

Department of Physics

Wing Ki Rosalia Wong

Mentor: Timothy Halpin-Healy

Collective Dynamics in Bounded Consensus Models

Under bounded consensus model, agents acquire the average of their initial opinions if they are sufficiently close to each other; otherwise, they do not interact. Whether such interaction leads to consensus, polarization or fragmentation depends on the initial opinion range. Numerical integration and computer simulations are used to explore the problem.