Happy holiday season, Barnard faculty!

We know from an analysis of click-throughs and webpage use that the season of Winter Solstice is a favorite time for many of you to use the newsletter and other resources on the Sponsored Research webpages. This newsletter profiles opportunities coming due in early March, but those of you looking for opportunities in January and February might want to review newsletters from October, November, and December. Alternatively, you can download the whole year’s Grants Calendar from the website and sort by due date, discipline, funder, or grant type.

Our featured funder this cycle is the Russell Sage Foundation. Sage Advice provides “Tips for Presenting Scientific Images with Integrity” in grant proposals. There’s a wealth of (mostly NIH) News this month on page 4.

You can find reminders for deadlines over the next six months on page thirteen, grouped by discipline.

Upcoming internal grant deadlines are January 31st and March 8th. See the Barnard website, here, for more information. If you have colleagues abroad whom you might like to bring to Barnard under the Weiss Fellowships for Visiting International Scholars Program, please see information here.

For assistance in finding grants for an upcoming project or to begin an application process, please contact Kari Steeves or any one of us in Institutional Funding and Sponsored Research. As always, feel free to send us comments, requests, or suggestions here.

Russel Sage Foundation

According to its website, the Russell Sage Foundation is “one of the oldest American foundations.” The foundation focuses its funding efforts on “strengthening the methods, data, and theoretical core of the social sciences as a means of diagnosing social problems and improving social policies.” The following opportunities may be of interest to Barnard faculty.

Behavioral Economics Program
This program “supports research that uses insights and methods from psychology, economics, sociology, political science and other social sciences to examine and improve social and living conditions in the United States.” The program offers project grants as well as small grants. Deadline: For project grants, May 23, 2019 and August 19, 2019. For small grants, applications are accepted on a rolling basis. <<more>>

Future of Work Program
This program “examines the causes and consequences of the deteriorating quality of low-wage jobs in the United States. Projects sponsored by the program have examined a wide range of causal factors, from foreign outsourcing and immigration to the decline of unions and technological change, that may have depressed wages of low-education workers.” Deadline: August 19, 2019 <<more>>

Race, Ethnicity, and Immigration Program
This program “encourages multi-disciplinary perspectives on questions stemming from the significant changes in the racial, ethnic, and immigrant-origin composition of the U.S. population. A primary goal is to find ways in which researchers from different social science traditions studying issues of race, ethnicity, and immigration may complement one another in productive and innovative ways.” Deadline: August 19, 2019 <<more>>

Social Inequality Program
This program “has investigated a variety of areas of social life, from education and health care to intergenerational mobility, to determine whether the increasing financial gap between the rich and poor has also exacerbated social inequalities of the kind that amplify and entrench economic differences. Recently, the program has turned to in-depth examinations of two key institutions the United States relies on to counteract market-driven inequality: public education and the democratic electoral system.” Deadline: May 23, 2019 <<more>>

Special Initiative in Integrative Biology and Social Science Knowledge
This initiative “fosters rigorous collaborative research between social and biological scientists, and supports research that takes advantage of new theories, concepts, and data from the biological sciences— including neuroscience, endocrinology, immunology and physiology, population genetics and epigenetics.” Deadline: May 23, 2019 <<more>>

Special Initiative in Computational Social Science
“Advances in analytical methods for exploiting and analyzing data have accompanied the rise of these data. The Russell Sage Foundation’s special initiative on Computational Social Science (CSS) supports innovative social science research that brings these new data and methods to bear on questions of interest in its core programs.” Deadline: August 19, 2019 <<more>>

The Foundation also has a Visiting Scholar Program for research in the social sciences. Applications will be accepted January 14—June 27, 2019.
Sage Advice for Competitive Research Integrity

Continuing our series of infographics released by the U.S. Health and Human Services Office of Research Integrity, we focus on two that address the use of images in proposals, “Tips for Presenting Scientific Images with Integrity” and “It’s a Slippery Slope...” which situates image manipulation in a continuum of misconduct mistakes. You can find other examples of research integrity eye candy here.

FROM THE NIH

Changes to the R15 Academic Research Enhancement Award (AREA)
“As announced in this guide notice, as of January 2019, NIH is shifting its approach to how we use the R15 activity code. While NIH will continue to provide R15 research enhancement opportunities for health professional and graduate schools, the name, AREA, will be reserved for grants to undergraduate-focused institutions that do not receive substantial funding from NIH. Today’s undergraduates represent the future of biomedical research and, as such, it is imperative that we support access to research opportunities for students at undergraduate schools across the country.

“The AREA program will have its own set of FOAs, distinct from those issued for health professional schools and graduate schools of arts and sciences. This approach will allow us to better track the undergraduates we support at under resourced institutions. Institutions applying for AREA grants must have an undergraduate student enrollment that is greater than graduate student enrollment and, in order to qualify for the AREA program, all the non-health professional components of the institution together cannot have received support from the NIH totaling more than $6 million per year in total costs in 4 of the last 7 years.

“... Existing R15 FOAs referencing the ineligibility list will be expired, including the parent AREA FOA. The AREA Parent Announcement, PA-18-504, will expire after the January 7, 2019, AIDS due date and will not be reissued. Instead, the following announcements will be available in December: The Academic Research Enhancement Award for Undergraduate-Focused Institutions (R15 – Clinical Trial Not Allowed) PAR-18-714 already requires a signed letter verifying eligibility, and thus will continue on without needing to be reissued.

✦ An AREA announcement allowing clinical trials
✦ An announcement for health professional and graduate schools of arts and sciences (Clinical Trial Not Allowed)
✦ An announcement for health professional and graduate schools of arts and sciences (Clinical Trial Required)

“Be sure to look closely at the list of participating institutes and centers on each announcement. Not all Institutes and Centers participate on the R15 FOAs. We encourage you to consult with the scientific contacts listed in section VII of the FOA to ensure that the funding opportunity you plan to apply to is suitable for your science.”

Comments Welcomed on the Draft Report Recommending How to Reduce Administrative Burden in Research with Laboratory Animals: A Next Step in Implementing the 21st Century Cures Act

New Funding Opportunities for Basic Experimental Studies Involving Humans
“We have heard the community input regarding the breadth of the NIH clinical trials definition and the concerns about the applicability of some clinical trials policies to fundamental, basic science studies. In response to these concerns, the NIH has developed new funding opportunities specifically for basic experimental studies involving humans scheduled for release this week (see the NIH Parent Announcements page). These funding opportunities, designated as “Basic Experimental Studies with Humans Required” are for studies that meet the definition of basic research and also are subject to clinical trials policies based on the NIH definition of a clinical
Grant Opportunities

“Over the next several weeks, we will be rolling out a variety of resources to help inform applicants about these new funding opportunities including tools for choosing the correct FOA. FAQs and a table comparing Funding Opportunity Types by Clinical Trial Allowability are already available.”

Can My Application be Considered a Resubmission Even if I am Not Re-Submitting to the Same FOA?

“It depends on whether the FOAs are Program Announcements (PA, PAR, PAS or Parent) or Requests for Applications (RFA). “… If you originally submitted to an RFA and want to resubmit to a Program Announcement, this will be considered a new application. Similarly, if your original application was submitted to a Program Announcement and you want to now submit to an RFA, it would also be considered a new application.”

Resources for Rigorous Research

“…[F]or applications due on January 25, 2019 and beyond, the term “rigor of the prior research” will replace “scientific premise” under the Significance section for most research grant and career development award applications (see NOT-OD-18-228 and NOT-OD-18-229). Applicants will be asked, on and after that submission date, to also describe plans to address weaknesses in the rigor of the prior research in the Approach section.

To accommodate these new changes, the webpage exists as a landing page with four distinct sub-pages, so you can quickly get to the information you need. These sub-pages break out relevant guidance, resources for preparing your application and training materials, as well as a timeline of our communications on rigor through Guide Notices, blogs, FAQs, and references.

New information abounds. Are you looking for research methods resources or ways to calculate sample sizes for your study? Knowing what exactly goes into a good authentication plan? Assistance with your pre-clinical animal model experimental design? Guidance on incorporating both sexes into your research plan? Perhaps other related policy requirements? Oh, and a training video or two? Find these and more on the easily browsable sub-pages. We also recorded a conversation for the NIH All About Grants podcast series to help the extramural research community better understand the NIH’s Rigor and Transparency policy (click to play at the bottom of this page). Dr. Patricia Valdez, NIH’s Extramural Research Integrity Officer, describes how to address the key policy elements in an application, how they are considered during peer review, and annual progress reporting following award.”

FY 2019 Policy Updates

“Next Generation Researchers Initiative Policy: NIH will prioritize meritorious R01-equivalent applications from ESI PD/PIs. By providing funding priority for ESIs, NIH intends to encourage funding applications that involve researchers earlier in their career … described at https://grants.nih.gov/grants/guide/notice-files/NOT-OD-17-101.html.

Salary Limits: ...prohibits payments for salaries under grants and other extramural mechanisms in excess of Executive Level II currently set at $189,600.”

Mid-Atlantic Arts Foundation ArtsCONNECT
Deadline: March 8, 2019
"ArtsCONNECT provides funding for mid-Atlantic-based presenters (New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland) working collaboratively to engage a performing artist or ensemble. The program aims to develop and deepen relationships among the region’s presenters, helping build a more sustainable touring environment for artists and ensembles. The supported tours include performances as well as community engagement activities that enhance the performance experience, and offer meaningful exchanges between touring artists and a presenter’s community. The program provides support for projects in which at least three performing arts presenters from two different states work collaboratively to present a touring solo artist or ensemble. The tours include performances as well as activities such as artist discussions, lecture demonstrations, master classes, and workshops designed to build greater appreciation for the work of the touring artist or ensemble. The program also is designed to develop and deepen relationships among the regions presenters in order to build a more sustainable touring environment for professional performing artists."

National Endowment for the Arts

Institutes for Advanced Topics in Digital Humanities

Deadline: March 12, 2019

"The Institutes for Advanced Topics in the Digital Humanities program supports national or regional (multistate) training programs for scholars, humanities professionals, and advanced graduate students to broaden and extend their knowledge of digital humanities. Through this program NEH seeks to increase the number of humanities scholars and practitioners using digital technology in their research and to broadly disseminate knowledge about advanced technology tools and methodologies relevant to the humanities. The projects may be a single opportunity or offered multiple times to different audiences. Institutes may be as short as a few days and held at multiple locations or as long as six weeks at a single site. For example, training opportunities could be offered before or after regularly occurring scholarly meetings, during the summer months, or during appropriate times of the academic year. The duration of a program should allow for full and thorough treatment of the topic. These professional development programs may focus on a particular computational method, such as network or spatial analysis. They may also target the needs of a particular humanities discipline or audience."

The American Folklife Center

Archie Green Fellowships

Deadline: March 12, 2019

"The American Folklife Center will invite applications and award several fellowships, up to $35,000 each, for the period July 1, 2019 – June 30, 2020, which will support new, original, independent field research into the culture and traditions of contemporary American workers and/or occupational groups found within the United States. These projects must include interviews with workers. Applicants must submit proposals via email. The original documentary materials generated during the course of each fellowship will become part of the American Folklife Center’s archive. The American Folklife Center was established by Congress to support research and scholarship in American folklife and to preserve, support, revitalize, and disseminate American folk traditions. Materials in the Center’s archive are available to researchers and the general public. Some may be posted to the Library of Congress website."

International Literacy Association

Dine Feitelson Research Award

Deadline: March 15, 2019

"This is an award established to honor the memory of Dina Feitelson for a current literature published worldwide, focusing on reading and related disciplines to recognize an outstanding empirical study, published in English in a refereed journal. Journals include reports on an investigation of aspects of literacy acquisition such as phonemic awareness, the alphabetic principle, bilingualism, home influences on literacy development, or cross-cultural studies of beginning reading. The results of the study should have clear implications for instruction."

International Literacy Association

Constance McCullough International Research Grant

Deadline: March 15, 2019

"The Constance McCullough International Research Grant is awarded annually to assist a member of the International Literacy Association in the investigation of reading-related problems and to encourage international professional development activities that are carried out in countries outside of the U.S. or Canada. This grant represents a specific means for working toward as many as three articulated ILA goals: advocacy, professional development, and emerging global issues."

STEM
(Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics)

National Science Foundation
Research on Biological Systems at Regional to Continental Scales
Deadline: February 25, 2019
"Research on Biological Systems at Regional to Continental Scales program will support quantitative, interdisciplinary, systems-oriented research on biosphere processes and their complex interactions with climate, land use, and invasive species at regional to continental scales as well as training activities to enable groups to conduct Macrosystems Biology and NEON-Enabled Science research. Proposers are encouraged to use NEON resources, and proposals for substantive and innovative NEON-enabled research will be prioritized for funding. Substantive NEON-enabled projects rely on data and/or samples collected by NEON, co-locate research activities at NEON sites, and/or develop tools that will explicitly enhance the processing, use, and/or analysis of NEON data or collections within the context of Macrosystems Biology research questions." <<more>>

National Science Foundation
Future of Work at the Human-Technology Frontier: Core Research
Deadline: March 6, 2019
"A proposal for a research grant in this program must focus on advancing fundamental understanding of future work, and potential improvements to work, workplaces, workforce preparation, or work outcomes for workers and society. It must be convergent research that addresses the technological as well as the human and societal dimensions and potential impact of future work, and in doing so, make significant contributions to both intellectual merit and broader impact. Achieving this goal requires integration and convergence of disciplines across computer science, engineering, learning sciences, research on education and workforce training, and social, behavioral, and economic sciences. A convergent perspective is essential to understand and shape long-term social and economic drivers, so that advanced intelligent technology will strengthen the social fabric. A convergent perspective also provides insights into education and re-skilling, so that the benefits of emerging technology can be conferred upon all citizens.” <<more>>

American Psychological Foundation Brain Research Foundation
Esther Katz Rosen Fund
Deadline: March 1, 2019
"The Esther Katz Rosen Fund was established in 1974 by a generous bequest intended to support activities related to the advancement and application of knowledge about gifted children. Rosen Fund grants:
Enable and enhance development of identified gifted and talented children and adolescents. Encourage promising psychologists to continue innovative research and programs in this area.
