Grant Opportunities & News You Can Use

Hello Faculty,

In this newsletter, we’d like to celebrate the end of a particularly productive few weeks of grant submissions; Barnard faculty submitted seven applications in January and early February, totaling almost $6.1M. Congratulations to everyone involved. Applying for grants could be a full-time job—we should know!

Also in this newsletter, we feature not-exactly-internal funding from Columbia University by looking at grants available across Broadway. There are lots, so get out the magnifying glass. Closer to home, the Presidential Research Awards, due March 2, offer $200,000 to be divided into six to twelve faculty research grants. Our Sage Advice is don’t forget about internal grants!

Finally for information about recent sponsored research awards, visit the News and Events webpage.

Along with the Presidential Research Awards, Gildersleeve Proposals are due March 2. The last deadline for this school year is March 27th, when applications are due for Barnard Faculty Research Grants and Fund for Innovation in Teaching Grants. For more information, visit the Internal Grants & Support page.

If you would like assistance in finding grants for your upcoming research, please contact Kari Steeves. As always, feel free to send any comments or suggestions to us here.

Dear Faculty,
This year the Presidential Research Award will be doubled to $200,000 total. This yearly research funding is intended to be divided among six to twelve faculty research projects. Proposed Presidential Research Award projects should enhance research by Barnard faculty by:

- Expanding knowledge, probing new ground, and having the potential for major impact;
- Building upon a faculty member's record of productivity and creativity; and
- Culminating in scholarly publication(s), with broader dissemination desirable, to connect Barnard to New York City, the nation, and the world.

BUDGET AND ALLOWABLE EXPENSES
The maximum budget amount per award project is $50,000 (up to two-year budget). The following expenses are allowable:

- Travel expenses
- Summer stipend (one, to a maximum of $10,000) or top-off of an external fellowship (to a maximum of $10,000) [inclusive of 32% for fringe benefits]
- Research, administrative, and/or technical assistance, including student support (including 8% for fringe benefits)

APPLICATION PROCESS
Interested full-time Barnard faculty members (tenure line and non-tenure-eligible reviewed and renewable faculty) are eligible to apply for Presidential Research Awards. Faculty who would be in their terminal year of appointment during the period of award are not eligible. The following must be submitted for consideration:

* A research or creative project proposal statement, not to exceed five (5) pages, single-spaced. The statement should situate the proposed research within the trajectory of the applicant’s professional development and provide a compelling argument for need.
* The applicant’s Curriculum Vitae, highlighting the previous project activities most relevant to the project, not to exceed four (4) pages.
* An implementation plan for the proposed project, including a project timeline with expected dates of completion.
* A project budget, including descriptions and cost estimates for each budget item.
* A support letter from the applicant’s Department Chair or Program Director which includes acknowledgement of any requested course release and commentary on curricular implications, as appropriate.

AWARD PROCESS
The Grants Committee will review all Presidential Research Award proposals and recommend eight to fifteen projects to the President. The President will select six to twelve awards. Recipients of Presidential Research Awards will be announced at the May Faculty Meeting. Recipients are expected to present a five-minute overview of their project at the end of the project term.
