control structures, data types, procedures and parameters, binding, scope, run-time organization, and exception handling. Implementation of language translation tools including compilers and interpreters. Lexical, syntactic and semantic analysis; code generation; introduction to code optimization. Teams implement a language and its compiler.
- S. Edwards, A. Aho

Prerequisites: COMS W3137 or equivalent, W3261, and CSEE W3827, or the instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4117x or y Compilers and interpreters

Continuation of COMS W4115, with broader and deeper investigation into the design and implementation of contemporary language translators, be they compilers or interpreters. Topics include: parsing, semantic analysis, code generation and optimization, run-time environments, and compiler-compilers. A programming project is required.

- A. Aho

Prerequisites: COMS W4115 or the instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4118x and y Operating systems I

Design and implementation of operating systems. Topics include process management, process synchronization and interprocess communication, memory management, virtual memory, interrupt handling, processor scheduling, device management, I/O, and file systems. Case study of the UNIX operating system. A programming project is required.

- J. Nieh

Prerequisites: CSEE W3827 and knowledge of C and programming tools as covered in W3157 or W3101, or the instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
3 points Lect: 3.

CSEE W 4119x and y Computer networks

Introduction to computer networks and the technical foundations of the Internet, including applications, protocols, local area networks, algorithms for routing and congestion control, security, elementary performance evaluation. Several written and programming assignments required.

- V Misra, Y. Yemini

Corequisites: SIEO E3658 or W3600 or equivalent
3 points Lect: 3.
CSEE W 4140x or y Networking laboratory

In this course, students will learn how to put "principles into practice," in a hands-on-networking lab course. The course will cover the technologies and protocols of the internet using equipment currently available to large internet service providers such as CISCO routers and end-systems. A set of laboratory experiments will provide hands-on experience with engineering wide-area networks and will familiarize students with the Internet Protocol (IP), Address Resolution Protocol (ARP), Internet Control Message Protocol (ICMP), User Datagram Protocol (UDP) and Transmission Control Protocol (TCP), the Domain Name System (DNS), routing protocols (RIP, OSPF, BGP), network management protocols (SNMP, and application-level protocols (FTP, TELNET, SMTP).

Prerequisites: CSEE 4119 or equivalent

4 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4156x Advanced software engineering

Software lifecycle from the viewpoint of designing and implementing N-tier applications (typically utilizing web browser, web server, application server, database). Major emphasis on quality assurance (code inspection, unit and integration testing, security and stress testing). Centers on a student-designed team project that leverages component services (e.g., transactions, resource pooling, publish/subscribe) for an interactive multi-user application such as a simple game.

- G. Kaiser

Prerequisites: Substantial software development experience in Java, C++ or C# beyond the level of COMS W3157. Corequisites: Recommended COMS W4111 General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4160y Computer graphics

Introduction to computer graphics. Topics include 3D viewing and projections, geometric modeling using spline curves, graphics systems such as OpenGL, lighting and shading, and global illumination. Significant implementation is required: the final project involves writing an interactive 3D video game in OpenGL.

- R. Ramamoorthi

Prerequisites: COMS W3137 or W3139, W4156 is recommended. Strong programming background and some mathematical familiarity including linear algebra is required. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.
COMS W 4162x or y Advanced computer graphics

A second course in computer graphics covering more advanced topics including image and signal processing, geometric modeling with meshes, advanced image synthesis including ray tracing and global illumination, and other topics as time permits. Emphasis will be placed both on implementation of systems and important mathematical and geometric concepts such as Fourier analysis, mesh algorithms and subdivision, and Monte Carlo sampling for rendering. Note: Course will be taught every two years.

- Ravi Ramamoorthi

Prerequisites: COMS W4160 or equivalent, or instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4167x or y Computer animation

Previous familiarity with C is recommended. Intensive introduction to computer animation, including: fundamental theory and algorithms for computer animation, keyframing, kinematic rigging, simulation, dynamics, free-form animation, behavioral/procedural animation, particle systems, post-production; small groups implement a significant animation project; advanced topics as time permits.

- E. Grinspun

Prerequisites: COMS W3137 and W4156 is recommended. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4170x User interface design

Introduction to the theory and practice of computer user interface design, emphasizing the software design of graphical user interfaces. Topics include basic interaction devices and techniques, human factors, interaction styles, dialogue design, and software infrastructure. Design and programming projects are required.

- S. Feiner

Prerequisites: COMS W3137. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4172y 3D user interfaces and augmented reality

- S. Feiner

Prerequisites: COMS W4160 or COMS W4170 or the instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.
COMS W 4180x or y Network security

Introduction to network security concepts and mechanisms. Foundations of network security and an in-depth review of commonly-used security mechanisms and techniques, security threats and network-based attacks, applications of cryptography, authentication, access control, intrusion detection and response, security protocols (IPsec, SSL, Kerberos), denial of service, viruses and worms, software vulnerabilities, web security, wireless security, and privacy.

- A. Keromytis

Prerequisites: COMS W3137 and W4119, or the instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4187x or y Security architecture and engineering

- Steven Bellovin

Prerequisites: COMS W4118; W4180 and/or W4119 recommended. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4203y Graph theory

General introduction to graph theory. Isomorphism testing, algebraic specification, symmetries, spanning trees, traversability, planarity, drawings on higher-order surfaces, colorings, extremal graphs, random graphs, graphical measurement, directed graphs, Burnside-Polya counting, voltage graph theory.

- J. Gross

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4205x Combinatorial theory

Sequences and recursions, calculus of finite differences and sums, elementary number theory, permutation group structures, binomial coefficients, Stirling numbers, harmonic numbers, generating functions.

- J. Gross

Prerequisites: COMS W3203 and a course in calculus. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

CSOR W 4231x Analysis of algorithms I
Introduction to the design and analysis of efficient algorithms. Topics include models of computation, efficient sorting and searching, algorithms for algebraic problems, graph algorithms, dynamic programming, probabilistic methods, approximation algorithms, and NP-completeness.

- M. Yannakakis

Prerequisites: COMS W3137 or W3139, and W3203. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4236y Introduction to computational complexity
Develops a quantitative theory of the computational difficulty of problems in terms of the resources (e.g., time, space) needed to solve them. Classification of problems into complexity classes, reductions and completeness. Power and limitations of different modes of computation such as nondeterminism, randomization, interaction and parallelism.

COMS W 4252x or y Introduction to computational learning theory
Possibilities and limitations of performing learning by computational agents. Topics include computational models of learning, polynomial time learnability, learning from examples and learning from queries to oracles. Computational and statistical limitations of learning. Applications to Boolean functions, geometric functions, automata.

- R. Servedio

Prerequisites: CSOR W4231 or COMS W4236 or (COMS W3203 and permission of instructor) or (COMS W3261 and permission of instructor). General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4261x or y Introduction to cryptography
An introduction to modern cryptography, focusing on the complexity-theoretic foundations of secure computation and... communication in adversarial environments; a rigorous approach, based on precise definitions and provably secure protocols. Topics include private and public key encryption schemes, digital signatures, authentication, pseudorandom generators and functions, one-way functions, trapdoor functions, number theory and computational hardness, identification and zero knowledge protocols.

- T. Malkin

Prerequisites: Comfort with basic discrete math and probability. Recommended: COMS W3261 or CSOR W4231. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

COMS W 4444x Programming and problem solving

Hands-on introduction to solving open-ended computational problems. Emphasis on creativity, cooperation, and collaboration. Projects spanning a variety of areas within computer science, typically requiring the development of computer programs. Generalization of solutions to broader problems, and specialization of complex problems to make them manageable. Team-oriented projects, student presentations, and in-class participation required.

- K. Ross

Prerequisites: COMS W3137 and CSEE W3827. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.
COMS W 4460y Principles of Innovation and Entrepreneurship

Team project centered course focused on principles of planning, creating, and growing a technology venture. Topics include indentifying and analyzing opportunities created by technology paradigm shifts, designing innovative products, protecting intellectual property, engineering innovative business models.

- Y. Yemini

Prerequisites: COMS W3134, W3137 or equivalent or permission of instructor.
3 points

COMS W 4560x Introduction to computer applications in health care and biomedicine

An overview of the field of biomedical informatics, combining perspectives from medicine, computer science and social science. Use of computers and information in health care and the biomedical sciences, covering specific applications and general methods, current issues, capabilities and limitations of biomedical informatics. Biomedical Informatics studies the organization of medical information, the effective management of information using computer technology, and the impact of such technology on medical research, education, and patient care. The field explores techniques for assessing current information practices, determining the information needs of health care providers and patients, developing interventions using computer technology, and evaluating the impact of those interventions.

- M. Chiang

Prerequisites: Experience with computers and a passing familiarity with medicine and biology. Undergraduates in their senior or junior years may take this course only if they have adequate backgroud in mathematics and receive permission from the instructor General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4701x or y Artificial intelligence

Provides a broad understanding of the basic techniques for building intelligent computer systems. Topics include state-space problem representations, problem reduction and and-or graphs, game playing and heuristic search, predicate calculus, and resolution theorem proving, AI systems and languages for knowledge representation, machine learning and concept formation and other topics such as natural language processing may be included as time permits.

- K. McKeown, S. Stolfo

Prerequisites: COMS W3137. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4705x Natural language processing

Computational approaches to natural language generation and understanding. Recommended preparation: some previous or concurrent exposure to AI or Machine Learning. Topics include information extraction, summarization, machine translation, dialogue systems, and emotional speech. Particular attention is given to robust techniques that can handle understanding and generation for the large amounts of text on the Web or in other large corpora. Programming exercises in several of these areas.

- J. Hirschberg

Prerequisites: COMS W3133, or W3134, or W3137, or W3139, or the instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
3 points Lect: 3.
COMS W 4706y Spoken language processing

Computational approaches to speech generation and understanding. Topics include speech recognition and understanding, speech analysis for computational linguistics research, and speech synthesis. Speech applications including dialogue systems, data mining, summarization, and translation. Exercises involve data analysis and building a small text-to-speech system.

- J. Hirschberg

Prerequisites: Prerequisites: COMS W3133, or W3134, or W3137, or the instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA). Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4725x or y Knowledge representation and reasoning

General aspects of knowledge representation (KR). The two fundamental paradigms (semantic networks and frames) and illustrative systems. Topics include hybrid systems, time, action/plans, defaults, abduction, and case-based reasoning. Throughout the course particular attention will be paid to design tradeoffs between language expressiveness and reasoning complexity, and issues relating to the use of KR systems in larger applications.

Prerequisites: COMS W4701. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4731x or y Computer vision

Introductory course in computer vision. Topics include image formation and optics, image sensing, binary images, image processing and filtering, edge extraction and boundary detection, region growing and segmentation, pattern classification methods, brightness and reflectance, shape from shading and photometric stereo, texture, binocular stereo, optical flow and motion, 2-D and 3-D object representation, object recognition, vision systems and applications.

- S. Nayar

Prerequisites: The fundamentals of calculus, linear algebra, and C programming. Students without any of these prerequisites are advised to contact the instructor prior to taking the course. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4733x or y Computational aspects of robotics

Introduction to robotics from a computer science perspective. Topics include coordinate frames and kinematics, computer architectures for robotics, integration and use of sensors, world modeling systems, design and use of robotic programming languages, and applications of artificial intelligence for planning, assembly, and manipulation.

- P. Allen

Prerequisites: COMS W3137. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points Lect: 3.

COMS W 4735x or y Visual interfaces to computers

Visual input as data and for control of computer systems. Survey and analysis of architecture, algorithms, and underlying assumptions of commercial and research systems that recognize and interpret human gestures, analyze imagery such as fingerprint or iris patterns, generate natural language descriptions of medical or map imagery. Explores foundations in human psychophysics, cognitive science, and artificial intelligence.
Prerequisites: COMS W3137. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

COMS W 4737x or y Biometrics

In this course we will explore the latest advances in biometrics as well as the machine learning techniques behind them. Students will learn how these technologies work and how they are sometimes defeated. Grading will be based on homework assignments and a final project. There will be no midterm or final exam. This course shares lectures with COMS E6737. Students taking COMS E6737 are required to complete additional homework problems and undertake a more rigorous final project. Students will only be allowed to earn credit for COMS W4737 or COMS E6737 and not both.

CBMF W 4761x or y Computational genomics

Provides comprehensive introduction to computational techniques for analyzing genomic data including DNA, RNA and protein structures; microarrays; transcription and regulation; regulatory, metabolic and protein interaction networks. The course covers sequence analysis algorithms, dynamic programming, hidden Markov models, phylogenetic analysis, Bayesian network techniques, neural networks, clustering algorithms, support vector machines, Boolean models of regulatory networks, flux based analysis of metabolic networks and scale-free network models. The course provides self-contained introduction to relevant biological mechanisms and methods.

Prerequisites: Introductory probability and statistics and basic programming skills. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
The Barnard College Department of Dance, located in a world dance capital, offers an interdisciplinary program that integrates the study of dance within a liberal arts setting of intellectual and creative exploration. The major builds upon studio courses, the Department's productions at Miller Theater, Dance Theater Workshop and other venues, as well as a rich array of dance studies courses, allowing students' creative work to develop in dialogue with critical inquiry into the history, culture, theory and forms of western and non-western performance, typically enhanced by study in other disciplines. Students work with accomplished artists whose work enriches contemporary American dance; they also study with outstanding research scholars. Making, thinking about, and writing about art are an essential part of the liberal arts education. For this reason the Department of Dance offers technique courses for students of all levels of expertise, while opening its other courses to majors and non-majors alike, who may also audition for its productions. The Department partners with cultural institutions in New York City to connect students with the professional world.

The Department of Dance is fully accredited and in good standing with the National Association of Schools of Dance.

Student Learning Outcomes for the Major and Minor

Students graduating with a major in Dance should be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Apply critical thinking, reading, and writing skills to dance-related texts and choreography.
2. Develop the knowledge and research skills to explore the dance past in writing, orally, and in performance.
3. Present interpretations of dance-related texts both orally, in writing and in performance.
4. Apply library, archival, and internet research skills to dance scholarship and choreography.
5. Demonstrate improved efficiency and expressivity in dance technique.
6. Demonstrate growing technical understanding and fluency in dance technique.
7. Create original dances, dance/theater works or dance-based, mixed media works.
8. Collaborate with an artist in the creation of original dance works.
9. Participate in the creative process through the creation and interpretation of choreography.
10. Apply interdisciplinary research methods to dance scholarship and choreography.
11. Apply historical research methods to dance scholarship and choreography.
12. Demonstrate conceptual and methodological approaches for studying world dance forms through research and writing.
13. Demonstrate the ability to understand cultural and historical texts related to dance forms.
14. Apply anatomical knowledge to movement and movement concepts.
15. Evaluate the theoretical and artistic work of peers.
17. Understand and interpret the language and form of an artist's choreography.
19. Apply musical knowledge to movement and choreography.
20. Design choreographic movement and structures.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Majors must fulfill an eleven course requirement, including the Senior Seminar in Dance (DNCE BC3591) and either Senior Project: Research in Dance (DNCE BC3592) or Senior Project: Repertory for Dance (DNCE BC3593), in addition to taking eight 1-point courses in technique. To fulfill the distribution requirements, one course must be taken in each of the following four areas:

Movement Science
- DNCE BC 2501 Biomechanics for the Dancer: Theory and Practice
- DNCE BC 2561 Applied Anatomy for Human Movement
- DNCE BC 2562 Movement Analysis

Composition
- DNCE BC 2563 Dance Composition Form: Dance/Theater
- DNCE BC 2564 Dance Composition: Content
- DNCE BC 3565 Group Forms: Advanced Dance Composition

History
- DNCE BC 2565 World Dance History
- DNCE BC 3001 Western Theatrical Dance From the Renaissance to the 1960s

Writing
- DNCE BC 2570 Dance in New York City
- DNCE BC 3570 Latin American and Caribbean Dance: Identities in Motion
- DNCE BC 3574 Contemporary Choreographers and Their Works
- DNCE BC 3576 Dance Criticism
- DNCE BC 3577 Performing the Political
- DNCE BC 3981 Ted Shawn and American Modern Dance

Electives
The remaining five courses should be chosen in consultation with the major advisor either from the courses listed above or those listed below:

History/Criticism
- DNCE BC 2575 Choreography for the American Musical
- DNCE BC 2580 Tap as an American Art Form
- DNCE BC 3000 From the Page to the Dance Stage
- DNCE BC 3567 Dance in Asia: India
- DNCE BC 3575 George Balanchine and the Reinvention of Modern Ballet
- DNCE BC 3577 Performing the Political: Russian Ballet
- DNCE BC 3578 Traditions of African-American Dance
- DNCE BC 3980 Performing the Political (seminar)
- DNCE BC 3982 Diaghilev’s Ballets Russes and Its World

Studio/Performance
- DNCE BC 2555 Ensemble Repertory: Modern
- DNCE BC 2556 Ensemble Repertory: Ballet
Senior Work: All dance majors must do two semesters of senior work. The Senior Seminar (DNCE BC 3591), given in the fall semester, requires a 25-30 page written thesis and an oral presentation to the Department at the end of the semester. The second semester is usually a performance project for which the student registers in Senior Project: Repertory for Dance (DNCE BC 3593). Students may also choose to do a two-semester thesis, registering in Senior Project: Research for Dance (DNCE BC 3592). Students who are double majors may request permission to do a two-semester combined thesis.

Degree Requirements for a Minor in Dance
A minor in Dance must take six 3- or 4-point courses, normally three in history/criticism and three in performance/choreography. (Note: 1-point studio courses do NOT count toward the Dance minor.) Courses are to be selected on the basis of consultation with full-time members of the Department.

Overview of Major Requirements (11 total, plus 8 technique classes)
1 Movement Science
1 Composition
1 History
1 Writing
1 Senior Seminar
1 Senior Project (Research in Dance or Repertory for Dance)
5 Electives
8 Technique Classes

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR
Six courses constitute a minor in Dance. Normally, three history/criticism and three credit-bearing (three-point) performance/choreography courses are taken.

Dance Technique Courses

DNCE BC 2572 Techniques for Performance
This course explores specific techniques dancers utilize to cultivate performance: inherent qualities of the stage space, visual, physical, and emotional focus, movement dynamics and texture, and the use of imagery, sets and fabric. This course will also deepen one’s awareness of these elements from a choreographic and directorial perspective.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
The primary aim of the Barnard Economics Department is to provide undergraduate liberal arts students with a rigorous, broad, and critical program in theoretical and empirical economics. To achieve this aim, our curriculum provides a thorough grounding in neoclassical economic theory, modern statistical method, and their applications in the traditional fields of economic science; embeds that training in a broader conception of economic science and method with special emphasis on philosophical, historical, and institutional approaches that link economics with other social sciences and humanistic disciplines; compares and contrasts alternative methodological approaches and types of evidence as ways of analyzing economic phenomena, evaluating policy debates, and assessing the broader social and political consequences of economic doctrines.

Student Learning Outcomes for the Economics major, Economics and Political Economy tracks

Having successfully completed the major in Economics, the student will be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Show fluency in the basic concepts, models and tools of microeconomic and macroeconomic theory;
2. Think critically about economic phenomena and economic debates by using multiple kinds of texts, evidence and conceptual approaches;
3. Apply economic reasoning to understand the causal determinants of economic events, empirical regularities, and policy proposals;
4. Apply basic skills of empirical reasoning to economic problems;
5. Demonstrate knowledge of the history of economic thought, including important doctrines, their historical context, transformation over time, and influence on contemporary economic theory and ideas;
6. Demonstrate understanding of institutions, organizations and markets in their roles of coordinating economic activity;
7. Demonstrate knowledge of the historical origins of capitalism, modern economic growth and development, patterns of inequality, and globalization;
8. Articulate a well-defined research question and conduct independent research using economic reasoning and evidence;
9. Communicate economic ideas effectively in written or oral form.

Specific to the Economics Track

1. Understand and apply statistical techniques to make inferences about economic hypotheses.

Specific to the Political Economy Track

1. Use concepts or methods from at least one disciplinary approach other than economics to analyze an economic, political or other social problem.

Barnard will allow 3 points AP credit in Economics only if the following conditions are satisfied: an AP score of 4 or 5 in either Macro or Micro plus a passing score on the Economics Department's Placement Exam, or an International Baccalaureate (IB) score of 5 or higher, and a passing score on the Department's Placement Exam. The Placement Exam is offered during the program filing period at the beginning of each semester. Contact the department chair in advance to arrange to take it. Students may not receive credit for Econ BC 1003 or equivalent if they have AP or IB credit for any introductory economics course. For Statistics, Barnard will allow 3 points credit with a score of 5 on the Statistics AP exam. Economics track majors, however, will not be exempt from the statistics requirement ECON BC 2411 or the equivalent, even if they receive 3 points AP credit for Statistics.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

There are two tracks for the major in Economics equal in rigor, but different in scope and focus. The track in Economics emphasizes modern economic theory along with associated analytical and mathematical tools. The track in Political Economy emphasizes the roots of modern economics in the history of economic thought and the interconnections between social forces, political institutions, and economic power. Either track offers excellent preparation for graduate study in a variety of professional schools and professional careers in many areas, including business and public administration.

Prospective majors should discuss their programs with any member of the department no later than the second semester of their sophomore year. At the time of declaring the major, the student meets with the department chair and chooses a major adviser, who will advise her on the choice of program and courses. Students planning to major in Economics or Political Economy should complete both intermediate macro- and microeconomic theory by the beginning of their junior year.

Students who wish to complete a double or joint major that includes Economics should consult the chair of the department or the major adviser as early as possible. Students interested in pursuing a Ph.D. in economics should take more mathematics than required for the economics major or choose the Economics and Mathematics interdisciplinary major. Any interested student should seek guidance from the Economics and/or Mathematics faculty on which mathematics courses to take.

All majors should file the "Major Requirements Declaration" form, available from the department office by the end of their sophomore year, or as soon as possible thereafter.

Economics
The Economics track major requires eleven courses in economics, including:

- ECON BC 1007: Mathematical Methods for Economics* (or Calculus I and Calculus III)
- ECON BC 2411: Statistics for Economics (or Introduction to Statistics)
- ECON BC 3018: Econometrics
- ECON BC 3033: Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
- ECON BC 3035: Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
- ECON BC 3041: Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy;

plus three electives in economics, two of which must be upper-level (that is, they must have intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory as a prerequisite); and either ECON BC 3061-62 Senior Thesis, or ECON BC 3063 Senior Seminar and an additional upper-level elective in economics.

*Students will not receive credit for ECON BC 1007 Mathematical Methods for Economics if they have already taken ECON BC 3035 Intermediate Microeconomic Theory. Such students must instead complete the mathematics requirement by taking Math V 1201 (Calculus III).

Political Economy
The Political Economy track major requires twelve courses, including:

- ECON BC 1007: Mathematical Methods for Economics (or Calculus I)
- ECON BC 3033: Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
ECON BC 3035  Intermediate Microeconomic Theory

ECON BC 3041  Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy;

three electives in economics, two of which must be upper-level electives (that is, they must have intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory as a prerequisite); three interdisciplinary electives (see further conditions below), and either ECON BC 3061-62 Senior Thesis, or ECON BC 3063 Senior Seminar and an additional upper-level elective in economics.

Interdisciplinary electives: The three interdisciplinary electives may be taken from any Related Area of Study (listed below), or in an area approved by the major adviser. Two of the interdisciplinary electives must be “linked” to one of the economics electives taken to fulfill the major requirement, and at least one of the linked interdisciplinary electives must be at the 3000-level or higher. The remaining “unlinked” interdisciplinary elective requirement may be satisfied by taking any course in a Related Area of Study, or a statistics course, such as ECON BC2411 Statistics for Economics, STAT W1111, STAT W1201, or ECON BC3018 Econometrics.

Linking interdisciplinary electives to economics electives: If a course is “linked,” this means that it addresses subject matter that is related to the subject matter of the economics elective to which it is paired. There are many possible ways to link a course to an economics elective. Some suggestions are given below. Whether a course qualifies as a linked course must be approved by the student’s major adviser.

Related Areas of Study

The Political Economy track major requires twelve courses, including:

Suggestions for Linking Interdisciplinary Electives to Economics Electives

Here is a list of suggestions for Interdisciplinary Electives that link to Economics Elective Courses. It is NOT an exhaustive list. You should feel free to propose alternative courses that form similar links. All linked courses must be approved by the student’s major adviser.

Mathematics Training for the Major

The department expects all majors to have a working knowledge of arithmetic, high school algebra, and the fundamentals of analytic geometry.

Majors in the economics track may complete the mathematics requirement by taking ECON BC 1007 Mathematical Methods for Economics, or MATH V1101 Calculus I and MATH V1201 Calculus III. Students who have received advanced placement credit or have placed out of Calculus I may take either Math Methods or Calculus III to complete the requirement. (Students with 5 on the Calculus BC test may begin with Calculus III.)

Majors in the political economy track may complete the mathematics requirement by taking ECON BC 1007 Mathematical Methods for Economics or MATH V1101 Calculus I. Students who have received advanced placement college credit for calculus have satisfied the mathematics requirement for the political economy track.

Students interested in pursuing a Ph.D. in economics should take more mathematics than required for the economics major or choose the Economics and Mathematics interdisciplinary major. Any interested student should seek guidance from the Economics and/or Mathematics faculty on which mathematics courses to take.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in economics consists of five courses, including ECON BC1003 or equivalent, ECON BC 3033 or ECON BC 3035, and three electives, one of which must have an intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory course as a prerequisite.
Introductory Courses

The principles of economics and statistics; may be taken without previous study of economics or statistics.

ECON BC 1003x and y Introduction to Economic Reasoning

Covers basic elements of microeconomic and macroeconomic reasoning at an introductory level. Topics include Individual Constraints and Preferences, Production by Firms, Market Transactions, Competition, The Distribution of Income, Technological Progress and Growth, Unemployment and Inflation, the Role of Government in the Economy.

This one-semester introductory course replaces the traditional two-semester introductory courses previously offered, ECON BC1001 Introduction to Macroeconomics and ECON BC1002 Introduction to Microeconomics. Note: Students cannot get credit for ECON BC1003 if they have taken either ECON BC1001 or ECON BC1002 or the Columbia introductory course ECON W1105.

ECON BC 1007x and y Mathematical Methods for Economics

Covers basic mathematical methods required for intermediate theory courses and upper level electives in economics, with a strong emphasis on applications. Topics include simultaneous equations, functions, partial differentiation, optimization of functions of more than one variable, constrained optimization, and financial mathematics. This course satisfies the Calculus requirement for the Economics track of the Economics major. NOTE: students who have previously taken Intermediate Micro Theory (Econ BC3035 or the equivalent) are not allowed to take Math Methods for Economics.

ECON BC 2018y The Great Depression

Examines why the Great Depression emerged, how its effects were manifest, and what policies were enacted in response. Drawing on Harvard Business School cases we will explore how policymakers analyze economic situations and what tools they have to deal with them. We will also probe connections between the Great Depression and today’s “great recession,” and consider the lessons of each.

The Economics and Mathematics major provides the student with a grounding in economic theory comparable to that provided by the general economics major and exposes the student to rigorous and extensive training in mathematics. The program will be particularly useful for students planning to do graduate work in economics, which frequently demands greater mathematical training than that acquired through the minimum requirements of the basic economics degree. For a complete list of faculty on leave see: http://www.barnard.edu/provost/facleavelist.html

A major in Economics and Mathematics must complete the following 14 courses or their equivalents:

Economics: (7 courses)

ECON BC 3018 Econometrics
ECON BC 3033 Intermediate Macroeconomic Theory
ECON BC 3035 Intermediate Microeconomic Theory
ECON BC 3041 Theoretical Foundations of Political Economy
ECON BC 3062 Senior Thesis (two semesters of the Senior Thesis are optional) or a Senior Seminar in Economics or Mathematics (ECON BC 3063, MATH V 3951, MATH V 3952 or an equivalent approved by the Chairs of the Mathematics and Economic majors)

Two economics electives with an intermediate micro- or macroeconomic theory course as prerequisite.

Mathematics: (7 courses)

MATH V 1102, 1201 Calculus II, III
MATH V 2010 Linear Algebra
MATH V 2500 Analysis and Optimization or MATH W 4061 Introduction to Modern Analysis
SIEO W 3600 Introduction to Probability and Statistics

Two electives at or above the 2000 level, one of which can be MATH V 3951 or MATH V 3952, the undergraduate seminar in mathematics. MATH E 1210 is also an approved elective.

Students must obtain approval from each department representative before selecting electives. In exceptional cases, these may be from related fields; other courses can be taken with prior approval.

ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL HISTORY

Economic and Social History
4A Lehman Hall
854-3454

This program is supervised by the Committee on Economic and Social History:

Program Committee: Alan Dye (Economics), Deborah Valenze (History), David Weiman (Economics), and Carl Wennerlind (History).

For a complete list of faculty on leave see:
http://www.barnard.edu/provost/facleavelist.html

The Economic and Social History major is an interdisciplinary major that combines economic reasoning with different historiographic approaches and quantitative analysis. The major encourages students to develop an understanding of the human experience through the record of the past and acquire intellectual tools to analyze historical changes from an economic and social perspective. Students are exposed to different ways of thinking about the origins of capitalism, the structural features of modern economies, regional differences or global diversity in long-run economic performance and socioeconomic well-being, and the challenges and opportunities facing the global economy today. By looking at both the social and the economic dimensions of the histories of one or more geographical regions, students gain a valuable interdisciplinary perspective that enables them to appreciate and think systematically and critically about the complexities of human interaction.

Student Learning Objectives

Students who complete the major in Economic and Social History will be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Show fluency in basic concepts, models and tools of economic theory and economic history.
2. Understand the difference between primary and secondary sources, and use and evaluate these materials through critical reading and interpretation.
3. Demonstrate understanding of institutions, organizations and markets in their roles of coordinating economic and social activity.
4. Use concepts or methods from multiple disciplines including economics to analyze the past.
5. Articulate a well-defined research question and conduct independent research using economic reasoning and historical evidence.
6. Communicate economic ideas and historical concepts effectively in written or oral form.
7. Demonstrate knowledge and capacity to do in-depth research on a particular geographic area, time period, or central theme in economic and social history.
8. Demonstrate knowledge of the history of economic thought, its relation to historical developments, and influence on past and present economic theory and ideas.
9. Show an appreciation for different historiographic approaches to the study of economic and social history.
10. Show familiarity with varied perspectives on the origins of capitalism and the diversity of economic development across regions.

Students who graduate with a major in Economic and Social History will be prepared to enter graduate programs in history, business, public policy/administration, or to pursue careers such as in public policy or business that call for diverse perspectives and skills.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
The mission of the Barnard College Education Program is to prepare students to become skilled and reflective teachers who can effectively respond to the learning needs of diverse learners, and create supportive and intellectually stimulating classroom communities. We are committed to strengthening public education and addressing issues of equity and social justice, particularly in urban schools. The Program serves all undergraduates of Barnard College and Columbia University, (Columbia College, General Studies and Fu School of Engineering), who are interested in becoming certified teachers, working with young people in human service agencies, or preparing for careers related to education.

Students combine their liberal arts major with coursework in psychology, educational foundations (History, Economics, Philosophy, and Sociology of Education; Contemporary Issues in Education), pedagogy (Methods of Teaching; Seminar in the Teaching-Learning Process), and field-based experience in urban classrooms (Practicum; Student Teaching). During senior year, students are placed with experienced teachers in New York City public schools for a semester of full-time student teaching.

Student Learning Outcomes

1. Knowledge of Self: Students investigate how educational experiences in and out of school affect their vision for teaching and learning, use that knowledge to reflect upon and critique their practice, and set goals for continuing growth as equitable, multicultural educators.

2. Knowledge of Students: Students understand the importance of getting to know the children and youth in their classrooms; develop specific strategies that aid in understanding students' needs, capacities, interests, funds of knowledge, and social identities; and construct learning experiences that are responsive and relevant to their students.

3. Knowledge of Content: Students develop knowledge and skills to critique the social, political, cultural, and historical forces that construct traditional content knowledge and design academic content that is dynamic, inquiry-based, and encompasses multiple literacies, and cultural perspectives.

4. Knowledge of Pedagogy: Students experience, practice, evaluate, and reflect on a range of constructivist, inclusive, critical, collaborative, and authentic methods for engaging students in learning and in assessing learning outcomes.

5. Knowledge of Context: Students investigate the complex ways in which social, political, cultural, and historical forces shape school contexts, including students' opportunities in schools, teacher empowerment, effective leadership, roles of parents and the community, and patterns of similarity and difference across schools.

The Education Program is accredited by the Regents and registered by the New York State Education Department to recommend students who complete the program for Initial Certification in either Childhood Education (Grades 1-6) or Adolescence Education (Grades 7-12). Graduates of the program are also eligible for membership in the Interstate Certification Agreement, a reciprocal certification among forty-one states. We provide ongoing support to those who teach in the New York City area through our New Teacher Network.

To apply, download an information packet from our website or pick one up in 336 Milbank. Students may apply for admission any time during the sophomore year but no later than the first Monday in October of the junior year. Those who plan to study abroad during junior year should apply and take the Methods and Practicum courses by the end of sophomore year. Admission criteria include good academic standing; evidence of commitment to the field of education; interest in issues of social justice as they affect education, particularly in urban schools; and capacity for growth as an intellectually resourceful and reflective teacher. Enrollment is limited.

The offering in English is designed to foster good writing, effective speaking, and heightened understanding of culturally significant texts. We encourage students majoring in English to develop their responsiveness to the literary imagination and their sensitivity to literary form through disciplined attention to language, historical contexts, and critical and scholarly methods.

For all students, including transfers, "a minimum of six semester courses must be completed while the student is in residence at Barnard".

Student Learning Objectives for the English Major and the American Literature, Film, Theatre, and Creative Writing Concentrations

Our objectives represent the teaching aims of the English Department. All instructors are free to decide which of these objectives are consistent with their particular courses and teaching methods.

Students who graduate with a major in English should be able to obtain the following objectives:

1. demonstrate critical and analytical reading skills
2. demonstrate critical and analytical writing skills
3. display an understanding of literary genre, form, and language
4. show a familiarity with the issues of literary criticism and theory
5. show an awareness of literary history
6. engage deeply with at least one major author
7. incorporate secondary sources, with proper citations, in a larger essay
8. understand texts in their cultural contexts

Specific to the American Literature Concentration

1. demonstrate familiarity with American authors and texts across the span of American literary history.
2. analyze American texts of various genres including poetry, fiction, drama, autobiography, and political documents.
3. write a substantial research project on American texts. This project should integrate primary and secondary materials, demonstrating the student’s ability to analyze texts and her familiarity with the critical landscape.

Specific to the Film Concentration

1. explain the major concepts or ideas of film theory.
2. write a basic/elementary screenplay.
3. demonstrate an understanding of film's relationship to a range of other disciplines across the humanities and social sciences.
Specific to the Theatre Concentration

1. analyze dramatic literature in the context of theatre history, culture, performance practice, theory, and criticism.
2. develop skills in critical reading and writing, textual analysis, independent research, and oral presentation.

Specific to the Creative Writing Concentration

1. develop a mastery of the linguistic demands of a variety of literary forms.
2. demonstrate a critically sound grasp of structure in prose and poetry.
3. explore the formal possibilities of the genres in which they are working.
4. develop critical sophistication in reading and speaking about others' work.
5. grasp the importance of thoroughly revising their own work.
6. detect concrete and figurative language in others' work.
7. achieve precision in their own use of concrete and figurative language.
8. produce an original piece of fiction, a set of poems, a play, or a work of creative non-fiction.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A major program consists of at least ten courses:

1. Majors should complete the following requirements by the end of the junior year:
   a) ENGL BC 3193 Literary Criticism and Theory: an introduction to the methods of literary analysis. A prospective major should, if possible, elect this course in her sophomore year.
   b) ENGL BC 3159 – BC 3160. The English Junior Colloquium: an introduction to some major texts and ideas of the Middle Ages, the Renaissance and the Enlightenment. Sophomores may be admitted, but are advised to wait if possible. Students planning to go abroad for their junior year should see their advisers about substitutions for this requirement.

   Students may substitute 3 courses for the 2 semesters for Junior Colloquium from among the following:
   Only one of the three Shakespeare courses: ENGL BC 3163 or ENGL BC 3164 or ENTH BC 3136y
   ENGL BC 3154 – ENGL BC 3158, ENGL BC 3165-ENGL BC 3169
   ENGL BC 3173, and ENGL BC 3174 (or W4301), and ENGL BC 3179
   At least one of these 3 courses must cover material before 1660 (i.e., Medieval or Renaissance); at least one, material of the 17th or 18th century. One of these courses will also count towards satisfying the "before 1900" requirement. Students may also take 1 colloquium and 2 substitutions. For suggestions of specific courses, please see the English Department website. (Also see our page on Substitutions.)

2. In addition, a major will elect five courses so distributed as to extend her knowledge of English and American literature:
   a) At least two of these must be in literature before 1900:
      ENTH BC 3136, ENGL BC 3137
      ENGL BC 3141
      ENGL BC 3154 (Chaucer) through ENGL BC 3180 (American Literature 1800-1870)
   b) Of the three remaining elective courses, two may be in writing (ENGL BC 3103- ENGL BC 3120), film (FILM BC 3119 or FILM BC 3120), speech (ENGL BC 3121), theatre (ENTH BC 3136-BC 3140), or seminars on special themes (ENGL BC 3140, ENTH BC 3144). With the approval of the Chair of the Barnard English Department, one literature course taken outside the department (in English translation or in another language) can count as an elective.
   c) As a senior, an English major will complete advanced work in two seminars (ENGL BC 3997, 3998). Seniors concentrating in Theatre or Writing will normally substitute the Special Project in Theatre or Writing (ENGL BC 3996) for one of the required seminars. Under special circumstances qualified senior majors may request permission to substitute Independent Study for one of the seminars (see ENGL BC 3999 in the course listings).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor consists of at least five English courses: one from either Chaucer (ENGL BC 3154 or ENGL BC 3155), Shakespeare (ENTH BC 3136, ENGL BC 3163, or ENGL BC 3164), or Milton (ENGL BC 3167); two additional courses in literature before 1900 (See above 2a); and two electives (See above 2b).

CONCENTRATIONS IN THE MAJOR

All concentrations in the major except that in American Literature require 11 courses.

American Literature

Students interested in an American Literature concentration should consult with Professor Gordis (408d Barnard). In addition to ENGL BC 3159, ENGL BC 3160 (or appropriate substitutions), and ENGL BC 3193, an American concentration consists of either ENGL BC 3179 or ENGL BC 3180, either ENGL BC 3181 or ENGL BC 3183, one other American literature course, and one senior seminar with a focus on American literature. (The Department requires two senior seminars for the major.)
Film

Students interested in a film concentration should consult Professor Bashir Abu-Manneh (401 D Barnard). A film concentration consists of four courses:

1) Introduction to Film and Film Theory (FILM BC 3201 or Columbia's W 3001)
2) A writing course, either Screenwriting (FILM BC 3119), Advanced Screenwriting (FILM BC3120) or Film Criticism
3) A Film/Literature Senior Seminar (ENGL BC 3997/ ENGL BC 3998)
4) The final course, which requires approval, is a film and literature class from among specific offerings at Barnard or Columbia.

These four courses will count in place of two electives and one Senior Seminar in the regular English major.

Theatre

Students interested in a theatre concentration should consult Professor Denison (Room 412 Barnard). A Theatre concentration consists of four courses: three courses, either two theatre history courses (THTR V 3150, 3151) and one dramatic literature seminar, or one theatre history course and two dramatic literature seminars; the fourth course, Special Project in Theatre (ENGL BC 3996) in combination with a dramatic literature course. These courses will count in place of two electives and one Senior Seminar in the regular English major. An eleventh course should be in dramatic literature in English, elected in consultation with the director of the Theatre concentration.

Writing

Open to a limited number of majors. Students enter the writing concentration by application only. Interested students must submit a portfolio of their work to the director of Creative Writing during the second semester of their junior year, no later than the program filing deadline. A writing concentration consists of at least four courses: two writing courses, of which one will be introductory (ENGL BC 3105- ENGL BC 3113 and ENGL BC 3120: Creative Non-fiction) and one advanced (ENGL BC 3114-ENGL BC 3118); a Senior project written either in a third writing course combined with a Special Project in Writing (ENGL BC 3996) or in an Independent Study (ENGL BC 3999); and a fourth course, either literature (in English or another language), or creative writing. Consult the Director of Creative Writing, Professor Szell (423 Barnard), for applicability of Columbia courses. These four courses will count in place of two electives and one Senior Seminar in the regular English major.
Introduction

Any literature course in the department of English fulfills the general education requirement, Literature. Be aware that not all courses automatically qualify. Eligible courses must clearly emphasize literary texts, methods, and theories.

ENGL BC 1201x and y First-Year English: Reinventing Literary History

[For more information, see course website.] Close examination of texts and regular writing assignments in composition, designed to help students read critically and write effectively. Sections of the course are grouped in three clusters: I. Legacy of the Mediterranean; II. The Americas; III. Women and Culture. The first cluster features a curriculum of classic texts representing key intellectual moments that have shaped Western culture. Offering revisionist responses to the constraints of canonicity, the last two clusters feature curricula that explore the literary history of the Americas and the role of women in culture.

Prerequisites: Required for all first-year students. Enrollment restricted to Barnard. May not be taken for P/D/F. Consult department bulletin board for section times.

ENTH BC 3145y Early American Drama and Performance: Staging a Nation

Competing constructions of American identity in the United States date back to the early republic when a newly emerging nation struggled with the questions: What makes an American American? What makes America America? From colonial times forward, the stage has served as a forum to air differing beliefs as well as medium to construct new beliefs about Nation, self and other. The texts we will read, from colonial times through WWI, explore diverse topics such as politics, Native American rights, slavery, labor unrest, gender roles, and a growing immigrant population.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 16 students. Sign-up with the English Department required. Only registering for the course through eBear or SSOL will not ensure your enrollment. General Education Requirement: Literature (LIT). General Education Requirement: The Visual and Performing Arts (ART).

ENGL BC 3140x (Section 6) Seminars on Special Themes: The Shadow Knows

The well-known story of Peter Pan's lost shadow, attached by Wendy, seems to belong to the world of fantasy. But it reminds us of an everyday fact: in the world of art, shadows are arbitrary. They can come and go at the whim of artist or writer. While in life we have shadows with us as long as we breathe, in literature and the visual arts, and often in our spoken words, they require - and deserve - constant attention. If on a literal level shadows emphasize light, space, and corporeal reality, in artistic uses and metaphoric speech they express some of our deepest emotions, from fear to desire; they invoke mystery and misery; they teach us and tease us. This course will investigate both real-world and artistic shadows, using texts and images from philosophy, literature, painting, sculpture, photography, and film. We will study texts by Plato, Pliny, Chamisso, Andersen, Shakespeare, Donne, Dickens, Poe, Conrad, Barrie, and others; and visual images by Masaccio, Rembrandt, Vermeer, Munch, Hopper; Talbot, Stieglitz, Strand, Brassai, Murnau, Wiene, Duchamp, DeChirico, Warhol, and others.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 30 students. Sign-up with the English Department required. Only registering for the course through eBear or SSOL will not ensure your enrollment. General Education Requirement: Literature (LIT).

ENGL BC 3140y (Section 9) Seminars on Special Themes: Black Internationalisms
This course locates itself in renewed, energetic debates around contemporary and deeper histories of transnationalism and Diaspora studies, particular the work of Brent Hayes Edwards in The Practice of Diaspora: Literature, Translation, and the Rise of Black Internationalism (a required text). African American and Africana studies have never been confined to national borders, but how has this Diasporic sense been reflected in the popular imaginary and other exchanges? We also engage the interdisciplinarity of knowledge production in these studies, and we ask what the current status is of black internationalisms are, and how and where they are most readily expressed in the arts.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 16 students. Sign-up with the English Department required. Only registering for the course through eBear or SSOL will not ensure your enrollment.

ENGL BC 3194x (Section 1) Critical & Theoretical Perspectives on Literature: A History of Literary Theory & Criticism

What is literature? Does it tell the truth? What is its relation to the other arts? How do we judge it? How can we talk about it? Such questions form the matter of a conversation among philosophers, writers, and, latterly, “critics” that has gone on for two-and-a-half thousand years. Their responses both influence and reflect the literature contemporary with them. Readings from critics and theoreticians from the Classical world to the beginnings of poststructuralism, with attention to contemporaneous literature.

ENGL BC 3194x (Section 2) Critical & Theoretical Perspectives on Literature: Literary Theory

Examines nineteenth century foundational texts (Marx, Freud, Nietzsche), landmarks of the twentieth century (Gramsci, Foucault, Deleuze, Butler, Jameson, Spillers, Said, Spivak, Anzaldúa, Debray, Kelly, Rafael), the novels of Jose Rizal, and selected critical essays.

General Education Requirement: Literature (LIT).
3 points

ENGL BC 3194x (Section 3) Critical and Theoretical Perspectives on Literature: Psychoanalytic Approaches to Literature

Literary expression in the light of psychoanalytic thought. Psychoanalytic writings by Freud and Lacan; literary works from Shakespeare to the present.

3 points

ENGL BC 3194x (Section 4) Critical and Theoretical Perspectives on Literature: Postmodern Texts and Theory

Literary and theoretical postmodern texts. Our focus will be the revolutionary redefinition of the image, word, pleasure, love, and the unconscious.

4 points

ENGL BC 3194x (Section 5) Critical and Theoretical Perspectives on Literature: Marxist Literary Theory

Evolution of Marxist criticism from Marx to Jameson and Eagleton. Central questions: What is unique about Marxist cultural analysis? What are the different Marxist schools of criticism? Is there a future for Marxism? Issues considered: capitalism and culture, class analysis, commitment, modernism and postmodernism, commodification and alienation, and postcolonialism.

ENGL BC 3196x Home to Harlem: Literature of the Harlem Renaissance
Explores the cultural contexts and aesthetic debates surrounding the Harlem or New Negro literary renaissance, 1920-30s. Through fiction, poetry, essays, and artwork, topics considered include: modernism, primitivism, patronage, passing and the problematics of creating racialized art in/for a community comprised of differences in gender, class, sexuality, and geographical origin. General Education Requirement: Literature (LIT).

ENGL V 3260y The Victorian Age in Literature
4 points
AFEN BC 3525y The West Indies and the Atlantic World

This course examines the literature of transatlantic travel from Columbus's first voyage in 1492 to Caryl Philip's recent re-tracing of his mother's migration in The Atlantic Sound (2000) to recent re-imaginings of slavery and the Middle Passage by M. Nourbese Philip and Marlon James. Even before Columbus's first encounter, the "Indies" sparked English desires for riches and adventure. We will first investigate how writers promoted an idea of the West Indies and then came to inhabit its heterogeneous spaces, filling them with longing and anxiety. The class will chart the emergence of modern race thinking from the rich interaction of peoples and goods in the early modern Caribbean. We will also question how ideals of freedom and "English-ness" co-existed with slavery, bondage and creole life. The class will then look at the ways later writers revisit the Caribbean's colonial origins and discuss how notions of the West Indies may haunt modern Atlantic travel.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 20 students. Sign-up with the English Department required. Only registering for the course through eBear or SSOL will not ensure your enrollment.

ENRE BC 3810y Literary Approaches to the Bible

Interpretive strategies for reading the Bible as a work with literary dimensions. Considerations of poetic and rhetorical structures, narrative techniques, and feminist exegesis will be included. Topics for investigation include the influence of the Bible on literature.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 18 students. Sign-up with the English Department required. Only registering for the course through eBear or SSOL will not ensure your enrollment. General Education Requirement: Literature (LIT).

ENGL BC 3992x Senior Postcolonial Literature Seminar: The Literature of the Middle Passage

Focusing on the literature of the Atlantic Slave Trade, this course culminates in a trip to Ghana. Texts from Africa, Britain, and the Americas, reflecting the historical impact of involuntary migration out of Africa, will include Achebe, Ama Ata Aidoo, Du Bois, Conrad, Equiano, and Baldwin. Open to all seniors by application.

Not offered in 2010-2011.

ENGL BC 3996x and y Special Project in Theatre, Writing, or Critical Interpretation

Senior majors who are concentrating in Theatre or Writing and have completed two courses in writing or three in theatre will normally take the Special Project in Theatre or Writing (BC3996 x or y) in combination with an additional course in their special field. This counts in place of one of the Senior Seminars. In certain cases, Independent Study (BC3999 - see below) may be substituted for the Special Project.

Prerequisites: Permission of the instructor and chair required. In rare cases, with the permission of the chair, a special project in conjunction with a course may be taken by other English majors.

ENGL BC 3997x (Section 2) Senior Seminars: Studies in Literature: Romance

Offered Fall, 2010: Romance is the most persistent and widespread kind of writing in the west, from high culture to low, yet it fits awkwardly into the critical modes we encounter in the university. This seminar explores the form from antiquity to recent film. One brief paper (two to three pages) per week.

ENGL BC 3997x (Section 3) Senior Seminars: Poets & their Correspondence (FALL '09 & FALL '10)

How do poets' letters inform our understanding of their poetry? From the eighteenth to the twentieth century, poets have used their intimate correspondence to "baffle absence," as Coleridge remarked. This course will examine the ways several masters of the letter (including Cowper, Keats, Dickinson, Eliot, Bishop, and Lowell, among others) shaped their prose to convey spontaneity in paradoxically artful ways, illumining their major work as poets and making the private letter a literary form in its own right.

ENGL BC 3997 (Section 5) Senior Seminars Studies in Literature: Black Literature Now: Contemporary African American Literature and Post-Racial Ideologies

Offered FALL 2010: Examines contemporary African American literature, in particular the ways in which recent authors are reconceiving literary notions of blackness. Beginning in the 1980s with the emergence of "post-soul" literature, this class explores the ways in which authors one or two generations after the Civil Rights Movement reconfigure their sense of racial "belonging" and notions of how to write "blackness" into a text. Authors may include Ellis, Whitehead, Southgate, Everett, Senna, Sapphire, Beatty, Toure, Packer, Johnson and Morrison.

ENGL BC 3997x (Section 6) Senior Seminars: Political Love

A philosophical exploration of notions of 'political love' from Aristotle's happiness to Martin Luther King's agape. In what way is love the foundation of human community, and what is a revolutionary conception of love today?

Prerequisites: Sign up through special tab in eBear. Enrollment limited to Barnard seniors.
ENGL BC 3998y (Section 1) Senior Seminars: Sexuality, Spirituality, and Sin

The first half of the course is grounded in readings from Bible, Augustine, Petrarch and Donne, but students may then explore the relation and intersection between sexuality, sin, and spirituality up into the present, and cross-culturally.

Prerequisites: Sign up through special tab in eBear. Enrollment limited to Barnard seniors.

ENGL BC 3998y (Section 2) Senior Seminars: Film: The Man in the Crowd/The Woman of the Streets

Explores theories and representations of the crowd, mass behavior and ideas about the individual in the period between the two World Wars. Looking mostly at fiction and film from the U.S. and Germany between 1918 -1939, the course centers on representations of Berlin and New York. Films by Lang, Ruttman, Rossellini, Wenders, Von Stermenberg, Vidor, Chaplin, Sheeler and Strand, Engel, Berkeley and others.

Prerequisites: Sign up through special tab in eBear. Enrollment limited to Barnard seniors.

ENGL BC 3998y (Section 3) Senior Seminars: Studies in Literature: Sense and Disability

American narratives of disability at the turn of the twentieth century with special attention to gender, race, class, technology and law. Authors include Stephen Crane, Helen Keller, Edith Wharton, Pearl Buck, Ernest Hemingway and William Faulkner.

Prerequisites: Sign up through special tab in eBear. Enrollment limited to Barnard seniors.

ENGL BC 3998y (Section 4) Senior Seminars Studies in Literature: Modernism in the Making: Origins & Achievements

It is customary to think of modernism as a revolt against "the Victorians." Modernists themselves are our authority for this view. This course will examine both the revolutions in form and thought that mark the period and the deep continuities that run from the mid-nineteenth into the first third of the twentieth century. The first half of the term will be taken up with major texts of the period in various genres; in the second, texts proposed by seminar members will form the focus of discussion.

Prerequisites: Sign up through special tab in eBear. Enrollment limited to Barnard seniors.
ENGL BC 3998y (Section 5) Senior Seminars: Late Victorian and Modern Drama

Drama in transition. Changing social structures and dramatic structures at the turn of the century. The relationship between convention and invention and the interface of text and performance in the plays of Pinero, Wilde, Shaw, Strindberg, Ibsen, Chekhov, Robins, and others.

Prerequisites: Sign up through special tab in eBear. Enrollment limited to Barnard seniors.

PREFACE for 3999: All independent study projects require a completed form being filed with the English Department (417 Barnard Hall).

ENGL BC 3999x and y Independent Study

Senior majors who wish to substitute Independent Study for one of the two required senior seminars should consult the chair. Permission is given rarely and only to students who present a clear and well-defined topic of study, who have a department sponsor, and who submit their proposals well in advance of the semester in which they will register. There is no independent study for screenwriting or film production.

Prerequisites: Permission of the instructor and Department Chair.

CLEN W 4122y The Renaissance in Europe II : Women Writers in the Renaissance

This course examines texts by Renaissance women writing in four different languages: Italian, French, English, and Latin. What role does gender play in such texts? How did women exploit and modify literary traditions dominated by men? Is there anything here to modify older views of women in the Renaissance? And, although this question may have no good answer, why were Englishwomen so much slower than their Italian and French counterparts to write on love?

See Cross-listing below for class time and location.

- A. Prescott

CLEN G 4205x 17th-Century Literature and Culture: Religious Difference and the English Revolution

Explores the intertwining of religion, politics, and literature during the seventeenth century, focusing on the English Revolution
(1640-1660). What was the role of religion, and the nature of religious differences in post-reformation England? Beginning with brief selections from Herbert’s The Temple but focusing on writings by religio-political radicals and self-proclaimed prophets such as Gerrard Winstanley and Anna Trapnel but especially Milton (e.g., probably Areopagitica, Paradise Regained), we will consider the proliferation of religious divisions and sectarian options, anti-Catholicism, the question of Jewish readmission, and the relation between religion and "nation."

The mission of the Environmental Biology major is to provide students with an understanding of the structure, function and interrelationships of diverse living systems within the context of earth's changing environment. It addresses some of the most important issues of our time—climate change and declining biological diversity—and efforts to address these problems. To this end, students take courses in both the Environmental Science and Biology departments, including laboratory and field courses that help them learn how to design and test hypotheses, use modern scientific equipment, interpret data, and evaluate and solve problems. Students learn scientific communication skills by critiquing research articles, writing laboratory reports and research papers, and participating in oral presentations and debates.

Environmental Biology students are encouraged to become involved in research under the guidance of a faculty member at Barnard or elsewhere in New York City. Our urban setting, the proximity to the Hudson River, and the numerous affiliations we maintain with Columbia University through Lamont-Doherty Earth Observatory, the Earth Institute, and the School of Public Health, as well as Black Rock Forest, the American Museum of Natural History and other institutions, allow us to offer undergraduates unparalleled opportunities for student research and educational experiences. Upon successful completion of our program, our students are well prepared to pursue successful careers in research, teaching or the allied health sciences. The Environmental Biology major is appropriate for students interested in careers as diverse as university-level research and teaching, curatorial work and research in natural history museums and parks, environmental education, and decision-making in environmental policy, law, public health, and government agencies.

Environmental Biology Learning Outcomes

- Discuss the structure, function, and interrelationships of key environmental systems: climate, earth, life
- Demonstrate an appreciation of the many different life forms on planet Earth
- Design and execute an independent scientific analysis, including the formulation of a testable hypothesis and assembling a logical chain of reasoning ranging from observation to inference
- Locate, integrate, and evaluate information from multiple and disparate sources
- Apply appropriate analytical and quantitative approaches including calculating statistics and displaying data to interpret relationships, trends and make predictions about past and future changes
- Resolve uncertain, complex problems in the lab and field
- Clearly communicate analyses, interpretations and significance through variable media: oral presentation, poster, proposal, research or review article, report

The program in Environmental Biology is jointly administered by the departments of Biology and Environmental Science, and students should maintain contact with the advisers in both departments. A major in Environmental Biology provides a strong background for students interested in the intersection of Biology and Environmental Science. The major is suitable for students who intend to pursue a research career in conservation biology, ecology, or environmental biology as well as for students interested in environmental law or policy. Students who elect the Environmental Biology major will enroll in introductory and advanced courses in Biology and Environmental Science and related fields. All Environmental Biology majors complete a senior essay.

Students may substitute courses taught at Columbia (in the Departments of Biology, E3B, Earth and Environmental Sciences, or Statistics) or at other institutions with the prior approval of both major advisers. Students interested in Environmental Biology often choose to spend a semester abroad in the field. Courses completed in such programs may be accepted in fulfillment of some major requirements.

Students may also pursue an interdisciplinary program by electing a major in either Biology or Environmental Science and a minor in the other discipline, or by planning a double major.

There is no minor in Environmental Biology.

Barnard College’s Environmental Science Department provides highly motivated young women with challenging and rewarding programs in Environmental Science, Environmental Biology, and Environmental Policy. High academic standards, multidisciplinary courses, and training in methodologies such as field work, measurements, and data analysis, ready our students with the tools needed to think critically, evaluate and solve problems, and understand and communicate science to address the needs of society. Faculty members are nationally and internationally recognized scholars and educators, active in research and curriculum development. Courses are innovative, featuring multimedia and technologically advanced resources. The urban setting, the proximity to the Hudson River, and the numerous affiliations we maintain with Columbia University through Lamont-Doherty Earth Observatory, the Earth Institute, and the School of Public Health, as well as Black Rock Forest, the American Museum of Natural History and other institutions, allow us to offer undergraduates unparalleled opportunities for student research and educational experiences. Upon successful completion of our program, our students are well prepared to continue their academic studies as graduate students or to pursue successful careers in a wide range of fields.

Student Learning Outcomes

We expect that students graduating with an environmental major will learn to:

1. recognize the structure, function, and trends of key environmental systems: climate, earth, life, socio-political;
2. assemble a logical chain of reasoning ranging from observation to inference and action, not only to identify and characterize a problem, but also to find solutions; to design an independent scientific study, from methods to interpretation;
3. locate, organize, analyze, integrate, synthesize, and evaluate complex information from multiple and disparate sources;
4. apply appropriate analytical and quantitative approaches, to organize, analyze, including calculating statistics and displaying environmental data to interpret relationships, trends and make predictions about past and future change.

The foundation is laid for students to:

5. handle uncertain, complex, real-world problems in the lab, field, community, and workplace; to think creatively, resourcefully, and strategically, including identifying steps needed to reach goals, manage projects, evaluate progress, and adapt approaches, developing both self reliance, and civic-mindedness.

Majors learn how to:

6. utilize advances in environmental sciences and technology to resolve issues and anticipate implication; clearly communicate complex analyses, interpretations and significance through variable media (oral presentation, poster, proposal, research article, report), to audiences ranging from scientific to policy, and the general public; and to learn to collaborate in teams, with peers and mentors, and work with others in diverse group settings, developing flexibility and leadership skills.

Environmental Science provides a scientific basis for management of earth systems. It focuses on the interaction between human activities, resources, and the environment. As human population grows and technology advances, pressures on earth's natural systems are becoming increasingly intense and complex. Environmental Science is an exciting field where science is used to best serve society. The department offers two majors, Environmental Science and Environmental Policy. A third major, Environmental Biology, is offered in conjunction with the Department of Biological Sciences.

The curriculum recognizes the need for well-trained scientists to cope with balancing human requirements and environmental conservation. Majors acquire an understanding of earth systems by taking courses in the natural sciences, as well as courses investigating environmental stress. Students learn to critically evaluate the diverse information necessary for sound environmental analysis. Our courses foster an interdisciplinary approach to environmental problem-solving.

Internships or some type of work or field experience are extremely valuable in preparing students for a career in Environmental Science. We strongly encourage students to consider an internship in the summer before the senior year because it may lay the foundation for the senior thesis. Studies have shown that students who have had related work experience are more attractive to employers and graduate schools. Go to Research Opportunities for listings.

Students interested in environmental science might want to consider a semester or summer program at the SEE-U, SEA Semester at Woods Hole, the School for Field Studies, the Organization for Tropical Studies, or some other field program. In addition, we recommend that those students planning to go abroad in the junior year elect to do so in the Fall Semester rather than the Spring Semester in order to take best advantage of senior seminar research planning and programming.

Students wishing to go on to graduate school or careers in earth science and the physical sciences should take at least two semesters each of calculus, physics, and chemistry. Those considering graduate school or careers in biological/chemical fields are recommended to take calculus as well as upper-level courses in biology and chemistry, and may wish to consider enrolling in an Environmental Biology major or minors in these fields. Students interested in pursuing further work in environmental policy, economics, environmental law, journalism, or teaching may consider enrolling in an Environmental Policy major or pursuing a double major, a special major, or a major/minor combination in relevant fields.
ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE MAJOR

Environmental Science provides a scientific basis for management of earth systems. It focuses on the interaction between human activities, resources, and the environment. As human population grows and technology advances, pressures on earth's natural systems are becoming increasingly intense and complex. Environmental Science is an exciting field where science is used to best serve society.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE MAJOR

Part A. The following four courses with labs:

- EESC V2100 Earth's Environmental Systems: Climate
- EESC V2200 Earth's Environmental Systems: Solid Earth
- CHEM BC2001 General Chemistry I
- BIOL BC1500 Introduction to Organismal and Evolutionary Biology
- BIOL BC1501 Introductory Lab in Organismal and Evolutionary Biology

Part B. Two other courses in chemistry, physics and/or biology

Part C. Two courses in calculus, statistics, data analysis, and/or economics

Part D. Four elective courses

Part E. Senior Research Seminar EESC BC 3800x, 3801y (or Guided Research, EESC BC3997y, 3998x) provide credit for the senior thesis

ADVICE FOR THE ENVIRONMENTAL MAJOR

Students with a strong science background who are interested in majoring in Environmental Science are advised to take Earth's Environmental Systems: Climate (ENV V2100) followed by Earth's Environmental Systems: Solid Earth (ENV V2200). These two courses are required for all Environmental Science majors.

If you are interested in exploring Environmental Science or are concerned about your science background, you could take Environmental Science I (ENV BC1001x) in the fall. In the spring, you can decide to take Environmental Science II (ENV BC1002y) for non-majors, or shift into the major sequence of ENV V2100. Please note the following:

- ENV BC1001x is not required for the major, but does count toward the major as an elective.
- ENV BC1002y does not count toward the major.
- ENV BC1001x must be taken before ENV BC1002y.

We recommend that Environmental Science majors take General Chemistry (CHEM BC 2001) and Introduction to Organismal and Evolutionary Biology, BIOL BC1500x (formerly BC2002x) plus the corresponding lab, BIOL BC1503 (formerly BIO BC 2003), early in their academic career at Barnard in order to prepare for upper level courses with prerequisites. Students with concerns about their science preparation should not take both at the same time. If you want advice on taking an Introductory Biology course, click Biology here, and for advice on taking an Introductory Physics course, click Physics here.

Students should check the catalogue and the department for additional information on the major, minor and courses offered by Barnard and Columbia. Classes with grades less than C- or taken pass/fail can not be counted towards the major.

See also Senior Research Seminar for information on senior thesis requirements.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCE MINOR

Students wishing to minor in Environmental Science must have a plan approved by the Environmental Science Department chair. Five courses are required including 2 laboratory science courses (such as EESC BC1001, EESC BC1002, EESC V2100, EESC V2200, EESC V2300) and 3 electives that form a coherent program. In some cases, courses in other sciences can be substituted with the approval of the chair.

Students wishing to minor in Environmental Science who are interested in field programs and seek minor credit must contact the department Chair, Stephanie Pfirman. The only current field program within Columbia University is SEE-U.

There is no minor in Environmental Biology or Environmental Policy.

ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY MAJOR

Environmental Policy is a growing field at the intersection of science and society. Environmental Policy focuses on political institutions, societal processes, and individual choices that lead to environmental stress, the impact of environmental stress on institutions, processes and individuals, and the development of approaches to reduce environmental impact.

The Environmental Policy major is designed to equip students to play effective roles as citizens or career professionals who can actively engage in environmental decision-making and policy. Majors learn to analyze and evaluate environmental, political, and economic systems and public policies in the context of environmental concerns. The major begins with foundations in the natural sciences, social sciences, and quantitative analysis, followed by upper level electives in both the natural and social sciences. Student research at the junior level is required in Political Science, Anthropology or History, and at the senior level in Environmental Science. Many exciting opportunities for student research exist on this campus and in the greater metropolitan community.

Environmental Policy graduates go on to a variety of careers, including national and international environmental policy, law, economics, journalism, business, public administration, government agencies, corporations, multilateral institutions, nongovernmental organizations, academia, and consulting firms.

There is no minor in Environmental Policy.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY MAJOR

Part A. Natural Science Foundation (4 courses)

Part B. Quantitative Assessment (2 courses)

Part C. Decision-making Foundation (3 courses)

Part D. Natural Science Elective (1 course)

Part E. Social Science Elective (1 course)

Part F. Junior Research (1 course)

Part G. Senior Research/Thesis (2 courses)

EESC BC 1001x Environmental Science I

Integrated study of the Hudson River ecosystem with emphasis on its natural history, physical dynamics, chemistry and pollutant history, the structure and functioning of ecosystems and energy flow and nutrient cycling. Includes a reading of Robert Boyle's The Hudson River: A Natural and Unnatural History, Rachel Carson's "Flood Tide", and Farley Mowat's Never Cry Wolf.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited. Students must sign up for course in 404 Altschul during the program-planning period of the previous spring. Note BC1001 is not required for an environmental policy major. Laboratory fee $30. Lab Required.

EESC BC 3013y Shorelines

An interdisciplinary study of shoreline processes, the larger ecosystems of which they are a part, and the geologic events and human impacts that have brought them through time to their current state. A problem-oriented, field-methods course, providing hands-on experience with tools and observational methods in a variety of outdoor environments. Involves sampling and measurement techniques for rocks and minerals, fossils, water, soil, flora, and fauna, as well as field and laboratory work, data interpretation and analysis, and the creation of a sample collection. Emphasis on the writing process through the reading of Rachel Carson's The Edge of the Sea, a daylong field trip to Montauk Point, and the writing of a term essay on the natural history and origin of a grain of garnet found at the top of the dune at Napeague Bay.

- P. Bower

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited; students must sign up in 404 Altschul during the program-planning period of the previous term. Four required field trips.

EESC BC 3014x Field Methods in Environmental Science

Problem-oriented, hands-on approach emphasizing the tools, techniques, and observational skills necessary for the understanding of forest ecology and deer management. Field and laboratory work as well as data analysis and interpretation. Field Methods utilizes the outdoor resources of the Hudson River Valley, especially the forest environment at Black Rock Forest, a 4,000-acre preserve near Cornwall, N.Y.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited; students must sign up in 404 Altschul during the program-planning period of the previous term. Five required field trips.

3 points

EESC BC 3016x Environmental Measurements

Hands-on approach to learning environmental methods. Students take a one-day cruise on the Hudson River to collect environmental samples. These samples are then analyzed throughout the semester to characterize the Hudson River estuary. Standard and advanced techniques to analyze water and sediment samples for nutrients and contaminants are taught. Courseworks Website.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited. Required field trip on first Friday of the semester.

3 points

---

EESC BC 3017x Environmental Data Analysis

Acquisition, analysis, interpretation, and presentation of environmental data, assessment of spatial and temporal variability. Focus on air and water quality issues. Uses existing and student-generated data sets. Basic principles of statistics and GIS, uses standard software packages including EXCEL and ArcGIS. Includes a Saturday half-day field trip.

- M. Stute, M. Becker

Prerequisites: One year of college science or EESC V2100 or permission of the instructor. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).
EESC BC 3019x Energy Resources

Project-oriented study of the environmental policy implications of energy resources, production, and use in the United States. Present and potential use of fossil fuels (coal, oil, natural gas), nuclear fission, fusion, biomass, hydropower, wind, solar, and geothermal energy. Emphasis on energy efficiency.

Prerequisites: One year of college science or permission of instructor. Alternate years.

3 points

EESC BC 3021x Forests and Environmental Change

Seminar on forests in global change framework: forest distribution and link to climate, forest ecology, paleoecology, role of forests in global ecosystem, biological invasions, habitat fragmentation, biodiversity, conservation and management strategies.

Format: class discussion of readings, student presentations on scientific papers, field trips, data collection and analysis.

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 12 students. One year of college science or permission of instructor. Alternate years.

4 points

EESC BC 3025y Hydrology

Hands-on study and discussion of the basic physical principles of the water cycle (evaporation, condensation, precipitation, runoff, and subsurface flow), as well as environmentally relevant applications based on case studies. Special focus on the New York City area, the arid Southwest, and the developing world. Coverage of contemporary global water resources issues, including pollution control, sustainable development, and climate change.

- M. Stute

Prerequisites: EESC V2100, physics, or permission of instructor. Includes a weekend field trip. Alternate years. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points

EESC BC 3026y (Section 001) Case Studies in Land-use/Bird/Plant Dynamics

Three case studies of topics related to land-use change and how they impact the living environment. The three topics are: (1) land-use change over time: a paleoenvironmental perspective, (2) environmental transformations: impact of exotic and invasive plants and birds on local environments, and (3) migration of neotropical songbirds between their wintering and breeding grounds: land-use, crisis, and conservation.

- Terryanne Maenza-Gmelch

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 12 students. Permission of the instructor required. Alternate years.

3 points

EESC BC 3032y Agricultural and Urban Land Use: Human-Environment Interactions

Human transformation of the terrestrial environment since Paleolithic times. Physical process involved in human-environment interactions. Guidelines for sustainable development using present and past examples of environmental use and abuse.

- C. Rosenzweig

Prerequisites: One year of college science or permission of instructor. Alternate years. General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL).

4 points

EESC BC 3033x Waste Management

Prerequisites: Alternate years.
EESC BC 3040y Environmental Law

Process-oriented introduction to the law and its use in environmental policy and decision-making. Origins and structure of the U.S. legal system. Emphasis on litigation process and specific cases that elucidate the common law and toxic torts, environmental administrative law, and environmental regulation through application and testing of statutory law in the courts. Emphasis also on the development of legal literacy, research skills, and writing.

- Peter Bower

EESC BC 3043y Water, Sanitation and Health

This course focuses on understanding water, sanitation and health in the developing world and how these factors interact to affect people's lives. Specifically, what are the options for providing cleaner water and improved sanitation in order to reduce the incidence of waterborne diseases in the developing world?

- B. Mailloux

EESC BC 3200x Ecotoxicology

The study of anthropogenic contaminants within our natural environment and their subsequent effects on biological organisms. Effects to be examined: the molecular scale (biochemical pathways of metabolism and detoxification), the organismal scale (target organs, behavioral effects), and the ecosystem scale (species viability). Lectures and hands-on activities are used to teach the material.

- B. Mailloux

Prerequisites: CHEM BC1601, BIOL BC2002, or permission of instructor. Alternate years.

EESC BC 3800x Senior Research Seminar

Guided, independent, in-depth research culminating in the senior thesis. Includes discussions about scientific presentations and posters, data analysis, library research methods, and scientific writing. Students review work in progress and share results through oral and written reports. Fall Semester Course Website.

- M. Stute, S. Pfirman, B. Mailloux

Prerequisites: Senior majors (juniors with permission of instructor). Provides credit for the senior thesis. The Senior Research Seminar can be taken in the Spring/Fall or Fall/Spring sequence.

This program is supervised by the Committee on European Studies:
Lisa Tiersten, Deborah Valenze (Program Co-Chairs)

For a complete list of faculty on leave see:
http://www.barnard.edu/provost/facleavelist.html

The European Studies program at Barnard College enables students to combine disciplinary approaches to the study of Europe. Students ground themselves in a core discipline (history, political science, anthropology, sociology, theater, and philosophy, among others) that provides them with methodological expertise. They also take courses in the language and literature of a chosen region of Europe and complement this program with a selection of courses exploring Europe from other disciplinary perspectives. Students are encouraged to study abroad in the region of their interest.

Student Learning Objectives

Students who graduate with a major in European Studies will be able to attain the following outcomes:

- Demonstrate an understanding of the breadth of Europe’s cultural heritage as well as its distinctive components;
- Explain the role of language and literature within culture;
- Apply different disciplinary perspectives to the study of a single region.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students who intend to major in European Studies should consult a member of the department in their sophomore year to plan their academic programs.

The senior requirements vary according to the discipline studied. Majors should consult their advisers for details.

Students may focus on one country or one region of Europe. Competence in the language of the region is expected. The major includes:

A. A concentration consisting of five courses in an academic discipline chosen in consultation with the major adviser. A maximum of two of these courses that deal with European topics may be counted among the ten courses in the regional concentration (Part B).

B. Ten courses focusing on a country or region to include:
   - Two courses in European History;
   - Two courses in the literature or cultural studies of one country in the original language;
   - Two semester senior projects under the direction of the program adviser or an adviser in the minor field;
   - Four courses outside the field of concentration dealing with the selected country or region.

The following list is only a sample selection of courses that may be applied to the major.

- Anthropology V 3100 Anthropology of Urban Life
- Anthropology V 3038 Ethnicity and Race
- Art History V 3475, 3521 Art and Culture of the Northern Renaissance Seventeenth-Century Painting and Public Life in the Lowlands, 1580-1700
- Economics BC 3041 Theoretical Foundation of Political Economy
- History BC 1101, 1102 Introduction to European History (recommended as prerequisites for other history courses)
- History BC 3321 Colonial Encounters: Europe and the culture of Empire
- History BC 3323 European Women in the Age of Revolution

For a complete list of faculty on leave see:
http://www.barnard.edu/provost/facleavelist.html

The Program in Film Studies at Barnard College offers a theoretical, historical and practical approach to the study of film. Through this course of studies, students come to understand film as a dominant cultural medium of the twentieth century and its influence on the present, as well as an art form with profound and continuing connections to a range of disciplines that span the humanities and the social sciences.

The educational goal of the film major is to provide a solid grounding in the history and theory of film and as well as place the study of film in relation to other art forms. Students are introduced to visual storytelling, film technology, and the economic and sociopolitical context of the film industry. The trajectory of the major moves from introductory level courses (primarily surveys) to intermediate level courses (that introduce the mechanics of writing for film as well as film making), to advanced level courses (including two labs and the senior seminar), plus two electives from the approved list. While the course of study is rooted in film history and theory, all majors take workshops in screenwriting and filmmaking and produce a script and a short film. Our place in a premier college for women invites our Program to pay special attention to questions of gender, and our home in New York City allows students to connect their study to the city's vibrant film industry as well as range of film in arts houses and revival theaters.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students who graduate in Film Studies will be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Demonstrate in-depth knowledge of film history;
2. Explain the major concepts or ideas of film theory;
3. Communicate in-depth knowledge of film in one other language tradition;
4. Write a basic/elementary screenplay;
5. Create a short film;
6. Demonstrate an understanding of film’s relationship to a range of other disciplines across the humanities and social sciences;
7. Conduct original research on a film (usually one film) intensively in the context of a limited enrollment senior seminar.

For questions about Film Studies contact Bashir Abu-Manneh and/or Sarah Pasadino.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR – 12 COURSES

The major in Film Studies at Barnard College consists of 12 courses in total, the requirements of which are broken down as follows (please note that most classes are offered only one semester per academic year):

Four Introductory Level Courses

- FILM BC 3201 (or W 3001) Introduction to Film and Film Theory. (This is the prerequisite for all further Film courses at Columbia and Barnard. Open to first-year students.)
- FILM W 3100 American Film History, 1930-60
- FILM W 3200 Silent Screen
- FILM W 3201 International Film History, 1930-60 or W 3202 International Film History 1960-90

Three Intermediate Level Courses:

FILM BC 3119x and y Screenwriting

FALL: Practical workshop in dramatic writing for the screen. Through a series of creative writing exercises, script analysis, and scene work, students explore and develop the basic principles of screenwriting. The final project will be a 30-page, Act One segment for a feature screenplay.

SPRING: Screenplays are the foundation of much of our popular culture, but can they be art? This intensive writing workshop examines the art and practice of the screenplay form, its root in classical narrative structure, the ways in which it differs from the other written arts, and how one can engage its particular tools to express original ideas. Weekly writing assignments and class critique form the heart of this workshop. Students should be prepared to share their work with others and participate fully in class discussion. Students will create several short scenes, a short screenplay and a detailed outline for a feature script. All students encouraged, but Junior and Senior film majors will be given priority.

Prerequisites: FILM BC3201 or equivalent. Enrollment limited to 12 students. Sign-up with the English Department required: only registering for the course through eBear or SSOL will NOT ensure your enrollment. Priority is given to Film Studies majors/concentrations in order of class seniority. (Since this is a Film course, it does not count as a writing course for English majors with a Writing Concentration.) General Education Requirement: The Visual and Performing Arts (ART).

FILM BC 3120y Feature Film Screenwriting
Workshop in feature film writing. Students will enter the course with a story idea, ready to start a feature screenplay. Through lectures and workshop discussions, the course will critique the details of character development and scene construction. Analysis of student work will prompt generalized conversations/lectures on the fundamentals of film writing. Emphasis will be placed on character as the engine of story.

Prerequisites: FILM BC3201 or equivalent. Enrollment limited to 12 students. FILM BC 3220y Topics in Cinema: War and Propaganda

Examines the changing role of film in dramatizing, promoting and critiquing American participation in the military conflicts over the past 70 years. From the gung-ho patriotism of Howard Hawks's SGT. YORK and the front-line reportage of Lewis Milestone's A WALK IN THE SUN to the ambivalence of John Frankenheimer's THE MANCHURIAN CANDIDATE and the calculated cynicism of Barry Levinson's WAG THE DOG, we explore shifting political perspectives and aesthetic strategies.

FIRST-YEAR ENGLISH

First-Year English
417 Barnard Hall
854-2116
http://www.barnard.edu/english/reinventingliteraryhistory/

Director: Margaret Vandenburg, Senior Lecturer in English

For a complete list of faculty on leave see:
http://www.barnard.edu/provost/facleavelist.html

Mission

First-Year English (ENGL BC 1201) is designed to cultivate powerful expository writing. Reading and writing assignments focus on major works of literature from one of three traditions: Legacy of the Mediterranean; Women and Culture; or The Americas. In addition to teaching critical reading and the process of writing, the First-Year English program is responsible for training students to conduct interdisciplinary research and document sources, thereby fostering proficiency in courses across the curriculum.

Student Learning Objectives

Students who successfully complete this one-semester course should be able to:

1. analyze the thematic structure of literary works through close reading
2. translate critical reading into elegant and persuasive expository writing
3. conduct interdisciplinary research to ground literary works in historical contexts
4. document sources and incorporate scholarship into original analytical arguments
5. avoid plagiarism and other academic violations of Barnard's Honor Code
6. develop a sense of literary history
7. gain confidence in speaking as well as writing skills in a small seminar setting
8. appreciate the value of incisive writing in courses across the curriculum
Every Barnard first-year student is required to take First-Year English during her first or second semester at Barnard. Students choose to study one of three rubrics: I. Legacy of the Mediterranean features a curriculum of classic texts representing key intellectual moments that have shaped Western culture; II. Women and Culture features a more global curriculum exploring the role of women in literature and culture; or III. The Americas features a curriculum of texts that exemplifies the dynamic relationship between North, South, and Central American literatures. All three literary traditions are historicized in interdisciplinary contexts to foster better writing across the curriculum.

Transfer students who did not pass a satisfactory course at their previous institution are not required to take ENGL BC 1201, but must take ENGL BC 3103 or BC 3104 or a 3-point literature course (not a creative writing course) from the Barnard English department offerings.

Mission

Every Barnard first-year student is required to take a First-Year Seminar during her first or second semester at Barnard. First-Year Seminars are designed to develop further the essential and prerequisite skills a student brings to Barnard in critical reading and analysis, writing, and effective speaking. First-Year Seminars are intellectually challenging interdisciplinary courses which explore important issues through significant texts ranging across genres and historical periods. Seminars also serve to initiate students into the intellectual community of the college.

Student Learning Objectives

1. Students in First-Year Seminars will develop their skills in critical reading and analysis, writing, and effective speaking.
2. They will assess and use textual evidence in support of oral and written arguments.
3. Students will explore important issues through significant texts ranging across genres, disciplines, and historical periods.

First-Year Seminars fall into three categories: Reinventing Literary History, Reacting to the Past, and Special Topics.

Reinventing Literary History seminars explore literary history through a range of lenses. They are grouped in four clusters: Seminars on the Legacy of the Mediterranean feature classic texts representing key intellectual moments that have shaped Western culture, as well as excursions to the opera, the theatre, and museums. Offering revisionist responses to the constraints of canonicity, seminars on the Americas, Women and Culture, and Global Literature cross national boundaries, exploring the literary history of the Americas, the role of women in culture, and various approaches to global literature.
In Reacting to the Past seminars, students participate in role-playing games that enable them to relive important intellectual debates in three separate historical moments. In The Threshold of Democracy: Athens in 403 B.C., students draw on Plato's Republic as well as excerpts from Thucydides, Xenophon, and other contemporary sources to debate the prospects for Athenian democracy in the wake of the Peloponnesian War. In Confucianism and the Succession Crisis of the Wanli Emperor, students study the Analects of Confucius and apply Confucian thought to issues of governance during the Ming dynasty. The final semester’s final game varies by section. Some sections explore seventeenth-century Massachusetts, drawing on the Bible, Calvin's Institutes, and colonial trial testimony to participate in The Trial of Anne Hutchinson. Other sections draw on texts by Marx, Freud, and Wollstonecraft to explore the contest between women's suffrage advocates and labor activists for the hearts and minds of "Bohemian" Greenwich Village in the spring of 1913.

Special Topics seminars reflect the variety of faculty interests and expertise, and thus vary in topic from year to year. They offer students and faculty opportunities to explore topics of interest across disciplinary lines, genres, and historical periods.

Reinventing Literary History

Sections of Reinventing Literary History are grouped in four clusters: Seminars on the Legacy of the Mediterranean feature classic texts representing key intellectual moments that have shaped Western culture, as well as excursions to the opera, the theatre, and museums. Offering revisionist responses to the constraints of canonicity, seminars on the Americas, Women and Culture, and Global Literature cross national boundaries, exploring the literary history of the Americas, the role of women in other cultures, and various approaches to global literature.

FYSB BC 1156x Legacy of the Mediterranean I

Investigates key intellectual moments in the rich literary history that originated in classical Greece and Rome and continues to inspire some of the world's greatest masterpieces. A lecture series featuring distinguished Barnard and Columbia professors provides a general historical framework, leaving time in the seminars for close readings of individual texts. Trips to museums and the opera situate the works in an interdisciplinary context available only in New York City. Texts include Euripides, The Bacchae; the Homeric Hymn to Demeter; Homer, Odyssey; Vergil, Aeneid; Dante, Inferno; Chaucer, The Canterbury Tales; Margery Kempe, The Book of Margery Kempe; Shakespeare [selection depends on NYC theatre offerings]; Madame de Lafayette, La Princesse de Cleves.

FYSB BC 1164x Women and Culture I

Literary history often portrays women as peripheral characters, confining their power to the islands of classical witches and the attics of Romantic madwomen. This course offers a revisionist response to such constraints of canonicity, especially as they pertain to the marginalization of female subjectivity in literature and culture. We will therefore explore a more diversified range of intellectual and experiential possibilities. The curriculum challenges traditional dichotomies--culture/nature, logos/pathos, mind/body--that cast gender as an essential attribute rather than a cultural construction. Texts include: Aeschylus, Oresteia; Hymn to Demeter; Ovid, Metamorphoses; Sei Shonagon, The Pillow Book; Marie de France, Lais; Chaucer, The Canterbury Tales; Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz, selected poetry; Shakespeare, As You Like It; Aphra Behn, Oroonoko; and Lady Hyegyong, The Memoirs of Lady Hyegyong.

FYSB BC 1292x The Americas I

Transcends the traditional and arbitrary distinction that separates North and South American literatures. The Americas emerge not as a passive colonial object but as an active historical and aesthetic agent. Emanating from what might be called the geographical site of modernity, American literature is characterized by unprecedented diversity and innovation. In addition to classic American novels, short stories, and poetry, the multicultural curriculum features genres ranging from creation myths and slave narratives to Gothicism and magic realism. Texts include: Popul Vuh; Shakespeare, The Tempest; Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz, Anne Bradstreet, and Phillis Wheatley, selected poetry; Madre María de Jesús de San José, Vida; Charles Brockden Brown, Edgar Huntly; Toussaint L’Ouverture, selected letters; Leonora Sansay, Secret History; Olaudah Equiano, The Interesting Narrative of the Life of Olaudah Equiano; William Apess, A Son of the Forest; Esteban Echeverría, "The Slaughterhouse"; Herman Melville, "Benito Cereno."

FYSB BC 1293y The Americas II

This course offers a revisionist perspective by transcending the traditional and arbitrary distinction that separates North and South American literatures. Emanating from what might be called the geographical site of modernity, American literature is characterized by unprecedented diversity and innovation. In addition to classic American novels, short stories, and poetry, the following multicultural curriculum features genres ranging from slave narratives and manifestos to gothicism and magic realism. Readings include Mark Twain, Pudd'nhead Wilson; Frederick Douglass, Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass; José Martí, Walt Whitman, Emily Dickinson, Langston Hughes, Gwendolyn Bennett, T. S. Eliot, selected poetry; Pablo Neruda, The Heights of Macchu Picchu; Machado de Assis, Dom Casmurro; William Faulkner, Jorge Luis Borges, selected stories; Gabriel García Márquez, One Hundred Years of Solitude.

FYSB BC 1329y Women and Culture II

The course examines constraints on canonicity, especially as they pertain to the portrayal of women in literature and culture. The curriculum explores a diverse range of intellectual and experiential possibilities for women, and it challenges traditional dichotomies—culture/nature, logos/pathos, mind/body—that cast gender as an essential attribute rather than a cultural construction. Readings include Milton, Paradise Lost; Leonora Sansay, Secret History; Mary Wollstonecraft, A Vindication of the Rights of Woman; Emily Brontë, Wuthering Heights; Emily Dickinson, selected poetry; Sigmund Freud, selected essays; Virginia Woolf, Mrs. Dalloway; Gertrude Stein, Doctor Faustus Lights the Lights; Bessie Head, When Rain Clouds Gather.

FYSB BC 1586y Global Literature: Thinking Latin America: How to Read about Globalization from the Margins
This course explores how Spanish America emerged as a laboratory of aesthetic, philosophical and political thought by questioning the ideological foundations of western global and technological expansion. In this course we will explore the writings of writers who examined the conditions of possibility of Iberian imperial expansion from the sixteenth century to the present. It will provide a literary and historical genealogy of the modern and postmodern views on nature, ecology, animal and human bodies. We will be especially interested in the analysis of dichotomies that lay the foundations of the Iberian political and scientific views on nature as well as the modern technical administration of human life through interpretative analysis and close readings of texts. We will examine how dichotomies truth/falsity, civilization/barbarism, male/female, raw material/commodities, nature/technology, developed/underdeveloped countries, while taken for granted by the imperial project, were questioned from the periphery. The field of study will range from the 15th to the 20th century, as authors include Bartolomé de Las Casas, Ginés de Sepúlveda, José de Acosta, Sor Juana Inés de la Cruz, Simón Bolívar, Doming Faustino Sarmiento, José Martí, Enrique Dussell, Josiñ Martínez, Enrique Rodó, Domitila Barrios de Chungara, Rigoberta Menchú, Jorge Luis Borges.

FYSB BC 1587x Global Literature: Travelling the Indian Subcontinent

This seminar explores the rich and multi-faceted culture of the Indian subcontinent through the literature and arts of three phases: ancient, colonial, and post-colonial. We will consider the relation between native and colonial traditions; the interaction of literature and politics; writing in different languages of the subcontinent; and the influences of region, religion, caste, class, and gender in works by writers from indigenous, colonial, and diasporic communities. We will encounter the different forms in which South Asia has been described, stretching from the foundational texts of the "Bhagavad Gita" and the Ramayana beginning in the 4th century BCE; the colonial voyages of Kipling’s Kim and Forster’s Passage to India; poetry of the Bengal Renaissance and of Tagore and Iqbal in the early nationalist period; and the development of the novel in English from independent to the recent explosion of post-colonial novels by, among others, Salman Rushdie (Midnight’s Children) and Kiran Desai (The Inheritance of Loss). India’s rich visual culture has often been explored in film, and we will look at films including the work of Indian filmmaker Satyajit Ray, a Western film on India ("Gandhi"), and a film of the Indian diaspora (“The Namesake”).

Reacting to the Past

In these seminars, students play complex historical role-playing games informed by classic texts. After an initial set-up phase, class sessions are run by students. These seminars are speaking- and writing-intensive, as students pursue their assigned roles’ objectives by convincing classmates of their views.

Each seminar will work with three of the following four games: 1) The Threshold of Democracy: Athens in 403 B.C. explores a pivotal moment following the defeat of Athens in the Peloponnesian War, when democrats sought to restore democracy while critics, including the supporters of Socrates, proposed alternatives. The key text is Plato’s Republic. 2) Confucianism and the Succession Crisis of the Wanli Emperor examines a dispute between Confucian purists and pragmatists within the Hanlin Academy, the highest echelon of the Ming bureaucracy, taking Analects of Confucius as the central text. 3) The Trial of Anne Hutchinson revisits a conflict that pitted Puritan dissenter Anne Hutchinson and her supporters against Massachusetts Governor John Winthrop and the orthodox ministers of New England. Students work with testimony from Hutchinson’s trial as well as the Bible and other texts. 4) Greenwich Village, 1913: Suffrage, Labor and the New Woman investigates the struggle between radical labor activists and woman suffragists for the hearts and minds of "Bohemians," drawing on foundational works by Marx, Freud, Mary Wollstonecraft, and others.

This seminar explores the rich and multi-faceted culture of the Indian subcontinent through the literature and arts of three phases: ancient, colonial, and post-colonial. We will consider the relation between native and colonial traditions; the interaction of literature and politics; writing in different languages of the subcontinent; and the influences of region, religion, caste, class, and gender in works by writers from indigenous, colonial, and diasporic communities. We will encounter the different forms in which South Asia has been described, stretching from the foundational texts of the "Bhagavad Gita" and the Ramayana beginning in the 4th century BCE; the colonial voyages of Kipling’s Kim and Forster’s Passage to India; poetry of the Bengal Renaissance and of Tagore and Iqbal in the early nationalist period; and the development of the novel in English from independent to the recent explosion of post-colonial novels by, among others, Salman Rushdie (Midnight’s Children) and Kiran Desai (The Inheritance of Loss). India’s rich visual culture has often been explored in film, and we will look at films including the work of Indian filmmaker Satyajit Ray, a Western film on India ("Gandhi"), and a film of the Indian diaspora (“The Namesake”).

What is love? What are philosophical and literary interpretations of the course and nature of love? This seminar will discuss various ideas and concepts of love that have developed throughout history from Confucius and Plato, to the idea of romantic love in the age of chivalry, and to the concepts of love in the modern world. The readings will consist only of works of literature. They include: Euripides, Medea; Sophocles, Antigone; Plato, Symposium; excerpts from the Old and New Testament; Baccaccio, Decameron; Pushkin, Eugene Onegin; Turgenev, First Love; Tolstoy, Kreutzer Sonata; Chekhov, The Lady With the Pet Dog, and others.

FYSB BC 1166y The Art of Being Oneself

Transparency in writing is a creation. It conveys the sense that the writer is putting all of his or her cards on the table, that the voice is candid and reasonable, that the person writing is knowable in an essential respect. Although in recent decades such a prose style has not been especially cherished in literature, it has characterized works that endure and that survive translation. Great artists in whatever medium tend to write clearly, vividly, concisely, and memorably about such complicated subjects as aesthetics, technique, political identity, the workings of society, and the shadings of emotion that galvanize human action. This course will look at examples ranging across time, space, and literary medium: the essay, the lecture, the autobiography, the journal, the letter, and the short story. Readings in the past have included The Personal Essay(edited by Phillip Lopate), TheJournals(Eugene Delacroix), Letters (Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart), Home and Exile(Chinua Achebe), Private Domain(Paul Taylor), and One Writer's Beginnings(Eudora Welty).

FYSB BC 1181y The American Supernatural

Considers American texts about the supernatural. We'll begin in the colonial period, when many New Englanders interpreted surprising events as divine or demonic interventions. We'll look at texts about Salem witchcraft and colonial revivals, comparing the way authors represent these events as supernatural or natural, divine or diabolical. We'll then explore American writers who use the supernatural to investigate the mind, issues of class and gender, and questions of identity. Finally, we'll close by considering ghost stories in performance. Texts include Cotton Mather, Wonders of the Invisible World; Melville, "The Apple-Tree Table"; James, The Turn of the Screw; Hawthorne, The House of the Seven Gables; Hopkins, Of One Blood; Tan, The Hundred Secret Senses.

FYSB BC 1203x Crisis of Authority

Governing authority can be defined as the relationship between ruler and ruled in which the framing of issues, the myths and narrative history of the state, and the reasoned elaboration of the government's decision are accepted by the citizens of subjects of the state. The crisis of authority occurs when this relationship is disrupted. In this seminar we will examine such crises in Ancient Greece, Renaissance Western Europe, twentieth-century United States, and post-communist Eastern Europe, through the writings of such authors as Plato, Machiavelli, Milton, Mill, de Tocqueville, King, and Michnik.

FYSB BC 1256y Chaos

A typical dictionary definition of the word chaos is "a state of utter confusion." However, the earliest examples of chaos depict it as emptiness, while modern mathematicians might define it as "a state of orderly disorder." We will study chaos as defined each of these ways, with applications in the social and physical sciences, literature, the arts and modern life. We will see these definitions and applications not as distinct, but as overlapping and intimately related. Readings will include John Milton's Paradise Lost, which we will compare and contrast with Michael Crichton's Jurassic Park; and Tom Stoppardi’s Arcadia.

FYSB BC 1286y Culture, Ethics and Economics

What if humans were only capable of caring for their own interests? What kind of economic world could we expect to find? One in which the common good would be attained by market forces, or one in which many would be left behind? This course uses a diversity of sources to examine the interplay of culture, ethics and economics. The starting point is Adam Smith’s work. Economists and policy makers have focused on one side of Adam Smith’s work represented by self-regarding behavior and the supremacy of the invisible hand in market functioning. However, Adam Smith also pointed out that one of humans’ central emotions is sympathy, a natural tendency to care about the well-being of others. In light of the recent events as well as research this other side of Adam Smith’s work appears now more relevant. We analyze evidence of cooperative versus self-regarding behaviors and its relationship with the economy, human evolution and cultural values in a variety of settings. Readings include works from Adam Smith, Milton Freedman, Charles Dickens, David Rockefeller and Chris Gardner.

FYSB BC 1289y Violence and Justice

What is the relationship between violence and justice? Are these mutually exclusive terms or do they at times overlap? Is violent disobedience of law unjustifiable at all times? How about violence used by to draw attention to questions of injustice? This first year seminar aims to inquire into these challenging questions by studying the theoretical debates on the relationship between violence, politics, and justice (e.g. Sorel, Fanon, Arendt, Zizek), analyzing different conceptions of civil disobedience (e.g. Plato, Thoreau, Marcuse, Rawls, Habermas), looking at examples of political struggles (e.g. civil rights movement, student protests of late 60s, labor movement, anti-colonial struggle, anti-globalization protests, suffragettes), and grappling with the question of how representations of violence affect our judgment about its legitimacy (e.g. Conrad’s Secret Agent).

FYSB BC 1290y The Social Movement Society

Introduces students to the important ideas and issues of social movements, and seeks to discover what social movements mean for our everyday life and contemporary world. By examining works that employ different research methods and literary styles, incorporating various media products, and reenacting in the classroom the dilemmas activists face in real social movement situations, we also aim at exploring the socio-political, cultural, and biographical aspects that give meanings to social movements. We will explore works on social movements that span across different times and continents, from the revolutionary manifesto of the proletariat movement in 19th century Europe (Karl Marx) to biographical accounts of women participating in protests in contemporary Argentina (Javier Auyero). Other works include historical analysis of the relationship between protest and democracy (John Markoff), study of the feminist movement post-War U.S. (Nancy Whittier), first count observation and analysis of the Tiananmann protests in 1989 China (Craig Calhoun), discussion of anti-globalization protests (Valentine Moghadam), and much more.

FYSB BC 1291 Utopias

In his 1516 work Utopia, Englishman Thomas More created a name for a perfect society from Greek roots meaning either no-place or the good place (eutopia). More’s vision of an ideal alternative world reflected his worries about social problems in England as well as the possibilities he imagined in America, which offered a real new world for most Europeans in the early 1500s. More was neither the first nor last person to imagine an alternate world, and this class will examine the ways writers, politicians, social critics, and revolutionaries have constructed eutopias (or good societies) as well as dystopias (bad societies) in fiction and in real life. We will ask how utopian fiction has developed as a distinctive genre, and we will also ask how utopian thought is a product of its particular time. What motivates writers and thinkers to come up with alternative models of society? What has made utopian fiction and science fiction so interesting to so many different kinds of writers? Additionally, what is the relationship between people who have written fictional visions of the future and those people who have tried to create real utopian societies? Can one person's utopia become another's dystopia? Readings in the class will range from Plato's Republic through modern science fiction and studies of suburbia. Texts include More's Utopia, Columbus's journals, Shakespeare's The Tempest, the Communist Manifesto, Gilman's Herland, and Hopkins's Of One Blood. We will also examine attempts to create utopias, including several American experimental communes from the early 1800s, nationalist racial dystopias such as Nazi Germany, and master-planned communities in the modern United States.

FYSB BC 1294y (Section 01) Art, Sex and American Culture

Sex is the ultimate forbidden public topic and yet from the New England Puritan's sermons to Bill Clinton's (in)famous affair, sex has often been publicly staged in dramatic, literary, religious, political, legal and social forums. In this seminar, we will explore how issues of sex and sexuality have insinuated themselves into the formation of American identity. We will examine texts from the seventeenth century to the present with a particular emphasis on the arts, politics and sex. Texts include Puritan sermons, Nathaniel Hawthorne's The Scarlet Letter, Tennessee Williams's Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, Suzan-Lori Parks's Venus, photographs by Robert Mapplethorpe, literature from Margaret Sanger's birth control movement, and theoretical works by Michel Foucault, Laura Mulvey and Judith Butler.

FYSB BC 1453y Einstein's Dreams

The seminar Einstein's Dreams and Time Machines will be based on literary fiction influenced by the big scientific ideas that have permeated culture. Discussion will be fostered between students of all backgrounds i.e. both those that identify themselves as not particularly scientific in their outlook and those that identify themselves as having a scientific bent. The emphasis of the seminar will be on novels and plays that deal either directly, or even only tangentially, with scientific themes such as Einstein's Relativity, Quantum Theory, Reality and Objectivity, Technology and Machines, Entropy and Time, Consciousness. Readings include: Einstein's Dreams, Alan Lightman; Frankenstein, Mary Shelley; White Noise, Don DeLillo; Time's Arrow, Martin Amis.

FYSB BC 1457x The Beautiful Sea

Consideration of mostly American texts that--and writers who--share a central engagement with the sea, seafaring and coastal life. Particular attention to the sea as workplace and as escape. Texts include Homer, The Odyssey; the Book of Jonah; St. Brendan, Navigations; Bradford, Of Plymouth Plantation; Mather, "Surprising Sea Deliverances"; Franklin, "Maritime Observations"; Dana, Two Years Before the Mast; Melville, Moby-Dick, or The Whale; Thoreau, Cape Cod; Twain, Life on the Mississippi; Chopin, The Awakening; Jewett, The Country of the Pointed Firs; Slocum, Sailing Alone Around the World; Beston, The Outermost House; Carson, Under the Sea Wind; Rich, "Diving into the Wreck"; Casey, Spartina.

FYSB BC 1460y Memory

Memory is arguably the most important faculty that we possess. Not surprisingly, memory has been a ubiquitous topic in poetry, science, fiction, and in the media. Ironically, memory’s value is perhaps best understood when it ceases to exist. Indeed, it isn’t hard to imagine the devastation that comes with memory loss. In this course, we will survey various components of memory, including its role in writing and history, and its existence in various non-human populations. In addition, we will explore the fragility of memory, including distortions, unusual memories, and basic forgetting. Readings will include poems, theoretical essays, scientific articles, and fiction. Assignments will consist of essays, opinion pieces, and creative stories. Students will also participate in a final in-class debate. Readings will include works from William Blake, James Joyce, Mary Elizabeth Coleridge, Emily Dickinson, Ben Jonson, Mary Carruthers, Francis Yates, Aristotle, William James, Elizabeth Loftus, Spinoza, Luria, J.L. Borges, S. Freud, Oliver Sacks, Truman Capote

FYSB BC 1461 Fact and Fiction

Every work of fiction contains facts about the real world. Were there a writer who believed Barnard College was located in Newark, that writer would be ill advised to write a novel about student life on the Upper West Side. Every historical work contains fictional elements in the narrative. There cannot be a history of the USA consisting solely of bare data taken from historical records. Within fiction itself there are puzzles. What kind of “fact” is it that Sherlock Holmes lived in London? Is it a “factual” mistake to believe that he lived in Glasgow? In this course we explore various aspects of the relations between the factual and the fictional. Readings include excerpts from the works of Aristotle, Honoré de Balzac, Truman Capote, Johannes Kepler, Margaret Cavendish, Daniel Defoe, Charles Dickens, George Eliot, Henry Fielding, George Herbert, Plato, Susanna Rowson.

FYSB BC 1462 Science, Literature and Culture

In this seminar, we will explore the cultural intersection of science and literature by reading pieces of creative writing (novels, plays, poems, short stories) alongside pieces of scientific writing (articles, essays, treatises). Topics will include the "proper" purposes and aims of scientific pursuit, the possiblities of artificial life and artificial intelligence, the implications of geological discovery and the theory of evolution, the impact of early theories of psychology and anthropology, the application of quantum and chaos theory to human existence, and the consequences of genetic experimentation. How do fiction writers engage such scientific theories in the themes and structures of their works, and to what end? How do scientists engage elements of storytelling in the explanation of their theories? What stories of human experience are fiction and science telling at different moments in Western history, and do science and literature seem to represent two different “cultures” at those moments? Readings will include works by Plato, Chaucer, Bacon, Descartes, Newton, Pope, Mary Shelley, Lyell, Tennyson, Darwin, Arnold, Dreiser, Freud, Anderson, Boas, Hurston, Einstein, Durenmat, Snow, Pynchon, Borges, Stoppard and Ishiguro.

FYSB BC 1568y Mortals, Creatures and Subjects

Examines concepts of the self in ancient, medieval, and modern philosophy and literature. The Greeks saw human beings as mortals, in contrast to the gods. Christians in the Middle Ages regarded themselves as immortal creatures reflecting the image of God. Since the seventeenth century we have come to understand selves very differently, namely as subjects defined by selfreflection, self-determination, self-definition, inwardness, and irreducible psychological complexity. Authors include, Homer, Plato, Augustine, Montaigne, Descartes, Pascal, Camus, and Sartre.

FYSB BC 1572x Animals in Text and Society

Interdisciplinary examination of the intimate and fraught connections between animals and humans in literature, philosophy and culture. We will consider topics such as the historical constructions of species boundaries and of the multiple meanings and uses of animals in human life; animal and human identity; emotions evoked by animals; and conceptualizations of animals as colonized "others." Readings include Aesop, Edward Albee, Angela Carter, John Coetzee, Geoffrey Chaucer, Gustave Flaubert, Jean LeFontaine, Marie de France, Michael Pollan, Ovid, selections from Genesis (in the Hebrew Bible), and Virginia Woolf.

FYSB BC 1588y Eating and Food

Eating behaviors and the biological necessity of food begin in infancy and continue developing over the course of a lifetime. After examining eating and food from the perspective of individuals, we will turn our attention to understanding how food decisions and habits are influenced by a hierarchy of social groups, from families to the global population. Writing assignments and discussion during seminar will draw on food-related activities outside of class in addition to varied readings including recent peer-reviewed science publications (medical, nutritional, anthropological, ecological), poems (Blake, Wordsworth, Whitman, Hughes, Hong), novels (Defoe, Martel), religious and folklore sources (Old and New Testaments, Aesop, Grimm) and historically significant essays (Swift, Malthus, Hardin, Lappe).

The Department’s primary goals are firstly to enable students to develop competence in spoken and written French, and secondly to expose students to the literature and culture of French and French-speaking countries.

In regard to students’ linguistic competence, our specific goals are: 1) To enable students to express themselves on a range of topics with an acceptable degree of fluency and accuracy. 2) To facilitate their comprehension of a variety of texts (both from literature and the media) written in French. 3) To foster students’ confidence in the possibility of their living and studying in a French environment. An important additional objective of the Department is to encourage students to consider studying in France or a Francophone country.

In the context of the language requirement (the first and second years), this implies a competence premised on students’ ability to achieve, by Intermediate French 2, oral and written fluency. Students will be able to use all tenses in the indicative and subjunctive, to deploy pronouns appropriately and understand the expressive and grammatical utility of conjunctions, rhetorical devices, and so on. Students will have the ability to write a cogent essay in French on a literary or cultural topic, and will possess a vocabulary beyond basic French, including rhetorical and conceptual vocabulary. In the context of the major requirement (the third and fourth years), students will progress to a greater competence in French, including advanced speaking skills, particularly in terms of discussing literary and cultural topics, and writing extended analytical essays. The culmination of a student’s progress is the one-semester cap stone experience in the spring semester of the senior year, where she will write a substantial thesis on a topic of her choice, supervised by senior members of the department, and defended before an appropriately selected committee.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students majoring in French are expected to satisfy the following learning outcomes:

1. Read literary texts closely and critically (explication de texte).
2. Discuss complex ideas in French with satisfactory proficiency.
3. Write analytical papers in French using appropriate theoretical and exegetical on given literary or cultural topics with satisfactory proficiency.
4. Demonstrate knowledge of French literature and other cultural materials.
5. Engage fully with another culture in a variety of intellectually sophisticated ways, including close textual analysis.
6. Conduct original research on a literary or cultural topic culminating in a 30 page thesis. For students in the Translation and Literature track the ability to translate a 30 page text from French into English accompanied by an introduction to the work.

New students who have already given evidence of advanced training in French (Advanced Placement Examination with a score of 4 or 5; CEEB examinations with a score of 781) are automatically exempted from the language requirement. All other new students who intend to satisfy their requirement in French will, depending upon their preparation, be placed immediately in the appropriate language course or be asked to take a placement test offered at the start of each semester (see College Calendar for exact dates). Those receiving a sufficiently high grade will be exempted from the language requirement. All others will be placed in French language courses according to their score. For additional information about language courses, students should consult the department chair.

Students who have satisfied the language requirement may immediately enroll in literature and culture courses (BC 3021, BC 3022, BC 3023, BC 3024); and advanced language courses (BC 3006-3019).

In cooperation with Columbia College, the department offers a program at Reid Hall in Paris open to majors and non-majors. Visit the Study Abroad website for more information.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

There are three majors available to prospective students in the department:

Language and Literature: This program emphasizes the language, culture, and literature of France and other French-speaking countries.

Translation and Literature: This program teaches students to translate from French into English and English into French, within a context of French culture and literature.

French and Francophone Studies: This program emphasizes the historical and contemporary interrelationship between France and the French-speaking world in their social, literary, and cultural aspects.

The requirements for each specific major are:

Language and Literature

11 courses are required for the major:

- 3021 or 3023 and 3022 or BC 3024
- 3 language courses (from 3006 to 3019)
- 2 literature courses up to, and including 18th century (3029-3036)
- 3 literature courses after 18th century (3037-3080)
- Senior thesis

French and Francophone Studies

11 courses are required for the major:

- 3420 AND 3421
- 2 language courses (from 3006-3019)
- 4 literature courses (from 3028-3075), of which at least 2 from 3069 to 3080
- 2 courses from other departments at BC or CU
- Senior Thesis (3091)

Translation and Literature

11 courses are required for the major:

- 3021 or 3023 and 3022 or 3024
- 4 language courses (from 3006-3019)
- 4 literature courses (from 3028-3080)
- Senior Seminar (3091)

The student is expected to declare her option by the end of the junior year. Programs may include additional courses in French literature, culture, and language, or in other subjects which vary with the interest of the student. Certain courses in the French and Romance Philology Department at Columbia University may be substituted with the approval of the chair. All students are required to write a thesis in their senior year. This thesis, of about 30 pages in length, will be written while the student is enrolled in BC 3091. Thesis specification will vary depending on the major program that has been chosen.

A student who elects French as part of a combined double or interdisciplinary major will establish her individualized program with the departments concerned. All combined or interdisciplinary majors require approval from the Committee on Petitions and Academic Standing.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Seven courses are required for a minor:

- FREN BC 3021 or BC 3023, and BC 3022 or BC 3024, or FREN V 3420 and V 3421
- Two language courses chosen from FREN BC 3006-BC 3019
- Three literature and culture courses chosen from FREN BC 3028-BC 3080

The German Department’s mission is to engage a wider audience of students within the Barnard Community. Its curricular program and cultural events serve a large and diverse academic community on the Barnard and Columbia campuses. The Department is committed to creating venues for students, faculty and the public interested in the many facets of cultural life in the German-speaking countries or communities.

As an active contributor to campus life, the Department has constantly initiated new venues—from readings, lectures and film screenings to excursions—to supplement and enrich its annual course offerings. In disciplines such as Art History, Philosophy or History, a familiarity with the German language is an asset; in interdisciplinary areas such as Comparative Literature or European Studies, German often serves as the main or second language of study.

It is the goal of our department:

- to teach the German language in a professionally reflected manner through a clear sequence of courses
- to help attain and expand knowledge of Austrian, German and Swiss literatures through reading exemplary texts in theme- or period-oriented courses
- to make familiar with characteristic features of Germanophone cultures by raising awareness of their geographical diversity and their historical richness in introductory survey courses
- to give students the rhetorical and intellectual tools for moving confidently between two languages’ cultural traditions by offering exercises, sketches and other forms of active participation from elementary to advanced levels of expression
- to create a learning environment that instills appreciation for critical thought and is conducive to acquiring a clearly defined set of skills, from language proficiency to interpretive adroitness and intercultural literacy

Courses in German are designed to develop proficiency in language skills and to present the traditions as well as the current developments in the literature and culture of the German-speaking countries: Austria, Germany, and Switzerland. Courses in Dutch, Finnish, Swedish, and Yiddish are offered by the Department of Germanic Languages. For information contact 319 Hamilton Hall.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students who graduate with a German major should be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Write, speak, read, and listen in German at the intermediate-high level in German language using ACTFL; and carry-on an everyday conversation
2. Identify and discuss the historical significance of major cultural works such as film, plays, opera, telenovela, audiovisual media
3. Recognize cultural manifestations of social values and practices and apply effectively knowledge about cultural perspectives of majorities, minorities and underrepresented bi-cultural communities in German-speaking countries
4. Discuss the regional and historical differences among the three German-speaking countries and communities in the European and global contexts by demonstrating knowledge of representative cultural products and practices as well as common social perceptions and values
5. Demonstrate awareness of the relevant features of German language, culture or literature
6. Apply the key elements of literary and cultural theory in an analysis and interpretation of literary or cultural works
7. Complete an original research project about German literature and culture (includes finding and selecting appropriate sources; assessing their heuristic value; composing a concise research plan and a thesis statement; organizing a long piece of writing; establishing a reliable bibliography and proper citation practice)
8. Compose a closely argued, coherently presented and well-documented essay or a well-organized portfolio in German, relevant to a genre, medium, period, author, theoretical issue, cultural context or creative goal
The language requirement in German is fulfilled by the completion of GERM V 1202 Intermediate Course II. Entering students with a previous knowledge of German will be placed in the appropriate course on the basis of their CEEB scores or in accordance with their achievements on a placement test taken prior to registration.

Three levels of language instruction are offered with an equal emphasis on reading, writing, oral comprehension, and speaking. The Elementary Full-Year Course, German V 1101-V 1102, includes CD-ROMs that the students will use to supplement their five classroom contact hours. In the Intermediate Course I and II, German V 1201 and V 1202, students work with a broad range of sources, such as newspapers, journals, statistical data, historical texts, literature, etc. These texts help build a foundation in the culture of German speaking countries and at the same time enhance the complexity and accuracy of language use. The content is presented through a wide array of media, such as the Internet, music, film, and art. German V 3001 and V 3002 Advanced German provide opportunity for intensive practice in speaking and writing German. These courses may be taken in reverse sequence. They are recommended as complementary companion courses to lecture/reading-oriented courses.

Satisfactory completion of or exemption from GERM V 1202 is required for enrollment in any of the advanced courses; the sequences in which these should be taken will be determined in consultation with the department.

THE MAJOR IN GERMAN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

The courses comprising this program are all taught in German with the twofold objective of combining the study of significant works, literary trends, and cultural manifestations with advanced practice in the use of German as a medium of practical everyday communication and intellectually stimulating discussion or conversation.

Requirements: 10 courses

- GERM V 3001-3002 Advanced German Conversation and Composition (3 pts. each)
- GERM W 3333x Introduction to German Literature
- GERM BC 3061y Seminar

Five one-term advanced literature courses chosen from GERM BC 3027-3050 or their Columbia equivalent GERM W 3443-3675.

A third advanced language course may be substituted for one advanced literature course.

- GERM BC 3062x or y Senior Essay

A half-hour oral exit examination is required.

THE MAJOR IN GERMAN STUDIES

This major combines a study of literature with other aspects of German culture and civilization by choosing courses from the social sciences such as history, political science, and economics, and from other humanities dealing with German-speaking regions or communities.

The department will assist and advise students interested in studying in Germany, Austria, or Switzerland. It should be noted that Barnard College is a member of the Berlin Consortium for German Studies and strongly encourages those students wishing to study abroad to do so through this program administered by Columbia University and conducted in association with the Freie Universität Berlin.

Requirements: 14 courses

- Two or three of the following language courses or their equivalent:
  - GERM V 3001-3002, GERM BC 3009, GERM BC 3010

- Four or five one-term Advanced Literature and Culture courses numbered:
  - GERM BC 3011-3061 (or their Columbia equivalent)

- One GERM BC 3062x or y Senior Essay*

Six one-term courses in the Social Sciences and Humanities that relate to the German-speaking countries of Europe and define a special field of interest (to be chosen in consultation with the major adviser). Two courses dealing with German history are strongly recommended.

*The major adviser in the German department will work with a second reader in another field if the thesis topic should require it.

THE COMBINED MAJOR: GERMAN AND ANOTHER FIELD

Requirements: 14 courses

Seven courses in each department, including a seminar in one of the departments and a senior essay on a topic bridging both fields.

A student who selects a combined major will establish her special program in consultation with the departments concerned.
THE MINOR IN GERMAN

Requirements: 5 courses

Advanced language courses from GERM V 3001-02 and GERM W 3333.

A minimum of three additional advanced literature courses from GERM BC 3011-3061 or their Columbia equivalent.

STUDY IN BERLIN

Website: www.columbia.edu/cu/ssp/berlin

Barnard College and Columbia University, in collaboration with John Hopkins University, Princeton University, the University of Chicago, the University of Pennsylvania, and Yale University, offer a program based at the Free University Berlin for students interested in German studies, whether literature, history, philosophy, or political science. Instruction is in German, and students with majors in all fields who have completed two, or preferably three or more, years of college German (or the equivalent) and who have a 3.0 GPA may apply. To assure validation of credits, students should work closely with their major advisers. Students may study in Berlin for an entire academic year or for the Spring semester only (Autumn only is not available). All students should discuss their proposed programs with their home college advisers and the Dean of Studies prior to departure. A bulletin with more complete information about all aspects of the program and an application form are available in the Berlin Consortium Office.

History encompasses the whole of human experience, helping us understand ourselves in the context of our times and traditions through the study of times and traditions other than our own. History means not only the record of the past but also the discipline of investigating and interpreting the past. The study of history develops habits of critical thinking and effective writing, as well as it cultivates the careful analysis of various types of quantitative and qualitative evidence. It should be of value not only to undergraduates who intend to pursue advanced degrees in the field, but also to students interested in exploring the diversity and complexity of the human past, even as they hone their analytical and expository skills.

Student Learning Objectives

Students graduating with a major in History should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Use and evaluate primary materials through critical reading and interpretation
2. Understand the difference between primary materials and secondary materials
3. Use and evaluate secondary materials through critical reading and interpretation
4. Develop critical writing skills
5. Gain exposure to theories and methods of historical study
6. Explore in depth and gain a good acquaintance with the history of a geographic area, a period, or a theme
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students who intend to major in history should consult a member of the department in their sophomore year to plan their academic programs. The history major requires a minimum of eleven courses, eight in the area of concentration and three outside the area of concentration.

The three principal areas of concentration are European, American, and Asian history, but majors may, in consultation with their advisers and with the approval of the chair, concentrate in some other field, such as ancient, medieval, Jewish, or African history. Majors may also, in consultation with their advisers, choose a transnational thematic concentration, such as urban history, empires and colonialism, nationalisms, science and society, money and markets, or gender, sexuality, and the family.

TRANSNATIONAL THEMATIC CONCENTRATIONS

Majors in history may now choose to concentrate either in a world region (for example, Asia, Latin America, Europe, the US) or select a transnational thematic concentration (examples are listed below). For both regional and transnational thematic concentrations, two related courses may be chosen from outside the History Department (examples are listed below each concentration).

Barnard history courses are numbered to reflect the type of course and world region:

By course type:
- 1000-level: introductory lecture courses
- 3000-level: other undergraduate lecture courses
- 4000-level: undergraduate seminars

By world region/epoch:
- x000-x059: Ancient
- x060-x099: Medieval
- x1xx-x199: Early Modern Europe
- x2xx-x299: East Central Europe
- x3xx-x399: Modern Western Europe
- x4xx-x599: United States
- x600-x659: Jewish
- x660-x699: Latin America
- x700-x759: Middle East
- x760-x799: Africa
- x800-x859: South Asia
- x860-x899: East Asia
- x9xx-x999: Research, Historiography, Trans-National

The 11 required courses must include:

1. Three introductory courses (i.e., 1000-level courses or their equivalent). For Barnard Class of 1998 onwards, two of the introductory courses must be taken in the field of concentration.
   Students with AP credits may substitute an advanced course(s) for introductory course(s), although AP credits may not be counted toward the 11 required courses.
2. Two seminars
3. The two-semester senior research seminar (HIS BC 4391-92, 4493-94). The Senior Thesis must be taken in sequence over two semesters, beginning in the Fall and continuing through the Spring.

Majors may, with the approval of their advisers, take two of their 11 courses outside the department, provided that such courses are closely related to their concentrations.

American Studies seminars may be substituted for history seminars.

SENIOR RESEARCH SEMINAR

The senior research seminar in which students write their senior essays (30-50 pages), represents the culmination of the undergraduate history major. Students should discuss tentative topics with their advisers by the end of the junior year. Halfway through the first semester of the senior year students must submit a formal prospectus defining the problem under investigation, outlining the issues involved, and identifying the primary and secondary sources consulted. They must draft part of the essay by the end of the Fall semester, then complete their research and writing in the Spring.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in history requires five courses, four in an area of concentration and one outside the concentration. The five courses must include one seminar. At least three of the minimum five courses must be qualifying Barnard or Columbia courses. Students planning to minor in history should consult the department chair.

The Human Rights Studies Program introduces Barnard undergraduates to the basic normative, theoretical and empirical knowledge and skills necessary to contribute cogently to public debates and policy initiatives related to social justice in the modern world. This mission reflects the proliferation of human rights concerns and the associated growth of public and private human rights institutions over the past half century, but more importantly the daunting theoretical and practical challenges that still remain. Human Rights Studies at Barnard is an interdisciplinary program, a joint major that combines the study of human rights with a complementary disciplinary, regional or other expertise at the choice of each student. These options include but are not limited to Africana Studies, American Studies, Anthropology, Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures, Comparative Literature, English, French, German, History, Italian, Political Science, Psychology, Religion, Slavic, Sociology, Spanish, and Women's Studies.

Student Learning Goals

Human rights learning objectives fall into four broad categories:

- Competence with respect to the normative dimensions concerned with social justice, and the related institutions.
- Mastery of the empirical skills required to collect, evaluate and report accurately data on human rights abuses and institutional activities.
- A basic knowledge of the causes and effects associated with human rights situations, including the factors that ameliorate or aggravate violations.
- An understanding of the factors that contribute to effective remedial or response strategies and take into account the different political, economic, social and cultural contexts of each set of problems.

Student Learning Outcomes

In the case of undergraduate women majoring in human rights, these four broad goals would require students to possess the following knowledge and skills. The capacity to:

1. Identify, and understand the work of, the main public and private institutions that comprise the modern international human rights regime.
2. Identify the main past and present currents of theory and practice that define and challenge the contemporary consensus on human rights norms, particularly with respect to the core concepts of discrimination, equality, diversity, pluralism and human dignity.
3. Identify and trace the impact of the major events over the last hundred years that have led to the formation of the contemporary human rights norms and institutions.
4. Understand the major taxonomies, paradigms and current debates in the field of international human rights.
5. Exhibit competency in the integration of normative, institutional, public policy and empirical materials.

6. Understand the ways in which international standards are implemented and enforced in both international and domestic fora, including the nature of the obligations on states and other national and international actors.

7. Think and write critically about human rights institutions, theories, strategies and their relationship to other social priorities.

8. Discuss in detail two or more case studies, groups at risk, or specific human rights problems such as public health, specific rights, refugees, indigenous people, poverty etc., incorporating as appropriate the resources of other Barnard departments and programs.

9. Identify the ways in which the human rights regime offers tools to address violations of women's human rights as well as the ways in which women have been influential in the field.

10. Examine the relationships between human rights paradigms and those in related fields, notably development studies, peace and conflict management, security studies, social work, refugee and migration studies and especially women's studies.

11. Complete and defend advanced original research that draws on diverse sources and addresses one or more of the above questions.

Human rights studies at Barnard is designed to contribute to a liberal arts curriculum. Its cross-disciplinary character enriches and benefits from Barnard’s teaching in the humanities and social sciences. Its core courses examine critically universally accepted intellectual and political frameworks for debates on social justice, i.e. international human rights law. Many of these debates focus on domestic and international issues that are the grist of ongoing political and ethical debates that are legitimately the concern of all citizens and for which they ought to be well prepared. As such, human rights studies forms an integral part of the expanding field of international education at Barnard. The Program draws on Columbia’s and NYC’s unique human and documentary resources. It also provides an intellectual base and appropriate skills for social advocacy. These different dimensions do not coincide with individual disciplines. The range of issues that now fall within the field of human rights is extensive, reflecting the scope of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and its subsequent associated treaties. The unique and defining dimensions of human rights studies are the problems raised by its normative and prescriptive or remedy-oriented dimensions (the first and the fourth of the fields of study above).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE COMBINED MAJOR

A minimum of six courses in the Human Rights Program, including HRTS V 3001 Introduction to Human Rights and at least two other courses from among those designated “core courses”; three “related” courses; and a complete major in a relevant department. Where courses in the Human Rights Program also satisfy departmental requirements, no more than three Human Rights courses may count toward the major. Besides the six courses in Human Rights Program, students will be asked to submit a senior thesis or project in the area of human rights, written in the major department. Those interested in a combined major should consult with the Director or other members of the Committee on Human Rights Program. See the websites www.barnard.edu/humright and www.columbia.edu/cu/humanrights for updates on course offerings.

The Italian Department seeks to provide students with the opportunity for in-depth study of the language, literature, and culture of Italy; it aims to enrich students' understanding of Italian culture through an interdisciplinary curriculum; it offers students the advantages of closely supervised work with its faculty. Through its full integration with the Columbia University Italian Department, the Barnard Italian Department aims to provide a wide range of courses covering Italian literature and culture from Middle Ages to the present.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students who graduate with an Italian major should be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Write, speak, read, and listen in Italian at the intermediate-high level in Italian language and carry on an everyday conversation;
2. Identify and discuss the historical significance of major cultural works such as film, novels, plays, and opera;
3. Analyze Italian literary texts and films at an advanced level;
4. Demonstrate knowledge of major texts and authors in the Italian literary tradition, from the Middle Ages to the present;
5. Knowledge of the historical, political, cultural and literary aspects of the North/South divide in Italy;
6. Conduct original research on a literary or cultural topic project culminating in a 30-40 page thesis, successfully demonstrating an advanced level of textual and/or historical interpretation and the coherent presentation of an argument.

Undergraduate instruction in Italian has long been fully and successfully integrated among the various undergraduate schools-Barnard College, Columbia College, and the School of General Studies. All courses are open to Barnard students. The Advanced Italian courses, though part of the requirement for a major in Italian, are open to all qualified students whose main goal is to improve their competence in the language.

A major in Italian offers the advantages of closely supervised work for a small number of students. Through the senior tutorial, students pursue research in a chosen area of Italian culture under the guidance of a specialist.

The courses given in English have no prerequisites and are open to students majoring in other departments who nevertheless wish to study Italian literature and culture.

The Barnard Italian office is located in 320 Milbank, and the Columbia department is housed in 502 Hamilton.

Graduate courses are open to qualified students with permission of the instructor.

ITAL G 4340X Italy’s Southern Question: Geography, Culture, and Power

Examines Italy’s Southern Question from the nineteenth century to the present, investigating the interrelations among cultural representation, geography, and power. Focuses on three writer/artists who produced major representations and theorizations of the Southern Question in three different cultural forms: the fiction Giovanni Verga, the theoretical writings of Antonio Gramsci, and the films of Luchino Visconti.

ITAL V 3993Y Senior Thesis Seminar

Advanced research seminar for senior Italian majors aimed at guiding them in the writing of their thesis. Readings and discussions will encourage reflection on the significance of doing scholarship within a specific disciplinary context as well as the challenges and rewards of interdisciplinary research. Thesis topic to be chosen in consultation with the instructor; a second faculty member may be the primary director of the thesis.

ITAL W 4502X Italian Cultural Studies I: From Unification to World War I

Barnard College, Online Course Catalogue http://www.barnard.edu/catalog/depts/itlb.php?tab=courses
An interdisciplinary investigation into Italian culture and society in the years between Unification in 1860 and the outbreak of World War I. Drawing on novels, historical analyses, and other sources including film and political cartoons, the course examines some of the key problems and trends in the cultural and political history of the period. Lectures, discussion and required readings will be in English. Students with a knowledge of Italian are encouraged to read the primary literature in Italian.

The program in Jewish Studies enables undergraduates to acquire a thorough knowledge of the most important aspects of Jewish culture, civilization, and history in an interdisciplinary setting. The purpose of the program is to help the student identify resources for constructing rigorously detailed and methodological majors.

The program begins from the assumption that a meaningful major can be most profitably framed in one of the existing departments such as, but not limited to, American Studies, Ancient Studies, Anthropology, Art History, Asian and Middle Eastern Cultures, Classics, Comparative Literature, English, History, Music, Religion, Sociology, and Women’s Studies. The program director would then certify that the subject matter of that major contains enough interest in Jewish subjects and is rigorous enough in methodology.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE COMBINED MAJOR

A minimum of 6 courses in Jewish Studies, including Introduction to Judaism RELI V 2620 or the equivalent, and a complete major in a relevant department are required for a combined major in Jewish Studies. Where courses in Jewish Studies also satisfy departmental major requirements, the student must complete at least three courses over and above what is normally required for the major. Students are encouraged to consult the offerings of other relevant departments and frame a major by centering on the methodological requirements of that major and utilizing the advising capacities of that department. Students, especially those who plan to continue in graduate Jewish Studies of any kind, are strongly encouraged to seek competence in Hebrew and other languages which were used by Jews in their particular area of concentration. Where possible, the courses in Jewish Studies should be taken across the major areas of Jewish history: Ancient (biblical); Hellenistic and Talmudic; Medieval; and Modern. Besides the six courses specifically in Jewish Studies, students must submit a Senior Thesis or project in the area of Jewish Studies, written in the major department or in conjunction with JWST BC 3998 Directed Research.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Students who have special placement problems, or are unclear about their level, should make an appointment with a faculty member or the chair.

Two help rooms, one in 404 Mathematics and one in 333 Milbank, will be open all term (hours will be posted on the door and the online) for students seeking individual help and counseling from the instructors and teaching assistants. No appointments are necessary. However, resources are limited and students who seek individual attention should make every effort to come during the less popular hours and to avoid the periods just before midterm and final exams.

COURSES FOR FIRST-YEAR STUDENTS

The systematic study of Mathematics begins with one of the following alternative sequences: Calculus I, II, III, IV (Math V 1101–2, V 1201–2); Honors Math A-B (Math V 1207–8).

Credit is allowed for only one of the calculus sequences. The calculus sequence is a standard course in differential and integral calculus. Honors Mathematics A-B is for exceptionally well-qualified students who have strong advanced placement scores. It covers second-year Calculus (Math V 1201–2) and Linear Algebra (Math V 2010), with an emphasis on theory.

Calculus II is NOT a prerequisite for Calculus III, so students who plan to take only one year of calculus may choose between I and II or I and III. The latter requires a B or better in Calculus I and is a recommended option for some majors.

Introduction to Higher Mathematics (MATH V 2000) is a course that can be taken in their first or second year by students with an aptitude for mathematics who would like to practice writing and understanding mathematical proofs.

PLACEMENT IN THE CALCULUS SEQUENCE

College Algebra and Analytical Geometry is a refresher course for students who intend to take Calculus but do not have adequate background for it.

Advanced Placement: Students who have passed the advanced placement test for Calculus AB with a grade of 4 or 5 or BC with a grade of 4 receive 3 points of credit. Those who passed Calculus BC with a grade of 5 will receive 4 points of credit or 6 points on placing into Calculus III or Honors Math III and completing with a grade of C or better.

Calculus I, II, III: Students who have not previously studied calculus should begin with Calculus I. Students with 4 or higher on the Calculus AB or BC advanced placement test may start with Calculus II. Students with 5 on the Calculus BC test should start with Calculus III.

Honors Mathematics A: Students who have passed the Calculus BC advanced placement test with a grade of 5, and who have strong mathematical talent and motivation, should start with Honors Mathematics A. This is the most attractive course available to well-prepared, mathematically talented first-year students, whether or not they intend to be mathematics majors. Students who contemplate taking this course should consult with the instructor. If this is not possible ahead of time, they should register and attend the first class.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The majors program in both mathematics and applied mathematics are appropriate for students who plan to continue their training in graduate school. Students who begin with Honors Mathematics A-B will need to plan their succeeding course carefully with the help of an adviser.

For a major in Mathematics: 14 courses as follows:

Four courses in calculus or Honors Mathematics A-B, including Advanced Placement Credit. Six courses in mathematics numbered at or above 2000, and four courses in any combination of mathematics and cognate courses. The courses in mathematics must include:

- V 2010  Linear Algebra (or Honors Mathematics A-B)
- W 4041-2  Introduction to Modern Algebra*
- W 4061-2  Introduction to Modern Analysis*
- V 3951x, 3952y  Undergraduate Seminar in Mathematics (at least one term)

However, students who are not contemplating graduate study in mathematics may replace one or both of the two terms of MATH W 4061-W 4062 by one or two of the following courses: MATH V 2500, V 3007, or W 4032. In exceptional cases, the chair will approve the substitution of certain more advanced courses for those mentioned above.

*Note: It is strongly recommended that the sequences Math W 4041-2 and W 4061-2 be taken in separate years.

For a major in Applied Mathematics: 14 courses plus Junior Seminar in Applied Mathematics:

Four courses in calculus or Honors Mathematics A-B, including Advanced Placement Credit.

- V 2010  Linear Algebra
- W 4061  Introduction to Modern Analysis
- APMA E 4901  Seminar in Applied Mathematics: Fall, Junior year
- APMA E 4903  Seminar in Applied Mathematics: Fall, Senior year
- APMA E 3900  Undergraduate Research in Applied Mathematics

(APMA E 3900 may be replaced by the combination APMA E 4902/4904, second semester of the junior and senior applied mathematics seminar, when these are offered or, with approval, another technical elective for seniors that involves an undergraduate thesis or creative research report.)

Additional electives, to be approved by the Applied Math Committee, e.g.:

- V 2500  Analysis and Optimization
- V 3007  Complex Variables
- V 3027  Ordinary Differential Equations
- V 3028  Partial Differential Equations
- V 3030  Dynamical Systems
- W 4032  Fourier Analysis
For a major in Mathematics-Statistics: 14 courses:

Five courses in mathematics:

V 1101, V 1102 and V 1201 Calculus I, II and III or equivalent
MATH V 2010 Linear Algebra
MATH V 2500 Analysis and Optimization

Five courses in statistics:

STAT W 1211 Introduction to Statistics B
STAT W 3000 Introduction to Statistics: Probability Models or SIEO W 4105 Probability
STAT W 3659 or W 4107 Statistical Inference
STAT W 4315 Linear Regression Models
IEOR E 4106 Introduction to Operations Research: Stochastic processes or SIEO W 4606 Elementary Stochastic Processes

One course in computer science that requires substantial work in programming.

Three courses of electives: An approved selection of advanced courses in mathematics, statistics, applied mathematics, computer science, or mathematical methods courses in physical or social sciences, including biology, economics, and physics.

Students should plan to include a senior thesis or the Undergraduate Seminar in Mathematics in their program, in consultation with their advisors.

Note: Students must obtain approval from an adviser in each of the two departments before selecting electives. Students should take MATH V 2010 Linear Algebra in the second semester of the second year. With the approval of their adviser, students may replace the two requirements STAT W 3000 or SIEO W 4105 and STAT W 3659/4107 with the 6-point course STAT W 4109.

For a major in Mathematics-Computer Science:

15 courses as follows:

Courses in mathematics:

V 1101, V 1102, V 1201, V 1202 Calculus I, II, III, IV (including AP Credit) or V 1207, V 1208 Honors Math A-B (Note A)
V 2010 Linear Algebra
V 3020 Number Theory and Cryptography (Note B)
W 4041 Introduction to Modern Algebra
W 4061* Introduction to Modern Analysis (Note C)
Undergraduate Seminars in Mathematics

Courses in computer science:

W 1004 Computer Science I (or AP credit)
W 1007 Computer Science II
W 3137 Data Structures and Algorithms
W 3157 Computer Science III (Advanced Programming)
W 3203 Discrete Mathematics
W 3261 Computability and Models of Computation
W 3827 Fundamentals of Computer Systems
W 4231* Analysis of Algorithms I
W 4241* Numerical Algorithms and Complexity I

*Electives--take two of four; in exceptional cases, other courses may be substituted with the approval of departmental representatives of both departments.

Note A: The Honors sequence also fulfills the MATH V 2010 Linear Algebra requirement.

Note B: May substitute MATH V 3021 or BC 2006 or MATH V 1103.

Note C: May substitute MATH V 2500, V 3007, V 4032, V 3386, or W 4051.

Students seeking to pursue a Ph.D. program in either discipline are urged to take additional courses, in consultation with their advisers.

For a major in Economics and Mathematics, see the catalogue.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

For a minor in Mathematics or Applied Mathematics: Six courses from any of the courses offered by the department except Math W 1003 College Algebra and Analytic Geometry, Math V 1101/2 Calculus I/II.

MATH V 1202x or y Calculus IV

Multiple integrals, Taylor's formula in several variables, line and surface integrals, calculus of vector fields, Fourier series. (SC)

Prerequisites: MATH V1102, V1201, or the equivalent. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points
MATH V 1207x-V1208y Honors Mathematics A-B

The second term of this course may not be taken without the first. Multivariable calculus and linear algebra from a rigorous point of view. Recommended for mathematics majors. Fulfills the linear algebra requirement for the major. (SC)

Prerequisites: (see Courses for First-Year Students). Recitation Section Required. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

Prerequisites: MATH V1202 or the equivalent.
MATH V 3901x-V3902y Supervised Readings In Mathematics

Guided reading and study in mathematics. A student who wishes to undertake individual study under this program must present a specific project to a member of the staff and secure his or her willingness to act as sponsor. Written reports and periodic conferences with the instructor.

Prerequisites: the written permission of the staff member who agrees to act as sponsor (sponsorship limited to full-time instructors on the staff list), as well as the permission of the director of undergraduate studies. The written permission must be deposited with the director of undergraduate studies before registration is completed. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

2-3 points.

MATH V 3951x-V3952y Undergraduate Seminars In Mathematics

The subject matter is announced at the start of registration and is different in each section. Each student prepares talks to be given to the seminar, under the supervision of a faculty member or senior teaching fellow.

Prerequisites: two years of calculus, at least one year of additional mathematics courses, and the permission of the director of undergraduate studies. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points

MATH V 3997x-V3998y Supervised individual research

For specially selected mathematics majors, the opportunity to write a senior thesis on a problem in contemporary mathematics under the supervision of a faculty member.

Prerequisites: The written permission of the faculty member who agrees to act as a supervisor, and the permission of the director of the undergraduate studies.

MATH G 4073x Quantitative Methods In Investment Management

Surveys the field of quantitative investment strategies from a "buy side" perspective, through the eyes of portfolio managers, analysts and investors. Financial modeling there often involves avoiding complexity in favor of simplicity and practical compromise. All necessary material scattered in finance, computer science and statistics is combined into a project-based curriculum, which give students hands-on experience to solve real world problems in portfolio management. Students will work with market and historical data to develop and test trading and risk management strategies. Programming projects are required to complete this course.

The Medieval and Renaissance program at Barnard College is designed to enable students to acquire both a broad knowledge of the European Middle Ages and/or Renaissance and a richer and more detailed understanding in one area of concentration chosen by the student. Students can elect to concentrate in one of the following disciplines: art history, history, literature, philosophy, romance languages and cultures, music, or religion. We encourage our students to take advantage of relevant courses taught at Columbia as well as at Barnard, with the result that more than sixty courses are currently listed as approved for the major.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students who graduate with a major in Medieval and Renaissance Studies will be able to attain the following outcomes:

- Demonstrate a broad knowledge of the European Middle Ages and/or Renaissance.
- Show they also have in-depth knowledge in their chosen concentration of study.
- Create an original research project centered in primary sources.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Major programs are established individually with a concentration in one of these disciplines: art history, history, literature, philosophy, romance philology, music, or religion. Each student, after consultation with the chair, chooses an adviser in her area of concentration who guides her in developing a sequence of courses to be taken in the field.

A minimum of 11 courses are required for the major in Medieval and Renaissance Studies:

- Five courses in the area of concentration;
- Two history courses for students who are not concentrating in history;
- Two courses in the other disciplines mentioned above for those who are;
- Two electives in areas outside the concentration, to be chosen in consultation with the adviser; and
- MEDR BC 3998x and MEDR BC 3999y, Directed Research, a two-semester program of interdisciplinary research leading to the writing of the senior essay.

(In some cases, a senior seminar in one of the departments may be substituted for MEDR BC 3998x or 3999y.)

Students are required to write an interdisciplinary senior essay based on two semesters of research in their field of concentration and in another discipline, carried out under the supervision of their area adviser and another from the second discipline. The choice of topic for this senior project and the appointment of a second adviser are determined in consultation with the area adviser and the chair of the program.

In addition to the language used to fulfill the general four-semester requirement for graduation, the student must have completed two semesters of a second language (or the equivalent) relevant to her area of concentration.

The following courses represent only a sample of those that can be taken to satisfy the program requirement. Other relevant courses may be taken with the permission of the chair.

No minor is offered in Medieval and Renaissance Studies.

Courses of Instruction

MEDR BC 3998x-BC3999y Directed Research for the Senior Project

Two semesters of supervised interdisciplinary research in Medieval or Renaissance Studies terminating in the writing of a senior essay. The program of research is determined in consultation with the chair and under the guidance of the area adviser. It is supervised by the latter and an adviser from the second discipline involved in the project.

The Barnard Music Program provides the vocal program for the university, which includes the Barnard-Columbia Chorus and Chamber Choir, solo studio voice lessons and two levels of limited-enrollment vocal classes, Technique in Singing, and the Vocal Repertoire Class. In addition, the program provides a music history course, Introduction to Music, which is a year-long survey of Western European art music, from sixth-century Gregorian Chant to the work of living composers. The course fulfills the Fine and Performing Arts requirement of the General Education Requirements and also serves as a pre-requisite for the music major. Students may complete a senior project in music repertoire by presenting an hour-long recital, or may write a fifty-page thesis project in music research. The successful student will gain professional level performance skills though studio lessons and the theory and ear training sequence, and gain a comprehensive knowledge of music history from the courses in historical musicology and ethnomusicology provided by the Music Department at Columbia University.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students who successfully graduate with a major in music will be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Analyze the harmonic structure of art music and identify schools of composition by historic period and nationality;
2. Read music at sight at the keyboard, with their instrument, or sight sing representative excerpts from all periods of Western European art music;
3. Perform at a professional level vocally or instrumentally;
4. Demonstrate in-depth knowledge of the diversity of style, musical period and mastery of the representative literature for voice or instrument.
5. Apply knowledge of musical theories, traditions and periods to the study of the major;
6. Communicate effectively orally and in writing;
7. Explain the theoretical concepts and organizational principles, harmony, pitch, and rhythm of both non-Western and Western art music.

REQUIREMENTS FOR MAJOR

Program of Study: To be planned with the department consultant before the end of the sophomore year. Prospective music majors should complete the prerequisites by the end of their sophomore year and are encouraged to complete them by the end of their first year. By the end of her first year as a music major, the student should select a faculty adviser.

Prerequisite: BC 1001 or 1002, MUSI V 1002 Fundamentals of Western Music, and MUSI V 1312 Introductory Ear-training. Prospective music majors are advised to satisfy the prerequisites prior to their declaration as majors or before the end of their sophomore year. This requirement may be fulfilled either through successful completion of the courses or satisfactory performance on examinations administered each semester by the department.

Courses: At least 40 points, including MUSI V 2318-2319 Diatonic Harmony and Counterpoint; V 3321-V 3322 Chromatic Harmony and Counterpoint; four semesters of eartraining, unless the student is exempt by exam; the following two history courses: V 3128 History of Western Music I: Middle Ages to Baroque and V 3129 History of Western Music II: Classical to 20th Century; and at least three 3000- or 4000-level electives in her area of interest (theory, history, composition, or ethnomusicology). The remaining points are chosen from 2000- to 4000-levels. No more than 6 points of 2000-level courses and no more than 4 points of instrumental or vocal lessons will count toward the major.

Senior Project: Working with her adviser, a major must complete an original project in her senior year. Normally, it may be the expansion of a paper done in a 4000-level course (as long as it deals with primary sources), a composition, or a recital.

Keyboard Proficiency: Music majors will be required to take a keyboard proficiency exam, which must be arranged by making an appointment with a member of the piano faculty, immediately upon declaration of the major. Those who do not pass the exam will be required to take MUSI W 1517x-W 1518y, for 1 point each term, which will count against the maximum 4 points allowed toward completion of the major.

Languages: For students who plan to do graduate work in music, the study of German, French, Italian, and/or Latin is recommended.

Note: With the permission of Gail Archer, Barnard Director, students may take lessons at the Manhattan School of Music or the Juilliard School. For non-majors, there is a six semester limit, but majors may continue for the remainder of their program.

Practice Rooms: Piano practice rooms are available, at a nominal fee, upon application to the Music Department in 319 Milbank. Application should be made during the first week of classes. Preference in assigning hours is given to students taking piano instruction, majors, and concentrators, in order of application. The organ studio in St. Paul's Chapel is available for organ practice. Arrangements should be made with Mary Monroe, Associate in Organ Performance, during the first week of classes.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ETHNOMUSICOLOGY TRACK

The ethnomusicology track combines the social science of music in such courses as the Social Science of Music and Asian Music Humanities, together with anthropology as a regular option for all students. All special majors in ethnomusicology must take two courses in anthropology at the recommendation of the Barnard anthropology department in consultation with ethnomusicology faculty at Columbia.

Course for an ethnomusicology track in the music major

Pre-requisite: One semester of Introduction to Music BC1001x or 1002y

MUSI V2318 Diatonic Harmony/Counterpoint (3 credits)
MUSI V2319 Diatonic Harmony/Counterpoint (3 credits)
MUSI V2314 Ear Training I (1 credit)
MUSI V2315 Ear Training II (1 credit)
MUSI V3420 Social Science of Music (3 credits)
Up to 4 performance credits (lessons or ensembles)
One 3000-level western music history course (3 credits)
One Asian Humanities-Music (AHMM) course (3 credits)
Three ethnomusicology electives, one at the 2000 level and the others from the upper division electives (9 credits)
Two courses in Anthropology, one at the introduction to cultural anthropology level; the other, an elective (6 credits)
Ethnographic thesis of 30-40 pages, developed over the senior year (6 credits)
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Courses for the minor: Four terms of theory, four terms of ear-training, and two terms of history.

Performance Activities
Participation in the following activities is open to all members of the University community.

Music majors are urged to join at least one of the groups. Students who wish to receive course credit may register for the courses as listed.

Columbia University Orchestra and Chamber Ensemble. Jeffrey Milarsky, conductor. See MUSI V 1591x-1592y for the audition schedule and description of activities.

Chamber Ensemble. Deborah Bradley, Director of the Music Performance Program. See MUSI V 1598x-1586y for audition information and description of activities.

Barnard-Columbia Chorus and Chamber Singers. Gail Archer, director. See MUSI V 1593x-1594y and MUSI V 1595x-1596y for audition information and description of activities.

Columbia University Jazz Ensemble. Christopher Washburne, director. See MUSI V 1618x-1619y for audition information and description of activities.

World Music Ensemble. See MUSI V1625x-V1626y for audition information and description activities.

Instrumental and Vocal Instruction. With appropriate prior approval, qualified students may take music lessons, one course per term, for a maximum of six terms. Only the music major and minor may take lessons every term.

Collegium Musicum. Auditions are held at the beginning of each term. The aim of the Collegium Musicum is to perform neglected and unfamiliar vocal and instrumental music. Activities are supervised by the graduate student director, and the Collegium usually gives two public concerts each semester.

Main Theory Sequence

MUSI V 2318x-V2319y Diatonic Harmony and Counterpoint, I and II

Prerequisite: MUSI V1002 or the equivalent. Corequisite: an ear-training class (MUSI V1312, V2314-V2315, V3316-V3317, or W4318-W4319). i2½?Diatonic is a two-semester course that constitutes the first year of the two-year sequence of courses in music theory required of all music majors and concentrators (the i2½?main theory sequence,i2½? of which the second year is Music V3321-3322y; see below). N.B. -All students, without exception, who wish to take Diatonic must pass an entrance examination given on the first day of class in each section. (For a detailed description of the Diatonic entrance exam, and advice on preparing for it, contact the Director of Undergraduate Theory Instruction.) Assigned readings, musical analysis, and compositional exercises, designed to teach the following: (1) analysis and composition of melodies; (2) strict (species) counterpoint in two voices; (3) the idiomatic use of all diatonic chords in major and minor keys, and tonicizations of secondary key areas; (4) principles of figured bass; (5) four-part writing; (6) harmonization of melodies, e.g., chorales; (7) basic principles of musical form. Each semester includes some work in tonal composition, e.g., minuets for piano modeled on examples by Haydn and Mozart.

- Feld, Marlon Voss, Carlton

MUSI V 3321x-V3322y Chromatic Harmony and Counterpoint, I and II

Continuation of MUSI V2318-V2319. Placement in this class is determined by an exam given in the first class meeting of V2318-V2319 (see above). Chromatic Harmony and Counterpoint is a two-semester course that follows on from Music V2319 and constitutes the second year of the two-year sequence of courses in music theory required of all music majors and concentrators (the main theory sequence, of which the first year is Music V2318-2319y; see above). Assigned readings, musical analysis, and compositional assignments, designed to teach the following: (1) tonal counterpoint in the style of Bach, in selected contrapuntal forms (e.g., chorale prelude, invention, fugue); (2) more advanced harmonic and voice-leading techniques, including sequences and chromatic harmony; (3) forms and genres associated with the Classical and Romantic periods (e.g., sonata-allegro form, Lied).

- Arjomand, Ramin Hisama, Ellie

Prerequisites: MUSI V2318-V2319 and satisfactory completion of any two terms of ear training. Corequisites: An ear-training class (MUSI V2314-V2315, V3316-V3317, or W4318-W4319). Lab Required.

Main Ear-Training Sequence

Please note: For the following ear-training labs, students must take a placement test at the beginning of the term and may not register without the permission of the ear-training coordinator.

MUSI V 2314x or y Ear Training, I

Designed to improve the student’s basic skills in sight-singing, and rhythmic and melodic dictation with an introduction to four-part harmonic dictation.

1 point
MUSI V 2315x or y Ear Training, II

Techniques of sight-singing and dictation of diatonic melodies in simple and compound meter with strong emphasis on harmonic dictation.

MUSI V 2582x Jazz improvisation: theory, history and practice

This course offers an introduction to jazz improvisation for instrumentalists. Through recordings, transcriptions, daily performance and selected readings, students will actively engage the history of jazz through their instruments and intellect. The idea of improvisation will be explored in an historical context, both as a musical phenomenon with its attendant theory and mechanics, and as a trope of American history and aesthetics. The course will explore improvisation in jazz as 'statements within frameworks,' and investigate the crucial historical junctures when these musical frameworks broadened to accommodate new approaches and options. Further, these moments will be explored in their social and historical contexts in order to understand how societal and cultural factors affect the way musicians play. The class will seek to answer the following questions: How does one construct meaning in improvisation? How does one build a musical narrative? What tensions exist between innovation and tradition in jazz improvisation? How does one draw on one's own musical history and tastes in order to develop an individual voice? How does one perform purely in the moment? Can a musician's playing be dishonest? The goal is to provide the student not only with the instrumental skills required to become a proficient jazz improviser (thus serving the performance ensembles in which some of these students will go on to participate) but to do so in a way that is informed by the history of the music and the social contexts in which it evolved. While this course will be performance based, it will include strong music theory and music history components. The course will examine the development of jazz improvisation chronologically, yet will also pause to examine certain aesthetic concepts central to building compelling jazz improvisations.

This class is for instrumentalists who wish to deepen their understanding of the theory, history and practice of jazz improvisation. The history of jazz will be used as a prism through which to view approaches to improvisation, from the cadences of the early Blues through the abstractions of Free Jazz and beyond. The student will be exposed to the theory and vocabularies of various jazz idioms, which they will also learn to place in their social and historical contexts. Finally the student will be challenged and encouraged to develop an individual voice, at once informed by the theory and history of jazz.
improvisation and expressive of the student's musical identity.

MUSI V 3435 Music and literature in Latin America

This course is about the relationship between popular music and literature in Latin America. It covers such topics as the relationship between the lettered city and popular culture as well as orality and the written word. In the course we will read novels and poetry by authors who have also been composers and/or musicologists and explore the production of composers who have also been recognized as important literary figures.

- A. Ochoa

MUSI V 3440x Survivors' Music

This course will examine the role of music in the lives of survivors of traumatic experiences and discover why music is a special expressive resource for such people. Examples from survivors' music about the nature of traumatic events that other expressive and documentary resources do not yield will be utilized. Course is interdisciplinary and the use of these examples to explore these issues is from a social, cultural, psychological and musicological perspective. Geared towards advanced undergraduates and graduate students from all disciplines.

- J. Pilzer

MUSI V 3462y Music, Gender and Performance

This seminar explores relationships between gender, music and performance from the perspective of ethnomusicology, cultural anthropology, critical music studies, feminist and queer theory and performance studies. We examine debates around issues of sex and gender and nature and culture through the lens of musical performance and experience. Some questions we consider include: In what ways is participation in particular music dictated by gendered conventions? What social purpose do these delineations serve? What might music tell us about the body? What is the relationship between performance and the ways in which masculinity and femininity, homosexuality and heterosexuality are shaped? How can we think about the concept of nation via gender and music? How might the gendered performances and the voices of musical celebrities come to represent or officially "speak" for the nation or particular publics? How does music shape our understanding of emotion, our experience of pleasure?

- E. Gray

Prerequisites: There are no prerequisites for this course.

MUSI V 3630y Recorded Sound

Main objective is to gain a familiarity with and understanding of recording, editing, mixing, and mastering of recorded music and sounds using Pro Tools software. Discusses the history of recorded production, microphone technique, and the idea of using the studio as an instrument for the production and manipulation of sound.

- T. Pender

Prerequisites: the instructor's permission. General Education Requirement: The Visual and Performing Arts (ART).
MUSI BC 3992y Senior Seminar for Music Majors

The goals of this seminar are a) to introduce senior music majors to ethnographic, bibliographic, and archival research methods in music and b) to help the same students develop, focus, implement, draft, revise, and polish a substantive, original piece of research (25-30 pages) which will serve as the senior project. The course will begin with a survey of academic literature on key problems in musicological research and writing, and will progress to a workshop/discussion format in which each week a different student is responsible for assigning readings and leading the discussion on a topic which s/he has formulated and deemed to be of relevance to her own research. - L. MUSI W 4115y Music and Theatre under the Ancien Regime

Explores the wealth of music theatre produced in France from 1660s to 1760s. Our focus will be the analysis of interaction of music, text, dance and staging in opera, but we will also consider spoken dramas and literary texts referenced in the operas, and situate them in the social and political context of absolutist France. Some of issues addressed will be Why the Opéra became the prime arena of sovereign representation; Why the role of adversary was conventionally played by a woman; Correspondences between social organization and theatrical representation; and Why these works have been revived in recent years. Prof. Burgess is renowned both for his research in this area and as a performer with the Paris-based company Les Arts Florissants.

- G. Burgess

Prerequisites: W1123 (Music Humanities); Music Majors need V2138/9 Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

MUSI W 4117y Music and the Cold War

Study of the principal musical trends and aesthetic debates of the Cold War. How did music respond to and reinforce the political divisions of the Cold War? We will move through a series of chronological units that integrate primary source readings from Adorno to Zhданов, musical case studies (including works by Shostakovich, Eisler, Lutoslawski, Babbitt, Boulez, Kagel, Schnittke, Rochberg, Copland, Nono, Henze) and recent scholarly writings. Themes will include socialist realism, American influence in Western Europe, nationalism, postmodernism, and historiography. - L. Silverberg

Prerequisites: Previous coursework in Music (including W1123) or permission of the instructor.

MUSI G 4125x Jewish Music: Uniqueness and Diversity

Jewish Music is rich and diverse. We known more about the contexts and uses of Jewish music than the music itself. Prior to recordings of music, musical notation is the most accurate record of the actual music. Notation of Western music develops and grows from the year 1000. For Jewish music the date of notation is 1750. Ashkenazic European liturgical music traditions are the first to be notated in the Jewish traditions. Secular and art music does not begin for well over one years, it begins in the late 1800s. Many liturgical traditions remain in the oral tradition. There are many challenges to understand the history of Jewish music. Investigating the role of culture and contexts of Jewish music opens the door for a productive inquiry. Topics for discussion include: tradition and innovation, nationalism, culture contact, responses to modernity, and music and identity.

MUSI G 4130y (Section 001) Music and Childhood

This seminar addresses the relationship between music and childhood through a focus on the following areas: child musicians, music written for or about children, the role of music in the creation of "childhood" as a modern cultural construct, and the history of musical education, and the shaping of identity through music. We will address a variety of themes using both diachronic and synchronic analyses. Students will pursue research projects in their own areas of interest that may overlap with or complement the course content.

MUSI W 4420x Music and Property

This course raises the questions 1) What does it mean to "own" music? 1) In what senses can music be conceptualized as "property?" How do divergent understandings of music's status as "property" shape contemporary debates and discourses in the particular areas of disputes over "illegal downloading" of copyrighted music and the "repatriation" of Native American musical recordings as "cultural property?" Several relevant major recent statements will be considered and responses discussed. Case studies from ethnomusicological, anthropological, media studies and legal literatures engage issues of appropriation, the role of new technologies in shifting the terrain of musical ownership will be studied. Hands-on look at the Columbia Center for Ethnomusicology's ongoing projects to repatriate historic recordings of Native American music (currently 'owned' by Columbia University) to the Navajo and Iñupiat tribes.

The course explores programming techniques and concepts in computer music interactivity, or the creation of compositions that incorporate software that responds to live musical performance, environmental activity, and other real-world contingencies. The Max/MSP programming platform is sued for MIDI, digital audio, and other interfacing techniques. Interactive works from the worlds of music, visual art, and performance are also presented. Basic knowledge of computer operation is required; basic knowledge of MIDI, Max/MSP, and/or digital audio is recommended.
- G. Lewis
Prerequisites: Basic computer operating system knowledge.

MUSI W 4625x Timbre and Technology

The role of timbre, or tone color, in music of the last century combined with an introduction to recent computer tools for composition, analysis, and performance. Through close listening, we will examine 20th century composers' approaches to complex sounds, including Mahler, Debussy, Ravel, Schoenberg, Varese, Stockhausen, Grisey, Lachenmann and Leroux, as well as examples from popular and non-Western musics. Listening will be accompanied by writings on and by composers as well as background from the literature on music perception. Computer programs including AudioSculpt, OpenMusic, and Max/MSP will be used for lectures and exercises. Students are invited to apply the concepts explored in the course to their own fields of expertise in a final project and presentation.
- A. Einbond
Prerequisites: Music Hum W1123 or permission of the instructor.

MUSI G 6000y (Section 001) Professional Strategies and Skills

This course will consolidate in a semester-long seminar two components of the systematic professional training and pedagogical formation of graduate students in the department of music. The seminar will be taught by the chair of the Core Curriculum course, Masterpieces of Western Music (Music Humanities). This seminar will streamline the process by which students in the four different doctoral degree programs (historical musicology, ethnomusicology, theory, and composition) are trained to teach their own sections of Music Humanities. - Susan Boynton

MUSI G 6425x The Politics of Desire in Latin America

The course explores the politics of desire through three main contrastive and complementary arenas: the politics of desire as mediated by the state; the politics of desire as mediated by music and, the politics of desire as mediated by literature and film.

The course will be simultaneously announced at NYU, CUNY and Columbia, programmed at the same time in all campuses.
Four classes will be taught in each of the campuses. All professors are present at all lectures and contribute to all lectures. Students register through their home institution. READING SPANISH IS REQUIRED. Enrollment is by permission of the instructor.

- A.M. Ochoa

Prerequisites: Approval from the Instructor.

| MUSI G 6440x Survivors' Music | This course will examine the role of music in the lives of survivors of traumatic experiences and discover why music is a special expressive resource for such people. Examples from survivors' music about the nature of traumatic events that other expressive and documentary resources do not yield will be utilized. Course is interdisciplinary and the use of these examples to explore these issues is from a social, cultural, psychological and musicological perspective. Geared towards advanced undergraduates and graduate students from all disciplines.

The Neuroscience and Behavior major provides a strong background in the neural underpinnings of behavior and cognition. It is intended for students who plan to pursue a research career in neuroscience or a related discipline. Students electing this major are exposed to basic courses in biology, psychology and statistics, and to advanced courses in neuroscience and behavior. Majors must choose one of two areas of concentration. The behavior concentration places greater emphasis on behavioral and systems neuroscience, while the cellular concentration places greater emphasis on cellular and molecular neuroscience.

All majors engage in two semesters of independent research during the senior year while taking the Senior Research Seminar. In the junior year, majors must begin developing a plan for the senior research project. There is a meeting for junior majors during the spring semester to begin this process.

Student Learning Goals

Students graduating with a major in Neuroscience and Behavior should be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Acquire a strong intellectual foundation in neuroscience.
2. Develop competence in the interpretation and evaluation of neuroscience research.
3. Understand the role of experimentation in neuroscience.
4. Learn basic methods of experimental design and hypothesis testing.
5. Acquire effective oral presentation skills.
6. Demonstrate a capability to write a scientific paper.
7. Understand statistical approaches to the analysis of data.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon successfully completing the major, students should have the ability to

1. Discuss neuroscience phenomena from many different levels of organization (e.g., explain how the destruction of myelin in people with multiple sclerosis leads to cognitive and motor deficits);
2. Describe the basic features of nervous system development, organization, signaling, integration, and higher-level processing;
3. Explain the neural basis of sensory-motor integration, learning and the generation of complex behaviors;
4. Conceive of, implement, and present an original research project;
5. Generate a testable hypothesis and develop a controlled experimental design;
6. Perform modern scientific measurement techniques;
7. Write an original research paper.

To elect the major in Neuroscience and Behavior, a student must have completed these courses by the end of the sophomore year with an average grade of B- or better in the four Biology courses, an average grade of B- or better in the three Chemistry courses, and a grade of B- or better in the Psychology course:

BIOL BC 1500 & BC 1501 Introduction to Organismal & Evolutionary with laboratory
BIOL BC 1502 & BC 1503 Introduction to Cell & Molecular Biology with laboratory
CHEM BC 1601 General Chemistry, lecture with laboratory
CHEM BC 3328 Organic Chemistry I, lecture
CHEM BC 3230 Organic Chemistry I, laboratory
PSYC BC 1001 Introduction to Psychology

As an alternative to the Neuroscience and Behavior major, students may pursue an interdisciplinary program by majoring in either Biology or Psychology and taking a minor in the other discipline.

There are no minors in Neuroscience and Behavior.

NSBV BC 3367y Transformative Landmarks in Neuroscience

Modern neuroscience incorporates topics from molecular neurobiology to cognition. Cognate disciplines include psychology, biology, biochemistry, chemistry, neuropharmacology, neurology and psychiatry, physics, computational science. We review neuroscience landmarks through readings of scientific publications, news reports, and controversies surrounding apparently transformative research, and contemplate contemporary viewpoints that have the benefit of hindsight.

The aim of philosophy, Wilfrid Sellars once said, is “to understand how things in the broadest possible sense of the term hang together in the broadest possible sense of the term.” Philosophical questions are the most basic questions, for they penetrate to the foundations of all human thought and experience. What is there? What can we know? What is good? How should we live? What is a person? What is thought? What gives words meaning? Being educated in philosophy means not just learning what great minds have thought about such things in the past, or even finding out what philosophers have to say about them today, but coming to think through them for oneself. The major also acquaints students with central concepts, key figures, and classic texts from the Western philosophical tradition.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students graduating with a B.A. in philosophy will have acquired skills in critical thinking, conceptual analysis, argumentation, close reading of classic and contemporary philosophical texts, and composition of clear, cogent, and persuasive prose. More specifically, they will be able to:

1. Demonstrate their knowledge of major thinkers (such as Plato, Aristotle, Descartes, Hume, Kant) and texts of the ancient and modern philosophical traditions;
2. Demonstrate their understanding of central problems and dominant theoretical traditions in moral theory (Kantianism, utilitarianism) and either epistemology (skepticism, other minds, the problem of induction, decision theory), metaphysics (the mind-body problem, free will and determinism, causation, the nature of space and time), or the philosophy of language;
3. Construct and evaluate deductive arguments using formal symbolic notation;
4. Discuss and reflect critically on difficult philosophical texts and outstanding problems in a seminar setting with their fellow majors.

Although it is not required for the major or for the minor, students who have not had previous training in philosophy are advised to take PHIL BC 1001.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR
A major in Philosophy consists of at least 10 courses, as follows:

1. One course on ancient or early medieval philosophy:
   - PHIL V 2101 History of Philosophy I: Pre-Socratics through Augustine
   - PHIL V 3121 Plato
   - PHIL V 3131 Aristotle

2. One course on early modern philosophy:
   - PHIL V 2201 History of Philosophy II: Aquinas through Kant
   - PHIL V 3237 Early Modern Philosophy

3. One course in logic:
   - PHIL V 3411 Introduction to Symbolic Logic

4. One course in moral philosophy:
   - PHIL V 3701 Ethics
   - PHIL V 3653 Mind and Morals

5. One of the following courses:
   - PHIL V 4501 Epistemology
   - PHIL V 3601 Metaphysics

6. PHIL BC 3900 Senior Seminar

7. Either: Senior Essay (PHIL BC 3950 and 3951) OR: one advanced seminar (PHIL C3912 or a PHIL seminar above 4000) plus one elective beyond the two stipulated in 8 (below).

8. Two electives in addition to the eight courses stipulated above.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR
Five courses constitute a minor in philosophy. The courses must be selected in consultation with the department chair.

www.barnard.edu/fitbear

Senior Associates: Tavius Cheatham, Sharon Everson, Laura Masone, George Padilla, Luci Rosalia (Chair)
Associates: Lisa Northrop
Adjunct Associates: Allison Foley-Graham, Peggy Levine, Coline Kali Morse, Natasha Spearman-Isip, Amanda Topaz

For a complete list of faculty on leave see:
http://www.barnard.edu/provoest/faclevlist.html

The Physical Education Department subscribes fully to the College’s commitment to help women realize their full potential. The diversity of the curriculum and the specialization of the faculty permit the student to focus on personal interests and learn the importance of regular participation in physical activity as a lifetime choice. These opportunities instill the basic principles of physical activity in the pursuit of wellness.

The curriculum is driven by the seven components of wellness: physical, occupational, social, intellectual, environmental, emotional, and spiritual, using the physical dimension as a foundation. Through regular participation in guided physical movement, the student gains enhanced physical fitness, improved self-esteem, expanded sport-specific skills and stress management techniques. Physical Education and the extra-curricular programs address the body-mind connection as the student learns skills that will influence the quality of her life currently in academic achievement and in all future endeavors.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate an exercise to increase muscular endurance;
2. Identify methods of assessing body composition;
3. Demonstrate knowledge of a method for monitoring cardiovascular fitness;
4. Perform pertinent warm-up and cool down exercises;
5. Recognize the benefit of physical activity in reducing stress;
6. Demonstrate increased kinesthetic awareness in chosen activity;
7. Demonstrate proper safety techniques in chosen activity;
8. To increase muscular strength
9. Perform pertinent movement activities to increase flexibility

DEGREE REQUIREMENT

Students admitted as first-year students must complete two semesters of Physical Education at Barnard. One semester must be passed in the first year and the requirement must be completed by the end of the junior year. Only one course per semester to count towards fulfilling the requirement. Sophomore and junior transfers are required to complete one semester of Physical Education at Barnard. Failure to complete the requirement by the specified deadlines will result in a failing grade. Physical Education courses are graded pass/fail based on attendance and participation.

Health Status: Students with permanent or temporary disabilities will be individually advised and placed in a suitable activity, based upon the recommendations of the Director of Health Services or Disability Services.

Curriculum: The curriculum is organized and administered by the faculty of the Department of Physical Education. Instruction is offered in the areas of sports, aquatics, fitness, mind/body, and self-paced courses. Courses are designed to promote the development and enjoyment of lifetime motor skills, which will afford opportunities to realize one's potential and to provide vigorous exercise to release tensions often generated by strong academic commitments and intense urban life.

Intramurals: The Physical Education Department offers an extensive intramural program, which features basketball, floor hockey, indoor soccer, tennis, and volleyball. The program offers different levels of competitive play and emphasizes participation in a friendly atmosphere; activities are open to all members of the college community. For more information, contact the Director of Intramurals, 206 Barnard Hall, or call 854-6959.

Recreation: Recreational use of the gymnasium, swimming pool, track, and weight room is available at specified times. All students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to use the facilities. In addition, the Physical Education Department sponsors special recreational activities, such as fun runs and sports tournaments, throughout the semester.

Intercollegiate Athletics: The Barnard/Columbia Athletic Consortium provides the opportunity for eligible undergraduate women to compete together as members of University-wide athletic teams. Fifteen varsity sports are currently sponsored: archery, basketball, crew, cross country, fencing, field hockey, golf, lacrosse, soccer, softball, swimming & diving, tennis, indoor and outdoor track & field, and volleyball. Governed by NCAA and Ivy League rules, all teams are Division I. Competition is scheduled with teams from the Ivy League, the metropolitan area, and the eastern region. In addition, students are eligible to qualify for regional and national championships. Physical Education credit may be earned through satisfactory participation on a varsity team. For more information, contact Jennifer Strawley, Associate Director of Athletics, Columbia–Dodge Fitness Center, 854-8373.

Registration: Registration takes place at the beginning of each semester. Information is available in the Physical Education office or on the department’s web site. Incoming students receive information in their registration packets. After confirming registration with the Physical Education Department, students should include the Physical Education course by number, section, title, and I.D. number on final programs filed with the Registrar.

Cross Registration: An agreement between the Department of Physical Education of Barnard College and Columbia College permits limited enrollment of Barnard students in selected Columbia courses. Barnard students must successfully complete one Physical Education course at Barnard before they may elect a Columbia Physical Education course. Columbia College and School of Engineering students may register for designated Barnard courses during Barnard’s registration period. Other Columbia University students must receive permission from the Physical Education Department to register before filing their final programs with the Registrar. Registration is not open to graduate students.

PHED BC 1362x and y Golf

Introduction to the game of golf through a variety of indoor drills to develop all facets of the game. Includes building an effective swing, the long and short game, and rules of play. Field trip included.
PHED BC 1363x or y Soccer
Introduction and development of the fundamental skills used in soccer, including ball control, passing and shooting. Introduction to the rules, terminology and etiquette of the game of soccer. Instruction on strategies to be applied within the game of soccer. Sport-specific training for increased muscular strength and endurance, flexibility and cardiovascular conditioning.

PHED BC 1364x and y Tennis
Introduction to the basic groundstrokes, serve, rules, scoring, strategy, and etiquette of singles and doubles play.

PHED BC 1366x and y Foil Fencing
Techniques of fencing with the foil. Basic offensive and defensive blade skills as well as fencing etiquette, equipment selection, safety, footwork, rules, officiating, and bouts are included. Introduction to electrical apparatus as time permits.

PHED BC 1367x and y Foil/Sabre Fencing
An introductory course presenting the techniques of foil and sabre fencing. Basic offensive and defensive blade skills of both weapons as well as fencing etiquette, equipment selection, safety, footwork, rules, officiating, and bouts are covered.

PHED BC 1368x Intermediate Foil Fencing
Intermediate offensive and defensive foil fencing techniques following a review of basic skills. Intermediate footwork skills, compound attacks, circle and low line parries will be introduced. Free fencing, organized bouts and officiating will be included.

The mission of the Physics and Astronomy Department at Barnard College is to provide students with an understanding of the basic laws of nature, and a foundation in the fundamental concepts of classical and quantum physics, and modern astronomy and astrophysics. Majors are offered in physics, astronomy, or in interdisciplinary fields such as, astrophysics, biophysics, or chemical physics. The goal of the department is to provide students (majors and non-majors) with quality instruction and prepare them for various post-graduate career options, including graduate study in physics and/or astronomy, professional careers in science, technology, education, or applied fields, as well health-related professions. The department strives to be a source of distinguished women scientists. The faculty in the department maintain NSF or NASA-sponsored active research programs that involve undergraduate students. All majors engage in at least one summer of independent research that is often continued during the semester, or the following summer. Students may also carry out their research at other institutions nationally, through NSF-REU (Research Experience for Undergraduates) programs. Students are required to present the results of their research in the annual departmental “Senior Talks,” held in May.

Student Learning Goals

1. Acquire a strong intellectual foundation in physics and/or astronomy.
2. Apply scientific thinking to problems in physics and/or astronomy, and translate this to real life problems.
3. Use mathematics to describe and manipulate abstract concepts in physics and/or astronomy.
4. Perform laboratory experiments to study various physical phenomena, and use statistical approaches to analyze and interpret the data obtained in these experiments.
5. Acquire effective oral and written presentation skills to communicate scientific ideas.
6. Participate in a research project and stimulate the ability of empirical thought.
7. Demonstrate the ability to give a scientific talk on a research topic.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon successfully completing the major, students should have the ability to:

1. demonstrate a conceptual understanding of the physical laws of nature.
2. demonstrate a thorough knowledge of the various subject areas of physics (e.g. classical mechanics, quantum physics, electromagnetism, and thermodynamics) and/or astronomy (e.g. stellar structure and evolution, physics of the solar system, physical cosmology, and observational astronomy).
3. apply problem-solving skills beyond graduation in advanced physics and/or astronomy courses in graduate school and independent research projects.
4. apply problem-solving and computation skills in future situations in applied or technical jobs, or careers in finance and industry.
5. make an effective oral presentation to an audience of peers and faculty on a particular research topic.

From Aristotle's \textit{Physics} to Newton's \textit{Principia}, the term "physics," taken literally from the Greek \textit{φυσις} (= Nature), implied natural science in its very broadest sense. Physicists were, in essence, natural philosophers, seeking knowledge of the observable phenomenal world. Astronomy, a sibling science to physics, concentrated specifically on the study of natural phenomena in the heavens with the intent to understand the constitution, relative positions, and motions of the celestial bodies in our universe. Though practitioners of these disciplines have become somewhat more specialized in the past century, the spirit that guides them in their research remains the same as it was more than two millennia ago.

In cooperation with the faculty of the University, Barnard offers a thorough pre-professional curriculum in both physics and astronomy. The faculty represents a wide range of expertise, with special strength and distinction in theoretical physics, condensed matter physics, and observational astrophysics.

Separate majors in physics and astronomy are offered. A major in astrophysics is also possible. Furthermore, there are many special interdisciplinary majors possible, such as biophysics, chemical physics, engineering physics, and mathematical physics. There is a physics minor as well. Students should consult members of the department early on in their undergraduate careers in order to plan the most effective course of study. Qualified seniors are invited to participate in the seniors honors program, in which they carry out a year-long research project leading to the thesis.

There are several quite distinct introductory sequences in physics, only one of which may be taken for credit:

1. PHYS C 1001-2, Physics for Poets, is a two-semester introductory lecture sequence in physics intended for liberal arts students. A single semester of this CU lecture course satisfies the BC Quantitative Reasoning requirement. Note, however, that 1001-2 does not satisfy the premedical nor physics requirement for any major. It should also not be taken to satisfy the BC lab science requirement. Not offered in Fall 2010; only offered Spring 2011

2. PHYS V 1201-2, General Physics, is satisfactory preparation for medical school and is appropriate for most non-science major premedical students. This course, devoted to algebra-based physics, is taught at Columbia in a large lecture hall setting. It is not recommended as a foundation for more advanced work in the field. Taken in conjunction with PHYS V 1291-2, this sequence does satisfy the college LAB requirement, but the students population is essentially premed. Note the PHYS V 1201/1202 are required in order to take the lab course.

3. PHYS BC 2001-2, 3001, Physics I, II, III, is Barnard's own three-semester, calculus based introductory sequence in physics. Characterized by modest class sizes, it is designed specifically for Barnard women with a serious interest in any of the natural sciences or mathematics. Moreover, it is especially appropriate for majors in physics, chemistry, or biochemistry, whether premedical or not. Biology majors with some calculus background are also encouraged to take this sequence. Finally, Barnard women contemplating a major in physics or astronomy should take PHYS BC 2001-2 in their first year, if possible, or in their second at the latest, to be followed by the third-semester course, Classical Waves and Optics.

4. First-year students with exceptional aptitude for physics (as evidenced, for example, by scores of 4 or 5 on the advanced placement C exam) and a good mathematical background may be admitted into the Columbia-taught two-semester sequence PHY C 2801-02 General Physics, which replaces all three terms of the sequence for majors. Students inclined toward this sequence are strongly encouraged to consult a Barnard faculty member at the start of the term.

Students unsure about the most appropriate sequence should consult members of the department.

The following courses may be substituted for each other:

- PHYS BC 2001-2 (sect.1; 4.5pts) = C1601-2 (3.0pts.) + BC 2001-2 (sect.3; 1.5pts.)
- PHYS BC 3001 (sect.1; 5pts) = C2601 (3.0pts) + BC 3001(sect.3; 2pts)
- ASTR BC 1753-4 = C 1403-4

There is a laboratory fee of $25 for each 1000-level physics course with a laboratory.

PHYSICS & ASTRONOMY

Physics and Astronomy
403 Altschul Hall
854-3628
www.phys.barnard.edu

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE ASTRONOMY MAJOR

The courses required for the major in astronomy are:

PHYS BC 2001 Physics I: Mechanics
PHYS BC 2002 Physics II: Electricity & Magnetism
PHYS BC 3001 Physics III: Classical Waves and Optics

Students may substitute a Columbia College three-semester calculus-based introductory physics sequence with lab, as in the physics major.

Calculus through IV is required, with additional work in mathematics recommended.

Also:

ASTR C 2001, 2002 Introduction to Astrophysics I, II
Students who have taken ASTR BC 1753-4 (Introduction to Astronomy I, II) or C 1403-4 may substitute an additional 3000-level ASTR course for ASTR C 2001-2.

Finally, students are required to take four additional 3000-level ASTR or PHYS courses, including at least one of ASTR C 3102 Extrasolar Planets and Astrobiology or PHYS W 3003 Mechanics, and selected so that at least six total points of 3000-level lecture classes are ASTR courses. Some of the ASTR courses offered in recent years include:

ASTR C 3101 Stellar Structure and Evolution
ASTR C 310d Extrasolar Planets and Astrobiology
ASTR C 3601 General Relativity, Black Holes, and Cosmology
ASTR C 3273 High Energy Astrophysics
ASTR C 3602 Physical Cosmology
ASTR C 3646 Observational Astronomy

Students planning to study astronomy or astrophysics in graduate school are strongly urged to take PHYS BC 3006, W 3003, W 3007-8, G 4023, some additional courses in mathematics, and Computer Science (COMS) W 1003 Programming in C or W 1004 Programming in Java. Note: When any of the required courses is not being given, the department will recommend appropriate substitutions.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PHYSICS MAJOR

The courses required for the major in physics are:

PHYS BC 2001 Physics I: Mechanics
PHYS BC 2002 Physics II: Electricity & Magnetism
PHYS BC 3001 Physics III: Classical Waves and Optics
In lieu of the above, any three-semester Columbia introductory sequence acceptable for the physics major in Columbia College will do (e.g., PHYS C 1601-2, 2601, taken with PHYS W 1691-3). The accelerated two-semester Columbia College sequence PHYS C 2801-2 is also acceptable.

Calculus through IV is required, with additional work in mathematics recommended; e.g., Math E 1210x, y Ordinary Differential Equations, APMA E 3102y Applied Mathematics II. The calculus sequence should be completed by the end of the sophomore year.

are required, and a total of 6.0 points of advanced lab work, PHYS BC 3086 and 3088, taken concurrently with their cognate lecture courses. Finally, the student must take Computer Science W 1003 Programming in C, W 1004 Programming in Java, or PHYS W 3083 Electronics Laboratory.

Students planning to study physics in graduate school should include several 4000-level electives in their senior year program.

Astrophysics Majors: Students wishing to major in astrophysics should consult a member of the department.

INTERDISCIPLINARY MAJOR

Special majors in, for example, biophysics, chemical physics, engineering physics, or mathematical physics are all possible and are arranged in conjunction with the relevant second department at Barnard. A student interested in such possibilities should speak to a faculty member early on (i.e., by late fall of her sophomore year) in order to permit the most effective construction of her program of study and the appropriate petition to be made to the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. The latter is a straightforward procedure associated with the declaration of all special majors at Barnard.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE PHYSICS MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor in physics. They are: any three-semester introductory sequence acceptable for the major (see above) plus two additional 3-point courses at the 3000-level.
Astronomy Courses

ASTR C 1234x Astronomy-Physics-Geology, The Universal Timekeeper: An Introduction to Scientific Habits of Mind

Introduction to ideas and models of thought in the physical sciences, adopting as its theme the use of the atom as an imperturbable clock. Lectures develop basic physical ideas behind the structure of the atom and its nucleus and then explore such diverse applications as measuring the age of the Shroud of Turin, determining the diets of ancient civilizations, unraveling the evolution of the universe, and charting the history of earth’s climate.

Prerequisites: Prerequisite for ASTR C1235 is ASTR C1234. Working knowledge of high school algebra.

ASTR C 1404x Beyond the Solar System

Distances to, and fundamental properties of, nearby stars; nucleosynthesis and stellar evolution; novas and supernovas; galaxies; the structure of the universe and theories concerning its origin, evolution, and ultimate fate. Professor Applegate's sections do not qualify for QUA. Students may not receive credit for both ASTR BC1754 and ASTR C1404.

Prerequisites: Open to any student offering astronomy in partial fulfillment of the science requirement. Recommended preparation: A working knowledge of high school algebra. Professor Applegate's sections do not qualify for QUA. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points

ASTR C 1420x Galaxies and Cosmology

The content, structure, and possible evolution of galaxies. The '21-centimeter line': the song of interstellar hydrogen. Distribution mass, seen and unseen, in galaxies and clusters of galaxies. Distribution of clusters over the sky. Quasars and the nuclei of galaxies. The origin of the universe, and the present controversy over its eventual fate.

Prerequisites: Working knowledge of high school algebra. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

3 points

ASTR BC 1753x Life in the Universe

Introduction to astronomy, taught at Barnard, intended primarily for non-science majors. Includes discovery of new planets, the search for life, gravitation and planetary orbits, the physics of the Earth and its atmosphere, and the exploration of the solar system. Students may not receive credit for both ASTR BC1753 and ASTR C1403.

3 points

ASTR BC 1754y Stars, Galaxies, and Cosmology

Examines the properties of stars, star formation, stellar evolution and nucleosynthesis, the Milky Way and other galaxies, and the cosmological origin and evolution of the universe. Students may not receive credit for both ASTR BC 1754 and ASTR C1404.

- L. Kay

3 points
ASTR C 1836y Stars and Atoms

Study of the life cycles of stars, from their birth in cold gas clouds to their final throes in supernova explosions. The turn-of-the-century revolution in physics: x-rays, radioactivity, the nuclear atom, and the quantum theory. Energy production by nuclear fission and fusion, and its consequences.

Prerequisites: Recommended preparation: A working knowledge of high school algebra.

3 points

ASTR C 1903x Earth, Moon, and Planets Laboratory

This laboratory is for the lecture courses ASTR BC1753 or ASTR C1403. The lecture course must be taken concurrently.

Corequisites: ASTR BC1753 or ASTR C1403.

1 point

ASTR C 1904y Astronomy Lab II

This laboratory is for the lecture courses ASTR BC1754 and ASTR C1404. A lecture course must be taken concurrently.

Corequisites: ASTR BC1754 or ASTR C1404.

1 point
ASTR C 2001x Introduction to Astrophysics I

The first term of a two-term, calculus-based introduction to astronomy and astrophysics. Topics include the physics of stellar interiors, stellar atmospheres and spectral classifications, stellar energy generation and nucleosynthesis, supernovae, neutron stars, white dwarfs, interacting binary stars.

Prerequisites: A working knowledge of calculus. Corequisites: A course in calculus-based general physics.

ASTR C 3103x or y The Galaxy and the Interstellar Medium

Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

ASTR C 3105y Extrasolar Planets and Astrobiology

The emerging field of extrasolar planets and astrobioogy will be covered at a quantitative level, with a major emphasis on astrophysical phenomenae and techniques. The subject will be introduced through an investigation of current planetary formation theories and approaches to planet detection, including what we currently know about extrasolar planets and detailed reference to state-of-the-art studies. An astronomer’s view of the origin of life and extreme biology will be developed and applied to questions of cosmo-chemistry, observable life-signatures, habitable zones and other astrophysical constraints on the development of organisms.

Prerequisites: One year of calculus-based physics. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

ASTR C 3273x High Energy Astrophysics

Prerequisites: One year of calculus-based general physics. Physics majors could take this course with no previous astronomy background. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

ASTR C 3601x General Relativity, Black Holes, and Cosmology

Introduction to general relativity, Einstein’s geometrical theory of gravity. Topics include special relativity, tensor calculus, the Einstein field equations, the Friedmann equations and cosmology, black holes, gravitational lenses and mirages, gravitational radiation, and black hole evaporation.

Prerequisites: One year of calculus-based general physics. Not offered in 2010-2011.

3 points

ASTR C 3602y Physical Cosmology and Extragalactic Astronomy

The standard hot big bang cosmological model and other modern observational results that test it. Topics include the Friedmann equations, the standard model of particle Physics, the age of the universe, primordial nucleosynthesis, the cosmic microwave background, the extragalactic distance scale, and modern observations.

Prerequisites: One year of calculus-based general physics.

3 points

ASTR C 3646x Observational Astronomy

Introduction to the basic techniques used in obtaining and analyzing astronomical data. Focus on ‘ground-based’ methods at optical, infrared, and radio wavelengths. Regular use of the telescope facilities atop the roof of the Pupin Labs and at Harriman Observatory. The radio-astronomy portion consists mostly of computer labs. In research projects, students also work on the analysis of data obtained at National Observatories.

ASTR C 3997x-C3998y Independent Research

Variety of research projects conducted under the supervision of members of the faculty. Observational, theoretical, and experimental work in galactic and extragalactic astronomy and cosmology. The topic and scope of the work must be arranged with a faculty member in advance: a written paper describing the results of the project will be required at its completion. (A two semester project can be designed so that the grade YC is given after the first term.) Senior majors in Astronomy or Astrophysics wishing to do a Senior Thesis should make arrangements in May of their junior year and sign up for a total of 6 points over their final two semesters. Both a substantial written document and an oral presentation of thesis results will be required.

For specially selected students, the opportunity to do a research problem in contemporary physics under the supervision of a faculty member. Each year several juniors are chosen in the spring to carry out such a project beginning in the autumn term. A detailed report on the research is presented by the student when the project is complete.

Political science explores questions about power: what it is, where it comes from, who exercises it, how it is used and legitimized. Concretely, political scientists study the processes, policies and institutions of different political systems as well as critical issues such as health care policy, civil rights, the origins of wars, the nature of democracy, the causes of authoritarianism, the meaning of justice, and the genesis of terrorism.

In accordance with the mission of Barnard College, the political science department aims to create a community of teachers and students committed to intellectual discovery, rigorous analysis, and independent thought. The department's courses emphasize reflection, discussion, deliberation and intensive interactions between faculty members and students. The Barnard political science department strives to help students think clearly and methodically about the questions and issues that make up political science, equip them with the intellectual and presentional skills necessary to understand and address practical political issues as well as prepare them for a wide range of careers in federal, state and local governments; law; business; international organizations; nonprofit associations and organizations; campaign management and polling; journalism; pre-collegiate education; electoral politics; research and university and college teaching.

The department recognizes four subfields of the discipline:

American Government and Politics: the study of all aspects of the American political system, including its development, institutions, procedures, and actors.

- Student learning outcome: after completing one or more courses in American Government and Politics students should understand the basic structure of the American political system and how some of its institutions, procedures, and actors function.

Comparative Politics: the study of the political systems of other countries and regions, including the use of comparisons across cases in order to gain a broader and deeper understanding of events, institutions, and processes.

- Student learning outcome: after completing one or more courses in Comparative Politics students should have a familiarity with the political systems of other countries and regions, and be able to use comparisons across cases in order to gain a broader and deeper understanding of political events, institutions, and processes.

International Relations: the study of relations between countries and the dynamics and development of the international system.

- Student learning outcome: after completing one or more courses in International Relations students should understand the key approaches to the study of the relations between countries and a familiarity with the basic dynamics and development of the international system.

Political Theory: the study of the conceptual foundations of political systems and behavior.

- Student learning outcome: after completing one or more courses in Political Theory students should have a familiarity with some of the key concepts, theories and debates that have defined thinking about politics over time.

Student Learning Outcomes
for the Political Science Major

Upon completion of the Barnard Political Science major, students should be able to:

1. Analyze, speak and write about the subject matter and major theories of at least three of the four subfields of political science;
2. Apply social scientific reasoning and theories to the analysis of a wide range of political issues and problems;
3. Generate and test hypotheses about political processes, relationships and institutions or engage in conceptual analysis and interpretation of political ideas, arguments, and phenomena;
4. Complete independent research projects in political science, particularly via the capstone senior project.

Five-year Bachelors/ Masters of Arts Programs

Students interested in public careers should consider the five-year joint-degree programs at Sciences Po, France, and at Columbia University’s School of International & Public Affairs (SIPA).

- Students interested in the Sciences Po–Barnard exchange program are encouraged to meet with the Dean for Study-Abroad, also for questions regarding the political science aspects of this BA/MA program.
- The SIPA programs include the Graduate Program in Public Policy & Administration (MPA) and the Master of International Affairs Program (MIA). For information, please contact the Department Representative.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

A total of nine courses are necessary to complete the Political Science major:

– Three introductory lecture courses at the 1000-level or 3000-level from different subfields,
– Three elective courses,
– Two colloquia, and
– One semester of senior research seminar.

The department recognizes four subfields of the discipline:

- American Government and Politics: the study of all aspects of the American political system, including its development, institutions, procedures, and actors.
- Comparative Politics: the study of the political systems of other countries and regions, including the use of comparisons across cases in order to gain a broader and deeper understanding of events, institutions, and processes.
- International Relations: the study of relations between countries and the dynamics and development of the international system.
- Political Theory: the study of the conceptual foundations of political systems and behavior.

The two colloquia and the senior research seminar must be taken with faculty at Barnard College. Many of the lecture courses may be taken with faculty at Columbia College, if these courses are cross-listed. Various study-abroad options and summer courses also may meet your specialized interests, but these require (1) prior consultation with your major adviser, as well as (2) prior approval by the Departmental Representative and (3) subsequent approval by the Department Chair once you apply to transfer the credit to Barnard (use the Course Approval Request Form for steps 2 and 3).

Students interested in the Sciences Po–Barnard five-year joint-degree program are encouraged to meet with the Dean for Study-Abroad, also regarding the political science aspects of this BA/MA program. The requirements are at the end of this page.

Please use the Major Audit to plan your program and track your courses for the major.

Introductory-level Lecture Course Requirement (three lecture courses)

The political science department requires all students to take at least one introductory 1000- or 3000-level lecture course in three of the four subfields of political science (listed above). These courses are designed to provide an introduction to the main subject matter and major theories of each subfield.

These courses also serve to familiarize students with the analytic approaches that political scientists use. After taking lecture courses in the relevant subfields, students are eligible to take the two required colloquium courses.

Advanced Placement Credit:

A student granted Advanced Placement (AP) credit by the College in either American Politics or Comparative Politics with an exam score of 5 will have fulfilled the prerequisite for courses that require the prior completion of POLS BC1001 or V1501, respectively. If the student wants to take the introductory American Politics or Comparative Politics course, she may do so, but she will forfeit her corresponding AP credit.

AP credit does not count toward the number of courses required for the major or minor, i.e. the student still needs to complete the nine courses for the major or the five for the minor.

Course Equivalents:

- POLS BC1001 Dynamics of American Politics equals POLS W1201 Introduction to American Politics.
- POLS W1002 Introduction to Political Thought does not count for Barnard major or minor credit.

Electives Requirement (three additional courses)

All political science courses emphasize social scientific reasoning and theory application. In addition, political science majors chose three electives (normally at the 3000- or 4000-level). These courses are designed to deepen and expand students' knowledge base and encourage them to apply social scientific reasoning and theories to the analysis of a broad range of political issues and problems.
What fulfills the Three-Course Electives requirement:

A. All courses offered at Barnard or Columbia in political science listed in the Barnard Course Catalogue, including introductory lecture courses and colloquia, satisfy elective course requirements. Courses listed in Columbia catalogues which are not listed in the Barnard catalogue require approval by Barnard Department Representative, before counting toward the major or concentration (use the Course Approval Request Form).

B. The Independent Study Option POLS BC3799. Students who wish to do an independent study project (ISP) should first speak to a political science faculty member willing to sponsor it. Credit is given for an academic research paper written in conjunction with an internship, but no academic credit is given for an internship or job experience per sé. The student must then apply to the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing (CPAS), which must approve all Independent Study requests. Once the request is granted, the Registrar creates a section and assigns a call number, and the student is notified of the call number so she can enter the course on her program. (Each instructor has a separate section and call number. Each instructor is limited to sponsoring one independent study per semester.) Students will consult with the sponsoring instructor as to workload and points of credit for the independent study course. Independent study counts as a course for the purpose of the nine-course requirement, provided the project is approved for 3 or 4 points. A project taken for 1 or 2 points does not count as a course toward the major, the minor, or the concentration requirement.

C. With pre-approval, first from the individual Major Advisor and then from the Department Representative, a student may substitute a course in another department for one of the three elective courses. This course cannot be an introductory course and it must have significant political science content (use the Course Approval Request Form). Approval after the fact will not be granted.

D. Six of the nine courses for the major must be taken from courses listed in the political science section of the Barnard Course Catalogue. Within the three-course limit of courses taken elsewhere, the following caps traditionally apply: three transfer courses; two Reid Hall courses; two study-abroad courses; one summer session course. On rare occasions the Department Representative may grant an exception (use the Course Approval Request Form).

What does not fulfill the Three-Course Electives requirements:

The Independent Study Option POLS BC3799 does not satisfy the course requirement if the project is for 1 or 2 points.

College-granted AP credit for American Politics or Comparative Politics does not count as major course credit. (See Advanced Placement Credit, above.)

Courses taken at other colleges, in summer sessions, or abroad, which are not equivalent in rigor and workload to Barnard courses, as determined by the Department Representative, in consultation with other faculty of the department, will not count toward the major or minor requirements.

Colloquium Requirement (two one-semester courses)

Although all political science courses teach students to generate and test hypotheses about political processes, relationships and institutions and/or engage in conceptual analysis and interpretation of political ideas, arguments and phenomena, students are encouraged to do this at a higher level in their two required colloquia. These colloquia feature intensive, small group discussions and a major research paper, and provide students with an opportunity to work more independently than they probably have in previous courses.

The colloquium format involves weekly discussion of readings, and development of research skills through completion of a 25- to 30-page research paper, constituting the major piece of written work for the course. Admission is limited to sixteen students who are assigned by the department, not by individual instructors. Students must have completed one lecture course in the relevant subfield before enrolling in the colloquium (or must receive special permission from the instructor for that requirement to be waived). The two required colloquia must be taken with different Barnard instructors and selected from the asterisked colloquium offerings listed in the Barnard course catalogue. Columbia seminars do not fulfill this requirement.

If you plan on spending part or all of junior year abroad:

Plan to take a colloquium during the second semester of your sophomore year. This means applying for the colloquium during the first semester of your sophomore year. Indicate on your colloquium application that you plan to be abroad one or both semesters during junior year.

If you plan to be away for the entire junior year, plan on taking both colloquia in your sophomore year. If instead you will take your second colloquium in the first semester of senior year, you should e-mail both your academic major advisor and the department administrator by the middle of March of your year abroad, in order to apply for this colloquium in your senior year.

Senior Research Seminar Requirement

Students complete a research project in each of their two colloquia, but are asked to take independent research to yet another level in their senior capstone project. In their senior seminar, students work closely with an individual Barnard faculty member to pick an important political science topic that they would like to investigate; develop a research strategy for their investigation; and write a substantial essay on their topic.

The senior research seminar is a one-semester, four-point course involving group and/or individual tutorials that students use to complete the senior thesis, a paper of 30 to 40 pages that may involve primary sources. Students are required to have taken a
The colloquium in the subfield of the proposed topic (or must receive special permission from the instructor for that requirement to be waived).

All students in the Class of 2011 and 2012 have the option of doing a two-semester, eight-point senior seminar in accordance with the previous major requirements. Such students will consult with their senior seminar adviser early in the fall term to discuss the differences between a one- and a two-semester thesis, and set a deadline by which a decision has to be made about which track to pursue. Students doing a two-semester senior seminar will complete ten courses for their major rather than nine.

What fulfills the Senior Research Seminar requirement:

A. The senior research seminar must be taken at Barnard from offerings listed in the Barnard Course Catalogue under the subheading "Research Seminars."
B. The senior research seminar counts for one of the nine courses required for the major.
C. If you do a full double-major, you write one senior thesis in each of the two departments, i.e. you write two complete theses. You may also do a “double-major with a single integrating senior project” option, or develop a combined major with a single senior thesis, in which case you will have two thesis advisors (=sponsors), one from each department.

What does not fulfill the Senior Research Seminar requirement:

Independent Study Options may involve registration in a Senior Seminar section, but such registration does not count as a senior research seminar.

No summer school course offered at Columbia or elsewhere, no course receiving transfer credit toward the degree, and no Columbia College course listed as a colloquium or seminar may be used to satisfy this requirement.

If you plan on spending junior year abroad:

You should e-mail both your academic major advisor and the departmental administrator by the middle of March of your year abroad, in order to apply for a section of senior research seminar (application).

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE COMBINED MAJOR

A student doing a combined major in Human Rights and Political Science must complete the full nine-course requirements for the Political Science major in addition to Human Rights courses. Both departments must agree on the potential departmental honors nomination.

A student doing a combined major in Jewish Studies and Political Science must complete the full nine-course requirements for the Political Science major in addition to Jewish Studies courses. Both departments must agree on the senior thesis grade and the potential departmental honors nomination.

A student doing a combined major in Women's Studies and Political Science must complete the full requirements for the Political Science major in addition to Women's Studies courses except that the senior thesis may be written in either department. The student must consult both thesis advisors (=sponsors) on a regular basis throughout the senior research seminar and the completed thesis must integrate the two fields of inquiry. Both departments must agree on the senior thesis grade and the potential departmental honors nomination.

Any other combined major (for example, Art History-Political Science), or a special major, requires a petition to the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing (CPAS) and the approval of the Chairs of the sponsoring departments. (For Political Science, obtain the approval of Professor Kimberly Marten, the 2010-2011 Department Representative.) Obtain forms and instructions from the Class Dean in the Dean of Studies Office. The student will be required to take a minimum of seven political science courses of at least three points each, including two lecture courses and two colloquia, to be selected in consultation with Professor Marten. The student must consult both essay advisors (=sponsors) on a regular basis throughout the senior research seminar and the completed thesis must integrate the two fields of inquiry. Both departments must agree on the senior thesis grade and the potential departmental honors nomination.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE DOUBLE MAJOR WITH ONE INTEGRATING SENIOR ESSAY

The student is required to complete the coursework for each major with no overlapping courses, but will write only one integrating senior thesis with two thesis advisors (=sponsors), one from each of the two departments. The student must consult both advisors on a regular basis throughout the senior research seminar and the completed thesis must integrate the two fields of inquiry. Both departments must agree on the senior thesis grade and the potential departmental honors nomination.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE SCIENCES PO – BARNARD BA/MA EXCHANGE PROGRAM

In order to complete the Sciences Po – Barnard five-year Bachelor/Master of Arts requirements, the Barnard political science major should:

- Complete all her major requirements at Barnard, including the two required colloquia;
- Fulfill her senior thesis requirement by choosing one of the following two options:
Option 1: When at Sciences Po, the student takes a personal one-semester tutorial with a Sciences Po professor assigned according to the student's interest. The tutorial must focus on advice on bibliographical search, research strategy, methodological issues, and writing on a given topic, in order to help the student write a research paper equivalent to a Barnard senior thesis in political science. The research paper should meet the following criteria:

- It should be a minimum of 30-40 pages double-spaced;
- It should be a coherent piece of analytical writing;
- It should embody the answer to some question about the operation of certain aspects of political or governmental institutions or processes, broadly conceived;
- It should be based on original research conducted by the student;
- It should be theoretically informed. It should be a social science paper, and not a policy one;
- The student should use, at least, secondary sources.

Option 2: The student enrolls in the research seminar in the Political Science Department during her junior year at Barnard. The Department strongly urges any student considering this option to complete her two required colloquia during her sophomore year.

Please use the Major Audit to track your Barnard courses for the major.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A total of five courses are necessary to complete a minor. Four of these courses must be taken from courses listed in the Political Science section of the Barnard Course Catalogue. Only one political science course taken in a summer session, study-abroad program, Reid Hall Program, or another undergraduate college may be used to satisfy the five-course requirement for the minor, with the approval of the Department Representative.
Introductory Courses

Three introductory-level lecture courses, each from a different subfield, are required of all Barnard majors and concentrators. Any lecture course at the 1000-level or 3000-level that is listed either in this section or in the "Lecture Courses" section below fulfills this requirement. These courses are designed to provide an introduction to the main subject matter and major theories of each subfield. A list of appropriate Columbia 3000-level political science lecture courses is on-line.

The subfields of all Barnard courses are listed. These are:

- American Government and Politics: the study of all aspects of the American political system, including its development, institutions, procedures, and actors.
- Comparative Politics: the study of the political systems of other countries and regions, including the use of comparisons across cases in order to gain a broader and deeper understanding of events, institutions, and processes.
- International Relations: the study of relations between countries and the dynamics and development of the international system.
- Political Theory: the study of the conceptual foundations of political systems and behavior.

Advanced Placement Credit

A student granted Advanced Placement (AP) credit by the College in either American Politics or Comparative Politics with an exam score of 5 will have fulfilled the prerequisite for courses that require the prior completion of POLS BC1001 or V1501, respectively. If the student wants to take the introductory American Politics or Comparative Politics course, she may do so, but she will forfeit her corresponding AP credit.

AP credit does not count toward the number of courses required for the major or minor, i.e. the student still needs to complete the ten courses for the major or the five for the minor.

Course Equivalents

- POLS BC1001 Dynamics of American Politics equals POLS W1201 Introduction to American Politics.
- POLS W1002 Introduction to Political Thought does not count for Barnard major or minor credit.

Sciences Po Bachelors or Masters of Arts

Students interested in the Sciences Po–Barnard five-year joint-degree BA/MA program are encouraged to start planning early, see Requirements.

American Government & Politics
POLS BC 1001x or y Dynamics of American Politics

Examination of the American political system, including elections, political parties, and national institutions: the Presidency, the Congress, and the Judiciary. Syllabi.
Prerequisites: Enrollment limited to 50 students per section. L-course sign-up through eBear. Not open to students who have taken POLS W1201 "Introduction to American Government & Politics." General Education Requirement: Social Analysis (SOC). Not offered in 2010-2011.

Lecture Courses

(1) As mentioned in the "Introductory Courses" section above, three lecture courses, each from a different subfield, are required of all Barnard majors and concentrators. Any lecture course at the 1000-level or 3000-level that is listed either under "Introductory Courses" or in this section fulfills this requirement. A list of appropriate introductory 3000-level Columbia political science lecture courses is on-line. The subfields of all Barnard courses are listed. These are:

- American Government & Politics;
- Comparative Politics;
- International Relations; and
- Political Theory.

(2) Any of the courses listed in this section, under "Introductory Courses" or cross-listed at the bottom of this page (note: click "Show all") may be used toward the three elective courses required for the major. Note: because the Columbia Department does not list its courses by subfield, students are responsible for checking with their major advisors to verify the subfield into which Columbia courses fall! Please consult our Department Chair about the eligibility of a Columbia political science course not cross-listed below.

Political science courses emphasize social scientific reasoning and theory application. The 3000- and 4000-level courses listed here are designed to deepen and expand students' knowledge base and to encourage them to apply social scientific reasoning and theories to the analysis of a broad range of political issues and problems. Lecture courses are the primary mechanism of instruction; see individual course descriptions for information on discussion sections.

American Government & Politics

POLV BC 3200x American Political Development, 1789-1980

Explores the development of the American political system and its institutions, including Congress and the Presidency. Traces the ways in which institutions shape our political life, and conversely the ways politics change institutions. Examines how historical approaches to American politics can shed light on some of the dilemmas now facing the American political system. Syllabus.

Colloquia

Although all political science courses teach students to generate and test hypotheses about political processes, relationships and institutions and/or engage in conceptual analysis and interpretation of political ideas, arguments and phenomena, students are encouraged to do this at a higher level in their two required colloquia. These colloquia feature intensive, small group discussions and a major research paper, and provide students with an opportunity to work more independently than they probably have in previous courses.

The two required colloquia must be completed before the senior research seminar. The colloquium format involves weekly discussion of readings, and development of research skills through completion of a 25- to 30-page research paper, constituting the major piece of written work for the course. Admission is limited to sixteen students who are assigned by the department, not by individual instructors. Students must have completed one lecture course in the relevant subfield before enrolling in the colloquium (or must receive special permission from the instructor for that requirement to be waived). The two required colloquia must be taken with different Barnard instructors and selected from the asterisked colloquium offerings listed in the Barnard course catalogue. Columbia seminars do not fulfill this requirement.

Although admission to each colloquium is limited (to sixteen students), please do not use the L-course sign-up, but apply through the Barnard Political Science Department office during the preceding semester's program-planning period. Majors must complete two colloquia, each taken with different instructors: a second colloquium taken with the same instructor will receive political science elective credit only.

If you plan on spending part or all of junior year abroad, take one or both of your colloquia before your junior year, see Requirements.

Independent Study Option

POLS BC 3799x and y Independent Study

Students who wish to do an independent study project (I.S.P.), should speak with a faculty member willing to serve as sponsor, then fill out a "Request for Approval of Credit for Independent Study" and obtain signatures from the sponsor and from the Department Chair. File this form with the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing, which must approve all requests. (It must be filed with the C.P.A.S. well before the Registrar's program-filing deadline for the semester of the I.S.P.)

Note that no credit is given for an internship or job experience in or by itself, but credit is given for an academic research paper written in conjunction with an internship, subject to the procedures outlined above. The internship and the I.S.P. can be in the same semester, or you may do the I.S.P. in the semester following the internship.

A project approved for three or four points counts as an elective course for the purpose of the ten-course major or five-course minor requirement. No more than two such three- or four-point projects may be used for the major, and no more than one for the minor. An independent study project may not be used to satisfy either the colloquium or senior seminar requirement.

Each instructor is limited to sponsoring one independent study project per semester. The Registrar will assign a POLS BC 3799 section and call number unique to the faculty sponsor.

1-4 points.

Research Seminars

Students complete a research project in each of their two colloquia, but are asked to take independent research to yet another level in their senior capstone project. In their senior seminar, students work closely with an individual Barnard faculty member to pick an important political science topic that they would like to investigate; develop a research strategy for their investigation; and write a substantial essay on their topic.

The senior research seminar is a one-semester, four-point course involving group and/or individual tutorials that students use to complete the senior thesis, a paper of 30 to 40 pages that may involve primary sources.

Students are required to have taken a colloquium in the subfield of the proposed topic (or must receive special permission from the instructor for that requirement to be waived).

All students in the Class of 2011 and 2012 have the option of doing a two-semester, eight-point senior seminar in accordance with the previous major requirements. Such students will consult with their senior seminar adviser early in the fall term to discuss the differences between a one- and a two-semester thesis, and set a deadline by which a decision has to be made about which track to pursue. Students doing a two-semester senior seminar will complete ten courses for their major rather than nine.

Although admission to each section is limited, please do "not" enroll using "L-course" registration, but apply through the Department Office during the semester preceding senior standing. Students are admitted by the Barnard Political Science Department and not by individual instructors. Only the senior research seminar POLS BC 3761 satisfies the senior thesis requirement for Barnard Political Science majors, unless you are in the five-year Sciences Po Bachelors/Masters of Arts program.

Seminar

POLS BC 3601x International Law and the United Nations in Practice

Examines the development of international law and the United Nations, their evolution in the Twentieth Century, and their role in world affairs today. Concepts and principles are illustrated through their application to contemporary human rights and humanitarian challenges, and with respect to other threats to international peace and security.

- S. Inglis
Prerequisites: POLS V1601 "International Politics" or HRTS/POLS W3001 "Introduction to Human Rights." Limited to 20 students. Admission by permission from Dr. J. Paul Martin, Executive Director of the Center for the Study of Human Rights, e-mail: jmartin@barnard.edu. This single-semester seminar does not satisfy either the colloquium or senior essay requirement for Barnard Political Science majors. However, it does count toward the ten-course major and five-course minor requirements.

Not offered in Academic Year 2010-2011.

Seminar in International Relations

POLS BC 3601x International Law and the United Nations in Practice

This seminar aims to provide a broad view of the development of international law and the United Nations, their evolution in the twentieth century, and their role in world affairs today. It gives students a firm grasp of the primary concepts and principles governing international law, while focusing on the contemporary human rights and humanitarian challenges facing the international community. We will explore the complex role that international law and the United Nations play in addressing global threats and opportunities, and identify current political and practical limitations. The course consists primarily of presentation and discussion, drawing heavily on the practical application of theory to actual experiences and situations. For the Political Science major, this seminar counts as elective credit only.

- S. Inglis

Prerequisites: POLS V1601 or POLS/HRTS V3001 or equivalent. Admission by approval from Professor J. Paul Martin, jmartin@barnard.edu, Director of the Human Rights Program. For the Political Science major, this seminar counts as elective credit only.

Urban Studies

V3200 Spatial Analysis: GIS Methods and Urban Case Studies

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
Psychology is the study of behavior and experience, from love to aggression, from the first babbling of infants to creativity, from sexuality to the physiology of taste. Faculty members in Psychology have a wide range of research interests, including social and cognitive development, memory, language, animal learning, social stereotyping, the self-concept, the resolution of conflict, and behavioral neuroscience.

Common to all areas of psychology is a concern with adequate and appropriate method of inquiry. The student will encounter many perspectives on psychological evidence and technique through lecture, laboratory, field courses, and other offerings.

Opportunities are available for supervised research, teaching, and field experience. Independent study and the Senior Research Seminar involve participation in research with a faculty member. The Toddler Center and a course in Field Work in Psychological Services provide first-hand contact with the study of psychology.

Non-majors may elect to fulfill the College Science Requirement with courses in Psychology.

Psychology as a major concentration is good preparation for many careers. Many students enter graduate school in psychology, neuroscience, education, and professional schools, including medical, law, and business schools. There is no set sequence for a given career goal, but the Department recommends a balance between courses that are directly preparatory and those that establish a broad intellectual foundation.

Student Learning Objectives/Goals [and Learning Outcomes]:

- Acquire a strong intellectual foundation in the historical foundations and contemporary problems in psychological science [Identify a contemporary psychological problem, either basic or applied, that interests you, and discuss the historical development of the psychological research and theory that offers an insight into this problem.]
- Acquire a familiarity with the breadth of sub-disciplines in psychology that are applied to questions of behavior and mental processes [Draw on multiple sub-disciplines to describe an insight on an important psychological question.]
- Acquire competence in accessing current psychological research literature [Generate a reading list sufficient to introduce the relevant theory and research on an important psychological question.]
- Acquire the skills to think critically about psychological theories and the research employed to test them [Critique a published research article.]
- Acquire the skills to design studies that pose valid tests of psychological hypotheses (with an appreciation of the strengths and weaknesses of various research methods and designs, such as experimental, quasi-experimental, and correlational designs) [Design a study to test a hypothesis that you have generated based upon your reading of the relevant literature on a psychological question.]
- Acquire basic descriptive and inferential statistical knowledge to summarize your research data and to identify reliable results [Summarize the results of a study that you have designed, and employ an inferential test of the question you posed.]
- Acquire the ability to clearly communicate theories, hypotheses, hypothesis tests, and research findings, in both written and spoken form [Write a paper in conformance with APA style that is suitable for presentation. Prepare and deliver an oral presentation of your findings.]

Science requirement: Students desiring to fulfill the science requirement through Psychology are encouraged to take their lab courses in their early years at Barnard, because seniors do not receive priority in lab placements. To ensure exposure to different methods in psychology, the two lab courses must be drawn from different groups. See the description of lab groups
Students should request Department permission for lab courses by entering the lottery in April and November for the following semester. Information about Department permission is available in Room 415A Milbank.

A laboratory fee of $30 is charged for each laboratory course: BC 1105, BC 1108, BC 1113, BC 1117, BC 1123, BC 1127 and BC 1136.

Students interested in the Neuroscience and Behavior major should consult the Neuroscience and Behavior section of the course catalogue.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The student majoring in Psychology is exposed to the diversity of the discipline through the required core courses and the selection of appropriate electives.

Eight courses in Psychology (of which two must be lab courses) and three courses in related disciplines are required for the major. Six of the eight required Psychology courses must be taken at Barnard College.*

Students must take:

PSYC BC 1001  Introduction to Psychology (prerequisite for further psychology courses)
PSYC BC 1101  Statistics (preferably in the sophomore year)

Students must take one course from each group, of which two must be laboratory courses:

Group A

PSYC BC 1105 or 1107  Psychology of Learning
PSYC BC 1113 or 1115  Cognitive Psychology

Group B

PSYC BC 1108 or 1110  Perception
PSYC BC 1117 or 1119  Systems and Behavioral Neuroscience

Group C

PSYC BC 1123 or 1125  Psychology of Personality
PSYC BC 1136 or 1138  Social Psychology
PSYC BC 1127 or 1129  Developmental Psychology

Three additional elective courses are required. Students may take more than one course in each group.

Students who have passed either the Advanced Placement exam in psychology with a score of 4 or 5, or the International Baccalaureate exam with a score of 5 or higher are exempt from PSYC BC 1001. They will need an extra elective to achieve the eight psychology courses required for the major (or the five courses required for the minor).

Economics minors and double-majors can satisfy the requirement with ECON BC 2411. Students that declared their major in psychology prior to the 2008-2009 academic year may satisfy the major statistics requirement with STAT W 1111 or W 1211 in lieu of PSYC BC 1101. Those who take an outside course cannot also receive credit for PSYC BC 1101. They will also need an extra psychology elective to achieve the eight psychology courses required for the major (or the five courses required for the minor). Students should consult with the Department Representative before enrolling in any other statistics course, as it may not be accepted towards the major or minor.

The eight required psychology courses must be taken for a letter grade. Students must earn a grade of C- or better. A maximum of two of the following courses may count toward the major (or minor): BC 3465, BC 3466, BC 3591, BC 3592, and BC 3599.
both semesters accompanied by a three-hour laboratory section (astronomy, biology, chemistry, environmental science, geology, or physics); and one course from the cognate disciplines (anthropology, computer science, economics, linguistics, philosophy, or sociology). A student may fulfill the outside lab science requirement if she receives a 4 or 5 on the AP exam in biology, chemistry, environmental science, or physics and completes one semester of lab in the same field. These courses in related disciplines may be taken for a letter grade or P/D/F. Students must earn a grade of C- or better, or a P. Students cannot receive credit for courses taken elsewhere overlapping substantially with courses taken at Barnard. They should consult with the Department regarding Columbia offerings that overlap and should request Departmental approval for any course taken at an unaffiliated institution.

Senior Requirement

Included among the eight courses required for the major is a Senior Requirement.

Students fulfill the Senior Requirement by completing one of the following courses during their senior year. The course may be taken during the junior year with prior approval by the major advisor and the Departmental Representative of a written petition outlining rationale for early completion.

(a) BC 3599, Individual Projects (3 or 4 points);
(b) BC 3591x, 3592y Senior Research Seminar; or
(c) any 3000-level BC psychology seminar approved by a Psychology Adviser.

Majors may elect to fulfill their Senior Requirement with a Columbia Psychology Department Seminar or Supervised Individual Research. Those who elect this option may complete the major with five of the eight required courses at Barnard.

When in doubt, the student should consult with her major adviser, whom she should select when she decides to major in Psychology. The student should select the appropriate adviser by consulting with the Departmental Representative.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor, including Psychology BC 1001, BC 1101, and one laboratory course chosen from the groups listed for the major. Two additional electives, excluding Psychology BC 3465–BC 3466, BC 3591–BC 3592, and BC 3599, are required. These electives may be selected from the Psychology Department course offerings. Three of the five psychology courses must be taken at Barnard. Exemptions and substitutions are as noted above for the major.

Students who complete an approved Columbia psychology seminar or independent study in their senior year may count this course as one of their six required Barnard courses (see Senior Requirement).

Introductory Courses

PSYC BC 1001x and y Introduction to Psychology

Introduction to the chief facts, principles, and problems of human and animal behavior, through systematic study of a text, lectures, exercises, reading in special fields, and brief participation in a current investigation. (An alternative to participation can be arranged at the student's request.)

Prerequisites: This course is prerequisite for all other psychology courses. Enrollment is limited to 45 students per section. 3 points
PSYC BC 1099x and y Science and Scientists

Weekly meetings with researchers to discuss the nature of scientific inquiry in psychology; and intellectual, professional, and personal issues in the work of scientists.
Presupers: BC1001 or permission of the instructor. Recommended for first- and second-year students.
1 point

Core Courses

PSYC BC 1101x and y Statistics

Introduction to statistics and its applications to psychological research. Basic theory, conceptual underpinnings, and common statistics. Recitation devoted to discussion of weekly problem assignments.
Presupers: BC1001 and departmental permission. Enrollment limited to 36 students per section. Economics minors and double-majors can satisfy the requirement with ECON BC 2411. Students that declared their major in psychology prior to the 2008-2009 academic year may satisfy the statistics requirement with STAT W1111 or W1211 in lieu of PSYC BC1101.
Those who take an outside course cannot also receive credit for PSYC BC 1101. They will also need an extra psychology elective to achieve the eight psychology courses required for the major (or the five courses required for the minor). Students should consult with the Department Representative before enrolling in any other statistics course, as it may not be accepted towards the major or minor. Corequisites: Recitation: Section001: TR 11:00 - 1:00, Section002: M 5:00 - 7:00 or 7:00 - 9:00 Recitation Section Required. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

PSYC BC 3368y The Psychology of Creativity/The Creative Process

Consideration of classic Psychodynamic (the unconscious/incubation), Psychometric (testing/training), and Personality (train/motivation) models of creativity. Application of contemporary Process (cognitive/problem-solving) models to art, literature, and independently selected areas of expertise. Process models are involving constraint selection within well-established domains are emphasized.
PSYC BC 3369x Language Development

Examines the acquisition of a first language by children, from babbling and first words to complex sentence structure and wider communicative competence. Signed and spoken languages, cross-linguistic variation and universals, language genesis and change, and acquisition by atypical populations will be discussed.

Prerequisites: BC1001, one Psychology laboratory course, one of the following: PSYC W2240, BC1127, BC1129, or LIN BC V1101, and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 15 students. Not offered in 2010-2011.

4 points

PSYC BC 3372x Comparative Cognition

Review and critical evaluation of current empirical research investigating cognitive processes in both human and non-human species. Topics include comparisons in episodic memory, metacognition, theory of mind, self-awareness, and language abilities.

Prerequisites: BC1001 and one additional course in psychology. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Not offered in 2010-2011.

4 points

PSYC BC 3373y Health Psychology

Consideration of research on the interaction of biological, psychological, and social factors related to health and illness. Issues such as the relationship of stress to illness, methods of coping with illness and improving health, and the relationship between psychological factors and recovery from illness will be discussed.

Prerequisites: BC1001 and or equivalent, plus two more psychology courses (preferably BC1117, BC1136, BC1123). Permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 15 students. Not offered in 2010-2011.

4 points

PSYC BC 3376x and y Infant Development

Analysis of human development during the fetal period and early infancy. Review of effects of environmental factors on perinatal perceptual, cognitive, sensory-motor, and neurobehavioral capacities, with emphasis on critical conditions involved in both normal and abnormal brain development. Other topics include acute and long term effects of toxic exposures (stress, smoking, and alcohol) during pregnancy, and interaction of genes and the environment in shaping the developing brain of "high-risk" infants, including prematures and those at risk for Sudden Infant Death Syndrome.

Prerequisites: BC1001 and BC1127 or BC1129. Enrollment limited to 15 students.

4 points

PSYC BC 3379x Psychology of Stereotyping and Prejudice

Review of current literature from experimental social psychology pertaining to stereotyping and prejudice. Topics include: functions and costs of stereotyping, the formation and maintenance of stereotypes, and stereotype change. Recent research concerning the role of cognitive processes in intergroup perception will be emphasized.

Prerequisites: BC1001 and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20 students. General Education Requirement: Social Analysis (SOC).

4 points

PSYC BC 3380y Fundamentals of Neuropsychology

Exposition of research and theory in neuroscience with an emphasis on the use of neural imaging techniques (EEG, evoked potentials, MEG, PET, fMRI) for exploring sensation, perception, and cognition in the healthy, intact brain.
PSYC BC 3381y Theory of Mind and Intentionality

Survey and critical analysis of the developmental and neurological research on theory of mind (the attribution of mental states like belief, desire, and knowledge to others) in humans and nonhuman animals. Emphasis on the role of intentionality, stages of acquisition, neurological and genetic bases, and deficits in theory of mind.

Prerequisites: BC1001 and one other Psychology course. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Not offered in 2010-2011.

4 points

PSYC BC 3382y Adolescent Psychology

Examines adolescent development in theory and reality. Focuses on individual physiological, sexual, cognitive, and affective development and adolescent experiences in their social context of family, peers, school, and community. Critical perspectives of gender, race and ethnicity, sexuality, and "teen culture" explored.

Prerequisites: BC1001 and Developmental Psychology or permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20 senior majors. Barnard students receive priority. General Education Requirement: Social Analysis (SOC).

4 points

PSYC BC 3383x Neuropharmacology and Behavior

Basic principles of the study of drugs that influence the neural systems and induce changes in behavior. Molecular, biochemical and behavioral characterization of psychotropic drugs: stimulants, sedative-hypnotics, anxiolytics, alcohol, hallucinogens, and opiates. Etiology and treatment of psychological and neurological disorders.

Prerequisites: One of the following: PSYC BC1117, PSYC BC1119, BIOL BC3280 and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20 students.

4 points

PSYC BC 3384x Social Cognition

Survey of research from the field of social cognition, exploring cognitive processes involved in social functioning. Topics include attention, interpretation, evaluation, judgment, attribution, and memory processes. Both controlled and automatic processes will be considered, and the roles of motives, goals, and affective variables will be discussed.

Prerequisites: BC1138 Social Psychology or BC1115 Cognitive Psychology Not offered in 2010-2011.

4 points

PSYC BC 3387y Topics in Neuroethics

Recent advancements in neuroscience raise profound ethical questions. Neuroethics integrates neuroscience, philosophy, and ethics in an attempt to address these issues. Reviews current debated topics relevant to the brain, cognition, and behavior. Bioethical and philosophical principles will be applied allowing students to develop skill in ethical analysis.

Prerequisites: BC1001 and one of the following: Neurobiology, Behavioral Neuroscience, Fundamentals of Neuropsychology. Enrollment limited to 20 students. General Education Requirement: Reason and Value (REA).

4 points
PSYC BC 3388y Imitation and Language
Examines the concept of imitation in behavior through research on animals, human development, and adult language use. Class meetings focus on discussion of reading material to develop a theory of the cognitive mechanisms of imitation that apply to language change in spoken communication.
Prerequisites: BC1001 and one Psychology Lab course. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Not offered in 2010-2011. 4 points

PSYC BC 3389y Current Topics in Personality Psychology
This course offers an in-depth examination of contemporary topics in personality psychology and their historical antecedents. Topics include developmental foundations, modern theory and research on consciousness, regulation of emotion and cognition, and new approaches to personality assessment. These current issues will be discussed with an emphasis on both theory and research.
Prerequisites: BC1001 and BC1123 or BC1125. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Not offered in 2010-2011. 4 points

PSYC BC 3390y Canine Cognition
An examination of the scientific study of the domestic dog. Emphasis will be on the evolutionary history of the species; the dog’s social cognitive skills; canid perceptual and sensory capacities; dog-primate comparative studies; and dog-human interaction.
Prerequisites: BC1001 and one other Psychology course. Enrollment limited to 20 students. Permission of the instructor is required. 4 points

PSYC BC 3391y Psychology of Time
The seminar will explore how times are perceived, learned, remembered and used to guide decisions and behavior. The underlying brain mechanisms that create a sense of time and organize action will be discussed. Students will research how temporal information processing is foundational to core areas of psychology.
Prerequisites: BC1001 plus one additional psychology course. 4 points

PSYC G 4232y Production and Perception of Language
Review of classic and current research on spoken communication. Peripheral transduction, auditory and phonetic analysis, word recognition, phrase formation, formal and informal speech, idiolect, and infant and nonhuman listeners.
Prerequisites: PSYC W2240, BC2160, or BC3164, or permission of the instructor. 4 points
Research and Field Work Courses

PSYC BC 3465x-BC3466y Field Work and Research Seminar: The Barnard Toddler Center

The Barnard Toddler Center provides the focus for field work and research in applied developmental psychology, an amalgam of developmental, educational, and clinical psychology. Students assist one morning a week at the Center, make individual class presentations, carry out team research projects, and participate in a two-hour weekly seminar which integrates theory, research, and practice.

Prerequisites: BC1127 or BC1129 and permission of the instructor. Permission should be requested in the Spring of the year preceding registration. Enrollment limited to 16 students. This is a two-semester course only.

RACE & ETHNIC STUDIES

Race & Ethnic Studies
Interdisciplinary Concentration on Race and Ethnicity (ICORE) and Minor on Race and Ethnicity (MORE)

This program is supervised by the Steering Committee of the Consortium for Critical Interdisciplinary Studies at Barnard:

Kim F. Hall, Lucyle Hook Professor of English and Director of Africana Studies
Janet Jakobsen, Professor of Women's Studies, Director of the Barnard Center for Research on Women, and Dean for Faculty Diversity and Development
Jennie Kassanoff, Associate Professor of English and Director of the Program in American Studies
Neferti X. M. Tadiar, Professor and Chair of Women's Studies

For a complete list of faculty on leave see:
http://www.barnard.edu/provost/facleavelist.html

Mission

The purpose of the Interdisciplinary Concentration on Race and Ethnicity (ICORE) and Minor on Race and Ethnicity (MORE) is to make available to Barnard students the interdisciplinary and critical study of race and ethnicity in their mutual constitution with gender, class, and nation. ICORE and MORE provide an intersectional and international framework for thinking through issues of ethnicity and race in both local and global contexts and in relation to other forms of social difference. Advanced seminars allow students to use this framework for the in-depth study of a particular topic. For those students who desire to pursue graduate education in the field of Ethnic Studies, ICORE and MORE will provide background preparation.

Student Learning Objectives

Students who complete either the Interdisciplinary Concentration or Minor on Race and Ethnicity will learn how to:

1. Gain exposure to the theories and methods of Ethnic Studies;
2. Interpret arguments in light of the expanding literature in Ethnic Studies;
3. Understand processes of racialization in historical and geographical context;
4. Understand the mutual constitution and relative autonomy of axes of social differentiation;
5. Comprehend how national boundaries, as well as local, national and transnational cultures and politics affect the constitution of racial and ethnic categories;
6. Compare representations of borderlands, hybridity, migration and diaspora from different cultures; and
7. Identify and communicate the importance of ethnic and racial diversity to an increasingly global and interconnected world.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
At the beginning of the twenty-first century, religion plays a central role in virtually every aspect of human society around the globe. The Religion department's curriculum offers students the opportunity to explore the histories, texts, and practices of many of the world's religious communities and to consider both the profound ways in which religion has worked historically and how it continues to inform and affect the cultural, political, and ethical debates of the current moment. In addition, our curriculum invites students to reflect on the challenging theoretical questions that are generated by the category "religion" itself, an abstract category that has its own complicated history. The academic study of religion is self-consciously interdisciplinary, drawing upon the methods and insights of literary studies, historiography, social analysis, and cultural comparison. Moreover, the study of religion reminds us that religious identities demand sustained critical analysis, intersecting complexly as they do with race, class, gender, and ethnicity, among other categories of affiliation and identification. In its teaching, research projects, and public programming, the Religion department promotes engaged intellectual inquiry into the rich diversity of religious institutions, rituals, ideas, and communities both past and present.

The Departments of Religion at Barnard and Columbia marshal an array of academic approaches to the study of religion, representing the depth and diversity of the world's religious traditions, past and present. The category of religion-along with key related terms like belief, spirituality, mystical experience, and ritual-is historically and culturally contingent; many of our courses interrogate these terms and the conditions of their construction. Yet we are committed to engaging "religion," which persists so strongly in common usage and public debate, and is so hard to capture in any related domain or theoretical system.

Morningside Heights provides unique resources for the study of religion. The University's specialized programs and centers, especially its regional institutes, create a context for exploring in depth the linguistic, literary, political, and cultural milieus that bear on particular religious traditions. The new Center for the Study of Science and Religion enriches curricular offerings in that field. Barnard's Center for Research on Women often focuses on issues of ethics and policy where questions of religion and gender are paramount, and Barnard Religion faculty are particularly active in the area. Barnard and Columbia offer intensive language training in the languages of the major religious traditions of the world: Arabic, Chinese, Greek, Hebrew, Japanese, Latin, Persian, Sanskrit and other Indic languages, and Tibetan, among others. The Jewish Theological Seminary of America and Union Theological Seminary, with their world-renowned libraries, are our neighbors. And the city as a whole provides one of the world's best laboratories for the study of religion.

Our program tries to help students discover these resources and use them well. Many courses fulfill the College's general education requirements.

Goals for the Academic Study of Religion at Barnard

The faculty in Religion at Barnard have organized the curriculum around several interlocking goals:

- To help students learn to engage critically with different religious traditions in their historical and cultural settings;
- To attune students to the different theoretical, methodological, and disciplinary approaches required for critically interrogating different religious archives, performances, communal formations, artifacts, and ideas;
- To provide students with the critical tools for understanding the influence of religion on individuals and society;
- To open up the category of "religion" to critical investigation, both to consider its history and to understand how it comes to be applied to a variety of human and social phenomena.

What Students Learn when Pursuing the Academic Study of Religion at Barnard
Students who are successful in our curriculum will learn to:

- Read/view/engage primary sources and scholarly materials critically and with subtlety;
- Situate religious texts, performances, artifacts, and ideas in historical, social, political, and cultural contexts;
- Understand the importance of perspective when analyzing religious ideas, claims, and sources;
- Express themselves fluently in writing and speaking about the materials under investigation.

In addition, they will:

- Develop an acquaintanceship with the history of theoretical debates about "religion" —how the intellectual history of the field has shaped the object of knowledge for the field—and
- Become familiar with a range of methodological approaches appropriate to the object of study (e.g., literary interpretation and analysis; historical contextualization; ethnographic participant observation; philosophical inquiry; analysis of visual, artistic, archaeological, architectural evidence).
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The department’s strengths in comparative study, textual and social analysis, philosophy, theory, and cultural history allow students to balance close study in one area with a broad investigation of the field we name “religion.” Working closely with an advisor in the department, majors construct a cluster of five courses that relate to one another in a coherent fashion (#1 below) and support the senior thesis. To complement this depth, they select four courses that lend breadth to their studies in religion (#2). Students considering Religion as a major should contact the chair or a member of the department in their sophomore year to begin planning their programs.

The Religion major requires twelve courses, as follows:

1) Major cluster: five intermediate or advanced courses, including one seminar. As many as two of these courses may come from other departments, and individually supervised research (V 3901-02: Guided Readings) may also be included. This cluster of courses may be organized around a particular tradition or geographic area: Hinduism, Islam, religion in America, etc. Alternatively, students may design clusters that focus on a set of related subjects and concerns, such as religion in New York; religion in theory and practice; religion and culture; religious texts and histories; religion, women, gender; or religion, race, nation, ethnicity. Yet these are only exemplary. Students are urged to design their own clusters, supplementing departmental listings with religion-related courses posted on the Barnard Religion Department’s web site as “Religion Related courses” and on the Columbia Religion Department’s web site as “Related Courses.” Several sample majors are posted on the Barnard Religion Department’s website.

2) Breadth: four Religion courses—either lecture or seminar—that lend geographical, historical, and/or disciplinary range to a student’s program.

3) One semester of the Juniors’ Colloquium (V 3799), engaging major theoretical issues in the field. This course is customarily offered in both Fall and Spring semesters.

4) The two-semester Senior Research Seminar (BC 3997-98), which must be taken in sequence, beginning in autumn and continuing through the spring, and which structures the experience of preparing a senior thesis. Students work together in this seminar to develop, critique, and execute their research projects, submitting a formal proposal and partial draft in the fall and completing the research and writing in the spring.

The department encourages study abroad, particularly in summers or in one semester of the junior year, and is eager to help facilitate internships and funded research. These possibilities often contribute very meaningfully to the senior essay project.

MINORS AND COMBINED MAJORS

A Religion minor comprises five Religion courses at any level, one of which must be Religion V 3799, Juniors Colloquium. In addition, students are encouraged to include among the remaining four courses at least one seminar. Students intending to minor in Religion should contact the department chair. Combined majors are offered with the programs in Human Rights and in Jewish Studies.

RELI V 2645 Religion in Black America: An Introduction

Undergraduate lecture course introducing students to the study of African American religion. While there are no required prerequisites for the course, prior coursework in religious studies or African American history is helpful. This course progresses as a historical survey and is intended to introduce students to important themes in African American (thus American) religious history (i.e. migration, urbanization, nationalism) through a rich engagement with the religious practices and traditions of black communities. Primary attention is given to Afro-Protestantism in North America; however, throughout the course attention is directed to religious diversity and varying religious traditions/practices in different diasporic locales. While this is a lecture course, students are expected to arrive each week having completed assigned readings and prepared to make informed contributions to class discussions (as class size allows). By the end of the semester students will be expected to possess a working knowledge of major themes/figures/traditions in African American religious life, as well as key questions that have shaped the study thereof.

- To be announced

General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL). General Education Requirement: Reason and Value (REA). 3 points

RELI V 2803 Religion 101

What is religion? This course will seek to engage a range of answers to this question, beginning with some of the reasons we might want to ask it. Acknowledging the urgency of the matter, the class is not a survey of all religious traditions. Rather, it will seek to address religion as a comparative problem between traditions (how does one religion compare with another? Who invented comparative religion?) as well as between scholarly and methodological approaches (does one live—or ask about—religion the way one asks about Law? Culture? Science? Politics?). We will seek to engage the problem of perspective in, for example, the construction of a conflict between religion and science, religion and modernity, as well as some of the distinctions now current in the media (news and movies) between religion and politics, religion and economics. Historical and textual material, as well as aesthetic practices and institutions will provide the general and studied background for the lectures.

RELI V 3512 The Bible and Its Interpreters

The Hebrew Bible (a.k.a. the Old Testament) has been one of the most repercussive texts of the Western canon.
However, it comes to us mediated through its early reception history. From the first readers of the texts that came to comprise the Hebrew Bible struggled with problems of interpretation and devised creative, often ingenious, and frequently culturally charged solutions. We will focus on a few key biblical passages in translation, subjecting each to close reading and then examining their treatment by various ancient interpreters. These interpreters will include the writers of later biblical texts; ancient translations; extra-canonical texts; Qumran texts; and Hellenistic Jewish, early Christian, and rabbinic literature. Each interpretive tradition will bring us deeper into the world of the Bible as it was received and came to be read. - Y. Septimus

RELI V 3515x or y Readings in Kabbalah

This course will serve to provide a wide but detailed exploration of Jewish Mysticism, raising questions about its connection to other Jewish traditions, the kind of symbolism and hermeneutics at stake, and the conception of God, man and world we are dealing with, amongst other major ideas.

RELI W 4501x or y Psalms Through the Commentary of the Baal Shem Tov

Close reading of selected psalms along with the commentary attributed to the Ba'al Shem Tov, one of the founders of Hasidism. Offers an opportunity to gain experience in close reading of major Jewish texts in the original language (Hebrew).
Provides students simultaneous exposure to a major biblical book, Psalms, which has a long and rich reception history, both textually and spiritually, as well as to a significant text of Hasidic thought. The two texts and their historical/discursive framings will be read complementarily or against one another. Additional readings will give supplementary perspectives, raising questions that include the production history of the Book of Psalms, comparative mythology, the liturgical and ritual use of psalms historically, and mystical readings of the Book of Psalms. Through the combination of perspectives we will learn about the variety of the interpretative approaches to a canonical texts such as the Book of Psalms: the dense web of meanings and uses given to one biblical text over the course of Jewish history; the methods and goals of Hasidic exegesis of the Bible.

- J. Schorsch

RELI W 4502y Jewish Rites of Passage

Undertakes an interdisciplinary exploration of historical and contemporary Jewish rites of passage and life-cycles events, focusing on the interplay between ritual and gender, sexuality and power. Our examination of the tensions between tradition and modernity will encompass traditional passage, wedding ceremonies and more modern rituals.

- I. Koren
Prerequisites: Sophomore standing.
4 points

RELI W 4504x or y Reading the Patriarchal and Matriarchal Stories in Genesis

Aims to clarify the intellectual assumptions governing how different individuals conceive of their conversion experiences. Through the study of classic and lesser known accounts we will examine some common metaphors and images (rebirth, awakening, being lost and found) and how they shape narratives of one’s life.

4 points

RELI W 4505x or y The Beginnings of Jewish Mysticism

Study of biblical and Hellenistic foundations for Western mysticism - scriptural visions of God, apocalyptic literature, Graeco-Roman magic, and the merkabah mystical movement in Judaism.

4 points

RELI W 4506x or y Jewish Martyrdom

Utilizes major episodes of Jewish martyrdom as a basis for discussion of some of the key problems in the study of martyrdom. Among the questions it will raise: How have major scholars analyzed the origins of a martyrdom ideal in late antiquity? What questions do social scientists raise concerning the phenomenology of martyrdom, and how have these questions been addresses with respect to Jewish martyrdom? How do ancient and medieval traditions of martyrdom, despite their drastic tendency to draw strict boundaries, betray the influence of other (even hostile) traditions? And how do traditions of martyrdom undergo mutation in response to new historical and cultural realities?

Prerequisites: Permission of instructor. Sophomore Standing. Enrollment limited to 20.
4 points

RELI W 4507x or y Readings in Hasidism

An exploration of Hasidism, the pietist and mystical movement that arose in eastern Europe at the beginning of the eighteenth century. Hasidism stands as perhaps the most influential and significant movement within modern Judaism.

- Jonathan Schorsch
Prerequisites: At least one Jewish Studies course or other familiarity with Judaism.
4 points
RELI W 4510x or y The Thought of Maimonides

Close examination of Maimonides’ major ideas, with emphasis on the relationship between law and philosophy; biblical interpretation; the nature of God; creation and providence; human nature; ethics and law; and human perfection.

General Education Requirement: Reason and Value (REA).

3 points

RELI W 4511y Jewish Ethics

This course is divided into two parts— theoretical and practical. In the first part we will examine major philosophical issues concerning the nature and basis of Jewish ethics; in the second, we will examine a selected group of practical ethical issues. All assignments will be in English, and any Hebrew phrases used in course discussion will be translated.

- D. Shatz

4 points

RELI W 4513x or y Homelands, Diasporas, Promised Lands

Explores religious, political and philosophical aspects of homelands, collective exile from homelands and the question of whether or not return is possible or desirable.

- J. Schorsch

RELI W 4535x or y Ancient Jewish Texts

Close reading in the original languages of ancient Jewish texts including Aristeas, 1 and 2 Maccabees, selections from Philo and Josephus, selected tractates from Mishnah, Tosefta, Palestinian Talmud and early midrash collections. Permission of instructor required; course may be taken more than once.

- S. Schwartz

4 points

RELI W 4560x or y Political Theology

This reading-intensive course will engage the notion of “political theology,” a notion that emerges within the Western tradition (Varro, Augustine) and has become instrumental in thinking and institutionalizing the distinction between religion and politics over the course of the twentieth century. We will take our point of departure the key texts that have revived this notion (Schmitt, Kantorowicz), engage their interpretation of the Bible and of Augustine and medieval followers. We will then examine the role of Spinoza and Moses Mendelsohn, the extention of the notion of religion to “the East” (Said, Grosrichard, Asad), and conclude with some of the current debates over secularization in the colonizing and colonized world.

4 points

RELI W 4610x or y Science, Nature, and Religion in 20th Century America

Examination of the relationship between scientific and religious ideas, with particular reference to American culture in the twentieth century. Explores the impact of such events as the Scopes trial and the popular faith in science and technology of the religious attitudes and beliefs of 20th-century Americans.

General Education Requirement: Reason and Value (REA).
4 points

RELI W 4611x or y Alterities of Religion in American Culture

Interdisciplinary exploration of some of the many ways that religion in America has been mutually constituted in opposition to various entities identified as being the opposite of religion. Counterparts explored include the marketplace, fraudulence, atheistic rationalism, the secular, the state, totalitarianism and the study of religion.

- J. Dubler

RELI W 4710x or y Kant and Kierkegaard

Examines the relationship between morality and religious faith in the work of Immanuel Kant and Soren Kierkegaard. Examines Kant's claim that religious thought and practice arise out of the moral life, and Kierkegaard's distinction between morality and religious faith. Recitation Section Required.

4 points

RELI W 4720x Religion and Pragmatism

4 points

RELI W 4721x or y Religion and Social Justice

Examines current debates on three topics (religious reasons in public discourse, human rights, and democracy). Also looks briefly at some uses of the Exodus story, focusing on Michael Walzer's study of its political uses, Edward Said's criticism of Walzer's use of it in connection with contemporary Israel, and its role in debates among African Americans in the nineteenth century. Prerequisites: Permission of the instructor. Sophomore standing.

4 points

RELI W 4722y Nothing, God, Freedom

Focuses on three interrelated issues that lie at the heart of various religious, literary and artistic traditions. The approach will introduce students to rigorous cross-cultural and multi-disciplinary analysis. The aim of the inquiry will be to explore the similarities and differences of contrasting considerations of the problems of nothing, God and freedom in different religious traditions as well as alternative modes of interpretation and expression.

- M. Taylor

Prerequisites: Students in Religion and Philosophy will be given preference.

4 points

RELI W 4730x or y Exodus and Politics: Religious Narrative as a Source of Revolution
Examination of the story of the Israelite exodus from Egypt, as it has influenced modern forms of political and social revolution, with emphasis on political philosopher Michael Walzer. Examination of the variety of contexts this story has been used in: construction of early American identity, African-American religious experience, Latin American liberation ideology, Palestinian nationalism, and religious feminism.

General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL).

4 points

RELI W 4732x or y Job and Ecclesiastes

Examines Pascal's claim that to the extent that the Bible can be said to have a philosophy, it is contained in the Books of Job and Ecclesiastes. Examines this claim critically by reading these Biblical books against the history of their philosophical interpretation. Among the authors to be considered will be Gregory the Great, Aquinas, Maimondies, Calvin, Hobbes, Kant, Kierkegaard, Jung, Barth, and Rene Girard.

Prerequisites: Permission of instructor. Graduate students, undergraduate majors and minors given priority.

4 points

RELI W 4734y Religious Concepts: Conversion

Examines critically the concept of 'conversion' as it appears in Western thought through an examination of religious, philosophical, and political texts.

4 points

RELI W 4735x Ideology and Masses

Considers Marxist conceptions of religion--the sigh of the oppressed, heart of a heartless world, halo of the vale of tears, and beyond--and critically examine theories of knowledge, interpretation, agency, and culture that are associated with them. The inquiry will be directed at defining and prescribing the role of religion in social analysis, as well as examining the use of Marxist concepts such as illusion, alienation, and fetishism. Texts include writings by Marx, Engels, Lukacs, Gramsci, Adorno & Horkheimer, Marcuse, Bataille, Althusser, Foucault, and Zizek.

4 points

RELI W 4736y Time, Event, Rupture

Investigates theories of temporality, paying particular attention to the concept of an 'event' and the causes and implications of interruptions in consciousness. The inquiry will consider the relationships between time and truth, knowledge, subject/object, transcendence, origin, history, memory, and spirit, as well as approaches to temporal cohesion and rupture. Readings include texts by Husserl, Schelling, Benjamin, Heidegger, Lacan, Ricoer, Blanchot, Derrida, Stiegler, Foucault, and Badiou.

- Andrea Jones

4 points

RELI W 4740x or y Genealogy, Pragmatism, and the Study of Religion

Topics include: knowledge, truth, concepts of self and God, religious experience and practice. Works by Nietzsche, C.S. Peirce, William James, Dewey, Rorty, Bernard Williams and others.

- Wayne Proudfoot

Prerequisites: Permission of Instructor

4 points

RELI W 4740x or y The Science-Religion Encounter in Contemporary Context

Focuses on differing models for understanding the relationship between religion and science, with emphasis on how the models fare in light of contemporary thinking about science, philosophy, and religion.

Prerequisites: Permission of instructor.

4 points

RELI W 4801x or y World Religions: Idea and Enactment

Historical and contemporary investigation of the concept of "world religions"- its origin, production, and entailments. Topics include the Chicago World's Parliament of Religions (1893); the choice and numbering of the "great religions;" several major comparativists; and the life of "world religions" in museums, textbooks, encyclopedia, and departmental curricula today.

Prerequisites: Permission of the instructor; some prior work in religion.

General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL). General Education Requirement: Reason and Value (REA).

RELI W 4803x Religion versus the Academy
The proper aims of education in relation to those of religion have long been a matter of public debate, but in recent years the intensity and terms of that debate have changed significantly. The impact of the David Project’s “Columbia Unbecoming” on Columbia’s Department of Middle East and Asian Languages and Cultures and then on the university as a whole is a case in point. Meanwhile, Stanley Fish argues that it is inappropriate for religion to be studied in departments of Religious Studies, given what Fish perceives to be their necessary relation to faith communities and the particular way in which they pursue truth claims. This course examines such tensions, focusing on case studies from two major democracies: India and the United States. - J. Hawley

Prerequisites: Sophomore Standing. At least one course in Religion. Limited to 18 students. General Education Requirement: Reason and Value (REA).

4 points

RELI W 4804y Ecology, Religion and Culture
Exploring historical case-studies of the interdependence of ecology and culture, we discuss technological and economic dilemmas, as well as constructions of religious or spiritual frameworks for an ecological world view.

- W. Adamek

4 points

RELI W 4805x or y Secular and Spiritual America
Are Americans becoming more secular or more spiritual (not religious), or both? What are the connections between secularism and what is typically called non-organized religion or the spiritual in the United States? We will address these questions by looking at some of the historical trajectories that shape contemporary debates and designations (differences) between spiritual, secular and religious.

Prerequisites: Majors and concentrators receive first priority.

4 points

RELI W 4806x or y Religious Studies at Columbia
This course will draw on the rich expertise represented by the Religion faculty. Each week, a faculty member will present his or her field of specialization and methodological/theoretical approach to it. Students will read representative samples of this faculty's scholarship and will discuss them with the instructor during a follow-up session.

- Bernard Faure

4 points

RELI W 4810x or y Mysticism
Introduction to the comparative study of mysticism. Primary texts read against the backdrop of various theories of the nature of mysticism, addressing issues such as relationship of mysticism and tradition and the function of gender in descriptions of mystical experiences.

- C. Deutsch

4 points

RELI W 4811x or y Mystical and Dimensions of Islam and Judaism
Explores mystical dimensions that have evolved in Judaism and Islam in a comparative perspective with the aim of pointing to similarities and differences between the two major religions of Abraham. Topics include: mystical experience and the possibility of union in a theistic tradition and the sanctity of scriptural language and the limits of speech.

Prerequisites: Instructor’s permission (undergrad majors, concentrators and grad students in religion given priority). General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL).

4 points

RELI W 4824x or y Gender and Religion
Examination of the categories and intersections of gender and religion in understanding of religious origins, personal identities, religious experience, agency, body images and disciplines, sexuality, race relations, cultural appropriations, and power
RELI W 4825x or y Religion, Gender and Violence

Investigates relations among religion, gender, and violence in the world today. Focuses on specific traditions with emphasis on historical change, variation, and differences in geopolitical location within each tradition, as well as among them at given historical moments.

General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL). General Education Requirement: Reason and Value (REA).

As part of the College's mission to prepare scientists, policy-makers, and an educated citizenry for the moral challenges presented by future scientific advances, Barnard offers a unique collection of courses focusing on issues at the frequently volatile intersection point where science, public policy, and societal concerns collide. These courses are interdisciplinary in nature, team-taught by Barnard faculty from a variety of departments, and held in seminar format with limited enrollments, typically juniors and seniors. Recent topics concern ecological vs. financial imperatives in developing Third-World biodiversity, manipulation of the human genome, privacy issues and ethical dilemmas arising from genetic testing, misguided eugenics programs and race science, the Manhattan Project, as well as the Cold War build-up of nuclear arsenals in the United States and former Soviet Union.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE SCIENCE, POLICY & ETHICS MINOR

As part of the College's mission to prepare scientists, policy-makers, and an educated citizenry for the moral challenges presented by future scientific advances, Barnard offers a unique collection of courses focusing on issues at the frequently volatile intersection point where science, public policy and societal concerns collide. These courses are interdisciplinary in nature, team-taught by Barnard College faculty from a variety of departments, and held in a seminar format with limited enrollments, typically juniors & seniors. Recent topics concern ecological vs. financial imperatives in developing Third-World biodiversity, manipulation of the human genome, privacy issues and ethical dilemmas arising from genetic testing, misguided eugenics programs & race science, the Manhattan Project, as well as the Cold War build-up of nuclear arsenals in the US and former Soviet Union. The minor in Science, Policy & Ethics, which requires 5 courses total, can be created by complementing a selection of core SCPP seminars with relevant foundational work in the philosophy and religion departments, as follows-

I. Core SCPP Coursework:
Two seminars, chosen from the following three offerings-

SCPP BC3333x- Genetics, Biodiversity & Society
Module I: Development & Valuation of Plant Genetic Resources-
Science and consequence of plant breeding, biotechnology, and genetic engineering; costs & benefits of maintaining biodiversity; public policy issues & options.
-P. Ammirato, R. Sethi/S. Pereira
Module II: Genetic Technology & Society-
Human genome project, scientific basis and interpretation of genetic screening; individual choice, social implications, and ethical issues.
-B. Morton, D. Spar

SCPP BC3334y- Science, State Power & Ethics
A comparative study of scientists and state power during the 20th century, with particular emphasis on Nazi Germany, the WWII America & communist Soviet Union. The focus is on the stakes involved in harnessing scientific advances to state power; the specifics of these scientific advances; and the moral dilemmas faced by scientists such as Robert Oppenheimer, Andrei Sakharov, and Werner Heisenberg, as they confronted state power or acquiesced to its demands during WWII and the early stages of the Cold War. Readings include selections from Rhodes’ Pulitzer Prize-winning The Making of the Atomic Bomb, Frayn’s very successful play Copenhagen, Brecht’s Life of Galileo, as well as Hitler’s Uranium Club, by the physicist Jeremy Bernstein.

SCPP BC3335x- Environmental Leadership, Ethics & Action
-R. Balmer, D. Dittrick, L. Wright.

II. Philosophy Department Coursework:
a) Introductory level;
ONE of the following, to provide the necessary philosophical foundation:
PHIL BC1001x,y- Introduction to Philosophy
PHIL C1010x,y- Methods/Problems of Philosophical Thought

b) Advanced level;
TWO lecture courses, drawn from the following:
PHIL V2593y- Science & Religion
PHIL V2702x- Contemporary Moral Problems
PHIL V3701x/y- Ethics/Moral Philosophy
PHIL V3720y- Ethics & Medicine
In years in which they are offered, an ethics course in the Religion Department, such as: RELI V3000y- Buddhist Ethics, RELI V3338x- Jewish Ethics, RELI V3490y- Christian Ethics may be substituted for one of the advanced level Philosophy courses listed above. In addition, with approval of the SCPP Director, other Morningside campus courses [e.g., HIST BC 3305- Bodies & Machines, HIST BC 4909- History of Environmental Thinking, HIST BC4064- Medieval Science & Society, WMST BC3131- Women & Science] bearing great relevance to issues of science & society may permit a similar substitution.

SCPP BC 3334y Science, State Power & Ethics

A comparative study of science in the service of the State in the U.S., the former Soviet Union, Fascist Italy, and Nazi Germany during pivotal periods through the first half of the 20th century. Topics to be covered include the political and moral consequences of policies based upon advances in the natural sciences making possible the development of TNT, nerve gas, uranium fission and hydrogen fusion atomic bombs. Considers the tensions involved in balancing scientific imperatives, patriotic commitment to the nation-state, and universal moral principles by Robert Oppenheimer, Andrei Sakharov, Neils Bohr and Werner Heisenberg. Selected readings include: Michael Frayn's play Copenhagen, Hitler's Uranium Club by Jeremy Bernstein, Brecht's Galileo, John McPhee's The Curve of Binding Energy, Richard Rhodes' The Making of the Atomic Bomb.

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
The primary mission of the Slavic Department at Barnard is to prepare students linguistically, culturally, and academically to participate in the global community, specifically by engaging with the Slavic-speaking world. To this end, the Department, in cooperation with its Columbia counterpart, offers instruction in five Slavic languages and literatures, with particular emphasis on Russian. The department insists upon a strong foundation in language study, because this best prepares students for future involvement with the countries of Eastern Europe and Eurasia, as well as for graduate study in the literature, anthropology, sociology, history, economics, or politics of the region, and for careers in government, business, journalism, or international law.

The department offers major tracks in Russian Language and Literature, Slavic and East European Literature and Culture, Russian Regional Studies, and Slavic and East European Regional Studies. A minor program in Russian Literature and Culture is also available. These programs are supported by an extensive array of courses designed to help the student obtain reasonable fluency in the spoken and written language and a reading ability adequate for interpreting texts of some difficulty in a variety of disciplines. While offering a range of courses designed to give the student a strong general background in Russian and Slavic literature, film, culture, and intellectual history, the department encourages students to supplement their knowledge by taking courses devoted to Russia, the former Soviet Union, and Eastern Europe offered in other disciplines as well. The department co-sponsors and facilitates student participation in region-related extra-curricular activities held at the Harriman Institute and the Columbia Slavic Department and also fosters student engagement with the rich cultural resources available in New York City.

Student Learning Outcomes

In recognition of the National Standards for Foreign Language Learning published by the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages, the Slavic Department expects the following outcomes for students in each of its major tracks:

- Communication. Students should be able to communicate orally and in writing in the language of study, and understand and interpret written and spoken language on a variety of topics.
- Cultures. Students should demonstrate an understanding of the perspectives, products, and practices of the culture studied.
- Connections. Students should be able to acquire information and recognize the distinctive viewpoints available to them through the foreign language and its cultures.
- Comparisons. Students should develop comparative insights into the nature of language and culture as a result of studying a language and culture other than their own.
- Communities. Students should be prepared to participate in multilingual communities at home and around the world.

In addition, the Department expects the following outcomes of all majors:

- Students should demonstrate broad knowledge of at least one major aspect (e.g. literature, politics, or history) of the culture studied.
- Students should acquire and convey, in an appropriate academic form, deep knowledge of a particular topic or question relating to the culture studied.

Entering students should see Professor Frank Miller (708 Hamilton, 854-3941) for a placement examination: a sufficiently high grade will automatically fulfill the language requirement; other students will be placed accordingly. Native speakers of Russian or any Slavic language should consult with the department chair. The Department is a member of "Dobro Slovo" (The National Slavic Honor Society) and is pleased to induct its qualifying students into the society.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

There are four majors available to students in the department. Prospective students are encouraged to consult with a member of the faculty as early as possible in order to determine the major track and selection of courses that will best serve her background and interests.

I. Russian Language and Literature:

- Completion of four years of Russian (V 1101-1102, V 1201-1202, V 3331-3332, and V 3443-3444 or the equivalent). Native speakers of Russian who place out of these courses must substitute at least two of the following courses: V 3430 Russian for Heritage Speakers, W 3010 Masterpieces of 19th-Century Russian Literature, or W 3340 Masterpieces of 20th-Century Russian Literature.
- Six courses in Russian literature to include V 3333-3334 Introduction to Russian Literature I and II, V 3220 Literature and Empire: The Reign of the Russian Novel, V 3221 Literary Avant-garde and Revolution: The Century of Russian Modernism, and at least one further course with required reading in Russian. Other Russian literature courses may be substituted upon consultation with adviser. With permission of adviser one course on Russia offered in a department other than Slavic may be substituted.
- V 3595 Senior Seminar.

II. Slavic and East European Literature and Culture:

- Completion of the third-year course (or the equivalent) in Czech, Polish, Serbo-Croatian, or Ukrainian language.
- Six courses in literature, theatre or film of the region, potentially including independent study courses.
- Two courses in related fields (history, art history, music, etc.) to include at least one course in the history of the region.
- Two semesters of senior seminar or the equivalent leading to the completion of a senior thesis.

Note: A student in this major must design her program in close consultation with her adviser in order to insure intellectual, disciplinary, and regional coherence.

III. Russian Regional Studies:

- Completion of the four years of Russian (see Russian Language and Literature Major above)
- Two courses in Russian or Soviet literature (in translation or in Russian)
- Two courses in Russian history
- One course on Russia or the Soviet Union in any discipline (history, art history, geography, sociology, economics, literature, political science, etc.)
- One course in Soviet/post-Soviet politics
- Two semesters of a senior research seminar or the equivalent in independent study with research to be conducted predominantly in Russian language sources.

Note: In consultation with her adviser, a student may elect to take one or more courses devoted to a region other than Russia that is located on the territory of the former Soviet Union.

IV. Slavic and East European Regional Studies Major-Czech, Polish, Serbo-Croatian, Ukrainian

Identical to the above, but requires the completion of three years of language study and courses taken in the relevant region.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR IN RUSSIAN

A total of five courses beyond the second year of Russian are required for the minor in Russian Language and Literature.

Russian Literature and Culture (in English)

RUSS V 3220x Literature and Empire: The Reign of the Novel in Russia (19th Century) [In English]

Knowledge of Russian not required. Explores the aesthetic and formal developments in Russian prose, especially the rise of the monumental 19th-century novel, as one manifestation of a complex array of national and cultural aspirations, humanistic and imperialist ones alike. Works by Pushkin, Lermontov, Gogol, Turgenev, Tolstoy, Dostoevsky, and Chekhov.

- C. Popkin

3 points

RUSS V 3221y Literature and Revolution: Tradition, Innovation, and Politics (20th century) [In English]

Knowledge of Russian not required. Survey of Russian literature from symbolism to the culture of high Stalinism and post-Socialist realism of the 1960s and 1970s, including major works by Bely, Blok, Olesha, Babel, Bulgakov, Platonov, Zoshchenko, Kharmas, Kataev, Pasternak, and Erofeev. Literature viewed in a multi-media context featuring music, avant-garde and post-avant-garde visual art, and film.

- R. Stanton

RUSS V 3222y Tolstoy and Dostoevsky [In English]

Two epic novels, Tolstoy's War and Peace and Dostoevsky's The Brothers Karamazov, will be read along with selected shorter works. Other works by Tolstoy include his early Sebastopol Sketches, which changed the way war is represented in literature; Confession, which describes his spiritual crisis; the late stories "Kreutzer Sonata" and "Hadji Murad"; and essays on capital punishment and a visit to a slaughterhouse. Other works by Dostoevsky include his fictionalized account of life in Siberian prison camp, The House of the Dead; Notes from the Underground, his philosophical novella on free will, determinism, and love; "A Gentle Creature," a short story on the same themes; and selected essays from Diary of a Writer. The focus will be on close reading of the texts. Our aim will be to develop strategies for appreciating the structure and form, the powerful ideas, the engaging storylines, and the human interest in the writings of Tolstoy and Dostoevsky. No knowledge of Russian is required.

- L. Knapp

RUSS V 3223x Magical Mystery Tour: The Legacy of Old Rus' [In English]

Winston Churchill famously defined Russia as "a riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma." This course aims at demystifying Russia by focusing on the core of its "otherness" in the eyes of the West: its religious culture. We will explore an array of texts, practices and pragmatic sites of Russian religious life across such traditional divisions as medieval and modern, popular and elite, orthodox and heretical. Icons, liturgical rituals, illuminated manuscripts, magic amulets, religious sects, feasting and fasting, traveling practices from pilgrimages to tourism, political myths and literary mystification, decadent projects of life-creation, and the fervent anticipation of the End are all part of a tour that is as illuminating as it is fun. No knowledge of Russian is required.

3 points

RUSS W 4006y Modern Russian Religious Thought [In English]

Explores Russian religious thought of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, with special attention to its close ties to the Russian literary tradition. We start with Chaadaev's questions about Russia's otherness, move on to Slavophile solutions, then to folk piety and religious practice, and the religious thought of Dostoevsky and Tolstoy. We will then study the renaissance of Russian religious thought that took root in the work of Soloviev and Fedorov and inspired Russian modernists. The course will end with the development of these ideas in the first half of the twentieth century in Russia (Florensky) and the Paris emigration (Berdiaev, Shестov, Bulgakov, Skobtsova [Mother Maria]). Readings in religious thought will be supplemented by relevant literary texts.

- Liza Knapp

Not offered in 2010-2011.

RUSS W 4017y Chekhov [In English]

Close reading of Chekhov's best work in the genres on which he left an indelible mark (the short story and the drama) on the subjects that left an indelible imprint on him (medical science, the human body, identity, topography, the nature of news, the problem of knowledge, the access to pain, the necessity of dying, the structure of time, the self and the world, the part and the whole) via the modes of inquiry (diagnosis and deposition, expedition and exegesis, library and laboratory, microscopy and materialism, intimacy and invasion) and forms of documentation (the itinerary, the map, the calendar, the photograph, the icon, the Gospel, the Koan, the lie, the love letter, the case history, the obituary, the pseudonym, the script) that marked his era (and ours). No knowledge of Russian required. Please register for this course under CLRS W4017, with call number 10850.

- C. Popkin

Not offered in 2010-2011.

RUSS W 4309y Nineteenth -Century Narrative Dilemmas

This course will explore narrative strategies developed by Russian authors as they created a literary tradition that would change the world. Starting with Pushkin's first completed prose work, we will explore how narrative frames, structures, genre, and authorial choices contribute to textual explorations of identity, responsibility, love, violence and revenge. Texts covered will include: Pushkin's "Tales of Belkin," Lermontov's, "Hero of Our Time", Gogol's "The Diary of a Madman,"The Nose," and "The Overcoat," Dostoevsky's "The Double and Demons, Tolstoy's "War and Peace", and Leskov's "The Enchanted Wanderer." No knowledge of Russian required.

RUSS W 4676y Russian Art between East and West: The Search for National Identity

Aims to be more than a basic survey that starts with icons and ends with the early modernists. Taking an interdisciplinary approach, it aims to highlight how the various cultural transmissions interacted to produce, by the 1910s, an original national art that made an innovative contribution to world art. It discusses the development of art not only in terms of formal, aesthetic analysis, but also in the matrix of changing society, patronage system, economic life and quest for national identity. Several guest speakers will discuss the East-West problematic in their related fields-for example, in literature and ballet.

Some familiarity with Russian history and literature will be helpful, but not essential. Assigned readings in English. Open to undergraduate and graduate students.

POLI W 4040y Mickiewicz

The Polish literary scene that in this particular period stretched from Moscow, Petersburg, and Odessa, to Vilna, Paris, Rome. The concept of exile, so central to Polish literature of the 19th-century and world literature of the 20th will be introduced and discussed.

The course will offer the opportunity to see the new Romantic trend initially evolving from classicism, which it vigorously opposed and conquered. We will examine how the particular literary form - sonnet, ballad, epic poem and the romantic drama developed on the turf of the Polish language. Also we will see how such significant themes as madness, Romantic suicide, Romantic irony, and elements of Islam and Judaism manifested themselves in the masterpieces of Polish poetry. The perception of Polish Romanticism in other, especially Slavic, literatures will be discussed and a comparative approach encouraged.

Most of the texts to be discussed were translated into the major European languages. Mickiewicz was enthusiastically translated into Russian by the major Russian poets of all times; students of Russian may read his works in its entirety in that language.
The class will engage in a thorough analysis of the indicated texts; the students' contribution to the course based on general knowledge of the period, of genres, and/or other related phenomena is expected.

HNGR W 4050 The Hungarian New Wave: Cinema in Kadarist Hungary [In English]

Hungarian cinema, like film-making in Czechoslovakia, underwent a renaissance in the 1960's, but the Hungarian new wave continued to flourish in the 70's and film remained one of the most important art forms well into the 80's. This course examines the cultural, social and political context of representative Hungarian films of the Kadarist period, with special emphasis on the work of such internationally known filmmakers as Miklos Jancso, Karoly Makk, Marta Meszaros, and Istvan Szabo. In addition to a close analysis of individual films, discussion topics will include the "newness"of the new wave in both form and content (innovations in film language, cinematic impressionism, allegorical-parabolic forms, auteurst, etc.), the influence of Italian, French, German and American cinema, the relationship between film and literature, the role of film in the cultures of Communist Eastern Europe, the state of contemporary Hungarian cinema. The viewing of the films will be augmented by readings on Hungarian cinema, as well as of relevant Hungarian literary works.

HNGR W 4020 Modern Hungarian Prose in Translation: Exposing Naked Reality
This course introduces students to representative examples of an essentially robust, reality-bound, socially aware literature. In modern Hungarian prose fiction, the tradition of nineteenth-century "anecdotal realism" remained strong and was further enlivened by various forms of naturalism. Even turn-of-the century and early twentieth-century modernist fiction is characterized by strong narrative focus, psychological realism, and an emphasis on social conditions and local color. During the tumultuous decades of the century, social, political, national issues preoccupied even aesthetics-conscious experimenters and ivory-tower dwellers. Among the topics discussed will be "populist" and "urban" literature in the interwar years, post-1945 reality in fiction, literary memoirs and reportage, as well as late-century minimalist and postmodern trends. Not offered in 2010-2011.

CLSL W 4975x Soviet and Post-Soviet, Colonial and Post Colonial Film

The course will discuss how film making has been used as a vehicle of power and control in the Soviet Union and in post-Soviet space since 1991. A body of selected films by Soviet and post-Soviet directors that exemplify the function of film making as a tool of appropriation of the colonized, their cultural and political subordination by the Soviet center will be examined in terms of post-colonial theories. The course will also focus on the often over looked work of Ukrainian, Georgian, Belarusian, Armenian, etc. national film schools and how they participated in the communist project of fostering a as well as resisted it by generating, in hidden and, since 1991, overt and increasingly assertive ways, their own counter-narratives.

CLSL W 4995y Central European Jewish Literature: Assimilation and Its Discontents

Examines prose and poetry by writers generally less accessible to the American student written in the major Central European languages: German, Hungarian, Czech, and Polish. The problematics of assimilation, the search for identity, political commitment and disillusionment are major themes, along with the defining experience of the century: the Holocaust; but because these writers are often more removed from their Jewishness, their perspective on these events and issues may be different. The influence of Franz Kafka on Central European writers, the post-Communist Jewish revival, defining the Jewish voice in an otherwise disparate body of works.

Professors: Debra C. Minkoff (Chair), Jonathan Rieder
Assistant Professors: Elizabeth Bernstein, Christel Kesler, Peter Levin (Departmental Representative)
Term Assistant Professor: Jacqueline Olvera
Post Doctorical Fellow: Debbie Becher
Adjunct Instructor: J.C. Sayler

Sociology explores the intricacies of social life in all its variety: from the prosaic routines of everyday life to dramatic transformations of state and economy, from the symbolic realm of identity and culture to the structures of class, race and gender that generate inequality. Despite all this diversity, the discipline of sociology has a powerful coherence that comes from a collective dedication to developing theoretical principles about social life and testing them with empirical evidence. This commitment to systematic empirical research represents the strength of the discipline and the chance for a distinctive undergraduate experience for Sociology majors at Barnard. It exposes them to a range of approaches that include quantitative data collection and analysis, participant observation, intensive interviewing, historical-archival research, and discourse analysis.

All students taking courses in Sociology at Barnard can expect to learn about the relevance of empirical rigor and theoretical analysis for public policy, political and social debate, and civic engagement more broadly defined.

Sociology majors will develop critical analytic and research skills that they can take with them into a wide range of careers, whether they continue on to graduate study in sociology or choose to enter such fields as business, education, law, nonprofit enterprise or public policy.

The Department provides students with expertise in three areas:

(1) a common foundation in the discipline’s core theories and methodologies through the following three required courses:
   - SOCI W1000, The Social World
   - SOCI W3000, Social Theory
   - SOCI W3010, Methods for Social Research

(2) exposure to a range of substantive questions that motivate sociological research through a 3-tiered elective structure:
   - 2000-level courses introduce non-majors and majors to substantive concerns through sociological texts and perspectives;
   - 3000-level courses are normally lecture courses that introduce upper level students (majors and non-majors) to dominant theoretical models and debates in more specialized subfields;
   - 3900-level courses are seminars that provide more intensive engagement with primary research in specialized subfields of the discipline and involve some significant primary or secondary research paper;

(3) direct research experience both within the classroom and under faculty supervision in the Senior Thesis Seminar.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students who graduate with a major in sociology will be able to:

1. Discuss the core theories of the discipline and apply them to contemporary issues.
2. Identify the central questions that motivate sociological research in at least one specialized subfield.
3. Describe and evaluate the strengths and limits of social science research.
4. Apply the methods of social science research to a question of substantive or theoretical importance.
5. Design, execute, and present original research projects.

Students who graduate with a minor in sociology will be able to:

1. Discuss the core theories of the discipline and apply them to contemporary issues.
2. Identify the central questions that motivate sociological research in at least one specialized subfield.
3. Describe and evaluate the strengths and limits of social science research.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major prepares students for graduate work in sociology as well as in other disciplines; for professional schools (law, business, social work, journalism, urban planning); and for all occupations requiring general knowledge of society and social interaction as well as basic skills of social research.

A minimum of 10 courses is required for the major, including:

- SOCI BC 1003 or W 1000
  Introductory Sociology or The Social World
- SOCI W 3000
  Social Theory
- SOCI W 3010
  Methods for Social Research (no later than the junior year)
- SOCI BC 3087–BC 3088
  Individual Projects for Seniors and at least 5 other electives selected in consultation with the major advisor. These courses may be taken at Barnard or Columbia. A minimum of three of the elective courses must be at the 3000 or 4000 level, including one seminar at the 3900 level. To graduate, a student must complete, to the satisfaction of her instructor in SOCI BC 3087-3088, a thesis involving some form of original sociological research and analysis.

The department strongly recommends that Sociology majors take SOCI W 3020 (Social Statistics) or SOCI BC 3211 (Quantitative Methods) to fulfill their GER in Quantitative & Deductive Reasoning.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

Five courses are required for the minor in Sociology, including SOCI BC 1003 or SOCI W 1000 and four courses to be selected in consultation with the Sociology adviser.

There are no special admissions requirements or procedures for students interested in becoming a sociology major. Students (majors and non-majors) are encouraged to consult with members of the department regarding their choice and sequence of courses.

SOCI V 2230y Food & The Social Order
Instrumental in the formation and transformation of the social order, food is an indicator of collective as well as individual aspirations and assumptions. We shall look at the production and consumption of food, both material and symbolic, from the eating in the Bible to globalization in the 21st century.
3 points

SOCI W 2240y Economy and Society
Introduction to economic sociology. Economic sociology is built around the claim that something fundamental is lost when markets are analyzed separately from other social processes. We will look especially at how an analysis of the interplay of economy and society can help us to understand questions of efficiency, questions of fairness, and questions of democracy.

SOCI W 3290x Environmental Sociology

This course is an introduction to the sociology of the environment and technology: a broad overview of the field and six key areas of study, including environmental attitudes, post-materialism, environmental movements, environmental justice, globalization, and resource dependency.

3 points

SOCI W 3302y Sociology of Gender

Examination of factors in gender identity that are both universal (across time, culture, setting) and specific to a social context. Social construction of gender roles in different settings, including family, work, and politics. Attention to the role of social policies in reinforcing norms or facilitating change.

Prerequisites: One introductory course in Sociology suggested. General Education Requirement: Social Analysis (SOC).

3 points

SOCI V 3318x or y The Sociology of Sexuality

Social, cultural and organizational aspects of sex in the contemporary United States, stressing the plural in sexualities: sexual revolution and post-Victorian ideologies; the context of gender and inequality; social movements and sexual identity; the variety of sexual meanings and communities; the impact of AIDS.

Prerequisites: Introductory course in Sociology is suggested. General Education Requirement: Reason and Value (REA).

3 points

SOCI V 3324x or y Poverty, Inequality, and Policy: A Sociological Perspective

Examination of poverty, the "underclass," and inequality in the United States. Part 1: The moral premises, social theories, and political interests shaping current debates about the poor. Part 2: A more concrete analysis of the lives of the poor and the causes of family breakdown, the drug economy, welfare, employment, and homelessness.

Prerequisites: Introductory course in Sociology is suggested.

SOCI W 3355x Topics in Religion and Politics

Exploring the major themes of religion and politics in the contemporary world: how did the major thinkers conceptualize the role of religion in society, the relationship between religion and politics, and state and church? How do different religions conceptualize and give life to these arrangements? After a mix of theoretical and historical readings, we study various substantive examples of the relationship between religion and politics, within differing contexts, different religions as well as different nation-states.

SOCI W 3675y Organizing Innovation

This course examines major innovations in organizations and asks whether innovation itself can be organized. We study a range of forms of organizing (e.g., bureaucratic, post-bureaucratic, and open architecture network forms) in a broad variety of settings: from fast food franchises to the military-entertainment complex, from airline cockpits to Wall Street trading rooms, from engineering firms to mega-churches, from scientific management at the turn of the twentieth century to collaborative filtering and open source programming at the beginning of the twenty-first. Special attention will be paid to the relationship between organizational forms and new digital technologies.

3 points
SOCI W 3900y Societal Adaptations to Terrorism

Examines how countries have adjusted to the threat of terrorism. How the adaptation reflects the pattern of terrorist attacks, as well as structural and cultural features of the society. Adaptations by individuals, families, and organizational actors.

Prerequisites: Junior or Senior standing
4 points

SOCI V 3901y The Sociology of Culture

Drawing examples from popular music, religion, politics, race, and gender, explores the interpretation, production, and reception of cultural texts and meanings. Topics include aesthetic distinction and taste communities, ideology, power, and resistance; the structure and functions of subcultures; popular culture and high culture; and ethnography and interpretation.

Prerequisites: SOCI BC1003 or equivalent social science course and permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 15 students. General Education Requirement: Cultures in Comparison (CUL).

SOCI BC 3909y Ethnic Conflict and Unrest

Post-1965 immigration in the U.S. has prompted conflicts between new immigrant groups and established racial and ethnic groups. This seminar explores ethnic conflict and unrest that takes place in the streets, workplace, and everyday social life. Focus is on sociological theories that explain the tensions associated with the arrival of new immigrants.

Prerequisites: Sophomore Standing, SOCI BC1003 or permission of the instructor. Enrollment limited to 20 students.
4 points
SOCI BC 3910y Research Seminar in Sociology

Substantial participation in an ongoing faculty-led Sociological research project. Movement between substantive discussion of theory and methodological study of a specific topic. Coverage of how to frame a research project, using qualitative and quantitative tools to carry out analysis, and how to write up research in conjunction with a substantive literature and topic.

Spring 2010: Where do art prices come from?

Prerequisites: SOCI BC1003 or equivalent; permission of the instructor.

4 points

SOCI BC 3911x The Social Contexts of U.S. Immigration Law and Policy

Examines the historical and contemporary social, economic, and political factors that shape immigration law and policy along with the social consequences of those laws and policies. Addresses the development and function of immigration law and aspects of the immigration debate including unauthorized immigration, anti-immigration sentiments, and critiques of immigration policy.

4 points

SOCI BC 3912y Social Media

Sociological examination and critical assessment of effects of unprecedented levels of connectivity afforded by social media such as Twitter and Facebook. Seminar will be guided by a interest in how social relationships are being redefined as a result of these media and how they are managed, with particular attention to commercial uses of these technologies, especially new ways in which businesses are reaching potential audiences, new roles for consumers in evaluating products and shaping trends, and changes in contemporary business models of both large corporations and smaller firms.

4 points

SOCI W 3917y Collective Identites

Explores the social, political, and cultural processes that influence the construction of collective identities in contemporary American society. Topics include the content and meaning of race and ethnicity; the construction of whiteness; the politics of gender and sexuality; citizenship and national identities; and the limits of identity politics

4 points

SOCI W 3923y Adolescent Society

Explores the social and cultural construction of adolescence in contemporary American society. Adolescence is an important life-stage where experiences and decision-making have both individual and group consequences. Major themes will include: cultural and legal socialization of youth, crime and deviance, health and sexuality, employment and educational outcomes, and political behavior/civic engagement.

4 points

SOCI W 3932x Sociology of the Arts
We sketch general keys to socio-cultural construction -- sorts of identities and their stories in networks of relations amidst swirling searches for footing and control -- from which emerge realms and languages of all sorts, including arts. The main text - Careers and Creativity: Social Forces in the Arts provides tools and examples.

The Department of Spanish and Latin American Cultures at Barnard College boasts a long tradition of excellence in undergraduate education for women. Throughout its history, it has afforded students a solid preparation in both Spanish language and the literatures and cultures of Spain, Spanish America, and the Spanish-speaking United States.

The keystone of our integrated curriculum is linguistic and intellectual continuity from the elementary language level to the most advanced literature and culture courses. Our language and bridge courses are not only skill- and proficiency-oriented, but anchor the rigorous academic preparation that students will need for advanced study, either at Barnard or in college-level study abroad. Our upper-level courses guide students in acquiring the necessary historical and theoretical tools to understand the literary and, more broadly, cultural production of the Hispanic world. Through our strong collaboration with interdisciplinary programs at Barnard, including Comparative Literature, Africana Studies, Women's Studies, and the Forum on Migration, as well as our teamwork with the Columbia Department of Spanish and Portuguese, we are ideally poised to train students for a wide range of post-graduation experiences, be they in MA/PhD programs or in the professional sphere.

Student Learning Outcomes

Through the Major in Spanish and Latin American Cultures, students who rigorously apply themselves to their studies will be able to:

1. Use the Spanish language at the B2-C2 proficiency levels (Independent User/Proficient User), as defined by the Common European Framework of Reference (depending on initial background and ability).*
2. Identify and describe the cultures of Spain and Spanish America throughout their history, from Islamic Spain and the colonial period through the present.
3. Demonstrate specialized knowledge of selected literary and cultural works, authors and cultural producers of the Hispanic world, understood in their aesthetic, historical, and social contexts.
4. Use basic principles of literary and cultural theory to analyze and interpret a variety of texts and other cultural products.
5. Express their ideas, analyses, and interpretation through clear oral exposition and effective critical writing.
6. Conduct research in the fields of Spanish and Spanish American literature and culture, and demonstrate the results of their research and thinking in original academic essays.

Major and Minor in Spanish and Latin American Cultures

Majors and minors in this department will provide students with a solid literacy in the cultures of the Hispanic world. Literacy at the level of language instruction entails the students' ability to express themselves fluently in Spanish, both orally and in writing. Literacy at the cultural level entails an intellectual grasp of Spanish and Spanish-American cultural and artistic products and the knowledge of the historical and methodological contexts in which to situate them. Students must consult with the major advisor to carefully plan their program upon major declaration. With advisor approval, courses taken abroad or at another institution can apply toward the major/minor. The Department of Spanish and Latin American Cultures addresses the Barnard senior research requirement through the writing of a substantial paper in a topic-based senior seminar; there is the possibility of further research development for some students. The Spanish and Latin American Cultures majors have been designed in conjunction with the Columbia Department of Spanish and Portuguese. Hence, Barnard students may, always in consultation with the major advisor, move freely between the departments of both institutions in search of the courses that best fit their interests and schedules.

* The Common European Framework of Reference defines these levels as follows:

Proficient User
C2 Can understand with ease virtually everything heard or read. Can summarise information from different spoken and written sources, reconstructing arguments and accounts in a coherent presentation. Can express him/herself spontaneously, very fluently and precisely, differentiating finer shades of meaning even in more complex situations.

C1 Can understand a wide range of demanding, longer texts, and recognise implicit meaning. Can express him/herself fluently and spontaneously without much obvious searching for expressions. Can use language flexibly and effectively for social, academic and professional purposes. Can produce clear, well-structured, detailed text on complex subjects, showing controlled use of organisational patterns, connectors and cohesive devices.

Independent User

B2 Can understand the main ideas of complex text on both concrete and abstract topics, including technical discussions in his/her field of specialisation. Can interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction with native speakers quite possible without strain for either party. Can produce clear, detailed text on a wide range of subjects and explain a viewpoint on a topical issue giving the advantages and disadvantages of various options.

MAJOR IN SPANISH AND LATIN AMERICAN CULTURES

NOTE: With advisor approval, courses in both the Department of Spanish and Latin American Cultures and the Columbia Department of Spanish and Portuguese numbered 3000 and above will count toward the majors or minors--with the exception of intensive Portuguese and Catalan language courses, which may be counted as electives "outside" the Departments, as explained below.

Required Introductory courses:
SPAN W3300 Advanced Spanish Language
SPAN W3330 Introduction to Hispanic Cultures
SPAN W3349 Hispanic Cultures I
SPAN W3350 Hispanic Cultures II

Eleven courses (minimum 33 points): SPAN 3300, 3330, 3349, 3350, six elective courses and a Senior Seminar (3990, 3991, 3992 or 3993). A minimum of three electives must be chosen from the Departments' 3000- or 4000-level* offerings. Up to three electives may be taken outside the Departments, provided they address Hispanic topics. Coursework completed in other departments requires the approval of the major advisor; students should therefore not wait until their senior year to find out whether courses they have taken will apply to the major. All students should seek chronological and geographic breadth in their coursework, enrolling in diverse classes on both Latin American and Iberian topics, something that is essential for those planning future graduate work in Hispanic Studies. Such students should consult especially closely with their advisor to plan their program. Students are also encouraged to study at least a year in another language, enrolling in intensive courses whenever possible. (Language courses, including Portuguese and Catalan, may count as outside electives, but language courses in the Departments must be intensive to satisfy this requirement: PORT 1120, 1220 and 1320 and CATL 1120 and 1220.)

*4000-level courses, offered only at Columbia, are joint graduate-undergraduate courses.

Minor in Spanish and Latin American Cultures. Six courses (minimum 18 points): SPAN 3300, SPAN 3330, SPAN 3349 or 3350, and three other courses at 3000-level or above to be chosen in consultation with the major advisor.

Major in Spanish and Latin American Cultures with Specialization. For students wishing to pursue a more rigorously interdisciplinary program in the Social Sciences or the Humanities, the Department offers a major that integrates courses in Spanish and Latin American Cultures/Spanish and Portuguese with courses in another department or program chosen carefully by the student.

Fourteen courses (minimum 42 points): SPAN 3300, 3330, 3349, 3350, nine elective courses, and a Senior Seminar (3990, 3991, 3992 or 3993). Coursework will include a minimum of three 3000- or 4000-level courses within the Departments but beyond the four required foundation courses, and six courses in another field of specialization, three of which should be closely related to Hispanic Studies. Students who wish to complete this rigorous interdisciplinary major will choose a specialization. Possible fields and programs include Anthropology, Africana Studies, Art History, Economics, Film, Gender Studies, History, Latino Studies, Latin American Studies, Music, Political Science, Sociology, and Urban Studies. Students should work closely with their major advisor to plan their program of study; it will be their responsibility to seek advising regarding coursework in their external specialization from appropriate sources (for example, from other departments' Chairs). Electives outside the two departments (Spanish and Latin American Cultures/Spanish and Portuguese) should include basic methodological or foundation courses in the chosen field or program. In special cases and with advisor approval, students may complete some coursework in another, closely related field. In exceptional cases and again with advisor approval, students may take a Senior Seminar in their field of specialization as a seventh course outside of the Departments if they have completed enough basic courses in that field to manage the demands of an advanced seminar. In such cases, the major advisor must receive written communication from the seminar instructor indicating approval of a student's membership in the course; the seminar project must be on a Hispanic topic; and a copy of the project must be turned in to the major advisor for the student's file upon completion of the course. Students who complete the seminar in another department may also count it as the third elective course on a Hispanic topic outside of the two departments, in which case they may take a fourth 3000- or 4000-level course in Spanish and Latin American Cultures/Spanish and Portuguese.

Senior Research Project. In the fall of their senior year, students must enroll in a senior seminar in which they will undertake the research and writing of a substantial paper in the field. Some students may wish, with departmental approval, to further develop their research in the spring through an independent study project with a willing faculty member. For that project, they may expand their work in the senior seminar or undertake a new assignment in consultation with the faculty member. The Independent Study (BC3099) may be counted as one of the courses that fulfills the major.

Bridge Courses

SPAN BC 3267 Transatlantic Travel Writing in Translation

Since Columbus’s diary the relationship between Europe and the New World has been fraught with the illusion and disappointment raised by European expectations. This course will read the Atlantic in both directions, listening to European travelers who go west and Spanish Americans who journey east to a new Old World.

SPAN BC 3475 Fictional Foundations: Puerto Rico and the Spanish Empire, 1808-1898

Throughout the nineteenth century, Puerto Ricans were developing a sense of nationality, without an accompanying movement to achieve independence from Spain. This course examines this apparent contradiction, the 'hybrid' sense of their own identity and nature that it generates among individuals who feel both Spanish and Puerto Rican, and its manifestation in literature and other cultural texts.

- W. Rios-Font

Prerequisites: "L" course: enrollment limited to 15 students. Completion of language requirement, third-year language sequence (W3300; W3330), and introductory surveys (W3349, W3350).

SPAN BC 3443x or y (Section 1) Catalan Culture, from Regionalism to Nationalism (1886-1936)

In the nineteenth century, the failure of the Spanish State to find political alternatives to centralism, coupled with Catalonia’s industrial and economic takeoff, led to the development of a strong regionalist sentiment, and eventually a nationalist movement. From this period and through the beginning of the Spanish Civil War, intellectuals became engaged in the creation of a cultural repertoire to ground and strengthen the claim to a Catalan nationality. In this course, we will examine both the burgeoning literature in dialogue with Spanish and European currents, and the establishment of other national traditions in the fields of art, language, music, urban planning/architecture, and sport.

- W. Rios-Font
Prerequisites: "L" course: enrollment limited to 15 students. Completion of language requirement, third-year language sequence (W3300; W3330), and introductory surveys (W3349, W3350).

Room 1005
www.stat.columbia.edu

Officers of the University offering courses in Statistics:

Professors:  David Madigan (Chair), Richard A. Davis, Victor H. de la Pena, Andrew Gelman, Ioannis Karatzas (Mathematics), Shaw-Hwa Lo, Paul Meier (Emeritus), Daniel Rabinowitz, Zhiliang Ying
Associate Professors:  Martin Lindquist, Ji Meng Loh, Liang Paninski, Jan Vecer, Tian Zheng
Assistant Professors:  Regina Dolgoarshinnykh, Jingchen Liu, Bodhisattva Sen
Term Assistant Professors:  Souvik Ghosh, Cong Huang, Gerardo Hernandez del Valle, Libor Pospisil
Adjunct Professors:  Demissie Alemayehu, Mark Brown, Michael Shnaidman, Irene Heuter, Birol Emir, Edward Whalen
Lecturer in Discipline:  Michael Hogan
Departmental Representative:  Daniel Rabinowitz, 851-2141, dan@stat.columbia.edu

The Statistics major builds on a foundation in probability and statistical theory to provide practical training in statistical methods, study design, applied probabilistic modeling, actuarial science, and data analysis. A degree in Statistics is preparation for careers where data analysis and study design are important - careers, for example, in finance and banking, insurance, biostatistics, marketing, drug development, econometrics, and opinion polling. Students contemplating graduate work in fields that rely on statistics, such as epidemiology, public-health, population genetics, economics, government, and psychology, find a major or concentration in Statistics a useful foundation and an important credential. Graduate courses in actuarial science and in statistical and stochastic methods for finance may be taken by permission; students interested in such courses should contact the Departmental Representative for guidance.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

All majors should consult the departmental representative regularly in planning their study program. The requirements listed below are special to the Department and must be read in conjunction with the general requirements for the bachelor's degree.

A total of thirteen courses are required for the major, including:

Mathematics V1101, V1102 (Calculus I and II), and V 2010 (Linear Algebra), or their equivalents. (Students are advised to take at least one more semester of calculus.)

STAT W1211, W3105, W3107, W 4315, and W4201.

STAT W1001 or W1111, taken with a grade of A or A+ may be taken in lieu of STAT W 1211 with approval of the Departmental Representative. STAT W4105 may be taken in lieu of W3105, STAT W4107 may be taken in lieu of STAT W3107; and STAT W4109 (6 points) may be taken in lieu of W3105 and W3107, with approval of the Departmental Representative.

COMS W1003, W1004 (preferred), W1007, or W1009

Four additional courses approved by the adviser from statistics, mathematics, computer science, or operations research, at least two of which must be statistics courses numbered above 4200.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

The minor in Statistics requires eight courses: STAT W1211; MATH V1101, V1102, and V2010; STAT W3105, W3107, and W4315; and a statistics numbered above 4200.

STAT W4105 may be taken in lieu of W3105; W4107 may be taken in lieu of W3107; and W4109 (6 points) may be taken in lieu of W3105 and W3107, with approval of the Departmental Representative.

Introductory Courses

The Department of Statistics offers three first introductory courses, STAT W1001, W1111, and W1211. All three may be taken without preparation in statistics. All three cover roughly the same concepts, but differ substantially in the mathematical maturity that is assumed and in the sophistication of the examples.

STAT W1001 is for students who have no more than the most basic algebra, and may be of interest to students in non-mathematical disciplines seeking to satisfy the Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning requirement. STAT W1111 is for students who have mastered basic algebra; practice is emphasized over mathematical theory. STAT W1211 is for students with competence in differential and integral calculus and emphasizes theory over practice.

STAT W1211 or W1111 may be substituted for ECON BC2411 in satisfaction of the major requirements in Economics. STAT W1211 is required for the major in Mathematics-Statistics, Economics-Statistics, and Statistics, and for the concentration in Statistics. STAT W1001 and W1111 may be applied to the major requirement in Political Science-Statistics. Students that declared their major in Psychology prior to the 2008-2009 academic year may satisfy their major requirements with STAT
W1111 or W1211 in lieu of PSYC BC1101.

STAT W2110 follows on the material of the three introductory courses, and is designed for students interested in developing practical skills. Applications of statistics to current issues in the sciences and social sciences are emphasized.

STAT W 1001x and y Introduction to Statistical Reasoning

A friendly introduction to statistical concepts and reasoning with emphasis on developing statistical intuition rather than on mathematical rigor. Topics include design of experiments, descriptive statistics, correlation and regression, probability, chance variability, sampling, chance models, and tests of significance.

Prerequisites: Some high school algebra. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

STAT W 1111x and y Introduction To Statistics (without calculus)

Designed for students in fields that emphasize quantitative methods. Graphical and numerical summaries, probability, theory of sampling distributions, linear regression, confidence intervals and hypothesis testing. Quantitative reasoning and data analysis. Practical experience with statistical software. Illustrations are taken from a variety of fields. Data-collection/analysis project with emphasis on study designs is part of the coursework requirement.

Prerequisites: Intermediate high school algebra. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

STAT W 1211x and y Introduction To Statistics (with calculus)

Designed for students who desire a strong grounding in statistical concepts with a greater degree of mathematical rigor than in STAT W1111. Random variables, probability distributions, pdf, cdf, mean, variance, correlation, conditional distribution, conditional mean and conditional variance, law of iterated expectations, normal, chi-square, F and t distributions, law of large numbers, central limit theorem, parameter estimation, unbiasedness, consistency, efficiency, hypothesis testing, p-value, confidence intervals. Maximum likelihood estimation. Satisfies the pre-requisites for ECON W3412.

Prerequisites: one semester of calculus. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

STAT W 2024x Applied Linear Regression Analysis

Develops critical thinking and data analysis skills for regression analysis in science and policy settings. Simple and multiple linear regression, non-linear and logistic models, random-effects models, penalized regression methods. Implementation in a statistical package. Optional computer-lab sessions. Emphasis on real-world examples and on planning, proposing, implementing, and reporting. - M. Lindquist

Prerequisites: One of STAT W1001, W1111, or W1211.

STAT W 2025y Applied Statistical Methods

Classical nonparametric methods, permutation tests; contingency tables, generalized linear models, missing data, causal inference, multiple comparisons. Implementation in statistical software. Emphasis on conducting data analyses and reporting the results. Optional weekly computer-lab sessions. - E. Whalen

Prerequisites: STAT W2024
STAT W 2026x Statistical Applications and Case Studies

A sample of topics and application areas in applied statistics. Topic areas may include: Markov processes and Queueing theory; Meta-Analysis of clinical trial research; Receiver-Operator Curves in Medical Diagnosis; Spatial statistics with applications in geology, astronomy, and epidemiology; Multiple comparisons in bio-informatics; Causal modeling with missing data; statistical methods in genetic epidemiology; Stochastic analysis of neural spike train data; Graphical models for computer and social network data. - M. Lindquist

Prerequisites: STAT W2025

STAT W 3026x Applied Data Mining

Data Mining is a dynamic and fast growing field at the interface of Statistics and Computer Science. The emergence of massive datasets containing millions or even billions of observations provides the primary impetus for the field. Such datasets arise, for instance, in large-scale retailing, telecommunications, astronomy, computational and statistical challenges. This course will provide an overview of current practice in data mining. Specific topics covered with include databases and data warehousing, exploratory data analysis and visualization, descriptive modeling, predictive modeling, pattern and rule discovery, text mining, Bayesian data mining, and causal inference. The use of statistical software will be emphasized.

Foundation Courses

The Department offers STAT W3105, W3107, and W4315 as a sequence. W3105 covers probability theory and is a prerequisite for W3107. W3107 covers statistical theory, and is a prerequisite for STAT W4315. STAT W4315 covers linear regression models, and provides an introduction to practical issues in data analysis. Students who have difficulty scheduling STAT W3105 or W3107 may substitute, respectively, STAT W4105 and W4107, or substitute, for the pair, the combined course STAT W4109. The sequences is a pre-requisite for the advanced undergraduate offerings in the Department (except W4604 and W4835, which have only W3105 as a prerequisite, and W4204, which has only STAT W3105 and W3107 as co-requisites). STAT W4150 is an abridged version of W3105 and W3107 designed especially for SEAS students.

STAT W 3103x Mathematical Methods for Statistics

A fast-paced coverage of those aspects of the differential and integral calculus of one and several variables and of the linear algebra required for the core courses in the Statistics major. The mathematical topics are integrated with an introduction to computing. Students seeking more comprehensive background should consider replacing this course with MATH V1102 and V2010, and one of COMS W1003, W1004, or W1007. - D. Rabinowitz

Prerequisites: MATH V1101 or permission of the instructor.

6 points
STAT W 3105x Introduction To Probability

A calculus-based introduction to probability theory. A quick review of multivariate calculus is provided. Topics covered include random variables, conditional probability, expectation, independence, Bayes' rule, important distributions, joint distributions, moment generating functions, central limit theorem, laws of large numbers and Markov's inequality.

Prerequisites: MATH V1101 and V1102 or the equivalent. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

Advanced Courses

STAT W 4201x and y Advanced Data Analysis

This is a course on getting the most out of data. The emphasis will be on hands-on experience, involving case studies with real data and using common statistical packages. The course covers, at a very high level, exploratory data analysis, model formulation, goodness of fit testing, and other standard and non-standard statistical procedures, including linear regression, analysis of variance, nonlinear regression, generalized linear models, survival analysis, time series analysis, and modern regression methods. Students will be expected to propose a data set of their choice for use as case study material.

- Demissie Alemayehu

Prerequisites: STAT W4315. At least one of W4290, W4325, W4330, W4437, W4413, W4543 is recommended. General Education Requirement: Quantitative and Deductive Reasoning (QUA).

STAT W 4290y Statistical Methods in Finance

A fast-paced introduction to statistical methods used in quantitative finance. Financial applications and statistical methodologies are intertwined in all lectures. Topics include regression analysis and applications to the Capital Asset Pricing Model and multifactor pricing models, principal components and multivariate analysis, smoothing techniques and estimation of yield curves statistical methods for financial time series, value at risk, term structure models and fixed income research, and estimation and modeling of volatilities. Hands-on experience with financial data.

STAT W 4635y Stochastic Processes for Finance

This course covers theory of stochastic processes applied to finance. It covers concepts of Martingales, Markov chain models, Brownian motion. Stochastic Integration, Ito’s formula as a theoretical foundation of processes used in financial modeling. It also introduces basic discrete and continuous time models of asset price evolutions in the context of the following problems in finance: portfolio optimization, option pricing, spot rate interest modeling.

The Barnard College Theatre Department integrates the critical and artistic study of drama, theatre, and performance with the traditions of liberal arts inquiry. The Barnard Theatre major and the cognate Columbia College major in Drama and Theatre Arts, implemented largely through the Theatre department, take advantage of a wide variety of studio coursework, of the Department's production season in the Minor Latham Playhouse, as well as of a rich panoply of drama and theatre studies courses. Students' creative work develops in dialogue with critical inquiry into the literature, history, culture, and theory of western and nonwestern performance, typically combining coursework in theatre and drama with study in other fields, such as anthropology, architecture, art history, classics, dance, film, languages, literature, music, and philosophy. Students work with accomplished artists, directors, designers, actors, and playwrights whose work enlivens and enriches the contemporary American theatre; they also study the critical, historical, and theoretical lineaments of drama, theatre, and performance with celebrated teachers and internationally-recognized research scholars. The coursework in the major also engages productively with Barnard's "nine ways of knowing" and with Columbia's Core Curriculum, by considering how critical questions and traditions are animated by the forms, genres, and practices of dramatic theatre, and by conceiving the mutual responsiveness of critical and artistic work to those questions. Making, thinking about, and writing about art are an essential part of any undergraduate education: for this reason the courses offered in the Barnard Theatre Department and casting for its theatrical production are open to majors and nonmajors alike.

All students pursuing the major develop a vocabulary for conceptualizing performance in common courses in the history, literature, and theory of various world performance traditions. They also engage in the range of disciplines sustaining modern theatre--acting, design, directing, dramaturgy, playwriting--before taking up culminating work on a senior thesis. An original creative project, the thesis can take several forms: a significant research essay; a new play; or acting, dramaturging, directing, or designing as part of the Department's annual showcase of thesis productions. Theatre is a site of cultural innovation, transmission, and contestation, involving a variety of verbal, visual, spatial, musical, and gestural languages. Barnard/Columbia theatre majors understand the power of performance as an act of articulation; in speech, through movement and embodiment, as the manipulation of space, in the construction of an expressive event.

Student Learning Objectives

Upon completion of the major, successful students will be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Assess critically the artistic ambitions of contemporary theatrical performance, and of literary, critical and theoretical issues involved in the interpretation of dramatic literature and theatrical performance;
2. Create with proficiency in at least one area of creative work in the field: critical/research writing, acting, directing, design, playwriting.

Areas of Concentration
Drama and Theatre Studies Student Learning Objectives

Students successfully completing drama and theatre studies coursework, or concentrating in drama and theatre studies, should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Write clearly about dramatic literature, and about performance, including where applicable film performance;
2. Synthesize and evaluate contemporary criticism and research scholarship in writing;
3. Know specific authors, movements, periods, styles, and ideological structures in the history of drama, theatre, and performance (i.e., Shakespeare, American drama, Performative Cultures of the Third Reich, Black Theatre);
4. Use critical, theoretical, and historical concepts in the analysis of drama and performance.

Acting Student Learning Objectives

Students successfully completing a concentration in acting should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Analyze dramatic texts and apply the analysis to developing a performable role/character;
2. Synthesize external elements with external elements (social mores, environment, historical context, status relationship to others) and internal elements (center of gravity, personal rhythm, speed, tempo) toward the expression of a character’s physicality and emotionality;
3. Recognize and apply the fundamental concepts of character development: objectives, obstacles, actions, given circumstances;
4. Develop vocal, physical and emotional awareness and imagination, and to explore techniques available to aid the actor in applying these elements in a conscious way during rehearsal and performance.

Design Student Learning Objectives:

Students successfully completing a concentration in design should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Analyze dramatic texts and translate that analysis into documents used in the production process (breakdowns, plots, etc.);
2. Research images and texts that provide insight into the developing design idea, and accurately communicate historical and stylistic choices;
3. Demonstrate fluency with the craft of a design field – e.g. sketching, model making, drafting, sound and lighting plots, and associated software;
4. Perform collaboratively, adapting and informing their designs with ideas generated through conversation with colleagues, classmates, and advisors.

Directing Student Learning Objectives

Students successfully completing a concentration in directing should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Recognize the different demands of different configurations of stage space;
2. Apply compositional tools;
3. Define production style and its influence on performance choices;
4. Communicate effectively with actors;
5. Analyze the historical, social, and aesthetic elements of a dramatic text as the basis for a directorial conception.

Dramaturgy Student Learning Objectives

Students successfully completing a concentration in dramaturgy should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Apply important critical and theoretical concepts to the analysis of dramatic writing and theatrical performance;
2. Synthesize and evaluate contemporary research scholarship and apply it to a specific production, including biographical, historical, and interpretive information;
3. Write clearly and effectively about the goals of a production, its critical contexts and purposes;
4. Communicate the critical stakes of a performance to a director and cast; to be able to work with a director in fashioning those stakes;
5. Edit dramatic scripts for production.

Playwriting Student Learning Objectives

Students successfully completing a concentration in playwriting should be able to attain the following objectives:

1. Create an individual theatrical voice in writing;
2. Construct dramatic and theatrical events onstage;
3. Communicate supportive critique to fellow writers;
4. Interpret plot and story, and to employ language and spectacle creatively;
5. Recognize dramatic structures, and be able to shape and hold an audience's attention.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Students intending to major in Theatre should consult with the department chair in their sophomore year or earlier to plan a program. Twelve courses and one senior thesis (in Performance or in History, Theory, Dramaturgy, and Criticism) are required as follows:

Dramatic literature and theatre studies
- Two courses in Theatre History: THTR V 3150 and 3151
- One course in Drama, Theatre, and Theory: THTR V 3166 or ENTA W 3702
- One course in Shakespeare
- One course in World Theatre: THTR V 3000
- Two courses in Dramatic Literature. One course must be a seminar.

Theatre Practice
- One course in Theatre Design: THTR V3132-3136, 3510, or 4001
- One course in Acting: THTR V 3004 or 3005
- One course in Directing: THTR V 3200 or 3201
- Two courses that continue work in one of these areas: design, acting, directing, or playwriting. These choices should be made in consultation with the major adviser. Other courses may be substituted with the chair’s permission.

Please note that for Barnard students there is a limit on studio courses. Theatre majors may take 24 studio points in Theatre and an additional six in another discipline for a total of 30 studio points. Theatre Department studio courses are THTR V 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2120, 3004, 3005, 3006, 3122.

Senior Thesis
- THTR V 3997 Senior Thesis: Performance (design, acting, directing, or playwriting)
- or THTR V 3998 Senior Thesis: History, Theory, Dramaturgy, Criticism.

Courses of Instruction

THTR V 2002x and y New York Theatre

Students attend a variety of performances as well as a weekly lab meeting. Emphasis on expanding students' critical vocabulary and understanding of current New York theatre and its history. Section on contemporary New York theatre management and production practices.

- S. McMath, G. Lester

Prerequisites: Enrollment limited. Lab fee $175. Permission given by instructor only at first meeting. General Education Requirement: The Visual and Performing Arts (ART).

THTR V 3000x World Theatre

Provides a broad introduction to several traditions of nonwestern drama and theatrical practice, often placing recent and contemporary writing in relation to established conventions. Taking up plays and performance traditions from Asia, South Asia, and various African traditions, it may also consider the relation between elite and popular culture (adaptations of Shakespeare, for example), and between drama, theatre, and film.

THTR V 3004x-V3005y Acting Lab

This is an umbrella course whose offerings will change each year. Some are narrow, some broad; all are designed with several objectives in common, including:

a. To focus on a particular genre, playwright, approach to live performance.

b. To develop an interrelated set of conceptual, analytical, and embodiment skills and approaches. Courses typically involve scene preparation, reading, research, and both individual and group projects, as well as active participation in classroom exercises.

c. To develop a sense of the purposes and goals of a specific approach to acting.

The acting lab courses are intentionally non-sequential; students with little previous background in acting are strongly encouraged to consider the Acting Workshop and Scene Lab courses. No more than six courses can be taken from the Acting Lab/Advanced Acting Lab offerings during a student's Barnard career. Auditions are required for all Acting Labs and will take place the first two evenings of each semester. Please check with the Theatre Department office for specific offerings and audition sign-up. Courses will rotate regularly and may include the following:

Acting Solo Performance Physical and vocal techniques for solo performance. Selection and performance of classic and modern texts, development of original material suitable to each student.

Acting Improvisation Students will develop skills for ensemble work through improvisation, transformation, storytelling, and scene creation.

Acting Commedia dell'arte A practical approach to the comedy of class conflict, both classic and modern, based primarily on the techniques and characters of commedia dell'arte.

Acting Puppets and Masks Focuses on an approach to acting that emphasizes physical awareness and communication through posture, gesture, and movement. Masks and puppets will be used for character exploration, scenario development, and chorus work. Includes coordination of text and movement with exploration of 20th Century Expressionist and Surrealist texts.

Acting Chinese Opera Training in the four performance skills of Chinese opera: song, speech, stylized movement/acting, and stage combat. Looks at Chinese opera in its historical context in order to understand the nature of the performance tradition.
Acting Shakespeare An exploration of character, language, and action through sonnets, monologues, and scenes.

Acting Social Comedy The presentation of scenes from a variety of plays spanning a three hundred year period, from Wycherly to Wilde, as a means of investigating developments in the use of comic language. Epigram, antithesis, set-up, punchline: has their use changed? Emphasis on performance, with a consideration of the historical, social and theatrical context.

Acting Naturalism An eclectic approach to naturalistic acting techniques; an examination of performance practice through scene study; emphasis will be placed on works by Williams, Miller, and others.

Acting Chekhov Scene study, improvisation, and character and monologue work. An examination of the artistic and social context of Chekhov's work, including the acting theories of Stanislavski and the politics of naturalism.

Acting Brecht Intensive scene work, along with theoretical reading, analysis, and discussion. In-depth work on three or more major plays, poetry, and selected short pieces. Practical applications of the "alienation effect" and other Brechtian ideas.

Acting the Avant-Garde Intensive monologue and scene work, along with theoretical reading and discussion, exploring the particular performance skills needed for experimental drama, beginning with Jarry, and including Beckett, Artaud, Ionesco, Genet, Stein, and others.

Acting The Song Song as it emerges from scene, and as an individual entity. Technique and lyrical analysis. Porter, Gershwin, Berlin, Hammerstein, and others.

Acting in the Musical Scene An advanced scene-work technique class tailored to Musical Theatre performance. Classroom material will include composers such as Rodgers, Loesser, Sondheim, Coleman, Schmidt, Flaherty, and others. Previous instruction in voice and scene study is required.

Acting Suzuki and Viewpoints Introduces students to Suzuki actor training, which develops a physical approach to training the actor's expressive abilities; it combines Suzuki work with Viewpoints, an approach to group collaboration on dramatic texts, composition conceived temporally and spatially.

Language in Action Develops the analytical, vocal, and interpretive skills for the analysis of a range of dramatic texts in performance, focusing particularly on sound, imagery, rhythm, and rhetoric and the vocal and embodiment work essential to realizing them. Preference given to students who have taken THTR V 2003 Voice and Speech.

Prerequisites: Enrollment in each section limited to 14 students. Audition Required. General Education Requirement: The Visual and Performing Arts (ART).

THTR V 3150x Theatre History I

Dialectical approach to reading and thinking about the history of dramatic theatre in the west, interrogating the ways poetry inflects, and is inflected by, the material dynamics of performance. We will undertake careful study of the practices of performance, and of the sociocultural, economic, political, and aesthetic conditions animating representative plays of the Western tradition from the classical theatre through the early modern period; course will also emphasize development of important critical concepts for the analysis of drama, theatre, and performance. Specific attention will be given to classical Athens, medieval cycle drama, the professional theatre of early modern England, and the rival theatres of seventeenth century France and Spain. Writing: 2-3 papers; Reading: 1-2 plays, critical and historical reading per week; final examination.

THTR V 3152y Nazism in Performance
Explores the cultivation of national and transnational performances as a significant force of National Socialism, at the same time as challenging the notion of “Nazi Theatre” as monolithic formation. The core of the course inquires into the dialectical analysis of artistic creations in diverse art genres, while working towards an understanding of the social dramaturgy of such events as staging the Führer and the racialized body of the privileged people. Nazism did not harbor ideologies without benefits for the allied nations. Thus, the dynamic performance of transnationalism among the “brothers in arms” will be included as well, in order to elucidate how works of art crossing into the Third Reich were reimagined, sometimes in ways challenging to the presumed values of the state stage.

The Urban Studies program enables students to explore and understand the urban experience in all of its richness and complexity. It recognizes the city as an amalgam of diverse peoples and their social, political, economic, and cultural interactions within a distinctive built environment. Students study the evolution and variety of urban forms and governance structures, which create opportunities for as well constrain the exercise of human agency, individual and collective. They explore the place of the city in different historical and comparative contexts, as well as in the human imagination.

Majors build an intellectual foundation that combines interdisciplinary coursework and a concentration of study within a single field. Through the two-semester junior colloquium, students study urban history and contemporary issues, and at the same time hone their interdisciplinary, analytical and research skills. This shared experience prepares them for their independent research project in their senior year. We encourage our majors to use New York City as a laboratory, and many courses draw on the vast resources of the city and include an off-campus experience.

Student Learning Objectives

Having successfully completed the major in Urban Studies, the student will be able to:

1. Apply concepts or methods from more than one social science or adjacent discipline to analyze an urban issue or problem.
2. Describe the distinctive social, cultural, and spatial features of cities and illustrate their impacts on the urban experience.
3. Apply basic skills of empirical reasoning to an urban problem.
4. Explain how the idea of the city varies in different historical and comparative contexts.
5. Demonstrate familiarity with a particular disciplinary approach to the city as an object of study.
6. Demonstrate understanding of the history and variety of urban forms and governance structures.
7. Articulate a well-defined research question, conduct independent research using primary sources and a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches, and write a substantive research paper.
8. Communicate ideas effectively in written or oral form.
9. Organize and present group research projects.
REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

The major in Urban Studies is comprised of six curricular requirements:

Requirement A: Urban-related Social Science (3 courses)
One course dealing primarily with urban subject matter from each of three of the following disciplines: Anthropology, Economics, History, Political Science, Sociology.

Requirement B: Urban-related Non-Social Science (1 course)
One course dealing primarily with urban subject matter from a discipline not listed above (such as Architecture, Art History, English, Environmental Science, etc.).

Requirement C: Methods of Analysis (1 course)
One course in Methods of Analysis, such as URBS V3200 - GIS Methods and Urban Case Studies.

Requirement D: Specialization (5 courses)
Five or more courses in a specialization from one of the participating departments.

Requirement E: Junior Colloquia (2 courses)
URBS V3545x (The Shaping of the Modern City) and URBS V3546y (Contemporary Urban Issues).

Requirement F: Senior Seminar (2 courses)
A research seminar in the department of the student's specialization (must be approved by the Director).

Further information about curricular requirements, course listings, and the major can be found on the Urban Studies website.

There is no minor in Urban Studies.

URBS V 3310x Science and Technology in Urban Environments

Examines the role of science and technology in urban settings, using examples from modern cities. Explores how technology shapes towns and cities, and how urban environments - including politics, economics, culture, and the natural environment - have influenced the development, acceptance, and application of technology. An essential part of the coursework is participation in a community-based learning project, working with local non-profit organizations.

Prerequisites: Students must have declared their concentration/major.

URBS V 3420y Introduction to Urban Sociology

Examines the diverse ways in which sociology has defined and studied cities, focusing on the people who live and work in the city, and the transformations U.S. cities are undergoing today. Sociological methods, including ethnography, survey research, quantitative studies, and participant observation will provide perspectives on key urban questions such as street life, race, immigration, globalization, conflict, and redevelopment.

URBS V 3460y Race, Gender, and Urban Violence

From lynching to riots to police brutality, this course will examine shifting ideas about race and gender associated with urban violence. From an historical perspective, the course will consider the political and cultural contexts of urban violence, as well as the causes and effects. Areas of particular focus will include race riots, urban crime, policing, black political activism, mass media, consumer culture, and the myths and realities of interracial rape.

URBS V 3530y Urban Development: A Rubik’s Cube of Policy Choices

Using case studies, examines the rationale for urban development, the players involved and how decisions are made about the distribution of public and private resources. Studies the specific components of the development process and the myriad policy questions that large-scale development is meant to address. Examines the disconnect among stakeholders’ objectives - the developer, the financial institution that pays for the project, the government and the community.

Women's Studies is an interdisciplinary department for students who wish to explore gender and its relation to other axes of power: race, class, ethnicity, and sexuality. We use these concepts to analyze human experience in its bodily, political, economic and cultural dimensions. Women's Studies covers a complex variety of theoretical and empirical scholarship both within traditional disciplines and in interdisciplinary frames in the humanities, in the social sciences and in the natural sciences as well as combinations of the three. The Department is committed to critical perspectives and bodies of knowledge that contribute to possibilities for transformation and change.

Early in their sophomore year, students interested in the major should consult the Department to plan their major. Students also have the option of electing a combined major and a minor. Areas of faculty research specialization include feminist and queer politics and ethics in U.S. public life; contemporary and historical social movements; gender and global political economy; sexuality and the state; sociology of the body, sex and gender; critical science studies of gender and sexuality; transnational feminisms; Asia-Pacific cultural studies; comparative literature and critical theory.

Complementing the Women's Studies Department, the Barnard Center for Research on Women maintains an extensive and expanding resource collection on women's issues. Many of these resources, including BCRW's own online journal, The Scholar & Feminist Online, are available on BCRW's multi-media website. BCRW also sponsors a variety of events that are invaluable to students interested in Women's Studies.

Women's Studies participates in a Consortium with Africana Studies and American Studies that supports the development of intellectual and curricular projects across the three fields and offers a concentration and minor in studies of race and ethnicity, with an attention to global and diasporic frameworks. We are particularly interested in relations between and among, gender, sexuality, race, ethnicity and nation. The Consortium is working to create models for research and teaching that contribute to new ways of understanding processes of social differentiation and that help to create new possibilities for social relations.

Student Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of the Major, students will be able to attain the following outcomes:

1. Identify and denaturalize core assumptions that are attached to present-day systems of gender, race and sexuality;
2. Understand the variability and complexity of social identities in multiple historical, social and cultural contexts;
3. Demonstrate through oral and written presentations their understanding of gender, sexuality and race as mutually constituted and relatively autonomous categories of social difference;
4. Develop an awareness of a broad range of historical and transnational contexts for studying gender in relation to other social relations of power;
5. Develop a familiarity with major theoretical perspectives and concepts of feminist thought and practice;
6. Distinguish between different kinds of feminist claims and critically assess their effects in the world;
7. Understand and apply key social theory concepts and perspectives as these have been used in critical scholarly and activist engagements with contemporary issues and problems;
8. Integrate gender, race and sexuality theoretical frameworks along with a critical awareness of the politics of knowledge production in the conception and writing of an original research paper.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MAJOR

Majors in the department are trained in interdisciplinary research skills and will focus their studies around a thematic or discipline-based concentration. The requirements for the major are the following 13 courses:

1. WMST V 3111 Feminist Texts I
2. WMST V 3112 Feminist Texts II
3-4. Two semesters of a junior-level course to be chosen from among:
   WMST V 3311 Colloquium in Feminist Theory
   WMST V 3312 Theorizing Women's Activism
   WMST V 3313 Colloquium on Feminist Inquiry
5-6. Two semesters of Senior Thesis Seminar, WMST V 3521-3522
7. One course in Women's History (from a list specified by the department)
8. One course with a focus on comparative studies of women and gender (from a list specified by the department)
9-13. Five other courses devoting at least half of their content to issues of gender. At least three of these courses will have either a disciplinary focus or a thematic focus. Selection of these courses will be with the guidance and approval of student's adviser in the department.

Three thematic clusters are currently offered in the department: Gender and Representation; Gender, Science, and Health; Gender and Sexualities. Students can develop other thematic concentrations with the department's approval.

The thesis, Women's Studies V 3521-3522, provides an opportunity for senior majors to engage in original interdisciplinary research and to bring to bear the theoretical emphasis of feminist scholarship on a particular area of investigation. Further, in the senior seminar, majors have the opportunity to discuss methodological issues and problems of research in a directed and supportive environment.

Special projects using the city's resources may be developed into term papers or incorporated into the senior essay. An extensive project under the sponsorship of a faculty member may be offered for course credits as Women's Studies BC 3599 Independent Research.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE COMBINED MAJOR

The requirements for the combined major are as follows:

1. WMST V 3111 Feminist Texts I
2. WMST V 3112 Feminist Texts II
3-4. Two semesters of a junior-level course to be chosen from among:
   WMST V 3311 Colloquium in Feminist Theory
   WMST V 3312 Theorizing Women's Activism
   WMST V 3313 Colloquium on Feminist Inquiry
5-7. Three other courses devoting at least half of their content to issues of gender, one of which should be in a distribution field other than that of the combining major.

Two semesters of Senior Thesis Seminar to be taken either through Women's Studies or the other department or program. The senior essay shall integrate the two fields of inquiry.

The requisite number of courses in the combining field, to be determined by the chair of the department or program.

REQUIREMENTS FOR THE MINOR

A minor in Women's Studies consists of the following five courses:

1. WMST V 3111 Feminist Texts I
2. WMST V 3112 Feminist Texts II
3. One of the three junior-level courses to be chosen from:
   WMST V 3311 Colloquium in Feminist Theory
   WMST V 3312 Theorizing Women's Activism
   WMST V 3313 Colloquium on Feminist Inquiry

4-5. Two other women's studies courses.

WMST BC 3121x Black Women in America

Examines roles of black women in the U.S. as thinkers, activists and creators during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Focusing on the intellectual work, social activism and cultural expression of African American women, we examine how they understood their lives, resisted oppression and struggled to change society. We will also discuss theoretical frameworks (such as "double jeopardy," or "intersectionality") developed for the study of black women. The seminar will encourage students to pay particular attention to the diversity of black women and critical issues facing Black women today.

- K. Hall

WMST V 3813x Colloquium on Feminist Inquiry

What do we know and how do we know it? Can and do feminists know any differently? Do feminist politics affect the production of knowledge? How have feminist scholars challenged dominant theories of knowledge and how has feminist scholarship developed? What core theories have shaped feminist thinking and what challenges do they pose for the practice of feminist inquiry? This class will provide an introduction to key feminist research epistemologies, methods, and methodologies, and also actively engage students in feminist research practices. We will explore the politics of knowledge production, the practices of knowing, and the relationship between knower and known from a feminist perspective.

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

Registration

Registration for New and Continuing Students

Instructions for registration are distributed to students and available online.

Students are expected to register online during the registration times published in the College Calendar. Permission to register may be refused to students who do not observe the deadline for registration. Those students who have permission to register late will be assessed additional fees, as posted at the Office of the Registrar.

Bills for tuition and fees are mailed before the beginning of the semester, and payment must be received by the deadline published in the College Calendar. In addition, any outstanding debts to the College or University, including library fines, must be paid before the student may register.

The final stage of the registration process is program filing, which must be completed by the deadline published in the College Calendar. If for some compelling reason a student must enroll in less than a full-time program, the written permission of her Class Dean in the Dean of Studies Office is required.

Registration for Resumed Education Students

Resumed Education students are those Barnard students who have been away from the College for five years or more and are returning to complete the A.B. degree requirements and those Barnard graduates who are returning to the College to take additional course work. Resumed Education students are subject to regular registration procedures and deadlines.

Enrollment in Columbia University Courses

Many courses offered in other divisions of the University are open to qualified Barnard students; those cross-listed in the Barnard Catalogue do not normally need special approval; no undergraduate courses listed in the Columbia College bulletin need special approval unless so indicated in the course description. Other courses not cross-listed in the Barnard Catalogue may require divisional or instructor's approval in addition to the approval of the student's academic adviser. Columbia University courses are entered on the Barnard program; specific instructions are distributed. The student is expected to have reviewed the course description and prerequisites before consulting an adviser, to determine for herself whether she is eligible to enroll.

Certain Columbia courses are limited in enrollment. Barnard students wishing to register in such courses must take part in the limited-enrollment procedures.

Permission is needed to take a course at Teachers College. Students should obtain an application from the Office of the Registrar, obtain course approval from Dean Blank, and return the completed form to the Office of the Registrar. TC courses require the payment of additional tuition at the Teachers College rate over and above Barnard tuition.

Program Filing

The list of courses for which the student is enrolled each semester is known as the student's program.

Each student is required to schedule and attend a program-planning meeting with her adviser before the end of each semester (see College Calendar) and to consider carefully and seriously her selection of courses for the following semester.

During the program-planning period, various departments post sign-up sheets for laboratory courses, sectioned courses, and limited-enrollment courses. A student who wishes to enroll in such a course or courses must enter her name on these sheets to ensure a place for the following semester. Each student files her program online through the Registrar's website by the stated deadline. The program is finalized only upon receipt of her adviser's approval, also by the deadline.
There is no refund issued for courses dropped after the published deadline for program filing, or for fees attached to courses dropped after the deadline, and any part-time program filed after that date will be assessed full tuition.

Note: the deadline for submission of programs is separate from, and somewhat later than, the registration deadline (see College Calendar). Programs filed late will be assessed additional fees, which will be posted at the Office of the Registrar. A student who neglects to file a program is subject to academic probation.

Adjustment of Fees and Refunds for Changing Program of Study

If a student changes her program and the tuition called for is lower than the amount she has already paid, she will be refunded the excess only if the alteration of her program is made by September 17 (last day of program filing) in the autumn term and by January 28 in the spring term. If the new program calls for higher tuition, the student is responsible for paying the additional charges promptly.

Schedule of Classes and Room Assignments

Class times and room numbers are published in the online Directory of Classes, which is updated every night. Disabled students needing wheelchair-accessible classrooms should provide this information to the Registrar during program planning.

Courses with Limited Enrollment

Enrollment in certain Barnard and Columbia courses is strictly limited and students must follow specified procedures to secure places in these courses.

Adding Courses

Courses may not be added after the deadline for filing academic programs. Up to that deadline, the student may add courses online. Adding a course requires the online approval, or the signature on an Add form, of the student’s adviser.

Dropping Courses

Courses may be dropped by submission of an Application to Drop a Course, available at the Office of the Registrar. The form requires the written approval of the student’s adviser and must be returned to the Office of the Registrar before the deadline published in the College Calendar. Courses dropped by the deadline will not be recorded on the permanent transcript. If withdrawal from a course is approved after the deadline to drop and by the deadline to withdraw, the course will be recorded on the permanent transcript with the notation W (Withdrawal). Action on any course which ends prior to the above dates must be taken before the last class meeting. No adjustment of fees (including any laboratory fees) is made for any course dropped after the deadline for program filing. A student may not drop below 12 points without the approval of her class dean as well as her adviser.

Attendance

Students are expected to attend classes regularly. Frequent or prolonged absences from classes may cause a student to forfeit the right to complete coursework or to take final examinations.

Policy on Religious Holidays

It is the policy of Barnard College to respect its members’ religious beliefs. In compliance with New York State law, each student who is absent from school because of her religious beliefs will be given an equivalent opportunity to register for classes or make up any examination, study, or work requirements that she may have missed because of such absence on any particular day or days. No student will be penalized for absence due to religious beliefs, and alternative means will be sought for satisfying the academic requirements involved.

Those responsible for scheduling of academic activities or essential services are expected to avoid conflict with religious holidays as much as possible. If a suitable arrangement cannot be worked out between the student and the instructor involved, they should consult the appropriate dean. If an additional appeal is needed, it may be taken to the Provost.

Credit for Summer Study

The granting of course credit for summer courses taken at other accredited institutions (including Columbia) is treated as transfer credit and is subject to some additional regulations. The maximum number of summer points that can be applied toward the degree for course credit is 16, subject to the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Although a student may not receive degree credit for summer courses exceeding this maximum, she may fulfill degree requirements with additional summer courses, subject to the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing, and in some cases, subject to satisfactory performance on a Barnard placement examination. The full regulations on credit for summer study are available at the Office of the Registrar and on the Registrar’s website on the Application for Approval of Summer Session Courses. The student may learn in advance whether the courses she wishes to take in summer school meet the approval of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing by completing the form and submitting it to the Office of the Registrar well before the end of the spring term. Although the application may also be retroactive, the student places herself at risk of being denied degree credit if she fails to receive prior written approval from the Committee. The student is advised to consult the application for the full regulations, some of which are listed below:

1. No more than eight points may be counted for no more than two courses taken in one five- or six-week summer session.
2. To be eligible for credit, a course normally must meet for at least five weeks and at least 35 hours.
3. Grades for courses taken in summer school must be letter grades of C– or higher; they are not included in the Barnard grade point average, but they will be included in the calculation for Latin honors. These courses and grades will, however, be considered by graduate or professional schools, which normally require the submission of an applicant’s transcripts from all the colleges attended.

A fee is charged by Barnard to transfer credits from the other institution. (Please refer to Financial Information.)

Length of Residence

Students are expected to be registered full-time (12 points minimum) for four years. Transfer students must complete at least 60 points and two years full-time in residence at Barnard to receive the degree (see below for additional information). Under certain conditions, it is possible for a senior to complete her work for the degree while registered in absentia, with the permission of the Senior Class Dean.

Classification of Students

Students are classified as follows:

Matriculated Points completed
- First-Year fewer than 24
- Sophomore 24–51
- Junior 52–85
- Senior 86 or more
- Unclassified transfer students who have not yet been assigned credit

Non-matriculated
- Other college degree candidates (visiting students)
- Barnard alumnae auditing courses
- Barnard alumnae taking courses for credit
- Any other student who is not a degree candidate
- A degree candidate (i.e., a student who is matriculated) is expected to be enrolled for at least 12 points each term and may not change her status to non-matriculated.

Filing of Diploma Information
The Diploma Information form, available online, is the student’s official notification to the Registrar that she expects to have completed all requirements for the degree and to receive the diploma on a particular graduation date. Degrees are granted in May, October, and February. Graduation ceremonies are held in February and May.

Withdrawal and Readmission

A student not subject to discipline for infraction of College rules may withdraw from the College during the semester by submitting a “Notice of Withdrawal” form to her Class Dean before the withdrawal deadline. A student who plans to withdraw following the completion of a term must also file the appropriate form in the Dean of Studies Office. A student should discuss withdrawal with her academic adviser and Class Dean in advance of submitting the form. Confirmation of the withdrawal, and procedures and conditions for readmission, will be sent to the student upon receipt of the form.

Students who wish to request readmission to the College must submit a letter to the Dean of Studies Office, with reasons for the request and the $100 readmission fee, by June 1 for an autumn term return and by November 1 for a spring term return.

Readmission of students who have withdrawn from (or been withdrawn by) the College for some non-academic reasons, e.g., health, will be considered by the Committee on Evaluation, composed of representatives from the Office of Residence Life, Dean of Studies Office, Counseling Services, Disability Services, and Health Services. A Health or Counseling Services evaluation and recommendation is usually required for Committee consideration.

The Evaluation Committee also meets regularly throughout the academic year to discuss issues concerning students who are experiencing difficulties in academic, residential, and extracurricular life at the College. The Committee identifies available support services both on- and off-campus in order to assist students encountering difficulties. Finally, as needed, it considers the advisability of a student’s withdrawal from the College for non-academic reasons. A description of the Committee and its procedures is available in the Dean of Studies Office.

Exceptions to College Regulations

Requests by students for exceptions to college regulations governing the awarding of academic credit and requirements for the degree may be addressed to the Faculty Committee on Programs and Academic Standing. Petition forms are available at the Office of the Registrar and should be returned there. Requests that bear the appropriate signatures and comments of advisers and instructors normally receive consideration within two weeks of their submission.

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

Examinations

Language Placement Examinations

The foreign language requirement can be met by completing the required courses at Barnard (for individual languages see departmental curriculum statements), or by a College Entrance Examination Board (CEEB) score of 781 (700 or above in Hebrew), or, for transfer students, by having completed acceptable qualifying language courses.

Transfer Students
A transfer student who has a CEEB score is placed according to that score alone if she has had no previous college language courses. The determination is made according to the provisions of an established scale. A transfer student who has no CEEB score or previous college language courses must, if she wishes to continue with a particular language, take a placement test. Transfer students who are not required to take an examination are notified of language placement along with the evaluation of their transfer credit.

First-Year Students
First-year students are placed (or exempted) on the basis of their CEEB scores. Those with no scores who wish to continue languages studied in high school take placement examinations. The Class Dean advises all new first-year students on their language requirements.

Summer School Language Courses
Students, other than incoming transfer or first-year students, who take summer language courses and wish exemption or placement in their continuing language studies must take a language placement examination or secure departmental approval to receive degree credit and enter at a higher level.

A student who does not wish to continue with a language in which she has been placed may begin the study of a new language.

Information about Language Placement Examinations is available at the Office of the Registrar; the examination dates are published in the College Calendar. The examinations are evaluated and placement is made by the appropriate departments. Results are available at the Office of the Registrar.

Other Departmental Placement Examinations

Students may obtain exemption from or placement in certain courses by means of departmental placement examinations (for example, in the Mathematics and Physics departments). Information and applications for the examinations are available in departmental offices, and deadlines are particular to each department.

Make-Up Examinations During the Term

Instructors are not required to give make-up examinations to students absent from previously announced tests during the term. An instructor who is willing to give a make-up test may request a report of illness or acceptable evidence of other extenuating circumstances from the appropriate class dean in the Dean of Studies Office.

Final Examinations

No class meetings will be held on required reading days as set forth in the College Calendar. The dates for final examinations, given at the end of each term, are published in the College Calendar. Exact times and room numbers for individual examinations are posted on the website of the Office of the Registrar at least four weeks in advance of final examinations.

Barnard examinations are given under the Honor Code, which states that a student should not ask for, give, or receive help in examinations, nor should she use papers or books in a manner not authorized by the instructor. She should not present work that is not entirely her own except in such a way as may be approved by the instructor. The Honor Code further implies that any student or member of the faculty who has first-hand knowledge of a violation of these rules has an obligation to report it to the Dean of Studies Office or Honor Board.

A student who wishes to leave the room before the end of the examination period will submit her blue books to the instructor. If a student becomes ill during the course of the examination, she must notify the instructor and go to the College Physician, Brooks Hall, Lower Level. If less than an hour has expired, a grade of DEF will be recorded on the transcript and she will take a deferred examination. If a student remains for more than one hour of a three-hour examination or more than 40 minutes of a two-hour examination, she will be graded on the work she has completed, with the uncompleted work scored as 0.

Deferred Final Examinations

Deferred final examinations, given in September and January (see College Calendar), are permitted only for those students who were absent from the regular examinations for reasons of illness or emergency and who have received authorization from their instructors and the Dean of Studies Office.

Requests for absence from final exams for reasons of health or other emergencies must be reported to the instructor and to the Dean of Studies Office in person or by telephone on the day of the examination.

Examinations missed in December are to be taken the following January or, in cases of prolonged illness, in September of the same year. Those missed in May are to be taken in September of the same year. If a student absents herself without a compelling and valid excuse from a final or deferred examination, she will receive a grade of zero for that examination.

Applications for deferred examinations are filed with the Office of the Registrar. A payment of a $10 handling fee for each examination must accompany the application.

Examinations for Students with Disabilities

Individual arrangements can be made for disabled students unable to take examinations in the usual manner. Disabled students are normally expected to take their exams with the rest of the class, with disability-related modifications as needed. Students with disabilities who require nonstandard administration should consult with their instructors and the Director for Disability Services about reasonable accommodations. Students should obtain copies of the Test Accommodations Form in Room 105 Hewitt and return them at the beginning of each semester.
ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

Grading & Academic Honors

Grading System

Academic standing and eligibility for graduation are determined by both the number of courses completed and the grades achieved. The system used at Barnard is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A+, A, A–</td>
<td>Excellent</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B+, B, B–</td>
<td>Good</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C+, C</td>
<td>Satisfactory</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C–, D</td>
<td>Unsatisfactory but passing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F</td>
<td>Failure</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>P</td>
<td>Passed without a specific grade on student’s election of P/D/F option</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>P*</td>
<td>Passed in a course for which only a grade of P or F is allowed</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I</td>
<td>Incomplete</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>X</td>
<td>Absence from final examination</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Y</td>
<td>For the first half of a two-semester course in which the grade for the second semester is the grade for the entire course</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>W</td>
<td>Approved withdrawal after “drop” deadline</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UW</td>
<td>Withdrawal from a course without official notification to Registrar</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Pass/Fail grades are recorded for all students in certain courses, e.g., physical education. Pass/Fail grades for individual students are subject to regulations described below.

In the computation of grade point averages, marks for courses are awarded on the following scale:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>
<th>Weight</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A+</td>
<td>4.3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A</td>
<td>4.0</td>

<td>3.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B–</td>
<td>2.7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C+</td>
<td>2.3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C</td>
<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C–</td>
<td>1.7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tbody>
</table>

In order to be recommended for the degree, a student must maintain a cumulative average of 2.0 (C) for 122 (121 for transfer students) or more points completed with passing grades. At the end of each term all records are examined. Normally only those students who have completed 12 points with cumulative averages of 2.0 or above are permitted to remain in college. Students whose work falls below the cumulative average of 2.0 may be permitted to continue at Barnard with probationary conditions at the discretion of the Committee on Programs and Academic Standing.

Courses in which the student receives the grade of D may not be counted toward the major requirement or the minor option. Required courses graded D that must be retaken for a higher grade to satisfy requirements for the major or minor will not receive degree credit when repeated. Both enrollments and grades appear on the transcript.

Grade Reports

Grades are available to students online. Following graduation, a cumulative grade report of all the student’s work at Barnard is sent to her home address. The cumulative grade report is an unofficial transcript for which there is no charge. A student may request that her grade reports be sent to her parent(s) or guardian by filing a permission card with the Registrar. Parents who have established their daughter’s status as a dependent may receive transcripts of her grades without her consent by writing to the Registrar and enclosing “evidence that the parents declare the student as a dependent on their most recent Federal Income Tax Form” (FERPA). If the student wishes additional transcripts, a charge of $3 per copy will apply.

Pass/D/Fail Option
A student may elect the Pass/D/Fail option by submitting a Request for Pass/D/Fail online, via eBear, before the absolutely firm deadline published in the College Calendar. Under the Pass/D/Fail option the student is held responsible for fulfilling all course requirements. A grade of D or F is not converted. The complete rules and instructions are available on eBear and on the Registrar's Office website.

Some courses record Pass/Fail grades for all students enrolled, e.g., ENGL BC 3191. Of the 122 points required for the degree, a maximum of 23 points of course work may receive a grade of Pass, whether elected or mandated (e.g., ENGL BC 3191). The P/D/F option cannot be elected for First-Year English or any course designated to count toward the major or the minor. (For students required to complete 120 points, the maximum is 21 points; for students required to complete 121 points, the maximum is 22.)

No limitation is placed on the number of Pass grades that may be recorded in a single term, except those rules that apply to Dean's List, to eligibility for financial aid, and to the overall 23-point maximum.

Grades of P are not included in the grade point average. Grades of D or F, whether or not received under the Pass/D/Fail option, are computed. If the total number of points excluded from calculation in the grade point average exceeds 34, a sliding scale requiring higher qualifying averages is used to determine eligibility for general honors at graduation. (Like courses graded Pass, points credited for AP, baccalaureates, transfer work, and summer courses are not calculated in the Barnard grade point average.)

The request for a course to be graded under the Pass/D/Fail option is irreversible. No request will be honored after the deadline. No request filed before the deadline can be reversed after the deadline. Subsequent change to a letter grade will not be allowed, and the option may not be elected retroactively. Information on the grade assigned to a course taken Pass/D/Fail will not be released to the student.

Incompletes

A student may, for compelling reasons, request from her instructor an Incomplete by means of written approval on forms available at the Office of the Registrar. The deadline for filing the Application for Incomplete is the last day of the reading period. However, in a course without a final examination, the deadline is the day before the final paper is due if that date precedes the last day of the reading period.

There are two Incomplete options. The “Early Incomplete” option requires submission of unfinished work to the Registrar soon after the end of the term by the date designated in the College Calendar and results in the removal of the “I” notation from the transcript. The second option extends the deadline to the first day of classes for the next Autumn term, but the “I” notation remains on the permanent transcript and is joined by the final letter grade. The full regulations that apply to Incompletes are listed on the Application for Incomplete form available at the Office of the Registrar. A student must have the permission of her instructor to qualify for an Incomplete, and she is required to use the form, which is a written guarantee of the terms set forth in it by the instructor.

Transcripts

Transcripts are ordered by written request to the transcript assistant in the Office of the Registrar. An official Transcript Request Form is available at the office of the Registrar or may be downloaded from the Registrar's website, but the request may also be made by letter, provided that the letter includes the following: student’s name (and her name at Barnard, if different) and Social Security number or Barnard identification number, dates of attendance at Barnard, number of copies desired, specifications as to whether the transcript should or should not be delayed until the latest semester's grades have been entered, name(s) and address(es) to which the transcript is to be sent, the student’s full signature, and a $3 check or money order for each transcript ordered. Official copies of transcripts (those bearing the seal of the College) can be sent only to academic institutions, business organizations, and government offices. Unofficial copies of transcripts may be sent to the student. All copies of transcripts, official and unofficial, are sent only at the written request of the student, and are subject to the $3 fee. Transcripts can be sent by FedEx or Priority Mail for an additional fee. Barnard cannot send copies of transcripts from other schools; they must be requested directly from the institutions attended.

Dean’s List

To be eligible for Dean's List, a student must be enrolled at Barnard for both terms and complete at least 12 letter-graded points each term of an academic year with a minimum grade point average of 3.4 for the academic year. (P-graded points are excluded.) Her grade point average will be based on all her letter grades in the A to F range.

College Honors

The Faculty awards honors to students who complete work for the degree with distinction (cum laude), with high distinction (magna cum laude), and with highest distinction (summa cum laude). Students whose records include study at other institutions (transfer, summer school, study leave) will be eligible for Latin honors if both the overall and the Barnard grade point average meet the designated requirements. If the total number of points for courses graded P and P*, and for transfer grades that do not have Barnard equivalents, exceeds 34 of the 122 points for the degree, the qualifying averages are computed on a sliding scale.

The values determining Latin Honors will change each year. For 2010-11:

A student with a final cumulative grade point average matching or exceeding the cutoff average for the top 5% of graduates of the last three years will be awarded the degree summa cum laude.

A student with a final cumulative grade point average matching or exceeding the cutoff average for the top 10% of graduates (and below the cutoff average for the top 5% of graduates) of the last three years will be awarded the degree magna cum laude.

A student with a final cumulative grade point average matching or exceeding the cutoff average for the top 20% of graduates (and below the cutoff average for the top 10% of graduates) of the last three years will be awarded the degree cum laude.

The averages for these three groups of graduates in the three academic years 2007-2008 through 2009-2010 were, in descending order, 3.94, 3.88, and 3.80. Accordingly, these minimum values govern the awarding of the corresponding honors in 2010-2011.

Departmental honors are awarded for distinguished work in the major to no more than 20% of graduates, as nominated by their major departments.

Phi Beta Kappa

The Barnard section of the Columbia University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa was founded in 1901. Election to the national honor society is a recognition of scholarship, and Barnard students of exceptionally high standing are eligible. Junior election will require a minimum of 86 completed points, and senior election, 102. Students do not apply for membership; they are elected by Barnard faculty members who are themselves members of Phi Beta Kappa.

Eligibility for Student Government Offices

To be a candidate for election to a student government office, a student must be in good academic standing and free of disciplinary action for at least one year.

Eligibility for Intercollegiate Athletics

Any student at Barnard College, Columbia College, the Fu Foundation School of Engineering and Applied Science, or the School of General Studies who is pursuing the undergraduate program or a combined program toward a first degree is eligible for intercollegiate athletics, provided that certain conditions are met. To be eligible for athletic activities, a student must:

- be a candidate for a bachelor's degree;
- be registered for at least 12 points of credit per semester;
- be in satisfactory academic standing;
- have passed by the beginning of the academic year 24 points if in the second year, 52 points if in the third year, or 86 points if in the fourth year;
- have attended the University for not more than eight terms;
- not have completed the requirements for a bachelor's degree.

An eligibility form must be filed with the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics, which consults with the Registrar to determine eligibility.
ACADEMIC ADVISING

Academic advising is coordinated by the Dean of Studies Office (105 Milbank), which oversees the assignment of an adviser to each entering student. Although responsibility for the fulfillment of degree requirements rests with the student, her academic adviser is prepared to help her match her program of courses to her individual goals and priorities, to acquaint her with the academic resources available at the College and the University, and to respond to her questions about the curriculum and academic policies and procedures. Also available for assistance are her Class Dean, the staff of the Dean of Studies Office, and the members of the Barnard Faculty.

Class Deans and Advisers

Prior to her matriculation, each entering first-year student will receive A Guide to Your First Semester at Barnard from the First-Year Class Dean. The student selects courses for the autumn term and submits the completed on-line program form to the Class Dean who, insofar as possible, schedules classes accordingly. Class schedules and registration materials are distributed when students arrive on campus in September.

Assistance in planning courses of study is given to first-year students and sophomores by their academic advisers with whom students are expected to schedule appointments for individual advising throughout the year. Group meetings with department chairs and other professors are arranged each semester to facilitate the selection of majors.

By the end of the second semester of her sophomore year, each student chooses her major field in consultation with the Sophomore Class Dean, her adviser, the academic department, and the Office of Career Development. From then on, her major adviser guides advanced study for the undergraduate degree and is the principal source of information on preparation for graduate school. Also available to her for general academic guidance are the Junior and Senior Class Deans.

Students are responsible for completing all degree requirements and are aided in doing so by the degree audit program on the Barnard website. A Senior Class handbook describes College policy on honors, application procedures for graduate or professional study, and deadlines for major examinations, GRE, LSAT, MCAT, and fellowship applications. The Senior Class Dean and the Coordinator for Commencement oversee the planning for commencement with the help of Class officers and the Commencement Committee.

Transfer Students

Incoming transfer students are assisted by the transfer advisers in planning their courses of study and selecting majors. Group meetings are scheduled in the summer and during Orientation, and individual appointments may be arranged throughout the academic year. Transfer students who enter with junior class standing are guided by both transfer and major advisers during their first Barnard semester. For more about Transfer Students click here.

International Students

Dean Bournoutian is available to meet with international students regarding issues that arise from their international student status. Group meetings are scheduled during Orientation and throughout the year to give international students the opportunity to become familiar with one another, the College, and life in the United States. The International Student Handbook is also available in the Dean of Studies Office. For more about International Students click here.

Visiting Students

Students who enroll for classes at Barnard as visitors who will graduate from another college must have approval from the degree-granting school for coursework to be completed at Barnard. Program filing and registration are guided by designated transfer advisers. For more about Visiting Students click here.

Study Leaves

Students who wish to study abroad for credit toward the Barnard degree are urged to discuss their plans and to apply for approval from the Dean for Study Abroad Advising, Gretchen Young, early in the year prior to the period of enrollment at the other institution. Information is available on the web and in 105 Milbank.

Program Planning for Students Interested in Health Professions

The basic premedical and predental requirements are two semesters of introductory biology (BIOL BC 1500 and BC 1502) and two semesters of biology laboratory (BIOL BC 1501 and BC 1503) two semesters of general chemistry and one semester of laboratory (CHEM BC 2001, BC 3232); two semesters of organic chemistry and one semester of organic laboratory (CHEM BC 3230, BC 3231, BC 3328); two semesters of physics with accompanying laboratory (PHYS BC 2001, 2002 [calculus I and II are pre- or corequisites] or V 1201, V 1202, V 1291, and V 1292 [calculus I prerequisite]. Two semesters of English (fulfilled by First-Year Seminar and First-Year English); and one year of college-level mathematics. Highly recommended courses, required by some schools, are two terms of calculus, one term or of biochemistry (CHEM BC 3282), and one term of genetics (BIOL BC 2100).

Students should become familiar with the most recent edition of Medical School Admissions Requirements, an annual publication of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Pursuing a major in the sciences is not necessary for premedical students, provided they include the aforementioned required courses in their programs. The science requirements should be completed in the year prior to the year of desired entry, at which time students are advised to take the Medical College Admissions Test (MCAT) which is offered approximately 20 times per application cycle.

All students who are interested in the health professions should consult Dean Starks in the Dean of Studies Office as soon as possible. Applications for the standardized tests and other relevant materials are available in 105 Milbank.

Program Planning for Students Interested in Law

There are no specific course requirements for entry to law school, and there is no specifically recommended major. Students are encouraged to develop strong skills in writing and in speaking with precision and to take programs that require demanding critical analysis and effective study habits. Information about law schools and the application process can be found in the Official Guide to U.S. Law Schools, an annual publication of the Law School Admission Council and the American Bar Association, and Barnard’s The Prelaw Handbook. Copies of the Handbook are available in the Dean of Studies Office, 105 Milbank, which also maintains a library of current law school catalogues and other relevant information.

Students are encouraged to consult Dean Kuan Tsu in the junior year or earlier. The LSAT should be taken in June or October of the year prior to expected entry to law school; the June test is recommended because it allows for better planning. Information booklets for the LSAT and for the Law School Data Assembly Service (a required transcript analysis procedure) arrive in March each year and can be picked up in 105 Milbank anytime thereafter.

Graduate School Advising

Students interested in advanced study in the liberal arts and sciences or the performing arts may consult faculty members in appropriate departments and Senior Class Dean Aaron Schneider.

Recommendations

Students are encouraged to establish recommendation files for future use for graduate and professional study with Ms. Baker and Ms. Hercules, the recommendations assistants in the Dean of Studies Office.

Honors

The following awards, administered according to the provisions of their respective donors, were established to honor students who have shown exceptional distinction in their studies. Students do not apply for these awards; rather, recipients are selected by appropriate Faculty departments and committees.

FELLOWSHIPS

Alpha Zeta Club Graduate Scholarship (1936)

For graduating seniors who show promise of distinction or to outstanding recent Barnard graduates who are candidates for higher degrees.

Associate Alumnae of Barnard College Graduate Fellowship (1963)
For a graduating senior or graduate who shows exceptional promise in her chosen field of work. Information and applications may be obtained in the Alumnae Office.

Anne Davidson Fellowship (1971)
For graduating seniors who will pursue graduate study in conservation at a university of approved standing.

George Welwood Murray Graduate Fellowship (1930)
For graduating seniors who show promise of distinction in the humanities and/or the social sciences and who will pursue graduate study at a university or college of approved standing.

Josephine Paddock Fellowship (1976)
For graduating seniors who show promise of distinction in such fields of graduate study in art as the faculty shall determine. Holders are to pursue studies, preferably abroad, at a college or university of approved standing.

Grace Potter Rice Fellowship (1935)
For graduating seniors who show promise of distinction in the natural sciences or mathematics and who will pursue graduate study at a university or college of approved standing.

GENERAL

Estelle M. Allison Prize (1937)
For excellence in literature.

Mary E. Allison Prize (1937)
For general excellence in scholarship.

Annette Kar Baxter Memorial Fund Prize (1984) For juniors who have distinguished themselves in the study of some aspect of women's experience.

Frank Gilbert Bryson Prize (1931)
For a senior who, in the opinion of the class, has given conspicuous evidence of unselfishness and who has made the greatest contribution to Barnard during the college years.

Eleanor Thomas Elliott Prizes (1973)
Two prizes to juniors chosen by the Honors Committee from among the five most academically outstanding students in the class based upon overall academic record, integrity, and good citizenship in the College.

Katherine Reeve Girard Prize (1964)
For a student whose interests are in the international aspects of a major.

Ann Barrow Hamilton Memorial Prize in Journalism (1978)
For a graduating senior who will pursue a career in journalism.

Alena Wels Hirschorn Prize (1986)
For a senior majoring in economics, with preference for a student who has a strong interest in English literature and/or in pursuing a career in journalism.

Lucyle Hook Travel Grants (1987)
To promising individuals with enriching, eclectic projects that demonstrate originality and self-direction.

Jo Green Iwabe Prize (1986)
To a student with a disability, for active participation in the academic and extracurricular life of the College.

Ethel Stone LeFrak Prize (1986)
For excellence in a field of the arts.

Schwimmer Prize (1986)
For an outstanding graduating senior in the humanities.

Bernice G. Segal Summer Research Internships (1986)
One or more internships for supervised research in the sciences during the summer.
Marian Churchill White Prize (1975)
For an outstanding sophomore who has participated actively in student affairs.

PREMEDICAL

Helen R. Downes Prize (1964)
For graduating seniors who show promise of distinction in medicine or the medical sciences.

Ida and John Kauderer Prize (1973)
For premedical students majoring in chemistry.

Barbara Ann Liskin Memorial Prize (1995)
For a premedical student committed to women's issues and to a humanistic approach to patient care.

Lucy Moses Award (1975)
For a premedical student likely to provide service to the medically underserved.

Gertrude Bunger Zufall Award (1987)
For a premedical student entering her senior year

Barnard Catalogue 2010-2011
Barnard students soon discover that their classmates are among the principal resources of their undergraduate years. Cosmopolitan in nature, the student population includes residents of nearly every state and some 32 foreign countries as well as those who live within commuting distance. Diversity is one of the few generalizations that can be made safely about Barnard students; a mingling of economic, regional, ethnic, and cultural groups is evident in campus life. Over 90 percent of the students live in College housing and participate in the educational programs, cultural events, and social activities of their residence halls.

Campus Organizations

Student Government and Campus Organizations

Student participation in the governance of the College and in shaping student life on campus is a time-honored tradition at Barnard. College committees, on which students, faculty, and administrators serve, recommend policy and procedural changes in such areas as curriculum, housing, and college activities. Students are the majority members on Honor Board and Judicial Council. Two students serve as representatives to the Board of Trustees.

All Barnard students are members of the Student Government Association, which elects a representative government and sponsors extracurricular activities and special events reflecting the range of cultural, political, pre-professional, and academic interests of the student body. These groups, more than 80 in all, include theater and vocal music groups, ethnic organizations, language clubs, community service groups, and yearbook staff. The student newspaper, Barnard Bulletin, is published weekly. Students with a variety of talents collaborate to produce Autumn and Spring Festivals featuring concerts, theater and dance performances, art exhibitions, and social events.

Cooperation among Barnard and Columbia groups is common. The majority of clubs and organizations have both Barnard and Columbia student members. Religious organizations and activities with headquarters on the Columbia University campus at Earl Hall encompass nearly every faith and are open to all Barnard students. Urban New York, a joint Barnard-Columbia program, offers unusual opportunities for students, faculty, and staff to experience together the cultural, political, and social life of the city.

Sports and Athletics

The Columbia University/Barnard College Athletic Consortium (Division I of the NCAA) sponsors 15 women's varsity teams, including archery, basketball, cross country, fencing, field hockey, golf, lacrosse, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, tennis, indoor and outdoor track and field, volleyball and rowing. The Athletic Consortium is just one of three in the nation and the only one on a Division I level. Students at Barnard College along with women enrolled at the undergraduate divisions of Columbia University have the opportunity to compete on all university-wide teams. Scheduled competition includes the Ivy League, the metropolitan area, the Eastern region, and national tournaments. Individuals and teams have the opportunity to advance to regional and national competition within the ECAC and NCAA.

For students interested in less competitive programs, the Physical Education Department offers an extensive program of intramurals and recreation. The program features badminton, basketball, floor hockey, indoor soccer, volleyball, open gym time, recreational swimming, sports clubs, open weight room hours, and special events.

Barnard facilities include a swimming pool, the LeFrak Gymnasium, locker rooms, running track, fencing, dance and wellness studios, and a weight room in Barnard Hall, as well as access to tennis courts just one block away in Riverside Park. Barnard students have access to all recreational and athletic facilities of the University as well. The Dodge Fitness Center at Columbia includes the Levien Gymnasium, with a seating capacity of 3,499; the eight-lane Uris Swimming Center; 17 squash and handball courts; a well-equipped training room; and locker rooms and sauna. Women's intercollegiate and club teams also use outdoor facilities at Baker Field, a 26-acre complex at the northern tip of Manhattan that includes 20,000-seat Wien Stadium with a new synthetic surface, an eight-lane, all-weather NCAA-regulation running track, and practice fields. There are seven composition tennis courts with a tennis clubhouse, a soccer stadium, a softball field, facilities for rowing, and a spacious field house.

Honor Code

The Honor Code, instituted at Barnard in 1912, governs all aspects of academic life and is enforced by an Honor Board that has a membership of students and faculty members, advised by the Dean of Studies Office. The Judicial Council of undergraduates, faculty, and administrators recommends disciplinary action for non-academic offenses and acts on appeals of academic disciplinary sanctions determined by the Honor Board. A more complete explanation of the system may be found in the Student Handbook.

Each student who registers at Barnard agrees to maintain the Honor Code, which states:
We, the students of Barnard College, resolve to uphold the honor of the College by refraining from every form of dishonesty in our academic life. We consider it dishonest to ask for, give, or receive help in examinations or quizzes, or to use any papers or books not authorized by the instructor, or to present oral or written work that is not entirely our own, except in such a way as may be approved by the instructor. We consider it dishonest to remove without authorization, alter, or deface library and other academic materials. We pledge to do all that is in our power to create a spirit of honesty and honor for its own sake.

Library regulations and independent study courses are also governed by the code. Policies and regulations concerning student conduct are recommended by student, faculty, and administrative committees to the appropriate administrators, the President, and the Board of Trustees. Hearing and appeal procedures are also outlined in the Student Handbook.

Enrollment in the College, award of academic credit, and conferral of the degree are subject to disciplinary powers vested by the Barnard Board of Trustees in appropriate officers of instruction, administration, and in College committees.
STUDENT LIFE & SERVICES

Residential Life

Barnard maintains a diversified residence program. Residence options include traditional residence halls, a variety of suite arrangements, and apartments in College-owned residential buildings on or adjacent to the campus. In a cooperative exchange with Columbia College and the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences, a limited number of Barnard and Columbia juniors and seniors participate in a housing exchange program. In addition, some students live in independent housing they secure in the campus vicinity. The College offers all incoming first-year students the opportunity to elect to live in campus housing. On average, the residential rate among first-year students is 98%, while the average residency rate among upper-class students is 90%.

Facilities

All Barnard College owned or operated residence halls are completely smoke-free. Under the leadership of the Associate Dean for Campus and Residential Life, the College provides substantial supervision of student life. This includes associate directors, graduate staff and undergraduate student assistants, 24-hour desk attendant coverage, and regular security guard patrols.

Brooks, Hewitt, Reid, and Sulzberger Halls, or the “Quad,” at the south end of the campus, are operated as a single complex with space for about 920 students. This residential complex provides community amenities, including computer rooms. The first eight floors of Sulzberger Hall, Reid, and Brooks house first-year students, who are assigned to double, triple, and quad rooms. There are also wheelchair-accessible rooms located in the Quad. The “Tower,” floors nine through 16 of Sulzberger Hall, houses seniors in suites with lounges and kitchenettes.

“616” West 116th Street, an apartment-style residence directly across the street from the Quad, provides housing for 200 students in suites of single and double rooms. Each suite has a kitchen and bath.

“600” and “620” West 116th Street are College-owned buildings comprising a majority of student apartments of one to five single or double rooms with kitchen and bath and some apartments for community residents.

Elliott Hall, adjacent to the west side of campus, houses 96 students. Rooms are on common corridors in suites with shared baths, kitchenettes, and lounges. Elliott Hall houses more than 50% of the new incoming transfer students.

Pлимpton Hall, a suite-style residence hall on Amsterdam Avenue and West 121st Street, a short walk from the main campus, but adjacent to Columbia and Teachers College, provides housing for 280 students in suites of five single rooms. Each suite has a kitchen and bath.

601 West 110th Street has housing for approximately 165 Barnard students (mostly sophomores and juniors) who live in suites and seniors who live in studios. This option provides independent living with an active residential life program.

The newest member of our residential family is Cathedral Gardens. This building is located at 110th St. and Manhattan Ave. This community is the perfect location for mature students who are looking for a tranquil retreat from hectic campus life. It is also well-suited for groups of students with shared interests in community engagement and off-campus work experience and internships. Building residents will find lovely views overlooking Morningside Park or the Morningside Heights neighborhood. CG offers a community lounge, laundry facilities and a 24-hour security desk. Within each apartment, students will enjoy beautiful hard wood floors, new furniture and fixtures, as well as a dishwasher and full refrigerator in every kitchen. The spaces range from four to six-person apartments containing mostly single rooms and some doubles.

Eligibility

Eligibility criteria have been established in order to assign available space on an equitable basis. These regulations may be changed as needed at the discretion of the College, but insofar as possible, the following criteria will determine eligibility:

- A student must be registered for a full academic program. Exceptions may be made upon review of appeals submitted to the Dean of Studies Office and the Associate Dean for Campus and Residential Life.

Assignments

Returning upper-class resident students select their rooms on the basis of a lottery number system and room selection process. Incoming first-year students, readmitted upper-class students, and transfer students are assigned... rooms by the Office of Residential Life and Housing.

Requirements
The rules and regulations regarding payments and refunds, and the use and occupancy of rooms are in the “Terms and Conditions of Student Residence in Barnard College Housing,” which is given to students selecting College housing and which must be agreed to before they may accept an assignment. This document may be reviewed via the Residential Life & Housing webpage.

Board
All Barnard students are required to participate in a meal plan. First-year students residing in Barnard housing will be enrolled in the College's Unlimited Meal Plan at an annual cost of $5,200 ($2,600 per semester). Upperclass students who reside in the Barnard Quad (Floors 2-8 of Sulzberger, Reid, Brooks, and Hewitt Halls) will be enrolled in the Quad Upperclass Meal Plan at an annual cost of $3600 ($1,800 per semester). Upperclass students who reside elsewhere in campus housing (including rooms on the Columbia campus through the Barnard/Columbia Housing Exchange) will be enrolled in the Convenience Meal Plan at an annual cost of $600 ($300 per semester). Students may upgrade their required meal plan to one offering more than the minimum requirements for their housing location.

Married Students
A married student, as a rule, will not be allowed to remain in College housing with her significant other. They will be subject to financial obligations which pertain to any student who withdraws from the residence halls or from the College during the term.

Financial Aid for Room and Board
All students who live on campus will have their financial aid based on the resident student budget. A student who receives aid from the College based upon the resident budget must live in College housing billed by Barnard. It is the student’s responsibility to notify the Office of Financial Aid when she decides not to reside on campus. Students who decide to live off-campus or commute from home will have their financial aid based on the commuter student budget. No resident student ever receives more financial aid for room and board than the average amount required to cover the costs of living and eating in College residences. This average is based on the cost of a multiple room and the maximum standard meal plan with unlimited meals per term. A student who chooses to reside in a single room must cover the difference between the cost of a single and double room from her own resources.

Resident Assistants
As part of the student support network, students in each residence hall are designated as Resident Assistants to be a campus resource for resident students, to provide referrals to other services, and to aid in residential programming.
STUDENT LIFE & SERVICES

Information Services

Barnard Library & Academic Information Services

The Barnard Library and Academic Information Services unit supports excellence and innovation in teaching and learning by providing access to extensive information resources and exceptional research and instructional services. The unit includes the Barnard Library, Media Services, the Barnard Archives, and Educational Technology. Each is located in the Adele Lehman Hall.

The Barnard Library provides access to a core collection of academic books and journals designed to support the College's liberal arts curriculum. It maintains research-level collections in women's studies and dance and includes an expanding collection of self-published "zines". The library also offers a range of services including reference, individual and group research consultations, course-related instruction, hands-on workshops, and course reserves.

In addition, the Barnard Library provides a bridge to the collections of the Columbia University Libraries, with more than 10 million volumes, over 100,000 current journals and serials, and an extensive collection of electronic resources, manuscripts, rare books, microforms, and other nonprint formats. Students also have access to the many libraries and collections throughout the New York metropolitan area, either through public access or special referral.

The Barnard Archives maintain a collection of official college and student publications, letters, photographs and other materials that document Barnard's rich history from its founding in 1889 to the present. The Archives also serve as a repository for the Overbury Collection, 3,300 books and manuscripts by and about American women authors, and a substantial portion of the records of American Woman's Association, consisting of administrative and committee documents, correspondence, programs, brochures, and several hundred photographs, all created between 1911 and 1974.

The Media Services department maintains a growing collection of audio and video material, as well as state-of-the-art equipment and software to support multimedia editing and project creation. Educational Technology staff assist faculty in effectively using technology to enhance their teaching and teaching-related activities.

Barnard College Information Technology (BCIT)

Barnard College Information Technology (BCIT) is responsible for managing and supporting all aspects of College-wide computer network and software system platforms. These systems include email, the World Wide Web, other Internet services, database applications, administrative systems, and network infrastructure. BCIT runs a Faculty/Staff help desk, maintains and ensures the constant availability of Internet access, wireless and network connectivity and computing services for Barnard College students, faculty, and staff and works in partnership with other college departments to support and implement administrative applications such as course registration and other online student services as well as online systems for faculty, accounting and finance, and human resources.

Barnard College Information Technology (BCIT) — Student Computing Services

BCIT provides computing resources and support to all Barnard students through the Residential Computing program (Resnet). Resnet assists students with a wide range of technological issues, including software installation, computer security, and network configuration; supports five computer labs that are accessible to all students; and helps to disseminate information about technology through special events and workshops. Resnet is located in the main computer lab in the Diana Center, Room 307. Full-time staff and student technicians that are trained to troubleshoot computer and printer problems, referred to as Academic Computing Experts (ACEs), are available in this lab to help with questions, problems, and general computing support. For computing assistance, students may contact Resnet by phone, email, or in person. Four smaller labs are open 24 hours a day, 7 days a week during the academic year, and are located in the Sulzberger, Plimpton, and 616 W. 116th Street residence halls.

Barnard Center for Research on Women

The Barnard Center for Research on Women promotes a dialogue between feminist scholarship and activism, and serves a community composed of faculty, students, staff, alumnae, community activists, artists, and scholars.
Founded in 1971 to deepen Barnard’s longtime commitment to women’s equality, the Center has, in recent years, dedicated itself to examining how today’s women’s movements speak to and further those of the past, as well as the ways in which feminist struggles are inextricably linked to other movements for racial, economic, and social justice around the globe.

The Center accomplishes these goals by offering public lectures and conferences on a wide range of feminist issues and by publishing its tri-annual web journal, “The Scholar and Feminist Online.” These efforts fortify the Center’s role of fostering inquiry and advancing knowledge about women and keeping feminist issues at the forefront of college life. They also link Barnard to a diverse range of activist organizations and community groups throughout the city, a listing of which is available in the online BCRW Directory of Women's and Social Justice Organizations.

Nowhere is this network more visible than in the Center’s lively, provocative and engaging programming. Hosting nearly a dozen ongoing series, the Center provides a public forum for intelligent and relevant discussions of women in Judaism, the future of feminism, the politics of women’s imprisonment, and feminist responses to today’s most controversial issues. Bringing together renowned scholars, artists, and community organizers, the nationally recognized annual "The Scholar and the Feminist" conference, now in its 33rd year, has, in recent years, explored the changing face of activism across generations, international feminist movements, and feminist responses to race and poverty.

Located in Room 101 Barnard Hall, the Center’s reading room and Resource Collection, which includes over 120 feminist periodicals, are open to members of the Barnard community and the general public. The Center also houses hundreds of rare, difficult-to-find feminist materials dating back to the early Second Wave of American Women's Movements. This public archive of fliers, reports, newsletters, pamphlets, and conference programs provides an exciting glimpse into one of the most vibrant moments in the history of activism. In From the Collection, each semester student research assistants curate an online exhibition of the most interesting documents, organizing them around a theme of enduring importance.
Other Student Services

Career Development

Career Development helps students and alumnae explore, define, and implement career plans. To provide this service the Office has developed programs enabling Barnard women to gain work experience and to be informed about different career opportunities. Both students and alumnae are seen for individual career counseling, and panels and group workshops are given on careers and related concerns. A newsletter informs students about career programs, workshops, internships, entrepreneurship, community service, and special opportunities. A fall semester and spring semester career fairs provided students with the occasion to meet employers offering both internships and full time employment opportunities. The office collaborates with faculty on the Athena Center for Leadership Studies and the NYC Civic Engagement Program. Programs to develop financial fluency and professional skills are offered throughout the academic year and during the Winter Break.

Career Development provides peer-to-peer counseling to assist students with their career development. Peer Career Advisors are trained to assist fellow students with career exploration, resume and cover letter writing, interviewing, and job search strategies. Meanwhile, PCAs collaborate with Resident Assistants and student clubs to offer workshops to students.

The Career Development website has interactive capability, describes all programs, provides fact sheets, lists internships and jobs, and enables students to register their career interests and sign up for workshops online.

The Career Development Internship Program provides semester and summer offerings useful for students to clarify their vocational interests through valuable and often professional-level experience. Cultivating an entrepreneurial mindset is supported through the Trust Entrepreneurial Internship Program which provides internship funding, workshops on building entrepreneurial skills, and a business plan competition.

To aid students and alumnae in exploring career areas, the office has access to the On-Line Alumnae Community database that lists graduates who are available to discuss their fields, as well as a library of vocational and graduate school materials. Workshops on specific concerns, such as resume writing and interviewing skills, are conducted when the College is in session. Students and alumnae may establish permanent recommendation files in the office for future employment.

Career Development, which is open twelve months a year, has contacts with many potential employers. Students use part-time and temporary job listings for both on- and off-campus jobs, and the Federal Work Study Program is also administered by this office. Full-time jobs may be viewed on the Internet; access for off-campus viewing is by password obtained through the office. Students are interviewed on campus by corporate and large non-profit organizations offering entry-level professional opportunities and internships. Annual career fairs are held each spring to connect students with many employers and internship sponsors in that sector. Business suits for interviews and professional meetings can be borrowed from the Office's Suitable suits program.

The office advises three student-run enterprises—the Barnard Babysitting Agency, the Barnard Bartending and Party Help Agency, and the Barnard Store. These agencies provide excellent managerial experience and create jobs for many students.

Students may establish recommendation files for employment in the Career Development and for graduate and professional study with the recommendations assistants in the Dean of Studies Office. For Procedures and policy, the appropriate office should be consulted.

Disability Services

In 1978, Barnard established a program to provide services for students with disabilities which enhance their educational, pre-professional, and personal development. The Disability Services (ODS) serves students with mobility, visual, and hearing impairments, as well as students with invisible disabilities, such as learning disabilities and ADD/ADHD, chronic medical conditions, psychiatric disabilities, and substance abuse/recovery. ODS works with other administrators and members of the faculty to assist students with disabilities in participating in college activities, securing financial aid, scheduling classes and examinations, and planning careers. Mobility aides, readers, notetakers, and other volunteer/paid aides are available through the ODS Accommodative Aide Program. Publications include the ODS manual, “Forms/Policies/Tip sheets” (updated annually), and several services brochures: “What ODS Can Do For You,” “Assisting Students with Temporary Disabilities,” “A Parent Guide to ODS,” “A Brief Overview of Adaptive Technology” and “What We’ve Learned: Thoughts on Disability from Graduating Seniors to Entering Students”. The 504/ADA Access Committee works to reduce architectural, programmatic, and attitudinal barriers at the College; the Barnard Alumnae Involved with Disabilities Network (BAID) provides students with access to disabled alumnae in a broad range of careers and serves as an information clearinghouse on disability-related support in graduate and professional schools.

The buildings on the contiguous campus interconnect and are wheelchair accessible. Maps of the campus showing special features and access routes are available at ODS, as are access maps for both Columbia University and Teachers College. ODS maintains a comprehensive webpage, which includes a monthly newsletter, notices of programs and events, and a special link to university access updates.

Primary Care Health Service (PCHS)

The PCHS, nationally accredited by the Accreditation Association for Ambulatory Health Care, provides primary care and specialist referrals for all registered Barnard students. It offers a wide range of general services, with a particular emphasis on the developmental needs of college-aged women. Entering students must submit a health history and proof of immunization as required by New York State Health Laws.

STAFF: The clinical staff consists of full-time and part-time physicians, nurse practitioners, nurses, a nutritionist and a health educator. The PCHS collaborates with major New York medical teaching centers to provide advanced clinical training in college health to Adolescent Medicine Fellows.

AFTER-HOURS CARE: At all times when the college is in session and during winter and spring break there is a Clinician-on-Call nights and weekends for after-hours urgent medical advice. The PCHS closes during winter, spring, and summer breaks. During these breaks, Barnard students may use the Health Services at Columbia, for urgent care only, for a $60 per-visit reimbursable fee.

FEES: There is no per-visit charge at the PCHS and the number of visits is unlimited. Medications are available for discounted fees from our on-site dispensary.

HEALTH INSURANCE: This is activated only when students are referred to off-campus specialists. All registered Barnard students are automatically covered by the mandatory Basic Accident and Sickness Plan benefits of the Barnard College student insurance plan (any existing family insurance plans are used as primary insurance, with coordination of benefits from the student insurance.) In addition, optional supplemental insurance is available at a low cost and is strongly encouraged for those students not also covered by primary family insurance benefits or who belong to an HMO outside New York City. Details of the student insurance plan are mailed to all students annually.

For additional information about services provided and the Student Insurance Plan, students are encouraged to visit the Health Service website.

Counseling Services

The Rosemary Furman Counseling Center provides free short-term individual counseling, group counseling, medication evaluations, referral services, and crisis intervention services for all registered Barnard students. Psychologists, psychiatrists, and social workers, along with advanced trainees in these fields, staff the center. Counselors meet with students to address personal concerns that may be large or small, and adhere to a strict confidentiality policy. Counseling staff are on call for evening and weekend emergencies when the College is in session, and also during winter and spring break. Finally, the Counseling staff provides consultation and outreach services to the Barnard community, including programs, workshops, and other events.

Alcohol and Substance Awareness Program

The Alcohol and Substance Awareness Program (ASAP) works with the Barnard community to provide drug and alcohol education, prevention, and intervention on campus. Its purpose is to promote the healthy development of students and to encourage students to explore their options and ultimately make choices that are positive for them as individuals.
ASAP offers individual and group counseling. ASAP also offers outreach and educational programs on related topics, including: consequences of alcohol use, Barnard norms, women and alcohol, alcohol and relationships, alcohol and stress, abstinence, drug use, safe spring break and media literacy. All ASAP services are confidential and free of charge.

Well-Woman

Well-Woman promotes the health and wellness of Barnard students through peer education, educational programming, individual health behavior consultation, campus-wide health campaigns, community outreach and advocacy. We are a resource for students to learn about their physical, sexual, mental, and spiritual health, and we work to support women's individual self-care and the health of the community. We also educate students about how to find and use health resources at Barnard and in the community.

Well-Woman peer educators are student volunteers who are trained to present workshops and campus events on sexual health, nutrition, fitness, body image, sexually transmitted infections, contraception, stress management, healthy relationships and communication (and more), in residence halls, to clubs and organizations, and to teens in the surrounding community. Peer educators present education sessions to students having their first-ever GYN exam, and are available to answer student questions during evening office hours.

The Barnard Columbia Rape Crisis / Anti-Violence Support Center (RC/AVSC)

The Barnard Columbia Rape Crisis / Anti-Violence Support Center (RC/AVSC) is a joint program of Barnard College and Columbia University's Sexual Violence Prevention and Response Program (SVPRP), a department of CU Health Services. The RC/AVSC is staffed by a licensed psychologist, graduate and undergraduate volunteers, a professional Program Coordinator, and professional advisors from Columbia University and Barnard College.

Programs offered by the RC/AVSC include: peer-counseling and advocacy for survivors and co-survivors, referrals for a variety of on or off-campus services, and workshops which aim to educate students, administrators, and faculty about the dynamics and effects of sexual and relationship violence.

College Activities

The College Activities Office engages each student in advising, programming, and community development using a student-centered approach. The office creates programs, guides students in their own program development, and promotes active and involved citizenship through inter-cultural education and identity and leadership development. College Activities has a ticket booth which offers discounted tickets to Broadway shows, sporting events, movies, and more. There are a plethora of activities that anyone within the community can participate in throughout the year.

Diversity Initiatives

The mission of the Office of Diversity Initiatives is to promote and support a campus community that embraces its pluralistic identity. We seek to enhance the social and academic experiences of Barnard students by encouraging and empowering them to explore complex issues of social diversity. Through purposeful programming and discourse, we aim to educate and prepare students for success in an increasingly inter-connected global society.

We carry out this mission through: cross-cultural campus programming and Cultural Heritage Month celebrations; advisement and support for culturally themed student clubs and organizations; support and advocacy for historically marginalized and under-represented groups; leadership development opportunities; and serving as a resource for the greater Barnard community at large.

Commuter Services

The College Activities Office supports the cultural, educational, and social programs designed to enrich commuter life. The Skip Stop Commuter Student Organization sponsors events and services for all commuter students. The commuter lounge is located on the first floor of the Diana Center. Additionally, the Office of Residential Life provides information on off-campus living.
Student Records and Information

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (the Buckley Amendment/FERPA) stipulates that students may have access to their official files and that no transcripts may be issued without their written request. A further explanation may be found in the College Calendar and Student Handbook.

Also in accordance with the Buckley Amendment, Barnard has the right to make public, at its discretion and without prior authorization from the student, the following information: name, class; home or college address and telephone number; e-mail address; major field; date and place of birth; dates of attendance at Barnard; participation in officially recognized activities and sports; weight and height of members of athletic teams; degrees; honors and awards received; and previous school most recently attended. The law also gives students the right to place limitations on the release of this information. A student who wishes to do so must file a special form with the Registrar, 107 Milbank, each year by September 15. In practice, the College does not indiscriminately release information about individual students.

Public Safety

The Barnard Public Safety Department is located just opposite the Main Gate at 117th Street and Broadway, in Barnard Hall, Room 104. It is open 24 hours a day, seven days a week, including holidays. Security guards are College employees who are unarmed and do not have law enforcement status. They are, however, licensed by the State of New York as proprietary officers of the College authorized to maintain order on campus grounds.

The safety and well being of students, faculty, staff, and guests have always been of paramount importance at Barnard. Located on Morningside Heights in Manhattan, we are a community within our neighboring communities: Columbia University and New York City. Separate from them in some ways, but very much a part of them, we have many mutual interests, including that of crime prevention. For more information please visit the Barnard Public Safety website.

Crime Statistics

In compliance with New York State Education Law Article 129-A, crime statistics for the Barnard College campus for the last three calendar years are filed annually with the United States Department of Education and are available for review on their website and on the Barnard College website. In addition, the Advisory Committee on Campus Security will provide, upon request, all campus crime statistics as reported to the United States Department of Education. Requests can be made by contacting the Director of Public Safety at 854-3362.
